MILITARY SEIZES THAILAND POWER

Field Marshal Thanom At Helm; Action Follows Cabinet Bickering Over Memoirs

BANGKOK (UPI) — Field Marshal Thanom Kittikachorn, who already was prime minister, seized full power in Thailand tonight with the backing of the military, Radio Thailand announced.

The broadcast said the government was now in the hands of a new Revolutionary Party headed by Thanom, that the constitution was suspended, Parliament and the cabinet abolished and martial law imposed.

The action appeared to have been triggered by a dispute within the cabinet over whether Economic Affairs Minister Bunchana Atthakor should be forced to resign because of his recently published memoirs criticizing members of the government.

Thailand, considered the United States' strongest ally in Southeast Asia, has undergone a series of military coups since 1932 when a civilian and military group ended the absolute monarchy that had ruled the country for centuries.

Thanom assumed power in 1958 upon the death of Field Marshal Sarit Thanarat, ruling in an authoritarian style. He continued as prime minister when the country became a parliamentary-type regime in 1968 under a limited monarchy.

Radio Thailand announced that King Bhumibol Adulyadej would continue to reign. The king, who was born in Cambridge, Mass., has had little real power since the original 1932 coup.

The move was not expected to change Thailand's foreign policies. Thanom has rejected neutralism and aligned Thailand with the United States, helped form the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization (SEATO) and sent 12,000 troops to fight in Vietnam.

He also permitted the use of Thailand as the site of U.S. air bases and 48,000 Americans still are believed stationed here. Thailand-based planes have bombed heavily in Vietnam, angering both Hanoi and Peking.

Radio Thailand announced at 8 p.m. (8 a.m. EST) that the armed forces under Thanom

HIGH SCHOOL PICKETS — Striking lay teachers at Marin Catholic High School in Kentfield picket along Sir Francis Drake Boulevard. About 100 of the school's 767 students joined the teachers today, after a bomb scare emptied classrooms onto the school's athletic field at 10 a.m.

Students Backing Strike; A Bomb Call Cancels Plan

Marin Catholic High Lay Teachers Backed At 'Rally'

By C. P. McCARTHY

Striking lay teachers at Marin Catholic High School received student support today, but a planned student walkout was aborted by a telephoned bomb threat to the school.

The school's 767 students were evacuated at 10 a.m. — minutes before they had planned to walk out on their own.

Rev. Francis A. Lacey, the school's principal, said he did not know of the planned student walkout although some of the exiting students grumbled that the bomb threat and evacuation appeared to be very "convenient" for the school administration.

Father Lacey said he received the telephone call at 9:58 a.m. and was told by a muffled male voice, "There's a bomb in your school." The caller then hung up, the priest said.

John Bechtold, a social studies teacher and spokesman for 14 striking teachers at Marin Catholic, said there had been bomb threats at the school before, but they had always been ignored.

Father Lacey agreed, but said he ordered the school evacuated today because "circumstances are now not normal."

"With a reduced staff, we thought it best to be safe."

Students were evacuated to the football field, east of the main school complex, where they adapted football cheers to put on an impromptu rally in support of the strikers. Picketers were a short distance away near the main entrance to the school on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard.

"Yea blue! Yea white! Yea teachers, strike! Strike!" went

Marin Could Get Trial Cost Break

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

SACRAMENTO — Legislation requiring the state to reimburse Marin for the Angela Davis and Ruchell Magee trials has been amended to cover roughly half the costs, or about $750,000.

The bill, AB 644 by Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, is pending final Senate approval. Assembly concurrence in upper house amendments would send the measure to the governor.

Marin County Auditor-Controller Michael Mitchell claimed last week that the bill would cover only about one-quarter of the total expenses, estimated at $1.5 million. But his figuring came before the bill was amended to extend also to costs for "necessary courtroom security reasonably required to protect the court, the participants, and the public."

A spokesman for Bagley said these costs probably would have been covered anyway by the bill, according to an opinion last week by he legislative counsel's office, but the amendment was tacked on to eliminate any possible uncertainty, the spokesman said.

The bill was supposed to have been voted upon yesterday by the Senate, but Bagley had it postponed pending final negotiations with the Reagan administration on new amendments designed to limit the state's liability to the Davis and Magee trials.

Bagley's bill would add conspiracy to escape from prison to those offenses for which the state must reimburse trial costs. Miss Davis and Magee are charged with murder, kidnapping and conspiracy in connection with the shoot-out in August 1970 at the Civic Center in which Judge Harold J. Haley and three other persons died.

None of these charges, however, qualified the trials for state reimbursement, the attorney general ruled.

Bagley stressed that the bill was designed to assure state reimbursement only for costs directly related to the investigation, preparation and security for the trials and pre-trial hearings.

The trial of Miss Davis has been transferred to Santa Clara County, but that county will bill Marin for its cost.

Bagley's bill, however, would not cover general security costs for the Civic Center, estimated by Mitchell at $600,000 a year. The assemblyman said that the bill would not have had a chance of surviving if he had included these costs as well.

He noted that his bill set no limit on the amount of state reimbursement.

Also pending in the Legislature is SB 1633 by Sen. Fred W. Marler, R-Redding, which would provide state reimbursement to counties for murder trial costs above the amount a county can raise with a property tax of five cents per $100 assessed valuation. In Marin, that would mean the state would reimburse the county for all costs over $365,000 if Bagley's bill failed to become law.

Civic Center Security Will Remain

By ERIK M. INGRAM

Tight security measures at the Marin Civic Center will remain in force at least for the time being, the Marin County Board of Supervisors decided yesterday. (Other supervisors stories, page 6.)

While no formal vote was taken, supervisors displayed general agreement that forthcoming trials of San Quentin inmates necessitate continued security.

Their consensus amounted to a rejection of a proposal made Friday by County Administrator John F. Barrows that security be greatly relaxed.

Barrows, who said yesterday he wasn't sure he had arrived at a correct solution, recommended that checkpoints used for screening persons entering the Administration Building and Hall of Justice be eliminated.

Building security was set up last October shortly after a bomb exploded in a Hall of Justice restroom. It completely destroyed a nearby courtroom.

That incident followed by two months the murderous Civic Center shoot-out in which four persons were killed. Angela Davis and San Quentin inmate Ruchell Magee face trial in connection with the shoot-out.

Among the highlights of yesterday's lengthy hearing was a claim by a sheriff's lieutenant that an individual on the Federal Bureau of Investigation's "10 Most Wanted" list had been photographed in the Civic Center.

According to Lt. Ronald Retana, who heads building security, the fugitive was not identified until the day after the visit.

Retana, who declined to name the individual, said the person was in disguise and was photographed by a camera which is part of the building's surveillance system.

"He was checking out the building," Retana said in response to a supervisor's question.

That only minor incidences have occurred (the arrest of two persons with weapons and one with a phony bomb) proves the effectiveness of the system in deterring violence, he said.

Only one supervisor, Michael Wornum, spoke in complete favor of Barrows's' recommendation.

"If we don't end it now, we never will," Wornum argued. "There will always be good reasons to continue it and always risk involved to abolish it." He said he agreed with Barrows that democracy can only thrive in an open atmosphere.

He was partly supported by Supervisor Arnold M. Baptiste of Novato, who said he agreed with slackening security in the Administration Building, but wanted a high level of security on the court floor.

"It's a heavy responsibility, but it's my judgment that we should reduce security," he said.

The most outspoken critic of any relaxation was Samuel W. Gardiner, presiding judge of Marin Superior Court.

Gardiner said he viewed the Civic Center as entering "a more critical situation" with the approaching trial of six San Quentin inmates, involved in a bloody prison escape attempt, than that recently gone through with Angela Davis.

"She (Miss Davis) hasn't been the danger from the point of view of violence," he said, adding the six inmates are "a built in danger." He added that he didn't foresee "in the future any way of reducing the security."

Among the other concerns expressed by Gardiner was that jury members and witnesses could be adversely affected psychologically by any lessening of security.

"The juries are satisfied with security now . . ." he said. "Take off the security and we're not going to get a cross-section of the community" because many won't be willing to serve in an atmosphere of fear and intimidation.

Gardiner's points were picked up by board chairman Louis H. Baar and supervisors Peter R. Arrigoni Jr. and John F. McInnis as primary reasons for continuing the present level of security.

Gun Testimony At Orr Hearing

By LARRY MOWELL

The first witness in a quasi-judicial hearing on the firing of Fairfax Police Chief James R. Orr testified last nightthe ousted chief once pointed a loaded gun at him.

Douglas Miller, a former Fairfax police cadet, told the Fairfax Board of Review that in the spring of 1970 Orr aimed a revolver at his face.

"I could see no provocation for the weapon being pulled out. I could see it was loaded. I was frightened at the time," Miller, now a Larkspur cadet, told the board.

Miller was the first of 13 witnesses to be called by City Atty. Wallace S. Myers in the hearing before te board. The board to which Orr appealed his ouster is the city agency with final say on whether the firing was justified.

City Administrator Robert E. Crowe fired Orr Sept. 30 and the city council, by a 3-2 vote, ratified the move four days later. Orr had been chief nine years.

More than 100 persons jammed the Fairfax Women's Club then to protest council ratification and about 70 were present last night. However, the audience, including all five councilmen, was generally silent in the courtroom atmosphere.

Orr sat quietly chewing while his attorney argued against consideration of charges not presented to the city council.

The additional charges, revealed for the first time last night, included six allegations of drunkenness, both on and off duty.

Included are claims that Orr was drunk and punched his own patrolman during efforts to subdue an unruly crowd in 1969, that he had to be restrained because he was drunk at a peace officers' meeting and that he became drunk at the home of a Fairfax woman and so frightened her that she called police.

Shaw had sought a court order forbidding the city to present such additional charges to the board of review, but his move was denied by Judge Samuel W. Gardiner in Marin Superior Court.

Miller was called to testify after two hours of bickering on ground rules between Myers and Orr's attorney, Leonard Shaw.

In addition to stating the chief aimed a gun at him, Miller said that when the chief visited the police station during the evening shift, "there was the odor of alcohol around his person."

He also said the department had no written rules on police procedure when he was with the force.

The statement for dismissal drawn up by Crowe lists 26 reasons lumped under inefficiency, incompetency, inexcusable neglect of duty and "other failure of good behavior, either during or outside of duty hours, which is of such a nature that it causes discredit to the police department of the town of Fairfax and to your employment."

Under the last heading are alleged instances of drunkenness and of a "social relationship in a manner offensive to propriety" with Marsha Kittelman, a Fairfax policewoman.

Miller testified that he saw the chief's car outside the Kittelman residence after 1 a.m. an average of two to three times a week between July 1969 and July 1970 when he went into the military.

The charges the board is considering are an amended list drawn up by Crowe Oct. 22. The list is more specific and, Shaw claimed, added charges to the sketchy allegations on which the city council acted.

However, the board denied Shaw's motion to bar evidence not considered by the council when it made its decision.

The board set further hearings for 7:30 p.m. Friday and 9 a.m. Saturday at the Fairfax Women's Club.

Nixon: Not Bound To Viet Date

WASHINGTON (UPI) —President Nixon signed into law today a $21.3 billion procurement bill but said he would not be bound by a section calling on him to set a "final date" for the total U.S. withdrawal from Indochina.

In a strongly worded statement, Nixon said: "To avoid any possible misconceptions, I want to emphasize that section 601 of this act —the so-called 'Mansfield amendment' —does not represent the policies of this administration."

The amendment requests that Nixon set a final withdrawal date subject only to the release of American prisoners of war and an accounting of GIs missing in action.

This was a dilution of the original wording of the amendment, sponsored by Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield, which would have set next spring as the time for total withdrawal, provided POWs were released.

Even without a specific time, however, Nixon refused to be bound by the amendment.

He said the amendment "expresses a judgment about the manner in which the American involvement in the war should be ended.

"However," Nixon added, "it is without binding force or effect; and it does not reflect my judgment about the way in

Developer Abruptly Withdraws Big Harbor Expansion Plans

By DAVID DIETZ

Herbert Madden Sr., owner of the Sausalito Yacht Harbor, last night abruptly withdrew plans for a $3 million expansion of his 425-berth facility.

The move, disclosed in a letter delivered to city hall, came a short time before the city council was to consider a conditional use permit that would have paved the way for the massive development. (Another Sausalito City Council story, page 12.)

Madden cited conditions attached to his plans earlier by the city planning commission as his reason for killing the proposal.

City Mgr. Albert R. St. Cyr, after the council meeting expressed surprise at Madden's pullout and. said, "I think any move from now on will be his."

Madden once before had threatened to withdraw his plans — after the planning commission had sent the proposed development back to the drawing board — but he returned for another try at an Oct. 20 commission hearing following negotiations with city officials.

At that time, the commission included 28 conditions for approval of the permit, including a reduction of planned berths from 950 to 826. Madden indicated in his letter last night he couldn't live with all of the conditions.

"Actually we were at no time consulted," he said.

In addition to berth expansion, Madden's plan called for a 200-unit hotel-boatel near Humboldt and Johnson streets, boat sales, storage and repair facilities, commercial and office buildings and a fuel dock. And, despite Madden's misgivings, the plan also would have provided the public with boardwalk access, observation points, a minipark and several plazas with restrooms.

Said Madden in his letter: "It seems to us that the city for years has been trying to keep the multitudes out of Sausalito and at this time, it is endeavoring to create a recreation area for all the people of California at our expense."

He called upon the city to condemn land it feels should be set aside for public enjoyment.

A point of prime contention between Madden and city offi-

American Motors' Request To Hike Prices Approved

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Price Commission approved today a 2.5 per cent average increase requested by American Motors for itu 1972 model automobiles.

The commission said it was considering two other requests for automobile price increases —a 5.9 per cent average boost by the Chrysler Corp. and a 2 per cent increase by Ford.

The American Motors increase equals the yardstock laid down by the commission for most price increases after the freeze. The commission said the increase "was justified by allowable costs, taking into consideration productivity" and a statement by the manufacturer that the increase would not increase its profit margin over a three-year base period level.

The seven-member commission asked Chrysler for more information on its request and extended the 72-hour period by which it had expected to return a decision. The Ford increase request was based on "deferred labor costs," and the commission said it was studying it further.

At the same time, the commission turned down a request by a Connecticut electric firm, United Illuminating Co. of New Haven, to increase prices to compensate for having to buy more expensive but less polluting fuel oil for its generators.

It was the first action by the commission on a request for exemption from the post-freeze economic control guidelines.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Foreign Aid

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A conference committee today was assigned the job of reconciling differences in House and Senate-passed resolutions that would allow foreign aid to continue for two weeks while Congress finishes work on the program's budget.

The senate passed unanimously Tuesday and sent to the House a resolution that would keep congressional appropriations flowing into the program until Dec. 1.

Also covered by the resolution are funds for the Defense Department, the Office of Economic Opportunity and the District of Columbia government. Regular appropriations bills for these departments have not yet been enacted.

Study Welcomed

NEW DELHI (UPI) — Prime Minister Indira Gandhi told senior parliament members Tuesday she had no objection to an outside evalution of the Indo-Pakistani troubles as long as the study was made impartially, according to sources in her ruling Congress party.

Mrs. Gandhi, who recently returned from an extensive tour of the West, said she would not object to study by a group of foreigners as long as the study was not confined to the issue of East Pakistani guerrillas operating in border areas.

On the war front, news reports said that Agartala, the capital of Tripura territory on the eastern flank of East Pakistan, was shelled Tuesday by Pakistani gunners. The reports said there were some casualties but no official figure was available.

Abel Tribute

MOSCOW (UPI) —The army newspaper Krasnaya Zvezda Red Star paid glowing tribute today to Soviet masterspy Rudolf Abel, eulogizing him as a "dauntless, experienced intelligence man and an able leader."

The comments were quoted in an official Tass news agency dispatch some 10 hours after unofficial Soviet sources reported that Abel died Monday from lung cancer. He was 68.

Fashion Triumphs

ATHENS (UPI) — Greece's Puritan-minded military rulers once described long-haired youths and hippies as representatives of "anarchism and communism." But fashion has triumphed and long hair is now a way of life in Greece.

Today, Greek barbers appealed to the government to let them raise prices for haircuts which they said are becoming increasingly artistic and elaborate. Unless the $1 ceiling on haircuts is removed, they said, they cannot survive.

The plea was contained in a memorandum from the Supreme Federation of Barbers and Hairdressers to the Price Control Board.

Eban Uproar

JERUSALEM (UPI) — The Israeli Knesset (Parliament) burst into a rowdy uproar today over statements by Israeli Foreign Minister Abba Eban about an American television show. Eban shouted "liar" at one of the parliament members.

The parliamentary storm began when two opposition members called for Eban's resignation for saying on the David Frost show he saw no point now in hunting down Nazis for war crimes.

Samuel Tamir accused Eban of "treason against the law of bringing Nazi war criminals to justice for murdering the Jews" in World War II.

"You are a liar," Eban retorted angrily from the government front bench.

Boy, 13, Wounded

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI) — A 13-year-old boy running an errand for his mother was seriously wounded today when a submachine-gunner opened fire on a group of British troops removing barricades on the fringe of the Roman Catholic Bogside area in Londonderry, the army said.

Robert Canning was walking on Lonemoor Road when he was caught between the gunman and soldiers. The gunman leveled three bursts of about 15 shots at the troops and escaped.

No shots were fired back because of the chance of hitting other bystanders, the army said.

The youth received bullet wounds in his back.

Mideast Deadlock

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Two Israeli newspapers reported today that President Nixon was considering separate meetings with Israeli Prime Minister Golda Meir and Egyptian President Anwar Sadat in an effort to break the deadlock over Middle East peace negotiations.

There was no official denial of the reports in the morning newspapers Davar and Ha'aretz but an Israeli government official said, "I have had absolutely no indication the United States is planning such meetings."

The reports of a new Nixon initiative came as political sources in Tel Aviv reported that U.S. refusal to sell more F4 Phantom jet fighter-bombers to Israel would have to conduct a major review of its foreign policy.

DuPont Charged

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Federal Trade Commission (FTC) charged today that DuPont at one time promoted its Zerex antileak antifreeze while knowing the product could damage auto cooling systems.

But the FTC withdrew its earlier complaint alleging deception in Zerex's "can stabbing" television commercial, and said it was not sure that the current Zerex formula would damage cars. The agency said Zerex had been reformulated and its complaint concerned the original formula.

DuPont issued a statement saying it was confident the product's worth would be proven pending litigation of the case, and it complained that publicity resulting from the original FTC action unfairly hurt Zerex's repute with consumers.

Soledad Trial Drags Along

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The murder trial of the two surviving "Soledad Brothers" dragged into its ninth day today without a single juror seated.

The 12 persons seated tentatively in the jury box still have to be interrogated by the prosecutor and neither the state nor the defense have used any of their 30 peremptory challenges.

Attorneys for defendants John Clutchette and Fleeta Drumgo eliminated 16 prospective panelists for cause in eight days of trial during the first two weeks.

New Pan Am Chief Elected

NEW YORK (UPI)—William T. Seawell was elected Tuesday as president, chief operating officer and a director of PanAmerican World Airways. He will take over his duties Dec. 1.

Seawell is president of RollsRoyce, Aero Engines, Inc., and chairman of Rolls-Royce, Canada. A retired brigadier general in the Air Force, Seawell, 53, was senior vice president of operations for American Airlines.

"Mr. Seawell's primary function is to return the airline to profitability and he has been given all the authority and resources essential to do it," Pan-Am board chairman Najeeb E. Halaby said in making the announcement.

Yank 'Copters Kill 26 N. Viets

SAIGON (UPI) — American helicopter gunships killed 26 North Vietnamese in an attack in the jungles of the Central Highlands near the borders of South Vietnam, Laos and Cambodia, the U.S. command reported today.

Far to the south in the Mekong Delta, South Vietnamese forces killed 24 Viet Cong in driving off four separate Communist attacks against allied outposts. The government forces lost two dead in the clashes.

The fighting involving the U.S. helicopters broke out on Tuesday near Kontum in the Central Highlands. The helicopter crews called in artillery and fighter-bomber strikes.

The action in Kontum province followed recent indications that the Communists were stepping up pressure in the Central Highlands as they get more and more supplies and munitions from Laos over the Ho Chi Minh Trail.

As the Communists stepped up their truck traffic over the trial through Laos, U.S. B52s struck along and inside the Demilitarized Zone (DMZ) and were joined by carrier-xased jets in Laos Tuesday night and today.

Military sources also said the United States had doubled the number of aircraft carriers in the Gulf of Tonkin off Vietnam and halted Air Force withdrawals in the effort to stem the resupply attempt by the North Vietnamese.

Two waves of B52s dropped nearly 180 tons of bombs on targets in and to the south of the DMZ. Other B52s along with jet fighter-bombers attacked the Communist supply network in nearby Laos.

To the south near Saigon, two South Vietnamese F5 "Freedom Fighter" jets collided in flight killing one of the pilots. The other parachuted to safety.

Military spokesmen said the jets, the fastest in the South Vietnamese air force, were carrying bombs and on a combat support mission.

The allied commands reported only three battles throughout South Vietnam Tuesday and none involved U.S. forces.

South Vietnamese forces killed 18 Viet Cong in two battles in the Mekong Delta at the nation's southern tip without any government casualties, military spokesmen said.

On the northern coast South Vietnamese infantrymen battled North Vietnamese regular troops killing five Communists and capturing one without any government troops killed or wounded.

U.S. sources in Saigon reported that American military intelligence squads under command of the Saigon headquarters are operating in secret in Cambodia. The sources said the teams question Communist prisoners of war, gather information in Phnom Penh and report to the U.S. Military Assistance Command in Saigon.

Cambodian government sources said Prime Minister Lon Nol had called a meeting of the Etat Major, or Cambodian military chiefs of staff to discuss the security of Phnom Penh. Field commanders southwest of the capital said documents captured from a North Vietnamese regiment disclosed undated plans for an attack against the capital.

THESE TWO 11-year-old Cambodian youths, and others like them, are a common sight along Highway Six where they stand guard duty 50 miles north of Phnom Penh, watching for Communists. As refugees stream from the fallen village of Rumlong and with Cambodian forces decimated, youngsters like these have been turned into real soldiers.

Battle Is Set For House Job

MONTPELIER, Vt. (UPI)—Republican Richard W. Mallary and Democrat J. William O'Brien won their primary elections Tuesday and will square off Jan. 7 in the election to fill Vermont's seat in the U.S. House of Representatives.

Mallary, the state administration-commissioner and Gov. Deane C. Davis' heir apparent, led the six-man Republican field with a total unofficial vote of 15,011—or 41 per cent —while his nearest challenger Secretary of State Richard C. Thomas, had 10,833.

O'Brien, a probate judge from Winooski who had been opposed by some party elements because of his efforts last year against former Gov. Philip H. Hoff's U.S. Senate campaign, topped a four-man field by getting 5,744 votes, or 45 per cent.

Nixon Is Unhappy Over Water Cleanup Proposal

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon has expressed fears through White House aides that water cleanup legislation passed by the Senate could prompt some industries to relocate in less developed nations.

The message was given to Republican members of the House Public Works Committee in a White House meeting Tuesday.

Several of the GOP lawmakers said they would press at a committee meeting today for full public hearings on the bill, although the House committee held its own extensive hearings on water pollution legislation last summer.

The dispute threatens to become a major 1972 presidential campaign issue since the sponsor of the Senate bill is Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine.

The bill passed the Senate 86 to 0 two weeks ago. The White House subsequently confirmed newspaper stories saying Nixon was dissatisfied with the bill, but gave few details. Tuesday, however, a participant gave an account of the White House meeting, paraphrasing comments made by presidential aides John Whittaker and John D. Ehrlichman.

Suit Filed On Denial Of Jobs

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —State and federal officials have been accused in a lawsuit filed by California Rural Legal Assistance (CRLA) of unfairly denying jobs to Mexican-Americans under a federal employment law.

In a suit filed Tuesday in U.S. District Court, seven Mexican-American farm workers claimed they were denied jobs under the $1 billion Emergency Employment Act for failing to meet educational and experience requirements which had little relationship to the job in question.

It also charged that they were required to take job tests in English.

Agnew's Grid Style Ridicule Of Demos

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Vice President Spiro T. Agnew turned his rhetoric on Democratic presidential hopefuls Tuesday, ridiculing most of them as wayward football players.

Of Sen. Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota, he said:

"His touchdown production is low; his pass completion percentage embarrassing, his ball-handling less than sure. But he does move. He moves even if it means rolling completely out of the pocket and runnning out of bounds."

He said Sen. Edmund Muskie of Maine "seems determined to keep his own game plan consistent at all costs. But I seriously doubt if two yards and a cloud of dust is sufficient to impress even his fellow Democrats in the coming year."

He classified Sen. Edward Kennedy of Massachusetts and George McGovern of South Dakota as "the compulsive bomb throwers of the opposition —in the football, not the revolutionary sense."

Agnew said Kennedy "believes he knows more about how to wind down the war, to settle the Pakistan issue and deal with the affairs of Northern Ireland than the President —or for that matter (British) Prime Minister Heah."

Of Los Angeles Mayor Sam Yorty's just-announced candidacy for the Democratic presidential nomination, Agnew said "the surprising news is that he did it here in Los Angeles. The absentee mayor has been in New York more than the mayor of New York."

Agnew spoke to a management conference of the International Food Service Manufacturers Association. He defended the Nixon government's record on free school lunches, saying Humphrey had called the administration "this chiseling outfit," charging the lunch program was being cut back.

On the contrary, he said, the administration "in its 35 months in office increased to 8 million the number of needy children receiving school lunches ... an increase of nearly 300 per cent from the 2.8 million who were receiving free lunches when the administration (Humphrey) served left office in January, 1969."

Agnew said he dined recently on a lunch of the kind given school children under the program and "that hamburger was better than some of the food on the banquet circuit."

Oil Tanker Is Floated Free

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A tanker carrying 562,000 barrels of oil from the Arabian gulf ran aground in San Francisco Bay Tuesday but was floated free after part of its cargo was transferred to another vessel.

The Coast Guard said the 849-foot Phillips Louisiana, en route to a local refinery, ran aground about a quarter of a mile out in the bay just before dawn. It was refloated several hours later after parts of its cargo was transferred to another Phillips Petroleum Co. tanker.

There were no signs of leakage from the tanker as it headed for docking, the Coast Guard said.

The Phillips Louisiana was headed for the Phillips' Avon refinery near Martinez.

RELIC DAMAGED — The roof and side of a century-old log cabin in Boyd Memorial Park, San Rafael, bore evidence of fire damage today. The cabin, built in the 1870s on the site of what is now city hall, was moved to the park in 1968 for use as a play house.

$30,000 In Fire Damage To Homes

Fire caused heavy damage last night and today to homes in three Marin County communities, but no injuries were reported.

The blazes, in San Rafael, Sausalito and San Anselmo, caused a total of $30,000 in damage.

The most serious fire occurred in San Rafael, where the home of James L. Thompson at 317 Glen Park Avenue received $20,000 damage in a blaze which broke out shortly after midnight.

The fire started when clothing in a dryer caught fire as a result of an attempt to relight the gas unit. Flames spread throughout the laundry area, then to a hallway, dining room, living room and roof. The rest of the house suffered heat and smoke damage.

About $5,000 damage was reported at the home of Dr. Robert M. Perlman at 416 North Street, Sausalito, when fire erupted from an overheated sauna. The blaze, at 9:10 p.m., also knocked out electrical service in the area for several hours.

In the third blaze, a carport of a duplex occupied by Janet Barrosi at 52-54 Tamalpais Avenue incurred about $5,000 damage. A paper light shade which caught on fire was blamed. One auto parked in the carport was damaged and another was saved.

Return To Prison Is Being Fought

A last minute legal effort to keep an Oakland ironworker from going back to San Quentin Prison on a technicality was undertaken today by attorney Salle S. Solady.

"I'm going to file in Marin Superior Court and in federal court in San Francisco for a stay of execution," Mrs. Soladay said.

If her efforts fail, Frank A. Nubin, 46, who has been free on bail for 22 months, will have to reenter prison Friday, under an order issued reluctantly by Marin Superior Court Judge E. Warren McGuire.

Nubin was sent to prison in 1961 on an assault with a deadly weapon charge. Paroled in 1967, his final discharge was set for Jan. 4, 1969.

Because of a quarrel with his wife on Christmas Eve, 1968, the California Adult Authority revoked his parole. Nubin's fate hung on the date of that revocation.

Mrs. Soladay contended that the revocation came after the final discharge date of Jan. 4, 1969, whereas the adult authority maintained that the parole was revoked on Jan. 3, and written documents giving a Jan. 31 date were due to a clerical error.

Judge McGuire last Friday ordered Nubin back into custody. He acknowledged today that it was a technical revocation just 24 hours before discharge.

"If I were the Adult Authority, I could not in good conscience send him back," McGuire said. But under the law and the facts presented, he said the Adult Authority had technically acted within the legal period.

Log Cabin At Boyd Park Hit By Fire

A small log cabin, built at the home of a Mexican War veteran in the 1870s and later moved to Boyd Memorial Park as a play house, was severely damaged by fire in San Rafael last night.

Fire Chief Robert E. Marcucci said the cabin, located above the park's main play area, was hit by fire of unknown origin at 10:48 p.m. Flames broke through the roof and charred the sides of the cabin.

A link with Marin's past, the hand-hewn cabin was built at the Fifth Avenue and C Street home of Maj. George W. Stillwell, a veteran of the Mexican War and former Marin supervisor, by Charles H. Fish, a miner and gardener who cared for the grounds at the residence.

Fish notched the logs with an ax and erected the cabin much as early settlers had done.

The building was discovered in later years when Dr. Leo L. Stanley of Fairfax, longtime Marinite and historian, owned the Stillwell land. It was moved in 1968 to its present site when the city bought the Stanley property to build a new city hall.

Two Indicted For Death Of Guard

The Marin County Grand Jury last night indicted two San Quentin convicts for the fatal stabbing of a guard who was slain while protecting the life of a wounded prisoner.

Indicted on murder charges were Earl Billy Gibson, 28, serving a life term for first degree burglary in 1965 in Los Angeles County, and Lawrence Justice, 28, convicted in 1968 on two felony assaults and grand theft in Los Angeles County.

They were accused of murdering correctional officer Leo Gaston Davis, 38, of Richmond, in the prison hospital on July 21. Davis was on guard duty outside the hospital cell containing inmate Herman Earl Johnson, 25, who had been stabbed in the prison yard two days earlier.

Johnson had apparently become a marked man because he testified in the trial of seven Soledad Prison inmates accused of killing a guard there a year earlier, prison authorities said.

Davis, unarmed according to then-standing policy, was guarding the door to Johnson's cell when a group of convicts attacked him. Although David died of nine stab wounds, the convicts were unable to get at his ward.

MADDEN

cials was the future of the sandspit area east of Humboldt at Anchor Street, now held by Madden under lease from the city until the year 2003.

St. Cyr, in a memorandum to the council recommending conditional approval of the use permit, endorsed a plan under which Madden would be granted building bonuses in other portions of the development if the city could regain immediate control of the spit area.

Roland Mays, architect for Madden, had indicated at the Oct. 20 planning commission session that either his client should be allowed to develop the spit area or the city should buy back the lease or compensatory development should be allowed in another portion of the property.

Aside from the recreation and sandspit issues, Madden's letter objected that the planning commission had trimmed the number of propsoed parking spaces for the development from 312 to 270. Madden said the reduction would add to the city's "already overburdened" parking.

Madden, whose proposal had been before city officials since May, also noted taxes were running $22,000 a year on his property in the absence of expansion.

ECONOMY

meanwhile, made a fresh attempt to resolve the dilemma of how far to go in granting exceptions to its rule against retroactive wage increases that were blocked by the 90-day freeze.

The 15-member board convened at midmorning to pick up where it left off in a long session Tuesday which produced no decision —except a refusal to go along with labor members' insistence on permitting full retroactive payments.

The board is under pressure from teacher groups to permit payment of higher salaries teachers were due at the start of the new term, but which were blocked in most cases when the freeze was imposed by President Nixon Aug. 15, prior to opening of the fall term.

Chairman George H. Bolt said the board's staff also was studying the newly negotiated soft coal industry contract which was said to contain a wage increase of nearly 40 per cent. The board has set a general guideline of 5.5 per cent for annual pay raises, but made clear exceptions would be considered.

Melodrama Set At High School

The heroine, Nell, will be played by Stacy Scott. The hero, Jack Logan will be played by Jack Jenkins. The villian, Hilton Hayes will be played by Peter Whitney.

Others in the cast are Robin Longheart, Cathy Selmi and George Plank.

Plan For Park To Be Reviewed

Plans to develop an 18-acre county park on the Petaluma River will be reviewed at a special meeting of the Petaluma Recreation, Music and Parks Commission at 4 p.m. tomorrow.

The County of Sonoma plans to develop a play and barbecue area adjacent to the city boat launching ramp off Lakeville Highway.

A meeting of the city council committee studying all city recreation programs will be held following the commission meeting at 5 p.m.

Senate Votes To Kill Car Excise Tax

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Senate rejected 64 to 25, today a move to merely suspend, rather than repeal, the federal excise tax on new cars.

Senators decided to go along with President Nixon's proposal to kill the 7 per cent tax. Nixon predicted an upsurge in auto sales resulting from removal of the levy would create half a million jobs.

Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., sponsored the motion to suspend the tax between Aug. 15, 1971, and Jan. 1, 1973.

Cranston also proposed that the money raised by the tax be used for mass transit, air pollution and other transportation needs. He said the tax would raise about $20 billion between 1973 and 1981.

Sen. Wallace F. Bennett, R-Utah, speaking against the Cranston proposal, said it would create chaos in the auto industry.

"Everybody would want to buy a car before the price goes up," Bennett said, creating what he said would be intolerable distortion in an industry which directly or indirectly employs one out of every six workers in the country.

Cranston's amendment was offered to President Nixon's request to cut taxes by $15.5 billion a year over the next three years.

Amendments tacked on to the bill by the Senate —but still short of ultimate enactment — would raise the three-year total by more than $10 billion, mostly through additional tax relief for individuals.

Business firms also would benefit from Senate changes. In back to-back votes, senators agreed to proposals to give tax relief to firms which locate plants in declining rural areas or in urban ghettoes.

The proposals, adopted Tuesday night as amendments to President Nixon's tax bill, would give a total of $750 million a year in tax cuts as an inducement to firms to build plants in those areas.

Sen. James B. Pearson, R-Kan., proposed the $500 million tax cut to firms which locate in rural areas which have lost population. Sen. Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn., then submitted a $250 million cut for plants which locate in central cities with more than 6 per cent unemployment.

Other amendments offered today would increase Social Security benefits next year by 5 per cent and would give states more than $1 billion to meet rising welfare costs.

Both were expected to be defeated on the grounds that the Senate can best deal with the issue next year when the House-passed welfare reform bill, which also provides a 5 per cent Social Security increase in pensions, is expected to reach the Senate floor.

In Tuesday's voting on the major tax bill, the Senate:

Voted to give taxpayers at or below the poverty level a $992 million tax cut on their 1971 income. The amendment, by Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., would increase the minimum standard deduction to $1,300 for taxes on 1971 earnings instead of for 1972 and future years as proposed by the Senate Finance Committee. Humphrey's amendment would relieve 2.7 million poor taxpayers of all tax liability for 1971 earnings.

UPI photographer Anant Chumchuen reported that M41 tanks had moved into position around the parliament building.

Foreign Minister Thanat Khoman, who was attending a dinner at the Foreign Correspndents Club when the coup was announced, told newsmen all of Thailand's international agreements "will be respected and honored."

Internal bickering had been reported over Thailand's decision to vote for admission of Red China to the United Nations but Thanat said he doubted if China policy had anything to do with the situation—"it was an internal thing; it was due to abuses of parliamentary and democratic freedom."

Lot Motion Is Made By Wornum

The Marin County Board of Supervisors' decision yesterday to permit the City of San Rafael to blacktop the old county courthouse site for a parking lot was made on a motion by Supervisor Michael Wornum.

The Independent-Journal erred yesterday in reporting the motion was made by Supervisor John F. McInnis. McInnis seconded it.

SCHOOL

one Wildcat cheer revised for the day.

Student body Pres. Paul Matthew said the students had intended to walk out of classes about 10 a.m. and stage a rally in support of the striking teachers at the entrance to the school.

Both striking teachers and students themselves said the planned walkout was the idea of students and had not been instigated by the teachers.

Following a search of the building and grounds by working faculty and staff, the students were ordered to return to their classrooms.

Most did, but about 100 gathered near the picketing teachers, an area declared off-limits for students by Rev. John Heaney, dean of students, according to Matthew.

Students who were on their lunch hour were allowed to remain near the pickets, but those with classes were ordered to return to the school building. Most said they were on their lunch break.

Bechtold disputed a claim made by Father Lacey yesterday that things were going "very smoothly" at the school despite the strike by 14 teachers, including four sympathetic nuns.

He said the fact that some students were on their lunch period at 9:30 a.m. today indicated things were not going that smoothly.

The lay teachers are members of the Secondary Teachers Association which went on strike Monday in a salary dispute against seven Bay Area schools operated by the San Francisco Archdiocese.

Bechtold said the striking teachers sent a telegram last night to Archbishop Joseph T. McGucken, who he said was in Washington, D.C.

The telegram said the teachers were willing to negotiate at any time and urged the archbishop to return to San Francisco to negotiate with them.

Father Bernard Cummins, superintendent of the Archdiocesan schools, said yesterday that negotiations with the teachers would resume tomorrow.

which the war should be brought to a conclusion.

"My signing of the bill that contains this section, therefore, will not change the policies I have pursued and that I shall continue to pursue toward this end."

The bill Nixon signed sets aside $1.1 billion for the Safeguard antiballistic missile system and also sets a limitation of $321.5 million for all appropriations for the CSA cargo plane this fiscal year, in addition to funds for other weapons procurement.

Nixon said that the fact of his signing the bill would not alter his policy. He defined it as follows:

"Our goal —and my hope --is a negotiated settlement providing for the total withdrawal of all foreign forces, including our own; for the release of all prisoners and for a ceasefire throughout Indochina."

SECURITY

points would not be worth the risk, Baar reasoned.

Arrigoni, meanwhile, said he felt "there are too many ifs" involved in reducing security.

The $32,000 which could be saved this fiscal year "isn't my concern," he said. "It is the people who work here . . . the people who come here . . . they are the ones we have to put a value on. I don't think today is the day to lessen security."

"If it were not for the San Quentin uprising I'm sure I would vote to decrease security," McInnis said.

Among speakers opposing relaxing security were Sheriff Louis P. Mountanos, Winifred S. Frederick of the Irate Taxpayers of Marin and Harold Stockstad of the Marin Council for Civic Affairs.

Favoring relaxation, as recommended by Barrows, were County Librarian Bruce D. Bajema and Marge Nacris of the county planning department.

The supervisors, in agreeing to continue security, said they wanted a study on the insurance risk when security is dropped since, they said, insurance companies may not be interested in covering the building without internal security.

They also requested study of possibly setting up checkpoints inside the Civic Center where the Administration Building leads into the Hall of Justice.

That idea had been discussed at length during the meeting, but dropped because of inadequate information.

OPAL RILEY

Opal G. Riley, 70, of Novato, died yesterday in a local hospital after a long illness.

She was a native of Missouri and lived there until moving to Sacramento 33 years ago. For the past four years she had made her home with her son and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. James G. Warner of 2230 Oak Knoll Road.

She is also survived by her husband, Louis Riley of Sacramento; another son, Oscar E. Warner of Menlo Park; two sisters, Sylvia Heater and Pauline DeShon; six brothers, Marvin, Norman, Peter, Donald and Forest Barnett all of St. Joseph, Mo. and William Barnett of Los Angeles, and three grandchildren.

Funeral will be at 11 a.m. Friday at Harry M. Williams Mortuary in San Rafael. Entombment will be in Mount Tamalpais Cemetery, San Rafael.

WILLIAM BENBROOK

William I. Benbrook, 66, a Petaluma construction worker, died yesterday at a local hospital after a long illness.

A native of Illinois, he was reared in Arkansas and lived there until moving to Petaluma 16 years ago. Benbrook was employed by local construction firms but had been semiretired for five years due to ill health.

He is survived by his wife, Madeline; three daughters, Marilyn June Sevieri of Petaluma, Jackie W. Benbrook of Page, Ariz. and Joann Barlow of Conway, Ark.; two sons, Edward A. Benbrook of Piggott, Ark. and Richard M. Benbrook of Healdsburg; a brother, Aubrey Benbrook of Piggott, Ark., nine grandchildren, and a great grandchild.

Funeral will be held at 10 a.m. tomorrow at Parent Funeral Chapel, Petaluma. Burial will be in Piggott, Ark.

DANIEL PRINCE

Memorial service for Daniel Prince, 49, former Marin County resident and a Berkeley attorney, will be at 2 p.m. Friday at the First Unitarian Church in San Francisco. Prince died Monday in Berkeley.

He was born in Los Angeles but lived most of his life in the Bay Area. He lived in Larkspur from 1959 to 1965.

He was a graduate of the San Francisco Law School, former president of Americans for Democratic Action, co-founder of the San Francisco selective service lawyers panel and a member of Legal Aid Society of Alameda County.

He is survived by a daughter, Pamela of Sausalito; two sons, Daniel and Paul Prince of Larkspur; a brother, Paul Prince of San Francisco, and a sister, Patricia McFarland of Minnesota.

Inurnment will be in Cypress Lawn Cemetery, Colma.

IN MEMORIAM

IN MEMORIAM

BAIRD, JOHN C. — In loving memory of my dear husband JOHN C. BAIRD, who passed away November 17, 1969.

All you were and all you did
To make my life so happy and so gay
Live on in memories that soothe
My aching heart now you're away.

SADLY MISSED BY YOUR LOVING WIFE HELEN

IN MEMORIAM

PERRY, JOHN (JACK) — In loving memory of my husband JOHN (JACK) PERRY who passed away 20 years ago today, November 17th.

The years are passing away one by one,
Time speeds and twenty years have passed
Since death its gloom, its shadow cast.
God knows how I have missed you
In a house that is still lonely today,
But there is nothing I can do but wait and pray
Until the time we'll meet in the vast eternity.

STILL SADLY MISSED BY YOUR WIFE
ORAMAY PERRY.

Scientific Opinions Differ —Slightly—On Mars Life

PASADENA, Calif. (UPI)—A leading planetary scientist says the chance of life existing on Mars is at best a longshot and he blames man's imagination for the idea in the first place.

"Mars somehow has extended beyond the realm of science, and so grabbed emotions and thoughts that it has actually distorted scientific opinion about Mars," said Dr. Bruce C. Murray, professor of planetary science at the California Institute of Technology and a member of the Mariner 9 science team.

"The reason this happened is that man as a human species has been guilty of wishful thinking collectively that Mars would be like Earth. He had a very deep-seated desire to find some other place that may somehow be habitable."

Murray said investigations by three earlier Mariner spacecraft that flew past Mars in 1965 and 1969 showed that the planet is very hostile to earthly forms of life. It is cold and dry, has no atmosphere of carbon dioxide with almost no water vapor and there is no evidence Mars ever had oceans.

"I really don't think there is any life on Mars," Murray said at a Caltech panel discussion. "There never has been any evidence of it. It has just been a very attractive idea. You cannot disprove that any more than you can disprove there is life on the moon."

Dr. Carl Sagan, Cornell University astronomer who also is a Mariner 9 scientist, said he agreed with Murray that man's desires may have influenced his conclusions. But Sagan said, "that doesn't mean that because a possibility is interesting it isn't true."

"Just as there clearly have been excesses in the direction of conclusions that there is life on Mars, I think there also have been excesses in the other directon," Sagan said. "There is, as far as I can tell, no more reason to conclude that Mars is lifeless than it is to conclude 'that it is inhabited."

Murray said the notion of life on Mars developed in the late 19th century and grew out of proportion in the early 20th century under the dominant personality of Percival Lowell, an expert on the Far East who became interested in Mars and formed the Lowell Observatory near Flagstaff, Ariz., in 1894.

Several astronomers in the last half of the 1800s reported seeing lines on Mars which they called canals. Lowell claimed he, too, saw them and in time he identified over 500 canals.

Lowell's observations interested the general public because he said the canals were not natural features but the work of "intelligent creatures, alike to us in spirit, though not in form."

MANSION FOR CHIEF JUSTICE

The Senate Judiciary Committee has agreed to accept this $250,000 mansion as an official residence for the chief justice of the United States. Office of the home and a $500,000 fund to maintain it was made by G. Howland Chase and his wife, May Hale Chase. Chief Justice Warren E. Burger has advised the committee, which took action on the offer yesterday, that he was prepared to occupy the mansion if Congress accepted the gift.

Children Offered For Sale

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (UPI) —Police converged on a restaurant and motel Tuesday night and arrested two men accused of attempting to sell two Oklahoma city toddlers for $7,000 and a used car.

Detectives were investigating the possibility the children, aged 2, and 3, were kidnaped, but initial charges were in violation of Florida law for "attempting to sell children."

Robert Westenhaver, 37, and Milford Bennett, 22, both of Oklahoma City, were taken into custody.

County investigator W.E. Beacham told newsmen they were attempting to sell Teresa Cox, 3, and Butch Cox, 2, to a Jacksonville couple, whom police did not identify.

Beacham said the men claimed they obtained the children from their mother, Mrs. Dorothy Cox of Oklahoma City who complained she had an alcoholic husband to support and needed the $4,000 the pair promised her for sale of the children. Police said the men intended getting $7,000 and a used car in exchange for the two children.

The FBI was checking with Mrs. Cox, who said she has another child at home with her.

Police said Bennett met the Jacksonville couple a year ago and the husband mentioned in conversation he and his wife would like to adopt some children.

The man allegedly paid a $100 "deposit" for the children, but then went to police who moved in for the arrests.

Arraignment was scheduled for later today in Jacksonville.

'Right On' For A Rock Concert

Promoters of a "hard rock' benefit concert Nov. 24 in the Marin Veterans Memorial Building won a unanimous "right on" from the county supervisors yesterday — with a warning that any troubles could result in future restrictions on the building's use. (Another supervisors story, page 1.)

Forty to 50 supporters of the concert crowded the supervisors' chambers to hear the building use issue debated. It turned out to be no debate. The board listened to a parade of Marin County youth, human rights, civil liberties and police-community relations spokesmen favoring the concert, but no opposition surfaced.

Supervisor John F. McInnis then commended Leon G. Kalimos, director of the new building, for seeking the board's policy on such concerts, and moved for approval of the Nov. 24 event.

Kalimos had reported that other auditorium managers had problems with rock groups and their audiences. He recommended requirement of special insurance if the board permitted the Quicksilver Messenger, Big Brother and the Holding Company and similar groups to perform for the benefit of the Marin Open House. " 'Hard Rock' has a philosophy of 'turning people on' " that might result in damage to the building, Kalimos wrote.

"I get 'turned on' by all sorts of things that don't faze young people a bit," Supervisor John F. McInnis declared. "that term is a lousy one."

All the supervisors spoke in favor of putting the building to the widest possible variety of uses before drafting restrictive rules.

Fred Mayer, Sausalito pharmacist, county youth commission member and chairman of the California Pharmaceutical Association's drug abuse council, said he had put up $500 seed money to reserve the building and advertise the concert in hopes of raising $2,400. The money is needed to keep alive the teen-age Reach Out answering service operation of the Marin Open House antidrug center, Mayer said.

Reach Out participants offered to supply 20 teen-age workers to usher and keep the concert audience orderly; Mayer said he could provide eight off-duty Sausalito policemen and private security officers as needed.

Supporting the concert were John Donovan of the American Civil Liberties Union; Gerald J. Hood, county human rights director; L. Charles Smith, coordinator for the county youth commission and county juvenile delinquency prevention commission; Bella Aaron of the police-community relations panel; Ariene Lind of Marin Alternative; Albert Kline, attorney for Marin Open House, and Stephen Kramer, real estate firm owner and rock concert fan.

61 Arrested At White House

WASHINGTON (UPI) — U.S. park police Tuesday arrested 61 persons, most of them from Boston, on charges of blocking the northwest gate of the White House

The demonstrators were participating in a movement called the "Daily Death Toll," which each day since Nov. 8, has sent persons from different cities to Washington where they attempted to seek entrance to the White House. Once refused, the group flops down on the street.

The demonstrators are protesting the Nixon administration's Vietnamization policy which they say is "substituting Asian deaths for American casualties." Last week, 250 persons were arrested on disorderly conduct charges in connection with the protests.

The Third Time Was A Charm For Police

BEIRUT (UPI)—James Calvin Sirjes, arrested on a charge of trying to smuggle hashish, slipped out of handcuffs by what police described as a "very technical way." Caught and handcuffed again, he escaped by smashing the cuffs against a wall.

Police dispensed with the handcuffs the third time and quickly put him behind bars.

Charges In Forbidden Game Sales

TACOMA, Wash. (UPI)— Criminal charges have been filed against five men, including a taxidermist, for allegedly killing and selling mountain goats and bald and golden eagles.

The charges, announced Tuesday, said the mountain goats were taken in the remote Cascade Mountains and shipped to New Jersey, Montana and Ohio.

The eagles, protected by federal law, were taken mostly from southwestern Washington and their frozen carcasses mailed to Chicago to be mounted for private collections.

"This is an example of persons using the wildlife resource of a state purely for commercial gain," said state game director Carl Crouse. He said the actions were "in no way representative of the thousands of persons in Washington who enjoy and participate in the sport of hunting."

The five men, including Tacoma taxidermist Paul Hamel, were charged with illegal possession of 12 mountain goats. Federal charges were expected soon in connection with the killing of seven eagles.

All the charges were the result of a coordinated investigation involving the state game department and the Federal Fish and Wildlife Service.

Supervisors Delay Road Grading Policy

The Marin County Board of Supervisors yesterday continued for two weeks consideration of a proposed interim ordinance to control private road grading.

The proposal, adopted Monday by the county planning commission, brought criticism from supervisors who noted that the department of pubic workd had not been consulted.

"The planning commission didn't have the courtesy to ask the director of public works (Ray K. Foreaker) to speak at its meeting (before adopting the proposal)," chairman Louis H. Baar said.

Supervisors asked Foreaker months ago to begin study of loopholes in the existing grading and excavation ordinance after they learned of extensive road grading by subdividers in West Marin.

In calling for the continuation, Baar urged more coordination between the planning department, planning commission and the public works department.

Marin County Board of Supervisors Also:

FAIRGROUNDS — Heard a report from Pierre W. Joske, county parks and recreation director, that most of the $75,000 budgeted for fairgrounds maintenance will go to salaries.

LAND CONTRACTS — Notified seven West Marin property owners that their property has been recommended for removal from Land Conservation Act contracts which give tax breaks to owners of agricultural lands. The owners may protest the action and a hearing will be set.

GRAND JURY — Authorized submittal of the county's response to the grand jury report for 1970.

LEGAL AID — Asked the county administrator's staff to report its recommendation in three weeks on the Marin Legal Aid Society request for an emergency allocation of at least $5,000 to meet increasing expenses.

Poultry Plants Hit; Lack Of Sanitation

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Government investigators reported today they found "unacceptable" sanitary conditions in 68 poultry slaughtering plants they visited, including one that an inspector compared to a cheap horror movie scene.

The General Accounting Office (GAO), in a report to Congress, concluded that the unsanitary conditions were mainly the result of weak enforcement policies of the Consumer and Marketing Service in the Agriculture Department.

None of the plants was identified, according to GAO investigative policies.

The GAO said one of the 17 plants covered in the prior investigation, identified only as "Plant A," was revisited in January, 1971 with a new Agriculture Department inspector who commented that "the ceiling areas gave the appearance of a cheap horror movie scene with numerous cobwebs and heavy dust accumulations."

Former 'Boy Wonder' Is Dead

OKLAHOMA CITY (UPI)— James Howard Edmondson, 46, the nation's youngest governor when he was elected Oklahoma's chief executive 13 years ago, died today of an apparent heart attack in his suburban home.

Edmondson, also a former U.S. senator, had been labeled the "boy wonder" of Oklahoma politics when elected governor at age 33 in 1958. He was a Democrat.

He was the brother of Rep. Ed Edmondson, D-Okla., who is running for the U.S. Senate next year.

Nixons Plan A California Holiday

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon and the First Lady are expected to fly to California next week to spend the Thanksgiving weekend at their San Clemente home.

The President's daughter, Julie Eisenhower, and her husband David will not be along for the trip however, spending their holiday instead with Eisenhower's parents in Phoenixville, Pa. It was not known where the President's other daughter, Tricia Cox and her husband, would spend the holiday.

$300 In Damage To Restrooms

Vandals caused about $300 damage to the restrooms at Pioneer Memorial Park during the past weekend, Novato police reported today.

White paint was thrown on the walls and orange paint sprayed on walls, fixtures and mirrors, obscenities were written on walls, paper towels burned and a broken beer bottle left on the floor, police said. Orange paint also was sprayed on an outside lamp post.

The damage occurred between 6 p.m. Saturday and 8 a.m. yesterday, when it was discovered by the public works department, police reported.

Youth Problems Will Be Aired

A group of homeowners in the Dominican area of San Rafael is expected tomorrow night to grapple with a community juvenile problem that has led to extensive vandalism, attempted robbery and arson.

San Rafael police say a handful of youths ranging from 14 to 18 years old is at the cause of the trouble, which has aroused property owners in the area and has triggered the departure of the Marin Music Chest from Forest Meadows Theater on the Dominican College campus.

The Music Chest, which stages concerts at the site each year, recently announced it was moving to the Marin Veterans Memorial Building because of extensive property vandalism.

John Brebner, artistic director for the Marin Shakespeare Festival, said his organization also has been plagued by the youth problem, noting the festival's general manager was beaten and kicked by a gang of youths who tried to steal gate receipts from the summer's last performance on Sept. 24.

Three youths — Christopher Wooton, 17, of 201 C Street; Guy Walker Lyons, 16, of 1364 Grand Avenue, and Guy Michael Dixon, 14, of 121 Rafael Drive, all San Rafael — were booked at Marin Juvenile Hall on suspicion of strongarm robbery as a result of the incident.

Police said six other youths were involved in the attempted theft and beating, and all but two are Dominican area residents.

Brebner said the festival has been troubled by marauding youths for nearly five seasons. Two fires set by arsonists have damaged or destroyed festival equipment in the last two years, the 1970 blaze wrecking $4,500 in costumes.

Brebner also reported extensive vandalism to festival property at the hands of juveniles he says are "practically out of control" of their parents and added that numerous items were stolen from a storage shed last season.

In August, a Dominican youth was cited by juvenile authorities for shouting profanity and setting off firecrackers during a festival performance.

"The police have told us time and time again they'd like to take action," Brebner said. "But they're very frustrated . . . it's a matter of parents being almost totally unable to control their children."

The Black Canyon Homeowners Association will hold its semiannual meeting at 8 p.m. tomorrow in Bertrand Hall on the Dominican campus, and president Walter Smith said it is expected the juvenile issue will come up.

Bennett Hits Sausalito With $2 Million Suit

William M. Bennett, 53, of Kentfield, member of the state Board of Equalization, filed a $2 million suit yesterday in Marin Superior Court against the city of Sausalito and its police, claiming he was falsely arrested for drunken driving.

The suit, filed by attorney William O. Weissich, contended Bennett was arrested April 25 in the parking lot of the Valhalla Restaurant and transported to the county jail at speeds exceeding 90 to 95 miles per hour.

Bennett accused police of assault, battery, and causing mental suffering and damage to his reputation.

A Marin Municipal Court Jury found Bennett guilty of the April 25 drunken driving charges but Judge Robert A. Smallman overturned verdict.

Bennett seeks $1,500,000 general damages, $500,000 punitive damages and cost of medical expenses.

During his drunken driving trial, Bennett charged that Sausalito police used a quota system under which officers were told to make a minimum number of arrests each month.

Bennett also has another Sausalito charge pending against him. On March 4, he was arrested at Main and Second streets about 3 a.m. and charged with being drunk in public.

He asked for a change of venue for this trial, alleging he could not get a fair trial in Marin, but this was denied. He is scheduled to appear on Nov. 24 for setting of the trial date in municipal court.

Ecology Study Leaders Named

The drive to raise funds for an environmental study of Tomales Bay is being headed by the Marin Conservation League and the Marin Audubon Society, assisted by the Environmental Action Committee of West Marin.

An Independent-Journal story on the fund-raising effort yesterday overlooked the drive leaders.

About $13,000 has been raised thus far for the study.

Bush Fires Back At Red China

UNITED NATIONS (UPI)— In a statement approved by the White House, U.S. Ambassador George Bush hit back at the new Chinese Communist delegate to the United Nations Tuesday night with the charge that his attacks on the United States were "intemperate language."

Instead of making a speech from the floor, Bush issued a statement to delegates following a quick trip to Washington, apparently to see President Nixon who is scheduled to visit China next year. Informed sources said it was approved by the White House.

Some delegates expressed surprise at the statement in reply to the inaugural speech to the U.N. Assembly Monday by Chinese deputy Foreign Minister Chiao Kuan-hua which attacked both the United States and Russia.

Delegates viewed Chiao's speech in varying lights. Some believed his attacks on the two big powers were surprising in the light of the rhetoric of good feeling of the welcoming addresses to the Chinese. Others regarded the speech as moderate.

Bush sharply attacked Chiao's speech.

"Yesterday's inaugural address of the representative of the People's Republic of China was a disappointment for all those who wish to see the United Nations promote the goals of peace and progress," Bush said.

"There was nothing new in the intemperate language—the phrases are familiar to those who have seen the standard propaganda of the People's Republic of China. What was surprising—and disturbing — was the decision to launch participation in this world body by firing these empty cannons of rhetoric," Bush said.

Injuries Minor In Collision

A 15-year-old San Rafael youth suffered only minor injuries in a bicycle-automobile accident yesterday at Fourth and D Streets, San Rafael, police reported.

Donald D. Mills of 31 Latham Street, was to see his own doctor for his injuries.

He was riding his bicycle east on Fourth Street at 4:43 p.m., when he collided with a car northbound on D Street. The car was driven by Frank J. Fontes, 60, of 115 Willow Avenue, Fairfax.

Reed Education Will Undergo Panel Study

A committee to assist Reed School District in evaluating progress of education in the district was appointed last night by trustees, according to Supt. Ralph D. Giovanniello.

The eight-member research and instructional assessment committee also will look at Project Sigma — Reed's experimental math program — and determine if the concept can be extended to other subjects and other schools and grades.

Trustees told the committee to make recommendations on testing of students, evaluating overall education in the district and specific programs as well as updating the district's goals statement.

Giovanniello said the committee also will continue to administer Project Sigma, in which attempts are made to involve students in setting mathematics goals and emphasizes evaluation of student performances.

Committee members named were Philip B. Bass, Stanley H. Breitbard, David B. Hudnut, J. Donald McCune, Alexander L. Mazour, Mark Noble Jr., Stuart R. Pollak and Robert Simmons.

Appointed to the sixth, seventh and eighth-grade fact-finding committee were: Mrs. Richard T. Bergsund, Robert A. Mills, Robert M. Kennedy, Mrs. Albert H. Sennett, Mrs. John H. Ball, Mrs. Robert J. Boyd, Jack Woodside, Joseph D. Stein and Mrs. Robert A. Fishman.

The Reed School District board also:

GRANT — Applied for a state grant of between $50,000 and $60,000 for library materials for Reedland Woods School.

TYPEWRITERS — Approved purchase of 15 used typewriters for $975 for Reedland Woods.

AIDE — Hired Mildred Summerlin as a part-time library aide at Reedland Woods at $339 per month.

ENROLLMENT — Heard a report that enrollment is 1,875, down from 1,887 last month.

Cancer Could Be Cured, If . . .

UPTON, N.Y. (UPI)—The director of the National Cancer Institute said Tuesday he thought the nation could spend $1 billion a year effectively for cancer research, but that it would take years of spending at that level to produce a victory in the war on cancer.

Dr. Carl G. Baker, the director of the research center in Bethesda, Md. said if the spending was increased, "by a decade from now we ought to see significant results."

Dr. Baker said he did not agree with critics who contend that spending that much on cancer research would drain resources away from other areas of bio-medical research.

But he added that $1 billion a year could not be used efficiently until 1978 because of the difficulty of training enough skilled man-power.

Alternate Sonoma Bus Plan Asked

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Western Greyhound Lines offered an alternate plan to serve Eastern Sonoma County in hearings before the state Public Utilities Commission yesterday.

The alternate was a sidelight to hearings on Greyhound's proposal to abandon all commute service in Marin and Sonoma counties when the Golden Gate Bridge District bus fleet begins rolling early next year.

The bridge district opposed elimination of Greyhound service to the city of Sonoma and Valley of the Moon area commuters. The district cannot serve the area for at least another year, according to Dale W. Luehring, district general manager.

Under the Greyhound alternative, commute runs would continue between Santa Rosa, Kenwood, Glen Ellen and Schellville, but riders would have to change buses in San Rafael to get to and from San Francisco.

The Utilities commission took the abandonment and changed-service proposals under consideration, according to Gene Raleigh, public relations spokesman for the commission.

Hope Top Entertainer

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—The American Guild of Variety Artists picked top entertainers from its ranks Tuesday, naming Bob Hope "entertainer of the year".

Condition Of Driver Serious

A Novato man was reported in serious condition today at Marin General Hospital after his stopped car was rammed on Highway 101 in Larkspur yesterday, the California Highway Patrol reported.

Edmond St. Andre, 57, of 2675 Center Road, suffered head injuries in the 10:25 p.m. accident on the northbound freeway and was being treated in the hospital's intensive care unit today.

Officers said St. Andre's car spun out, hit the center divider and came to rest in the slow lane just south of Lucky Drive. His car then was rammed by an auto driven by Brandon E. Tynan, 36, of Windsor, Sonoma County, the patrol said.

Tynan was treated at Marin General Hospital for scrapes.

Lawsuits Filed In Air Crash

SEATTLE (UPI) — Twenty-five lawsuits averaging $1 million each have been filed so far against Alaska Airlines in connection with the crash of a Boeing 727 near Juneau, Alaska, Sept. 4 which killed 111 persons.

Henry Camarot, general counsel for the airline, said Tuesday there probably will be an initial case to determine liability in the worst single-plane crash in U.S. history.

Avoid traffic. Swim to Dominic's.

If we're to keep up with the competition in the restaurant business these days, we have to offer an advantage of some kind besides just truly superior food and drink. One day someone noticed that our location on the San Rafael Yacht Harbor meant customers could swim directly to our private docks from almost any point in the Bay Area. We checked to see if any of our competitors were stressing this, and none were. So if you don't want to fight traffic getting to a fine restaurant, now you know what to do.

NEW 'LAND BARONS'

Second-Home Nightmare

By DAVID JENSEN

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Imagine a rushing trout stream at your backdoor, the whisper of pines and the crackling of a fireplace in your rustic cabin in a remote section of the Sierra foothills.

It's a common dream—one shared by thousands of Californians and promoted by scores of land developers.

But that dream has become a nightmare for an untold number of persons lured into buying undeveloped lots in "recreational" and "second home" subdivisions throughout the state.

They are the victims of what one legislator describes as "modern-day land barons" who are "systematically chopping up rare and irreplaceable land" and whose operations border on fraud.

In Nevada County, for example, state fish and game officials report that more than 150 miles of streams have been damaged by subdivisions during the past 10 years.

In another case, a developer flew Southern Californians to a Redding area development. After getting a free meal, the customers were driven to a subdivision where 1-4-acre lots were being sold for $5,000. Nearby land was going for $6,000 for 20 acres.

But now, as a result of legislation sponsored by Assemblyman Leo T. McCarthy, DSan Francisco, and recently signed by Gov. Ronald Reagan, the state has new tools to deal with second-home subdivisions.

Opposed by major developers, the legislation will protect prospective land purchasers from high-pressure salesmen and help prevent those bubbling streams from becoming silt-clogged ditches.

In signing the cornerstone bill of the three-measure package, Reagan said, "We cannot afford the luxury of allowing real estate developments to be constructed which do not meet the requirements that communities have established for the protection of their own citizens and the environment itself."

The main bill will require cities and counties to reject a proposed subdivision if it would substantially damage the environment. Previously, local agencies could not reject a project for environmental reasons alone.

Proposed developments also could be stopped if they substantially injured fish, wildlife or their habitat, created serious public health problems or if the subdivision site was physically unsuitable for the development being proposed.

Other provisions will require large, remote subdivisions to spell out in detail what measures are being taken to safeguard the environment.

New subdivisions will have to conform to city and county plans, especially in regard to their open space and conservation provisions.

McCarthy's other bills will protect the purchaser who contracts a case of "land fever." He will have up to 14 days after he signs his contract to change his mind "without cause."

"Land projects" — subdivisions of more than 50 lots located in remote areas—could not be sold under the assemblyman's legislation unless the real estate commissioner issued a report on the project. The land developers will be required to distribute the report to customers.

The commissioner can issue the report only after he determines that:

—Adequate measures are taken to prevent property damage which might occur from flooding, erosion or other natural causes.

—Financing is sufficient to complete and maintain all improvements such as swimming pools and golf courses. The improvements would also have to be large enough to serve the entire projected population of the subdivision.

—Use of the lots is compatible with existing and proposed zoning in the project and adjacent land.

Conservationists point out that much of the effectiveness of the new laws depends on the zeal with which they are enforced by local governments. Sometimes they have been reluctant to clamp down on land developers. Enforcement is also up to the real estate commissioner, who is usually an eminent figure in real estate business prior to joining state government.

Environmentalists also say that the legislation does not deal with oversupply—one of the basic aspects of the billion-dollar recreational land boom.

According to the state treasurer's office, about 300,000 recreational lots are currently available and at the current rate of construction only two-thirds will be developed by their owners by the year 2025.

Tiburon Lot Plea Rejected

A controversial lot split that would allow a Tiburon man to build a second residence on a steep parcel on Vistazo West Street has been denied by the Tiburon board of adjustments.

Five neighbors opposed the split at Monday's board meeting, according to development administrator Phil V. Scott, and the panel unanimously rejected the application.

Scott said Joe Senglaub had asked permission to divide a lot at 1470 Vistazo West Street into two parcels of 7,692 and 15,673 square feet, although the zoning ordinance requires one-acre lots where the slope is more than 35 per cent. Scott said the lot in question averages about 40 per cent slope.

Neighbors opposing Senglaub's application said a restriction in his deed prohibits subdivision of the lot anyway. The parcel already contains one residence, Scott said.

Council Pushes Bridgeway Plans

The Sausalito City Council, giving new life to an old controversy, moved ahead last night with plans for about $70,000 in improvements to Bridgeway. (Another Sausalito City Council story, Page 1.)

The project would include widening of sidewalk between Princess Sreet and the Village Fair, thereby permanently eliminating parking which has been a sore point to merchants.

The council named members Robin Sweeny and Earl F. Dunphy to a committee that will recommend a landscape architect for the work, and endorsed a proposal by City Mgr. Albert R. St. Cyr that the city investigate the possibility of an assessment district to finance part of the project.

Under St. Cyr's plan, the city will apply for $25,000 in state funds to go with $10,700 in city money for signalization work and other improvements in the three-block stretch. The rest of the project — actual widening of the sidewalk — might possibly be financed through an assessment district, St. Cyr said.

Although the city manager said the sidewalk widening might be done at the same time as the signalization, he pointed out in a memorandum to the council that the application for state funds had to be submitted by Jan. 1.

The council, though aware of the deadline at least since September, did not get around to acting until last night.

The two-member architect selection council committee is to report back Dec. 7.

Merchants in the Bridgeway target area protested earlier this year when the council, in a stop-gap move, approved installation of planter boxes along curbs. The council said the move was necessitated by mounting downtown traffic.

On the subject of auto traffic, meanwhile, the council asked last night for a staff report on possible ways of preventing weekend tourists from entering the city through uphill streets such as Spencer Avenue and Monte Mar Drive.

The council, for years grappling with ways to channel traffic away from the city's southern access during peak periods, acted on the complaint of colleague Stephen A. Fraser. He said weekend traffic on narrow Spencer and Monte Mar was hazardous and bothersome.

The council lamented recent defeat in the Legislature of a bill that would have enabled the city to close certain streets to all but residential traffic in peak periods.

The Sausalito City Council Also:

PLAN — Set a Dec. 13 study session with the planning commission on the preliminary countywide master plan.

NOISE — Delayed until Dec. 7 adoption of an ordinance controlling noise in the community. The council said it wanted assurance from the city attorney that a provision regulating use of sound tracks was constitutional.

HEIGHT — Asked the city attorney to prepare for the Dec. 7 meeting an ordinance regulating building height in order to protect views.

SIGN — Denied a directional sign for the Sausalito Arts Center and Little League on the east side of Bridgeway at Nevada Street, but said it could be located on the west side.

SIDEWALK — Said George R. Kowski of 430 Bee Street would be required to install at least a six-foot-wide sidewalk in front of his property to conform with city policy. Kowski protested.

BUS — Supported Dunphy's protest of a planned increase to 50 cents in the one-way fare from Sausalito to San Francisco on Golden Gate Bridge District buses. The rate is up a nickel over present Greyhound fares. The bridge district is to take over the service next month.

HEARING — Set a hearing for Dec. 7 on the proposed new resident commercial district and the revised central waterfront district.

LIBRARY — Authorized St. Cyr to apply for matching federal funds for library construction. The city currently is studying using Central School as a library, although it has not given up on a proposal to build a facility at Napa and Litho streets.

NEWLON — Rescheduled for Jan. 12-14 an open hearing for suspended detective Brian Newlon. The hearing had been set for next month, but Newlon's attorney asked a postponement.

Robber Picked Wrong Victim

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI)—A robber picked the wrong victim when he walked up to tobacco-chewing Bill Parsons and demanded money.

"I had this big chew of tobacco so I let it go right in his face," said Parsons, 74, who thought the man might have had a gun in his pocket. The frustrated bandit fled.

"I've been chewing tobacco for 60 years," Parsons said. "I never thought it would save my life."

Cousins Resigns At Saturday Review

NEW YORK (UPI)—Norman Cousins has resigned as editor of the Saturday Review following 31 years in the post.

The resignation of the 56-year-old Cousins was submitted Tuesday to Saturday Review Industries, which acquired the magazine last July from the McCall Book Publishing Co.

TESTS WATER FOR SPORT

Held protectively by companions, Cuban Premier Fidel Castro leans over prow of a launch to test the suitability of the water for skindiving — one of his many sports activities currently being displayed in a visit to Chile.

After the test yesterday at Iquique, he pronounced the water was very good for skindiving.

Psychologist Will Speak Tomorrow

Dr. David Kaplan, psychologist at Stanford University Medical Center, will speak on the psychological and social effects of childhood leukemia on the victim's family at a public meeting at 8 p.m. tomorrow in the cafeteria of Marin General Hospital.

The Candlelighters Society, a group of Bay Area families who have cancer-striken children, is sponsoring the talk, according to Dr. Foank R. Tavel, program chairman.

San Rafael Artist Will Exhibit Work

A reception will be held from 7 to 11 p.m. Saturday at the gallery.

Gladys Cooper, Towering Theatrical Figure, Dies

LONDON (UPI) — Actress Dame Gladys Cooper, a queen of the British stage for more than 60 years died in her sleep during the night, her family said today. She was 82.

Dame Gladys was stricken with pneumonia 10 weeks ago and was thought to be recovering at her home at Henley-On-Thames where she died.

Hers was the most popular pinup picture of World War I and British Tommies carried it next to their hearts while slogging through the mud of Flanders. Her star never dimmed from those days until last April when she starred in "The Chalk Garden" in London.

She had planned to go with the End Bagnold play to Toronto later this year.

To millions her porcelain beauty became the standard beside which all English womanhood was judged.

Somerset Maugham met Gladys Cooper when she was a chorus girl at the Gaiety Theater in 1910. "She's the loveliest thing I've ever seen in my life," the author said.

Later she was actress-manageress at her own theater and at 75, when many actors and actresses enjoy their retirement, Dame Gladys went to the United States to star in a television series "The Rogues" with Charles Boyer, David Niven and Gig Young.

The daughter of a journalist, Dame Gladys made her debut on her 16th birthday in Colchester, England, where she played Bluebell in "Bluebell in Fairyland."

Her London debut followed in a few months with "The Belle of Mayfair." Stage door Johnnies flocked to her and squired her to the most elegant champagne suppers in London.

She signed a three-year contract with the Gaiety and had her first major role as Eva in "The Girls of Gottenberg."

She married Capt. H. J. Buckminster in 1908, but the marriage and a later one to Sir Neville Pearson were dissolved.

Before the first war, she played in everything from "The Importance of Being Earnest" to "Peter Pan."

Her clear and sometimes cold voice, made her a hit as Lady MacBeth in 1935. Shortly after, she went to the United Sates where she married her third and last husband, actor Philip Merivale, who died in 1946.

Aflred Hitchcock invited her to Hollywood in 1939 to play Laurence Olivier's sister in "Rebecca." She went for three weeks and stayed for 30 years. But she never became an American citizen.

"England will always be home," she once said.

The great blue heron's feet have widely spaced toes to keep him from sinking deeply into mire.

"Fills up our fullback...
That's what I like about LAMB."

"Lamb's got flavor that really satisfies! And the grow-a-pro power of protein to boot! My home team really ladles into this piping-hot stew flavored through with husky chunks of lean, tender lamb. And because it's a bone-in stew it supplies strength-building calcium, too."

BONE-IN LAMB STEW (makes 4 servings)

1 to 2 pounds lamb neck pieces, bone-in
3 tablespoons all-purpose flour
2 cups stock or bouillon
2 teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
1 teaspoon thyme
2 bay leaves
2 medium-size potatoes, peeled and diced
1 cup sliced raw carrots
1 10-ounce package frozen cut corn
1 10-ounce package frozen cut green beans

Brown lamb on all sides over medium heat in large, lightly greased skillet or Dutch oven. Drain off excess fat, if any. Blend in flour. Add stock or bouillon, salt, pepper, thyme, bay leaves, potatoes and carrots; mix well. Cover and cook 30 minutes, stirring occasionally. Stir in corn and beans. Cover and continue to cook over medium heat 20 minutes or until vegetables are tender, stirring now and then. NOTE: During cooking, add a small amount of water from time to time, if needed.

Teen Traffic Offenders Given Break —A New Law

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — Teen-age traffic offenders will get a break under terms of a bill passed and signed into law during this year's legislative session.

Beginning early next year, at the discretion of judges, the young offenders will be able to work off fines in lieu of coming up with cash. The idea came from Assemblyman John P. Quimby, D-Rialto.

Under the new law, teenagers nailed for traffic violations may, with the judge's okay, be sentenced to work up to 25 hours in a public park or recreational facility. The "fine" must be paid within 30 days, and is not to interfere with school work or employment.

Quimby said he feels his law is fairer than the present administration of such cases. In the case of youngsters from well-to-do families, he said, too often fines are paid by parents, negating the intended deterent effect. In the case of poor families, he added, paying even a small fine, no matter who comes up with the money, can be a hardship.

"I feel strongly such legislation will improve the administration of justice," the assemblyman from Rialto commented, "besides providing obvious benefits for our parks and recreational facilities."

Chicago Mayor Richard Daley and his wife, Eleanor, have been married for 35 years.

Bolinas Attorney's Pot Trial Scheduled Nov. 29

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Bolinas attorney Harry J. Kreamer, 32, is due to go on trial Nov. 29 in U.S. District Court on a charge of possessing marijuana with intent to distribute it.

Kreamer was indicted Aug. 18.

He also is charged with another count of the same federal crime, as well as conspiracy in connection with confiscation of a truckload of marijuana in Marin on Oct. 17.

He is to return to district court to enter a plea in the second case Nov. 18. Also charged in connection with the truckload, which was seized in Northgate Industrial Park, are Allan G. Palmer, 30, of Novato; Paul R. Pattengale, 32, of San Francisco, and Allister M. McKenzie, 29, of Boyes Hot Springs.

Personal Injury Claims Drop—No-Fault Insurance

BOSTON (UPI)—The average cost of paid personal injury claims in Massachusetts dropped by more than 60 per cent in the first nine months of the state's new no-fault automobile insurance system, a state official said Monday.

Michael J.Sabbagh, fire and casualty actuary for the state Insurance Department said the average cost of a paid liability claim also dropped from $419 in the first nine months of 1970 to only $165 in the first three quarters of this year.

Sabbagh, testifying before Insurance Commissioner John Ryan who is taking testimony on setting rates for 1972 auto insurance, said no-fault policy holders made 34 per cent fewer policy claims in the nine-month period than they did a year ago.

The drop of 60.6 per cent in the average cost of claims and the 34 per cent decline in total personal injury claims, he said, meant insurance companies saved 73.3 per cent in the first nine months, compared to what they paid out for the comparable 1970 period.

Material for the claims study, Sabbagh said, was gathered from 38 insurance companies representing 85 per cent of the automobile business written in the state.

Judge Dismisses Bad Check Charge

A felony charge of passing a bad check has been dismissed against Charlene Betty Zaro, 35, of Tamalpais Valley.

Judge Robert A. Smallman of Marin Municipal Court dismissed the charge Monday because Mrs. Zaro made restitution of $140. The check was pssed in Mill Valley Oct. 3.

70 Strep Cases During Last Week

Seventy streptococcus infections were reported in Marin last week, according to Carolyn B. Albrecht, county health officer. Thirty-four cases were in Novato.

Also reported were 29 cases of gonorrhea, two of syphillis, and five of infectious hepatitis.

Talkative Couple Robs Bank Teller

OAKLAND (UPI) —A chatty couple robbed the United California Bank of $5,000 Monday, leaving a teller in a state of shock.

Bank manager Allan Ghidossi said the couple chatted with the teller but then handed her a note demanding all her cash.

Ghidossi said the man showed the young woman teller a gun under his coat and that both the robbers then escaped without attracting attention.

He refused to identify the teller, saying she was in shock.

SPECTACULAR HIGHWAY MESS

A lumber truck-trailer dangles over the railing of the San Quentin Wye in San Rafael, its load of redwood 2-by-4s scattered onto two northbound lanes of Highway 101 and the adjoining field. Truck driver Jeff Anderson, 28, of Cloverdale, was bound for Oakland with the lumber at 7:55 a.m. today when his trailer went out of control and the truck jacknifed on the Highway 17 offramp from 101. The trailer hopped onto the railing and skidded along it for 250 feet — over all six lanes of 101. The California Highway Patrol said no lumber fell onto the crowded southbound lanes and no one was injured. State Division of Highways crews cleared the easternmost northbound lanes of 101 within a half-hour.

Hub Schools Deficit Denied

The president of the San Anselmo School District board last night denied the district will face a deficit at the end of the school year if current spending practices are continued.

Reacting to a warning from Byron W. Mauzy, assistant superintendent for business services in the county school office, Franklin C. Latcham said, "Our review shows that we are proceeding normally with our budget."

He denied that Mauzy had ever warned the district its expenditures are depleting reserves. The Independent-Journal reported a week ago that Mauzy said the San Anselmo district and the Shoreline Unified School District face a deficit.

The Sausalito School District, Mauzy said, has been depleting its reserves.

San Anselmo School District Board Also:

REQUESTS — Granted interdistrict transfer requests to Jill Peacock, San Anselmo to the Nicasio School District; Anne and Andrew Schumacher, San Rafael to San Anselmo; Lisa and Daniel Parker, Fairfax to San Anselmo; and James Michael and Dion Dossman, San Anselmo to Fairfax.

PAY — Agreed to pay Clara Mattes $3 an hour for three weeks of substitute secretarial work.

SHORT DAYS — Authorized short days at Red Hill School from Nov. 17 through Dec. 3 and each Monday through the rest of the school year so the staff will have time to operate the school without a principal and develop a formal plan for differentiated schooling. Children will be released at 2 p.m. instead of 3:15.

GRIEVANCES — Adopted a grievance procedure submitted by the San Anselmo teachers association.

RAISES — Approved a 2 per cent salary increase for teachers and a 3 per cent increase in the health and welfare program.

LEAVES — Extended the time limit on leaves of absence from one year to two years.

Work On Contract Is Continuing

Although San Anselmo has made noises about a divorce, The Ross Valley Flood Control Zone Advisory board decided yesterday to keep trying to alter the marriage contract.

Charles E. Murphy, county flood control engineer, said the board directed him to continue negotiating on maintenance funds for the Corte Madera Creek flood control project.

San Anselmo does not belong to the flood control district, but, under a joint powers agreement signed in 1965, has agreed to pay up to five cents per $100 assessed valuation for maintenance of the creek project downstream.

The agreement does not allow the district to accumulate funds from year to year, Murphy said. The board wants to remove this clause and, as a compromise, yesterday offered to share the tax collected with the city.

Murphy said the board yesterday authorized him to propose returning up to 50 per cent of the yearly tax in San Anselmo for the city's flood control efforts.

The San Anselmo council has set a discussion on withdrawing from the agreement entirely for Tuesday. Murphy said the city cannot legally break the agreement.

500 Bodies Still Unburied

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— About 500 of the 1,800 bodies left unburied when a 125-day Peninsula cemetery strike ended during the summer have not yet been disposed of.

Spokesmen for two cemeteries said it would take another month to finish the burials. The nine other cemeteries struck by the grave-diggers and greenskeepers have cleared their backlog.

The 235 strikers ended their walkout six weeks ago Wednesday after a bargaining session mediated by Mayor Joseph Alioto.

Hub School 'Relations' Discussed

Clarification of ambiguous letters of complaint from teachers in the San Anselmo School District was not forthcoming last night.

However, the board did discuss methods of improving the relationship between itself and Supt. W. Kenneth Lowry.

"I think some people thought that we would get down to the nitty gritty sort of a personal level, but it didn't work out that way," board Pres. Franklin C. Latcham said today.

He said the board, after he read two letters of accusation signed by the district's teachers, discussed means of reducing conflict.

The letters dated Oct. 18 called for support of Lowry's programs while castigating the board for not cooperating with him.

Latcham said guidelines for communicating with Lowry were set up. There was also talk of hiring a private management firm to study difficulties, he said.

One person in the 80-to-100-member audience suggested that once a policy decision is made, the board should stop debating it and start setting up the program, Latcham said.

He said Lowry was directed to draw up a list of important programs for this school year so the board can agree on them.

Panel Approves Store Design

Members of the Mill Valley architectural advisory committee viewed a scale-model of a proposed department store last night and then approved preliminary design plans.

Zoning administrator Howard R. McGill said developer William A. Kirsch wants to convert the old Brown's furniture store at 38 Miller Avenue into a series of 14 specialty shops.

Kirsch previously had received a variance from the city planning commission to provide only 30 of the required 118 off-street parking spaces.

The variance subsequently was appealed to the city council and upheld.

'Safe' Black District In New Remap Plan

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —The Senate today unveiled a congressional reapportionment plan which creates a "safe" new district for black Democrats in Los Angeles.

Aside from that, the plan is nearly identical to one proposed earlier in the Assembly.

As in the Assembly proposal, Rep. Paul N. McCloskey would be forced to run in a heavily Democratic district or face a potentially tough GOP primary.

McCloskey's present district would be cut into two districts.

Sen. Mervyn Dymally, reapportionment chairman, said he was "cautiously optimistic" about gaining Senate approval next week for his plan, but predicted a two-house conference committee would finally negotiate a bill agreeable to both houses.

"The concept of this plan has Republican support," Dymally told a news conference.

Five new districts are created by the plan. They would be in Santa Clara-Santa Cruz counties; San Diego-Orange counties; San Bernardino, Riverside and Los Angeles counties, Kern and Santa Barbara counties and central Los Angeles.

Also like the Assembly plan, it would include all of Marin in the Sixth District, now represented by Republican William S. Mailliard of San Francisco. The district now includes most of Marin south of Hamilton Air Force Base.

High School Vandals

Someone broke into the industrial arts area and library at San Marin High School and took radio and stereo equipment valued at $280 between 10 p.m. Sunday and 6:50 a.m. yesterday, Novato police reported today.

PLAYS WITH HER TEDDY

Lisa Marie Calver, 3, plays with her Teddy bear in her hospital bed at Seattle where she is recovering from head injuries received Nov. 7 when a trailer fell on her at her home in Skagway, Alaska. Lisa was flown to Seattle in one of the longest missions ever directed by the Rescue Coordinating Center in Anchorage. (UPI Telephoto)

Church Seeks Refugee Aid

DES MOINES, Iowa (UPI)— The religious hierarchy of the United Methodist Church has called for a special offering early next year in an effort to raise at least $1 million to aid East Pakistan refugees.

The United Methodist Church Council of Bishops, meeting in Des Moines Tuesday, asked that the offering be taken through the church on Jan. 9. Bishop Ralph T. Alton of Madison, Wis., chairman of the denomination's Committee on Overseas Relief, said the action was unanimous.

The recommendation must now go to the church's Council on World Service and Finance for approval, which is expected early next week. Bishop Alton said the bishops were seeking a "minimum goal" of $1 million.

IRS To Answer Economic Questions

Questions about the new economic guidelines in Phase II of President Nixon's Economic Stabilization Program will be answered by the Internal Revenue Service office in the Federal Building at Third and D streets, San Rafael.

The IRS will also investigate complaints and monitor compliance with the stabilization guidelines. The IRS offices are open from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Sponsor Of Viet Plan Sees Defeat

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The sponsor of a House amendment intended to get U.S. military forces out of Indochina by June 1 said today he did not think he had the votes to pass the provision.

Rep. Edward Boland, DMass., predicted defeat before the House was scheduled to debate the amendment he wants tacked on to a $71 billion defense appropriation.

Boland told a reporter he had not taken a head count but answered "I don't think so" when asked whether he thought the House would adopt the toughest end-the-war amendment ever offered by doves in that chamber.

During debate on the bill Tuesday, Rep. George Andrews, D-Ala., said he doubted its adoption would free the prisoners. But he said he did not think the Nixon withdrawal policy would either.

What he would do, he said, would be to deliver an ultimatium to North Vietnam.

"I'd tell them that they either produce the prisoners at the DMZ by a certain time or we're going to knock you off the face of the earth," he said.

Secret Teams Said Working In Cambodia

SAIGON (UPI) — American military intelligence teams under command of Saigon headquarters, are operating in secret in Cambodia, U.S. sources said today.

The teams interrogate Communist prisoners of war, gather information in Phnom Penh and make reports to the U.S. Military Assistance Command in Saigon, the sources said.

The teams work at Cambodian army headquarters in a previously undisclosed aspect of U.S. military involvement with the Phnom Penh government since American combat forces were ordered to be out of that country by June 30, 1970, following the invasion of Communist sanctuaries.

Command spokesmen refused comment on the presence of military intelligence teams, of the same type which operate from key locations in South Vietnam.

The command admits only the presence of personnel attached to the U.S. Embassy in Phnom Penh and including a Military Equipment Delivery Team (MEDT) responsible for distribution of Washington's military aid program.

The MEDT was set up early this year under Brig. Gen. Theodore C. Mataxis and at present has 50 men in Phnom Penh and 63 in Saigon.

"None of the MEDT personnel function as advisers to the Cambodian armed forces, although they do travel in the countryside to determine that military assistance program material is properly used," a command spokesman said.

Sources said military intelligence teams are rotated from Vietnam for temporary assignment in Phnom Penh, shedding their uniforms for civilian clothes.

At least one team is believed stationed in Cambodia at all times, officially attached to the Military Assistance Command Vietnam Saigon headquarters.

Oklahoma City is the only state captiol with wells operating under its floors.

MEADOWSWEET STATION TOWNHOUSE CLUSTERS

An artist's sketch of the proposed townhouses in the Meadowsweet Station development in Corte Madera shows two examples of townhouse clusters. Another hearing by the Corte Madera Planning Commission on the master plan for the controversial development is set for tomorrow at 7:30 p.m. in the town hall. The plan, by developer Warner Odenthal of Orinda, includes 540 units.

Senate Rejects Big Bay Agency

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — Legislation creating a Bay Area regional government yesterday was rejected by the Senate, and backers of the measure conceded it was in "very serious trouble."

Sen. Milton Marks, R-San Francisco, sponsoring the bill by Assemblyman John T. Knox, D-Richmond, won permission for another vote later this week, but he acknowledged it will be tough to get the needed 21 votes.

Several hours of balloting yesterday ended with a 14-14 tie, seven votes short of the number needed to pass the bill (AB 1057). A spokesman for Knox also commented after the vote that the outlook for its passage was "very, very dim."

The Senate previously approved the bill but only after amending it to require a vote of the people next June to approve creation of the regional agency.

Knox refused to accept this amendment, however, and returned the bill to the Senate with a compromise moving the public vote back to 1976, making it a referendum on whether to continue rather than create the agency.

The compromise, already approved by the Assembly, lost the bill among senators who favored it only with an immediate referendum next year.

Sen. John Harmer, R-Glendale, charged that the compromise was "contrary to the spirit of the bill as it passed the Senate," and was designed to "circumvent the will of the Senate."

With final adjournment of the Legislature perhaps only a week away, time was short for Knox to seek another compromise to overcome Senate opposition.

Citizen groups backing the bill have maintained they prefer no bill at all to one calling for a referendum next year.

They acknowledge that the proposed agency probably would be defeated if put to a popular vote before it had time to win public confidence.

The bill would create a Conservation and Development Agency of the Bay Area in January, 1973, with power to veto city and county ordinances contrary to the regional plan it would draw in three years.

The agency would be governed by a board of 77 members, 37 elected directly and the rest public officials appointed by local government.

It would be financed by a tax of up to 4 cents per $100 on all property sold or transferred. Sonoma County previously was amended out of the bill, leaving in the agency the eight other Bay Area counties, including Marin.

Sex Study In Males Revealed

NEW YORK (UPI) — Research conducted by two St. Louis doctors on 80 college students showed that the blood level of the male hormone testosterone was much lower among the homosexual volunteers than among the heterosexuals.

The study, reported in the Nov. 19 issues of Medical World News, was conducted by Dr. Robert C. Kolodny of the Washington University medical school in conjunction with Dr. William H. Masters, coauthor of the best-selling book "Human Sexual Response."

The study also showed that the count of spermatozoa among the homosexuals was substantially lower than among the heterosexuals.

Marin Head Start Chairman Elected

Patricia Heady last night was elected chairman of the board of directors of Marin Head Start.

Jay Hoyes was elected vice-chairman; Adele Nichols, secretary and Emma Hanssen, treasurer. All are from Novato.

Reaction Mixed On TV Nudity

LONDON (UPI)—A prime time romp across the nation's television screens by a naked Casanova brought mixed reviews today from critics and a complaint from the head of a viewers' watchdog group that it was lewd.

Only a few individuals bothered to telephone the British Broadcasting Corp. (BBC) Tuesday night to voice objection to the program, the first in a series of six on the 18th century Italian philanderer.

"We have had very few complaints," said a BBC spokesman, "but I think most people appreciated the artistic merit of the play."

Boy Arrested For Holding Hashish

Novato police arrested a 17-year-old boy in Pioneer Memorial Park yesterday on suspicion of possession of hashish and narcotics paraphernalia.

The youth, who was cited to juvenile authorities, had a small amount of a substance that appeared to be hashish in his hand when they investigated his behavior at 4:55 p.m., police said.

Pay Bill Is Amended For Span Directors

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — A bill hiking by 50 per cent the pay limit for Golden Gate Bridge District directors has been amended to extend for only the next three years.

The bill, AB 1783 by Assemblyman John T. Knox, D-Richmond, is awaiting final Senate approval. The amendment, if the bill is approved by the Senate, will have to go back to the Assembly for its approval as well.

The bill also was amended by Knox to limit the president of the bridge board to a maximum pay of $5,000 a year.

Both amendments apparently were designed to counter possible opposition to the measure. It is common legislative practice, however, to drop time limits on pay hikes before such increases are scheduled to expire.

The 18 bridge directors are paid $50 a meeting, with an annual ceiling of $2,400. Knox's bill would raise the ceiling to $3,600 for all but the board president.

Eleven of the directors last year attended so many meetings that they reached their annual pay ceiling before the fiscal year expired.

Laura Heads Out Toward Caribbean

MIAMI (UPI) — Tropical storm Laura, often teetering near hurricane strength, looped slowly away from the Cuban mainland today on an undetermined path in the northwestern Caribbean.

If the aimless drift to the southeast continues as forecast through this afternoon, the first of 23,000 Cubans evacuated from the rich tobaccolands of Pinar Del Rio and the citrus groves of the Isle of Pines would be allowed to return to their homes, radio Havana said.

Harrington Off Critical List

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Henry Harrington, who survived a leap from the Golden Gate Bridge last Thursday, was removed from the critical list at San Francisco General Hospital today.

He was still in serious condition, however, the hospital said.

Harrington, 36, of Pacifica, jumped 246 feet off the span near the south tower and landed in a shallow moat. He was the sixth person to survive a leap from the bridge.

His wife said he was depressed over his work at the Internal Revenue Service.

Wine, Music, Art At Sunday's Event

Wine, music and art will be featured at a wine festival, Sunday from 4 to 6 p.m. at the Cotati Woman's Club to benefit the Sonoma State College Newman Center.

Wines from the Robert Mondavi Winery will be served along with cheeses and french bread. Folk music will be presented as well as art displays, books, pottery, crafts and leather work.

Guitarist Will Give Concert

Greek guitarist George Sakellariou will appear in a free concert at noon tomorrow in Ives Hall of Music at Sonoma State College.

Sakellariou, who teaches at Dominican College, will play baroque and modern selections. He graduated from the Conservatory of Athens at the age of 18 and was among nine students chosen by Andres Segovia to perform daily in the master class at the University of California at Berkeley.

We've learned a lot in the last 107 years.

California Canadian Bank may be the new bank in town, but we've been around the state since 1864. What we've learned in that time would fill this whole newspaper—so we'll try to sum it up in 10 words. "A lot of little things make a big difference." Of course that's easy to say. To see what we've done about it—here are some of the latest things that make us not just the newest but the nicest bank in town...

For example...

You can enjoy Free Personal Checking privileges if you maintain a minimum $100.00 balance. (Most banks require a $200.00 or $300.00 minimum!). Better still, a 50% lower service charge lets you write all the checks you want for $1.00 a month.

One-day loan service, at preferred rates on business and personal loans for our customers. It pays to borrow where you bank when the bank is California Canadian!

All the services you go to big banks for are available here where the lines are always short and the faces never long: Trust services, Securities Exchange, Foreign Exchange and Remittances, Drafts, Letters of Credit, International Banking Services, etc., etc.

Isn't this the kind of bank you've been looking for?

We have 17 offices to serve you.

A lot of little things make a big difference

SYMBOL OF A CITY — The rendering of the renovated church building now serving as city hall, a distinctive red, wooden building, was selected last night as the motif for Novato's new city seal. (Independent-Journal photo)

Novato Citizens To Study Disposable Container Ban

Novato City Council last night heard arguments from businessmen against adopting an ordinance to ban disposable soft drink and beer containers.

Councilmen made no decision on the proposed ordinance, but authorized establishing a citizen committee to study the matter and make recommendations.

William B. Lynch, manager of North Bay Operations, Coca Cola Bottling Co., said such an ordinance wouldn't solve the waste disposal problem, would be inequitable since it wouldn't regulate other beverages — such as fruit juices, sold in nonreturnable containers — and wouldn't solve the litter problem.

Councilman George C. Quesada said the city "has a problem and it isn't being solved," and talks by the businessmen "won't get the cans off the highways of Marin or the bottles thrown on the streets of Novato."

Residents concerned about ecology and environment are applying pressure to the council and "we, in turn, are going to pass this pressure on," he said. "The problem has to be solved."

Lynch said that people throw away returnable containers as well as nonreturnable ones, and urged "constructive action to solve these problems rather than beating on a drum."

Quesada said that for the city alone to adopt such an ordinance "would be only a first step, and we'd have to have a countywide effort."

Councilman Wayne Womack, considering the overall waste problem, said: "You don't wipe out an anthill by killing one or two ants. This is attempting to kill one part and in my opinion isn't the avenue to take."

He suggested support of "state action" and the council unanimously urged that Gov. Ronald Reagan sign Senate Bill 138, which would set up a statewide solid waste recovery program.

Phillip Voorheis, manager of the Environmental Affairs Department of the Pacific Region, Owens and Illinois Glass Co., said the proposed ordinance wouldn't "address itself to the problem," which he said wasn't use of the containers, but misuse. To select just beer and soft drink containers would be "highly discriminatory," he said.

William Jonas, owner of markets in the Nyvato area, said "the problem goes a lot further than if we have returnable or nonreturnable bottles."

Leon Dillenberg, representing the Bay Area Grocers Association, said there is a higher cost involved in handling returnable bottles.

Lynch said one step that could be taken would be enforcement of anti-litter ordinances.

Tape Deck Stolen

Linda V. Sartori, 643 Prospect Street, Petaluma, told police that a stereo tape deck and 13 tapes valued at $130 were stolen from her car yesterday while it was parked in the 100 block of Bodega Avenue.

Townhouse Project Is KTIM Topic

The proposed Kaiser Aetna Co. townhouse project in Marinwood will be discussed on the KTIM "Marin Sounding Board" program at 9 a.m. tomorrow.

Speakers will be James C. Winter, Marinwood Homeowners Association director; Richard H. O'Brien, Marinwood Community Services District board member; Albert Bianchi, attorney for Kaiser Aetna, and Margaret Azevedo, Marin County planning commissioner.

The planning commission last week rejected the company's original proposal for 145 townhouses on 18 acres and ordered it modified to 108 units. Marinwood residents had objected to the project as too dense.

The program, moderated by Kitty Oppenheimer, will be repeated at 10:05 a.m. Sunday. Questions may be phoned in for tomorrow's broadcast.

Strip Mining Plea Made To Congress

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Russell E. Train, chairman of the Council on Environmental Quality, has urged Congress not to pass legislation banning strip mining. He said the alternative might be worse.

"Foreclosing surface coal mining would mean more reliance on other forms of mining which have not at all been proven to be less damaging to human values," Train told a Senate subcommittee which is considering several proposals to limit strip mining. "In light of the cost advantages of surface mining, it may prove cheaper in human and economic terms to require surface miners to be environmentally responsible than to rely solely on underground mining."

Novato Has A New City Seal

The Novato City Council last night selected a new city seal depicting the red-hued city hall with its soaring church spire against a plain background.

It will replace the old seal, adopted several years ago but never used, depicting Mount Burdell, Indian teepees, a tomahawk, a gavel and the city hall.

The new seal, painted by Carl Rangel, was chosen from a field of five entries, by a 3-2 vote.

OPPOSITION

Mayor Joseph D. Gargiulo preferred a similar seal painted by Barbara Murphy, and councilman George C. Quesada opposed the idea of having city hall on the seal.

A reconverted church as city hall "isn't Novato," Quesada said. "I think the oaks, sun and hills are Novato and this is what I think should be depicted as Novato."

Councilman J. Wayne Womack, who was in on the selection of the original seal, cast the tie-breaking vote. "I'll vote aye," he said. "The reason I came tonight was to break a tie so we'll have a seal."

Rangel's seal was approved subject to removal of a flagpole, and flag and two stars shown on each side of city hall.

Lettering reading "City of Novato" will be within the circular rim of the seal and the wording "incorporated Jan. 20, 1960" will be beneath City Hall.

Councilman David Price Jones proposed at first that the incorporated date be removed, but Betty Machado, of the Novato Federated Women's Club, argued that it was vital.

Eileen Morrison submitted an octagon-shaped seal focusing on the city hall tower, and Betty Beebe submitted a design which included the Golden Gate Bridge, the California flag, acorns, olive branches and red, white and blue striping.

SUNBURST

William Carpenter submitted a seal consisting of a green oak leaf with a gold sunburst in the background and gold lettering, a design of the type favored by Quesada.

Councilman Wayne Sartain said he felt the scene showing the city hall "to most people would say, 'Novato.' "

The council voted 4-1 to drop the old seal, with Quesada dissenting.

By the same vote councilmen appointed Rangel and Mrs. Murphy to submit a precise drawing, with the requested changes. When ready, the new seal will be officially adopted.

Marin Firm To Do BART Job

A San Rafael firm offered the lowest of six bids opened yesterday for landscaping the El Cerrito Plaza Bay Area Rapid Transit Station in Richmond.

Valley Crest Landscaping Inc., of 77 Larkspur Street, submitted a bid of $37,875, according to Michael Healy, public relations official for BART. The engineer's estimate on the project was $53,000, he said.

Awarding the contract will come up before the BART board meeting tomorrow, he aid.

Mrs. Evers To Lead Citizens For Muskie

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Mrs. Myrlie Evers, widow of civil rights figure Medgar Evers, has been named co-chairman of a national citizens committee which will work for Sen. Edmund S. Muskie's Democratic presidential ambitions.

Mrs. Evers said the Maine senator was the only Democrat "who can unite the country and the party in a new coalition for fundamental change."

College Building Plan Must Remain Pay-As-You-Go

Marin Community College District must continue its multi-million-dollar building program on a pay-as-you-go basis for at least another year, the college board and its citizens advisory committee informally agreed last night.

Next June would be too early for another try to win passage of the $16.7 million bond issue that lost at the polls Nov. 2. The state plans to put a $160 million bond issue on the November 1972 ballot — which would endanger any local bond issue election, Trustee Theodore C. Wellman pointed out.

He urged pressing on with district building programs at the new Indian Valley campus and the Kentfield campus with tax money rather than bonds for "a year or two and study where we are going."

The district now levies a capital outlay tax of 25 cents per $100 assessed valuation.

Wellman favored holding the line — leaving the total district tax rate at $1, but Board President Donald K. Felt favored raising the building tax to 43 cents.

Although the trustees and citizens committee discussed a series of alternate plans for stretching the Indian Valley campus building program, Felt declared last night's special meeting was called prematurely because the board did not yet have enough data to make a decision.

Novato resident Donald M. Van Dyke urged holding the line on taxes, and argued, "The day is coming when community colleges cannot open their doors to everyone who wants to come in."

Former trustee Harry J. Moore suggested the district make do with portable classrooms on the Indian Valley campus; Dr. John A. Grasham, district president-superintendent, said no thought had been given to the idea, but it would be studied for future discussion.

Another former trustee, Elizabeth M. Deedy, proposed scattering classes into available space throughout the county. She reported many citizens were opposed to tax increases for any purposes.

Dale A. Fleming, district planning director, presented a series of four alternatives for financing construction by stretching the Indian Valley campus timetable to as much as seven years, or as little as four years if bond issue approval could be gained in 1972.

Bill Prohibits Charter Service

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A bill prohibiting the Golden Gate Bridge District from operating any charter or sightseeing service was signed Monday by Gov. Ronald Reagan.

But the measure by Assemblyman John Knox, D-Richmond, allows the district to lease its boats and equipment to private interests which provide boat charter or sightseeing services on San Francisco Bay.

Henderson Due To Take Stand

FT. MEADE, Md. (UPI)— Col. Oran K. Henderson will take the stand in his own behalf next Monday in his marathon court-martial on My Lai cover-up charges.

Defense attorneys revealed the plans Tuesday after presenting nine more witnesses for Henderson, the 51-year old former Army brigade commander accused of failing to investigate the massacre in the Vietnamese village on March 16, 1968.

At the same time the military judge, Col. Peter W. Wondolowski said he hoped the case could go to the jury of two generals and five colonels by the first week in December, or Dec. 10 at the latest. The trial started Aug. 23.

Services District Meet Set

A special meeting of the members of the newly combined Terra Linda community services district was set last night for next Tuesday.

Helen Lontz, secretary of the present community services board, said the meeting will be at 8 p.m. at the recreation center.

Terra Linda voters approved merger of the community services district and the recreation-park district at the Nov. 2 election.

The newly elected board members for the new district are Robert N. Bennett, Richard L. Less, Hubert F. Cooper, Vernon H. Nicholson and Harold J. Reese.

Less and Cooper are presently on the community services district board, Reese on the recreation-park district board and Bennett and Nicholson on both boards, which will become defunct when the new district is officially established Jan. 1.

Mrs. Lontz said the agenda for next Tuesday's meeting, scheduled at a community services district board meeting last night, will include discussion of ordinances, insurance and other matters which will face the new board in January.

The outgoing community services district board also changed its regular December meeting from Dec. 20 to Dec. 13 at 9 p.m. at the Terra Linda firehouse because of the Christmas holiday, Mrs. Lontz said.

Designs For Buildings Given Nod

Assistant Planner Richard D. A. Anderson said the board approved plans of John St. Martin to build a duplex at 320 and 322 Upham Street. He was also granted a variance to reduce usable open space from 2,400 square feet to 2,048.

Plans for an industrial building and equipment yard in the Petaluma Industrial Park on Scott Street were approved as presented by the William H. McDevitt Co.

Discussion of a request by Harold Granger to build a triplex behind an existing building at 22 Cherry Street was postponed for more study. Anderson said the board was concerned about possible parking problems and what effect future street widening might have on the plans.

Reagan Welfare Reform Landed

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— State Social Welfare Director Robert B. Carleson said Tuesday that the Reagan administration's welfare reform was "working."

Progress, Carleson told a Rotary Club luncheon, was taking place despite "criticism, abuse and intimidation."

He pointed out that between 200 and 300 lawsuits have been filed since the new Welfare Reform Act took effect Oct. 1.

Since April, the director said, welfare rolls have been declining and were continuing to go down. He added that in the six-month period ending in September the number of welfare recipients had been reduced by 113,000.

Dynamite Supply Explodes In Paris

PARIS (UPI)—A supply of dynamite stored for use in demolishing a World War II Nazi bunker near the Arch de Triomphe exploded Tuesday night. The fire which set off the explosives briefly threatened a block of buildings near the site of the Vietnam peace talks but no injuries were reported.

The concrete-walled bunker under demolition was once used as an underground billet for Nazi officers during the German occupation of Paris.

These GIs See No Reason For War

By STEWART KELLERMAN

BOI LOI WOODS, Vietnam (UPI)—It's the same story day after day. The boredom and the fear. The daydreams of home. The war you simply can't figure out.

You lose track of time. It's soon hard to tell the days and the weeks and the months apart. Mondays and Sundays, Junes and Decembers, just different names for the same thing.

Spec. 4 Kenneth Sabo, 19, of Arvada, Colo., the track commander, climbed onto the top of armored personnel carrier (APC) 21 and sat behind a grenade-firing "blooper gun."

Spec. 4 Peter Beisser, 21, of Philadelphia slid down the hatch up front and dropped onto the canvas driver's seat.

Sgt. Daniel McGehee, 20, of Lancaster, Calif., and Spec. 4 Derek Hughes, 19, of Newhall, Calif., huddled over the two M60 machine guns along the sides of the APC.

"I think the whole thing's useless," Hughes said, eating applesauce out of a brown C-ration can. "We're wasting our time here. That's for sure. It just wouldn't be too cool getting killed now."

There's more of a danger of dying from boredom than bullets these days, however. Hughes' platoon hasn't been in battle since last August. An APC hits a mine every few days, but most of the time no one is hurt or the injuries are minor.

Twelve APCs and three Sheridan tanks rolled out of the base camp into the Boi Loi woods, a maze of twisting trees, bamboo thickets, elephant grass and vines 40 miles northwest of Saigon.

"Back in the world, do the people know we're out here?" Said Beisser, who recently switched to a peace medallion after the St. Christopher he used to wear around his neck turned green and corroded. "I mean, do they really know?"

The lead Sheridan, tank 36, ran into trouble a few minutes after the armored patrol pulled out of camp. It fell into a crater left by a B52 bomb strike. The GIs sweated under the scorching sun, waiting for the tank to be pulled out. Most took off their heavy flak jackets and a few even removed their helmets.

"I don't dig the war too much," McGehee said, sitting on the hot steel edge of the APC with his dusty combat boots along the sides of his machine gun. "Not really. It's kind of a waste. I just don't see no reason for fighting a war over here."

An hour out of camp, Communists hidden in nearby undergrowth opened up with AK47 automatic rifle fire on a CH47 "Chinook" cargo helicopter flying over the armored column. The chopper was hit, but managed to fly back to safety. The armored patrol searched the brush for the Communists but came up empty handed.

"We're supposed to be sitting around guarding Saigon," Beisser said, sipping from a can of orange soda. "At least, that's what they say back in the world. But we're doing things we're not supposed to. I mean, like this. We're going out on patrol each day looking for dinks."

APC 21 soon had its first contact with reds. The vehicle hit a branch while moving through the bush and hundreds of red ants fell from the leaves onto the track. McGehee sprayed the APC with insect killer and said, "You've got to watch those red ones. They really eat you alive. You get these big welts. They're bad."

They moved on, winding through the jungle. The lead Sheridan would tear a hole through the wall of vegetation like a football lineman and the others would follow. The sun grew hotter and time seemed to stand still. Would something happen? Anything, just to break the tedium.

A couple of hours later, the lead tank No. 36, ran into more trouble. It became bogged down in swamp grass. The GIs waited, cursing, while it was pulled free again.

"I think we ought to go home," Sabo said, taking off his green tanker's helmet to wipe the sweat from his forehead. "The Vietnamese don't want us here and we don't want to be here."

An hour later, the men on 21 heard a crunching sound and the track came to a grinding halt. A couple of bolts and clamps were broken off the drive shaft. It took an hour to beg the spare parts.

The GIs bounced up and down over the rough terrain as though they were cowboys riding bucking broncos. A few minutes later, the battery went dead on APC 25. Another track drove up to jump start 25 and they were off once more.

The armored column speeded up as it headed for the base camp. The trees grew smaller and the undergrowth less dense. They were finally back. It had taken six hours to travel five miles.

"I don't think we've ever found any dinks when we've gone looking for them," Hughes said, a tattoo of a buzzard on his right shoulder and a silver Jesus medallion around his neck. "We only find them when they want us to. Then, they start the shooting first. But they haven't been doing much shooting lately."

Street Crossing Comes Close Second To Soccer

RIO DE JANEIRO (UPI) — Everybody knows soccer is the favorite sport of Brazil.

For the "cariocas" —(inhabitants of Rio de Janeiro)— crossing the street comes a very close second.

The game is played by two teams and a referee. One team —the "pedestrians" —is intent on getting safely to the other side of downtown Rio de Janeiro's avenues. The other — the "motorists" —is equally intent on preventing them from doing so. Or, at least, in making sure they reach their goal shaking and trembling.

The "referee" usually is a military policeman armed with a whistle. He tries to stop one of the teams from mauling the other too seriously. Just like in soccer.

The light turns red. In a tumult of screeching, the "motorist" will stop. But an advance guard of the "pedestrians" is trying to beat them and get "there" before the cars can slow down.

There are various and widely different styles, all appreciated by the true connoisseur: the bullfighter, the Jesse Owen, the crab, the Nureyev ... . They all have one aim: to force the opponent to stand on his brakes, sending his car skidding madly.

The "motorists" retaliate by inching along, lurching ahead in a cacophony of horns, just before the light turns green. This forces the slowest of the "pedestrians" to hop, skip and jump to safety.

Strangely enough, accidents are not frequent. There is an atmosphere of courtesy, even of complicity, with none of the name-calling and fist-waving that mark peak-hour traffic in other cities.

If street-crossing in this motor-oriented age ever should become an Olympic sport one thing is certain: The Cariocas would reap in the gold, silver, and bronze medals.

MRS. PHIL McSpadden (left) drops in cubes of Jack cheese while Mrs. August Strotz tosses romaine and butter lettuce, making green salad with dilled shrimp from St. Hilary School Parent-Teacher Guild's new salad and casserole cookbook which will be on sale Saturday and Sunday at the bazaar at the school in Tiburon.

TWO RECIPES FOR READERS

Tiburon Holiday Bazaar To Feature Salads, Casseroles

Shrimp marinade doubles as salad dressing in green salad with dill shrimp. Made ahead, marinade is poured over a half-pound of tiny cooked shrimp and they are refrigerated for an hour before dinner guests arrive, then tossed with lettuce, cucumber and cheese.

This crisp salad is one of 60 salad and casserole recipes that are favorites of St. Hilary School Parent-Teacher Guild members included in its new cookbook, available Saturday and Sunday at a holiday bazaar at the school in Tiburon.

These two salad recipes are contributed by Brigitte McSpadden, and Marianne Strotz shares her adapted, typical Swiss casserole with I-J readers.

GREEN SALAD WITH DILLED SHRIMP

¼ cup oil
1½ tablespoons wine vinegar
1 tablespoon lemon juice
½ teaspoon dill weed
¼ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon dry mustard
Dash of pepper
1 clove garlic, minced

Shake this marinade well to blend and pour over a half-pound of cooked, small shrimp. Cover and let stand about one hour in refrigerator.

To serve, mix shrimp mixture lightly with:

4 cups chilled, torn romaine lettuce
¾ cups Tilsit or Jack cheese
½ cucumber, thinly sliced

This salad serves six.

MYSTERY SALAD

3 packages raspberry gelatin
3 cups seasoned stewed tomatoes
6 drops of tabasco
1¼ cups boiling water

Dissolve gelatin in boiling water. Add tomatoes and tabasco sauce and put into ring mold.

Serve with dressing of sour cream mixed with four teaspoons horseradish.

GRUYERE CHEESE WITH WHITE WINE

6 slices stale bread, trimmed
1 clove garlic, parboiled and minced
3 eggs
1 cup dry white wine
½ cup rich chicken bouillion
1 teaspoon salt, scant
½ teaspoon paprika
Few grains of cayenne pepper
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
2 cups grated Gruyere cheese
½ teaspoon prepared mustard

Spread bread with minced garlic and butter. Line sides and bottom of earthenware casserole with strips of this bread.

In a bowl, beat together eggs, wine, bouillion, salt, mustard, paprika, cayenne and Worcestershire sauce. Gradually mix in cheese. Pour this mixture into bread lined casserole and bake at 325 degrees for about 30 minutes or until custard is firm.

The taste is very similar to Swiss fondue.

BOHEMIAN BEER CASSEROLE

(From Puerto Rico)

3 cups cooked pork, cubed
12 ounces flat beer
¼ cup chopped onion
¼ cup chopped celery
2 tablespoons butter
1½ cups pumpernickel bread crumbs
¼ teaspoon sugar
1 teaspoon salt
Freshly ground black pepper to taste

Saute onion in butter for five minutes. Add cubed pork, beer and remaining ingredients. Mix well and place in greased casserole. Cover and bake at 375 degrees for 40 minutes. Serves six.

For Early-America Meal, Try A Colonial Pot Roast

For a beef blade pot-roast patterned after early American cuisine, try Colonial Pot-Roast. The beef braises until tender with chunks of acorn squash and tart red apples, added near the end of the cooking period.

Colonial Pot-Roast

3 to 4 pound beef blade pot-roast
¼ cup flour
1½ teaspoons salt
½ teaspoon pepper
3 tablespoons lard or drippings
¼ cup water
2 medium-sized onions, cut in quarters
1 beef bouillon cube
⅓ cup hot water
1 acorn squash, cut in twelfths and pared
2 medium-sized tart apples, quartered and cored

Combine flour, salt and pepper. Dredge meat in seasoned flour. Reserve leftover flour. Brown meat in lard or drippings. Pour off drippings. Add ¼ cup water and onions. Cover tightly and cook slowly 2½ hours. Dissolve bouillon cube in ⅓ cup hot water. Add bouillon, squash and apples to meat. Cover tightly and cook 30 to 35 minutes or until meat and vegetables are tender. Remove meat and vegetables to heated platter. Thicken cooking liquid with reserved flour dissolved in water. 6 to 8 servings.

If You Cook For A Crowd, Give 'Easy Lasagne' A Try

EASY LASAGNE

8 pounds ground beef
½ cup lard
2 quarts onion, chopped
6 cloves garlic, chopped
4 cans (1 pound, 12 ounces each) tomatoes
3 cans (12 ounces each) tomato paste
3 tablespoons salt
1 teaspoon pepper
1 tablespoon basil (leaf)
2 tablespoons oregano (leaf)
4 bay leaves (optional)
2 pounds lasagne noodles
2 pounds Cheddar cheese, grated (2 quarts)

Cook ground meat, onion and garlic in lard slowly, stirring occasionally, until meat is browned, about 30 minutes. Pour off drippings. Add tomatoes, tomato paste, salt, pepper, basil, oregano and bay leaves. Mix well. Simmer mixtures 30 minutes, stirring occasionally. Cook lasagne noodles. Drain and divide noodles into 4 equal parts. In each of two 20¾"x12¾"x 4" pans, alternate layers of ingredients as follows: 1 quart meat mixture, ¼ of the lasagne noodles, 1 quart meat mixture, 2 cups grated cheese, ½ of the remaining meat mixture, ¼ lasagne noodles and 2 cups grated cheese. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) 30 minutes. Makes 48 servings.

Tips On Roasting The Holiday Bird

The holiday season begins next week with the gathering of family and friends around the table for turkey and all the trimmings.

One of the trimmings — the stuffing — can be made in a variety of ways. Two variations here are cornbread-cranberry stuffing and sausage stuffing. A cranberry fruit conserve is another refreshing trimming.

For the Thanksgiving roast turkey, try cooking it in foil to keep the flavorful juices in the bird itself.

Lay out wide heavy aluminum foil, and grease the top of the foil well. Wrap end of turkey's drumsticks and wing-tips with small pieces of foil. Place bird in center of foil, breast side up. The skin of the turkey should be generously greased. Brind together the sides of the foil, loosely over the top of the turkey, and fold together. Fold and seal the ends. Place the bird breast up in a shallow pan. Bake at 325 degrees, according to the chart below.

Weight	Time*
Under 8 lbs.	3-4 hours
8-12 lbs.	4-5 hours
12-16 lbs.	5-6 hours
Over 16 lbs.	Up to 7 hours

When turkey has cooked to within 20 minutes of the total cooking time, open foil and leave foil open for the remainder of cooking time, so the bird will brown. It can be basted with juices from bottom of the pan.

In testing to make sure bird is done, the temperature on a meat thermometer should read 180 degrees. If you do not have a meat thermometer, test the bird by pressing the thick part of the drumstick. The meat should feel very soft. The drumstick joint should move easily or twist out of joint.

For one cup of gravy, mix ¼ cup drippings with 2 tbsp. of flour. Add 1 cup water, milk or cream gradually. Heat until desired thickness is reached, stirring.

Guide for purchasing turkey: buy ¾ to 1 pound of turkey for each person to be served. You will need about 8 cups of stuffing for a 10-lb. turkey.

Do not stuff turkey until you are ready to begin cooking it, as stuffing sours easily inside turkey cavity.

SAUSAGE STUFFING

1 pound pork sausage meat
½ pound ground veal
½ pound ground pork
¾ cup chopped onions (2)
1¼ cups chopped celery and leaves (6 stalks)
¼ cup chopped parsley
1 10-oz. package frozen chopped spinach (cooked to package directions)
4 eggs
1 cup grated Parmesan cheese
1 8-oz. package stuffing
½ teaspoon rubbed sage
1 clove garlic, chopped
1 cup turkey broth*
2 tablespoons olive oil
1 tablespoon butter

Cook sausage meat until cooked through; break apart and add ground veal and pork; cover and cook 15 minutes. Add chopped onions, celery and parsley; cook, covered, 20 minutes longer. Stir to mix thoroughly. Meanwhile, beat eggs lightly; add spinach and Parmesan cheese. Place stuffing mix in bowl; add meat mixture, egg mixture, sage, garlic and broth. Mix carefully with fork. Spinach may be omitted and additional celery added.

*Make broth by cooking neck and giblets.

CRANBERRY CORNBREAD STUFFING

(Enough stuffing for a 15-pound Turkey)

1 cup butter or margarine
2 cups chopped celery
1 cup chopped onion
8 cups cubed day-old white bread
6 cups crumbled state cornbread or muffins
2 cups fresh cranberries, halved, rinsed and drained
1 tablespoon salt
1 tablespoon crumbled poultry seasoning
½ pound smoked ham, finely chopped or coarsely ground
2 cups turkey giblet stock or chicken broth

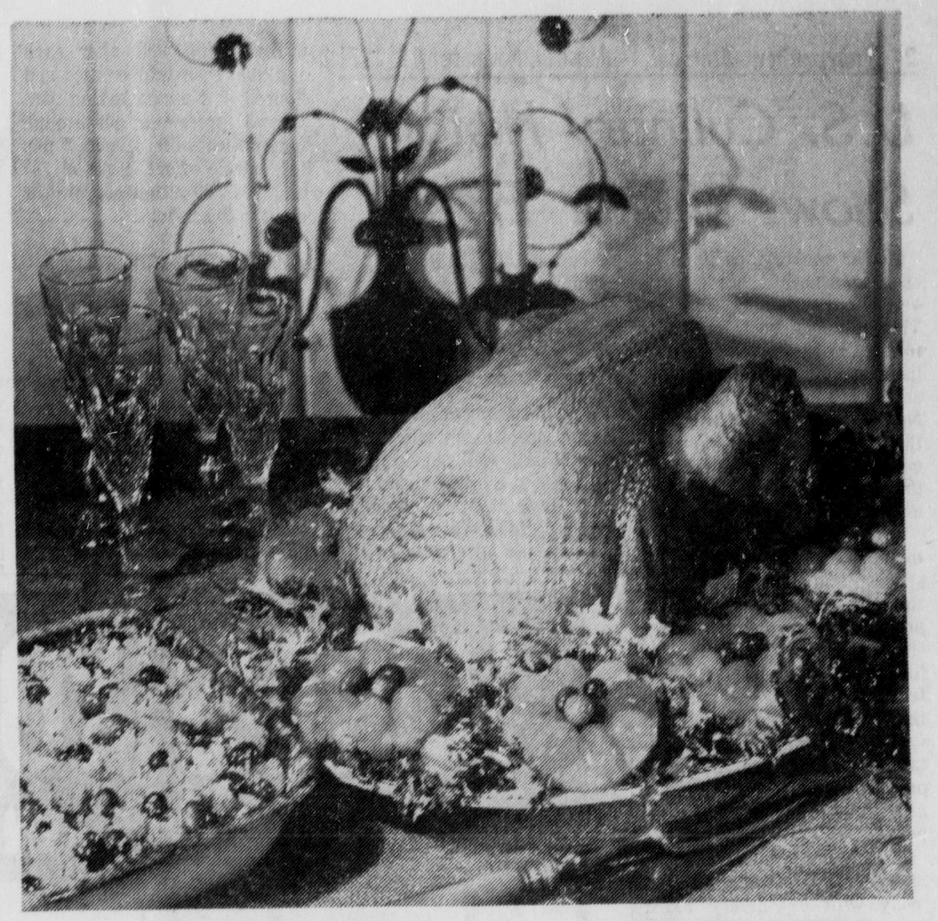
Heat butter; add celery and onion and saute until golden. Combine remaining ingredients in a large bowl. Add sauteed vegetables and pan drippings and toss lightly. Do not stuff turkey until just before it is ready to roast (if dressing stands inside turkey it will spoil). Pack stuffing lightly into turkey; sew or skewer opening and roast as usual.

CRANBERRY FRUIT CONSERVE

(Makes about 3 cups)

2 cups fresh cranberries, rinsed and drained
1 apple, peeled and chopped
1 orange, peeled and chopped
1 cup sugar
½ teaspoon ground giner
¼ cup water

Combine all ingredients; cover and simmer 5 minutes or until cranberries are tender. Cool and chill.



ADD A FESTIVE extra touch to the holiday bird this year. Here, pineapple slices are topped with halved kumquats and filled with the season's fresh cranberries for a sprightly turkey decoration. For extra color and flavor add cranberries to the stuffing for the bird.

The Season To Feast On Fowl

'Tis the season to feast on fowl, whether it's fresh from the fields, or the butcher's shelf.

Test your culinary creativity and impress your dinner guests with a unique new way to serve Rock Cornish hens, enhanced with a delicious stuffing.

Make a tantalizing dressing with wild rice, mushrooms and zesty American blue cheese. The subtly sharp flavor of the blue-marbled cheese blends beautifully with the wild rice and mushrooms.

A hint to remember when preparing a dressing of any kind is to add a pinch of sugar. The sugar will not add any sweetness of its own, but will help to blend all the delicious flavors.

ROAST CORNISH HENS

3 cups water
1 teaspoon salt
1 cup wild rice
½ cup butter
3 tablespoons minced onion
3 tablespoons minced celery
¼ cup sliced cooked mushrooms
¼ cup parsley
pinch of sugar
½ cup American blue cheese (about 3 ounces, crumbled)
6 rock Cornish game hens
3 teaspoons salt
⅓ cup butter melted

Bring salted water to a boil. Wash rice and add to boiling water. Cover and simmer for one hour without stirring until tender. Drain, if necessary. Melt ½ cup butter. Saute onion, celery and mushrooms in melted butter until lightly browned. Toss lightly with wild rice, sugar and American blue cheese.

Rinse hens with water and pat dry. Rub cavaties with salt and fill lightly with wild rice mixture. To close cavaties, sew or skewer and lace with cord. Tie legs together, brush with metled butter and roast uncovered, 350 degrees for one hour until done.

For a Hearty Pork Chop Meal Idea

As the coolness of the fall season sets in, the family is sure to welcome a hearty home-cooked meal featuring cheese puffed pork chops. A creamy Parmesan cheese sauce, seasoned with a touch of grated onion and parsley flakes, adds a new intriguing taste to the familiar flavor of tender, juicy pork chops.

With the change in the weather, too, comes increased concern for the family's health. Pork can play an important role in meeting nutritional needs. It is an especially good source of the B vitamins — thiamin, riboflavin and niacin. In addition, pork provides protein that includes all of the essential amino acids necessary to build, maintain and repair the body tissues and to increase resistance to infection and disease.

PUFFED PORK CHOPS

Brown 6 pork rib chops, cut ¾ to 1 inch thick in 2 tablespoons lard or drippings. Season meat with 1 teaspoon salt and ⅛ teaspoon pepper. Melt 2 tablespoons butter or margarine in saucepan. Stir in ⅓ cup flour. Gradually add ⅔ cup milk, stirring constantly, until thickened. Add 1 slightly beaten egg and beat until mixture is shiny. Stir in 2 tablespoons grated onion, ½ cup Parmesan cheese, 2 tablespoons dehydrated parsley flakes, ½ teaspoon salt and ⅛ teaspoon pepper. Place chops on rack in open roasting pan. Top each chop with approximately 3 tablespoons cheese mixture. Cook, covered tightly, in a slow oven (325 degrees) 30 minutes. Remove cover and continue cooking 20 to 30 minutes.

U.S. Culinary History Shows Shaker Effect

Shaker cookery, as it developed in America, has embroidered our culinary heritage. This religious sect, originally founded in New England, established communities in Massachsetts, Maine, Ohio, Indiana, New York and Kentucky during the Eighteenth and Nineteenth centuries and is credited with the introduction of a number of culinary innovations.

The Shakers embellished their foods with home-grown spices and herbs and are thought to be the first to produce them commercially for the American market. The foods for their tables came from the fields surrounding their villages and included a variety of fresh fruits and vegetables, nuts, grains and dairy products. Their food is simple, nutritious and artfully prepared.

A sampling of foods in the Shaker tradition can be enjoyed today with a culinary assist from convenience food products. The idea of traditional Shaker recipes prepared with modern shortcuts is not as unlikely as it seems — for the Shakers were quick to adopt labor-saving devices and new ideas from the "world people," the sect's term for non-Shakers.

BERRY PATCH COFFEE CAKE

1 cup sugar
1 8-oz. pkg. cream cheese
½ cup margarine
2 eggs
½ teaspoon vanilla
2 cups sifted cake flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
½ teaspoon soda
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ cup milk
½ cup raspberry preserves

Combine sugar, softened cream cheese and margarine, mixing until well blended. Add eggs, one at a time, mixing well after each addition. Blend in vanilla. Sift together dry ingredients; add alternately with milk, mixing well after each addition. Pour into greased and floured 13 x 9-inch baking pan. Dot with preserves; cut through batter with knife several times for marble effect. Bake at 350 degrees, 35 minutes. Makes eight to 10 servings.

APPLE ORCHARD CHEDDAR SPREAD

2 cups (8 ozs.) shredded sharp natural Cheddar cheese
¼ cup apple cider
2 tablespoons margarine
Dash of cayenne
1 tablespoon chopped chives
2 teaspoons chopped pimiento

Combine cheese, cider, margarine and cayenne; mix until well blended. Stir in chives and pimiento. Makes 1¾ cups.

BRETHREN'S CHEESE BREAD

4 cups flour
2 tablespoons sugar
1 tablespoon baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
½ cup margarine
4 cups (1-lb.) shredded sharp natural Cheddar cheese
1 teaspoon dill weed
2 cups milk
2 eggs, slightly beaten

Sift together dry ingredients. Cut in margarine until mixture resembles coarse crumbs; stir in cheese and dill. Add milk and eggs; mix just until moistened. Spoon into four well-greased 6 x 3½-inch loaf pans; bake at 400 degrees, 35 to 40 minutes. Makes four loaves.

This Dish A Change Of Pace

Mushrooms, egg noodles and lobster, crab or shrimp go into this Seafood Tetrazzini main dish to create a change of pace for the dinner menu.

SEAFOOD TETRAZZINI

¼ cup butter or margarine
¼ cup chopped onion
1 cup sliced fresh mushrooms
¼ cup flour
1 teaspoon salt
Few grains pepper
Few grains cayenne pepper
2½ cups milk
¼ cup dry sherry
1 8-ounce package fine egg noodles, cooked according to directions on package
1½ cups cooked lobster, shrimp, or crab meat (or use any desired combination)
2 tablespoons melted butter or margarine
⅓ cup fine dry bread crumbs
2 tablespoons grated Parmesan cheese

Heat oven to 375 degrees. Melt the ¼ cup butter in skillet over moderate heat (about 250 degrees). Add onion and mushrooms; cook until lightly browned. Blend in flour, salt, pepper, and cayenne. Gradually stir in milk; cook, stirring constantly, until thickened. Stir in sherry. Combine noodles, sauce, and fish. Pour into buttered deep 2½-quart casserole. Mix the two tablespoons melted butter, bread crumbs, and Parmesan cheese. Sprinkle over top. Bake, uncovered, 40 to 45 minutes, or until lightly browned. Serves four to five.

Vitamin D Source

It is important for a child to have Vitamin D daily because it helps the body use calcium and phosphorus to build strong teeth and bones. Important sources are foods fortified with Vitamin D, like milk.

The Right Snacks

Well-chosen snacks can add important nutrients to the diet. Some of the many nutritious snack foods on the market are ready-to-eat cereals, raisins, enriched breads and crackers, milk, fruit and fruit juices.

PROPERLY SUPPORTING Nicole Prager (right) by holding her underneath the arm, Gert Foley walks beside her at Marin Skateland in San Rafael. The huge space and the idea of "going skating" encourage the crippled children to try to walk in heavy skates, an exercise to strengthen their legs. Gert Foley also trains aides and teachers to help children "skate."

GERT AND 'MY CHILDREN'

Working To Help Those In Need

By PAT BALMES

Supported by her own crutches, Gert Foley works to strengthen limbs of sevérely retarded or crippled children at Marin Skateland in San Rafael. She supervises four one-hour therapy sessions on Wednesday and Thursday mornings for handicapped children on roller skates from eight Marin schools.

Mrs. Foley, 59, was bedridden in traction for 10 years and underwent 22 operations. She learned firsthand what exercise can do. Now a volunteer therapist, Gert says, "I believe I am the first to use skating as a therapy. I knew roller skates could be locked and used as weights. I used to skate when my boy was little, hopping along with my crutches and away I'd go. I did that to prove to my son that no one is ever so bad that he cannot get better."

At the rink Gert works with a class of small children who hobble on heavy skates, stimulated to try by the vast space and the idea of going skating.

GERT SINGLES out a feeble youngster on supports. She slowly steps backward, urging him to lift one foot after another and come to her outstretched arms. When he reaches Gert, she hugs him, knowing how hard that walk was for him.

Insisting a crippled child build his legs by exercise in order to walk, Gert resists helping him. If he falls, she offers her own crutch with which he can pull himself up.

"You do it," she challenges. If he refuses, Gert will stay urging him "if it is a half-hour" until he tries to get up by himself.

"We can help them," Gert says. "These little youngsters have so many years ahead. Institutions should be for mental cases no one can reach. I feel defeated when they take one I know I can help away from me to put in an institution where he will become nothing but a vegetable."

Patience brings some out of a daze. When one boy looks up at a large sign above the roller rink, Gert knows he wants to sound out words.

BEGUN THREE AND one-half years ago, skating therapy no longer is experimental; results are proven, according to Mrs. Foley. She needs the gift of a movie camera or a volunteer cameraman who would film the children from time to time to document their progress for doctors.

"Oh, I wish I'd had a camera last week," says Gert, speaking about a little curly-haired girl who sat on the floor, banged her head and screamed when she was carried to her first skating session three and one-half years ago. Last week that child made her first march across the rink clutching only a shoestring Gert held out before her.

Working closely with the children's teachers, Gert says she may not know all the children's names but she knows their ailments.

"I teach aides to support properly and not drag the children. If it is not done right, it could be injurious."

Teachers and volunteer aides support the more unsteady children.

Gert says that volunteering is the only way she can repay her own doctors and nurses for their time, love and patience. By helping others recover, she is helping their doctors.

GERT WAS born and reared in San Rafael. As a young woman she planned to become an orthopedic nurse, but she injured her knee in 1927. Her doctor told her she would never be able to go into nurse's training.

"My life was dead," she says. Complications from her injury required 22 operations. Gert was bedridden and then on crutches ever since her teen years. Her mother, constantly with her during her bedridden years, gave her therapy and encouragement.

"After my recovery I went for my first outing in a car and was injured in a five-car crash." She was bedridden intermittently for the next five years.

"I always prayed to God to open the door to how I was supposed to work," says Gert. "While you are in the hospital you have visitors, other patients, doctors and nurses. It is when you go home that people forget you."

SHE DECIDED to devote her life to shut-ins and founded the Marin County Shut-in Society in 1938. Gert held meetings in her home while bedridden for groups interested in helping shut-ins. She organized raffles of shut-ins' handicraft, raised money for supplies, paper and stamps, and planned card parties and barn dances.

"I could not have done this work without the help of the wonderful people in all the organizations of Marin County," says Gert.

She also organized high school and adult "walk-abouts" (well people) to work for shut-ins. Some of those boys and girls went into the medical world later. Gert asks parents to teach children to help shut-ins. There is a great need for volunteers.

When Gert was well enough, she did shut-ins' shopping with their pink slips from the welfare department. She found shut-ins that welfare didn't know about, hidden away.

"When the shut-ins would see me on crutches, they'd think, 'Hell, if she can do it, I can too.'

"My crutches have never been a handicap to me. I still have had my mind, heart and hands," says Mrs. Foley, who has also volunteered to nurse cancer cases.

"THIS SKATING therapy is good for me too," says Gert. "I am keeping busy and keeping my mind off my own problems."

For 25 years Gert worked as radio-telephone operator at Yellow Cab Company in San Rafael. She was often at the old skating rink in San Rafael with her son, Mike, "whose life was skating." He competed in national meets and became a figure-skating champion. He now owns a skating rink in Greensboro, N.C., where he, too, works with crippled children.

Roller rinks in San Leandro and San Mateo also have started skating therapy, according to Gert.

Gert comes to the rink every day. Even after long hours of working with crippled children in the morning, she stays for

Marin Women

A Lively Debate On Age-Old Question Of Women In Arts

By BARBARA HOSMER

The age-old question of why women have not produced the works of genius in the arts that men have kept the panel and audience arguing and counter-arguing last night at the College of Marin program on women and the arts.

Distinguished concert pianist Sari Biro termed woman in music as a "re-creator" rather than a powerful creator.

"There's something about a man-sized composition that cannot be done by a woman," Mme. Biro said. But, she said, talent will come out, whether in man, woman or child.

HER OWN concert career she said had been "decided by Providence."

Anitra Earle, film and drama critic for the San Francisco Chronicle, had previously been an orchestra conductor and a composer.

"But," she said, "it takes an extremely forceful personality to conduct an orchestra of 160 pieces. I was not that personality." She said that often especially the older musicians in the all-male orchestra had trouble "taking orders from a young girl standing at the podium." She said that the only female conductor of note had been Nadia Boulanger and that few women composers had ever reached the public eye.

As a critic in the journalism world, Miss Earle said that she has had a much easier time as a woman, and that women are not nearly so rare in criticism of the arts as they are in composing music or conducting.

ADRIENNE MARCUS, poet and creative writing instructor at the College of Marin, said that being published in a field dominated by male editors had been a frustrating experience. She stated that being a woman has contributed to her poetry, and read two of her works to show how she combines womanhood with other themes.

She added that writing perhaps has been more successful for women with talent than the other arts because "you can find the 15 or 20 minutes a day to write if you really are a writer," despite family obligations.

Mrs. Marcus said that a woman writer with a family has to make choices and sometimes the family does not win out.

"Time itself is different in writing than in the field of music," she said.

A MEMBER of the audience remarked that women don't get the opportunity to express themselves creatively other than in domestic tasks — a woman who wishes to paint may have to express herself by compensating in passionate redecorating of her house.

When asked if she would ever return to conducting or composing for an orchestra, Miss Earle replied, "I would have to closet myself and do two years of daily ear-training to get my ear back again because I was composing for a huge orchestra. I'm not sure that I ever will again."

But all three panelists agreed that "talent will win out."

The panel on the arts was one in the weekly College of Marin series "Women: Past, Present and Future."

Best Ways To Treat Dry Skin

If your skin is so dry that it needs special attention during the day make-up authorities say you can supply such care and yet not look unattractive while doing so.

Upon arising, clean your skin with moisturizing cleansing cream and gently tissue it off. Then, with tender upward strokes, apply a rich, nourishing cream to your face and neck. Let this moisturizer remain on your skin through the morning shower or bath, so the ensuing warmth will help absorb the cream's oils and moisturizers.

Next, remove any excess cream from your eyebrow area and lips for the application of a few simple, but strategic make-up accents. With a sharp eyebrow pencil slightly intensify the brown color. Apply eye shadow liner and mascara in your normal fashion.

Discussion To Center On Equal Mass Media Status

Geraldine Lange and Joyce Overhoff will discuss problems women are experiencing in gaining equal status to men in the media professions Tuesday at 8 p.m. in Olney Hall at the College of Marin.

Their program, "Women and Media," is this week's offering in the lecture series, "Women: Past-Present-Future," sponsored by the college.

Miss Lange is the public affairs director for television station KBHK and produces and hosts a daily show, "San Francisco Today." She is a former editorial assistant for Newsweek magazine and the San Francisco Chronicle and prior to a media career was secretary to former San Francisco mayor John Shelley and to San Francisco Supervisor Terry Francois.

A photographer and film maker, Miss Overhoff is a former associate producer for ABC television. Her film, "Early Exhibitionists," will be shown.

The women will discuss training and techniques helpful and required if women are to land jobs in the media as producers, editors, reporters, film makers and other key creative and executive positions.

College of Marin anthropology professor Diane Wickstrom will moderate the lecture film program.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Inventor Might Try Less Noisy Way Getting Up In Morning

DEAR HELEN:

My husband has trouble getting up mornings, and I'm no help as I sleep through alarms too.

To solve the problem, he invented some kind of weird apparatus made with a truck horn, a timer, and I couldn't begin to explain the other things.

That squatting monster at the foot of our bed (too big to go under it), stirs itself, buzzes, burps and every morning at 6:30 sharp, sounds off like a lonely foghorn in heat. I jump at least five feet! The only good thing about it is that it really DOES blast my husband to his feet in the mornings. (Somebody's got to turn it off before the neighbors call the cops.

He's so-o-o proud of his brainchild. I'd like to murder it with an axe. Isn't there a better way? — MARRIED TO A MONSTER-MAKER

DEAR MTMM:

A man so ingenious can surely invent a quieter way to get the job done. Why doesn't he whomp up an "ejecto-bed" that will flip him out at 6:30 a.m. like a piece of toast? Or a "monster" who nudges him awake, or pulls his big toe, or . . . look, friend, have you ever tried those alarm clocks that flash on lights and shake the bed? — H.

DEAR HELEN:

I almost cried when I read about the grandparents who are accused of "ruining" their grandchildren simply because they show normal affection. Thank you for your understanding answer. Every child needs a grandparent who takes time to listen, can even spoil a bit when necessary, and makes things right just by being there sometimes.

I had wonderful grandparents, now gone. My children have none as my husband is an orphan, and my parents were killed in a wreck three years ago.

We'd love to adopt a set of grandparents for our children like the ones who wrote to you, Helen. We wouldn't impose, or expect a lot: we just want two older people to love and be loved by all of us.

How do we go about it? — LOOKING

P.S. Is this a crazy request?

DEAR LOOKING:

Crazy? Definitely not! And your request isn't unusual either. Several times a year I receive letters from families wanting to adopt grandparents.

Why not visit a senior citizens' club or hobby workshop? The most active older people attend these meetings. Surely you can find one couple here who would enjoy being part-time grandparents to your children. Good luck! — H.

DEAR HELEN:

There are groups composed of alcoholics, the elderly, divorcees, singles, dieters, "little people," tall people, businesswomen —why not a club for leftover mothers?

My children are either married or in college. They have no time for me. A phone call once a week, two minutes describing how busy they are —that's the extent of it. We were once very close, but their lives are their own these days. My husband is busy with his work. Tell me where I can find people I can relate to and who really care, having shared the same problems? — LONELY MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER:

So long as you think of yourself as a "leftover mother," you'll never find a club or group that "cures" you. Life is a series of graduations: Stop wearing your "motherhood" gown when you've outgrown it and get busy — on the next plateau — where your husband, a job perhaps, or civic interests — are waiting. — H.

This column is dedicated to family living so if you're having kid trouble or just plain trouble, let Helen help you. She will also welcome your own amusing experiences. Write to Helen Bottel in care of the Independent-Journal.

Home On Wheels

College students, retired couples and many families in between are discovering one of the easiest ways to own a home is to purchase one with wheels. One of the major advantages is price, says Mary Dale McGregor, extension housing specialist, University of Nebraska-Lincoln. The home on wheels costs around $8.85 per square foot. The site-built home costs around $16 per square foot.

The Real Purpose Behind Adoptions

I-J Special Report

NEW YORK — Too long we have thought that the purpose of adoption was to provide children for the childless. It isn't. The purpose of adoption is to provide homes for the homeless, according to Kenneth Watson, an official of the Chicago Child Care Society, an adoption agency.

Mr. Watson's attitude and those of other agency officials has been brought about mainly through the efforts of the Council on Adoptable Children and the Adoption Resource Exchange of North America, according to a report in the December issue of Redbook magazine.

Until recently many adoption agencies were reluctant to offer handicapped children and children of mixed ancestry for adoption because they couldn't believe that anyone would want them. But COAC and ARENA have succeeded in finding homes for many children who were once thought unadoptable.

A request to adopt an older child or a black child was denied Peter W. Forsythe, of Ann Arbor, Mich., co-founder of COAC, by a Michigan agency.

He says, "A lot of well-meaning agency workers would look at those children and think: 'I couldn't raise a child like that.'

"When a husband and wife came to the agency and said they were willing to adopt the child, the agency worker assumed there was something wrong with the couple and rejected them. The agency worker thought, 'Well, if I couldn't raise that child, certainly they can't.' "

But Mr. Forsythe and his wife, Joyce, knew that people did want these children so they formed their organization to bring children and prospective parents together.

The aim of ARENA, a program of the Child Welfare League of America, is to move hard-to-adopt children from parts of the country where they are not wanted to places where they are. For example, Indian children, not wanted in the Southwest, may find homes in the East, or there may be a couple in Oklahoma who wish to adopt a blind child, and a blind child in Vermont may need a home.

Mrs. Ferrari Returns From Germany Visit

By MOLLY MARIN

Mrs. Florence F. Ferrari returned to her home in San Rafael Wednesday evening after spending two months in Germany with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Gerhardt Scholten (Jolene Ferrari), and her grandchildren, Gerhardt Jr., Florence, Bettina and Lalo.

Mrs. Ferrari has spent two months in Germany every other year since 1957 when her daughter was attending the University of Munich there.

The Scholtens' home is in Holzkirchen, near Munich, and Mrs. Ferrari says she saw many changes in Munich, particularly in the easing of the flow of traffic in downtown areas, and much has already been done to prepare for the Olympics to be held there next year.

Staying mostly in Bavaria she took trips with her family and says she especially enjoyed visiting the monastery in Salzburg, Austria, where the movie "Sound of Music" was filmed.

She also attended the first performance of the Chicago Symphony ever to be held in Munich.

The warm weather, beautiful countryside and colorful trees helped to make it a memorable trip, and she is looking forward to returning in 1973, she says.

MR. AND Mrs. Harry F. Flachs and Mrs. Frederick Goette have returned home to the Marin Country Club Estates following a month tour of Southern Europe and North Africa.

Mrs. Flachs said two of the most interesting parts of the tour were staying in a palace within the walls of the Casbah in Fez, Morocco, and finding fossils in a part of the city buried by an earthquake in 200 B.C. in Rabat.

ATTENDING THE preview reception Monday for the opening of the Chinese "Gold, Silver and Porcelain: The Kempe Collection" from Marin will be the George F. Jewetts of Ross and the Albert Gatovs of Kent Woodlands. The preview will be held at the Center of Asian Art and Culture at the M. H. DeYoung Museum in San Francisco, where the exhibition will be held from Nov. 23 to Dec. 26. The exhibit of 150 pieces of rare works of art is from the collection of the late Swedish industrialist Carl Kempe.

Home Economist Role Is Topic

The role of home economists in family planning is the subject for an International Family Planning Conference being held this week in Chapel Hill, N.C.

The sponsor is the American Home Economics Association. The overall project, which the conference initiates, is to identify existing programs and recommend action with methods and materials so that the home economics profession is a contributing member of family planning around the world, according to the AHEA.

Delegates are attending the conference from Colombia, Egypt, Ghana, India, Jamaica, Korea, Laos, Malaysia, Nigeria, Pakistan, Panama, Switzerland, Swaziland, Thailand, Turkey and the U.S.

Restless Nation As Phase II Launched

By ARTHUR E. ROWSE

WASHINGTON — As Phase II of the wage-price freeze begins, consumer leaders are skeptical of its probable effectiveness even though the administration has adopted their main demand.

The demand was for posting of pre-freeze prices. This was one of the original requirements when the freeze began in August. But it was not widely observed and was eventually discarded after consumer groups started to call attention to it.

When it was dropped, there was much gnashing of teeth. The Consumer Federation of America fired off a letter to Dean C. Jackson Grayson Jr., chairman of the Price Commission. The CFA said the move "effectively sabotaged the efforts of organized consumers to monitor" prices.

HEEDING THESE and other complaints, the Price Commission decided to switch positions again and require prices to be posted.

For Phase II, it said, "Retailers are to post prominently their freeze period prices for all covered food items and for many other selected items other than food as will be specified in the regulations.

"Until all such selected prices are posted, retailers are not permitted to increase any prices. In any event, such freeze prices must be posted no later than Jan. 1, 1972."

If this requirement is enforced, private individuals will be able to check for themselves to see if the price freeze is taking effect.

BUT ENFORCEMENT is almost entirely voluntary. It is left up to the businessman to operate strictly by the guidelines. The government simply does not have the manpower or facilities to police the 10 million business firms and the countless prices they have.

There are almost as many ways to subvert the freeze as there are items to freeze. Reports to CFA, the largest consumer organization in the country, indicated that many price increases during Phase I were not proper. The organization concluded that the freeze was only a "mirage."

Visible price increases are not the only problem. Less visible ones may occur when product quality is subtly reduced or package content is decreased without any noticeable changes in the product's outward appearance or any change in the price.

LARGE FIRMS making well known products have a public visibility that makes voluntary enforcement relatively easy. Smaller firms with less known products have more opportunity to cheat, and they do not need to get official permission for price increases as large firms do.

Another major worry of consumer leaders is the growing number of exemptions and exceptions to the general rules. In addition to the items exempted from controls for both Phase I and II are the following new exemptions: used products, dispostal sale items, real estate, custom-made goods and services, royalties, dues and miscellaneous objects such as antiques and art. Rents on commercial, industrial and farm property are also exempted, but other rents will remain frozen except in "hardship" cases.

Consumer groups have been particularly concerned about the lack of any known consumer spokesmen on the Price Commission. They do not consider Virginia Knauer, President Nixon's consumer adviser and member of the Cost of Living Council, as a bonafide consumer representative.

Consumers who wish to report apparent violations should send them to the Price Commission, 2000 M Street, nw., Washington, D.C. and send a copy to the Consumer Federation, 1012 14th Street nw., Washington, D.C.

Knit Protection

Pills on the surface of a knit garment may be removed by brushing small sections of the knit with a semistiff brush or by using a fine grade of sandpaper or a safety razor while holding the garment flat. You also can get results with scissors or with one of the "pill removing cutters" now on the market.

Books Are Donated In Memory Of Mrs. Koenig

Sausalito Friends of the Library has donated three books to the Sausalito Library in memory of the late Mrs. John E. Koenig, known to many for her involvement in Sausalito's cultural, economic and social life.

The books are "Living Trees" by Thomas H. Everett of the New York Horticultural Society, "Color Dictionary," a book of flowers and plants by Ray Hay and Patrick Synge, which includes 2,048 pictures in color; and the "Compleat Naturalist" by Wilford Blunt, the story of Carl Linnaeus, famed Swedish botanist and founder of modern systemization of botany.

Selection of the books centered in Mrs. Koenig's great love of trees and plants and her care and promotion of plant life in and around Sausalito. For 20 years she was a member of the dedicated tree committee of the Sausalito Woman's Club.

She was a member of the city's tree committee, a charter member of the Sausalito Friends of the Library and a member of the library board from 1966 to 1969.

The books are now on display at the library.

Reaffirms Support Of VD Measure

(I-J Special Report)

LOS ANGELES — The California Parent-Teacher Association board of managers at its meeting last Thursday reaffirmed support of the venereal disease instruction bill (AB 950, Fong). That action means the P-TA members are encouraged to work to override the governor's veto of the measure, the P-TA announced.

"As things now stand, even if parents do call in that they wish their children to have VD instruction, they must see the materials to be presented, and if a teacher happens to slip up, he can lose his credentials. Thus very little instruction is now going on at a time when our children can't wait," said Mrs. Robert T. Adams, Lafayette, legislative advocate for public welfare and health.

The group heard a report by Mrs. Everett Barr, Yreka, state Board of Education observer, on information presented to that board regarding the venereal disease epidemic in California.

Said Mrs. Barr, "In 10 years, if current rates continue, one out of two students will contract VD before completing high school. These statistics do not tell the full human toll. The state spends 14 million dollars a year on VD patients, including two million in care for the syphilitic insane and half a million in care for the syphilitic blind. The counties spent 23 million last year to treat gonorrhea alone."

Women And Alcoholism

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— Actress Mercedes McCambridge said Tuesday that "boredom, boredom, insidious boredom" contributes to the rising alcoholism rate among women.

Miss McCambridge, a recovered alcoholic, said that the woman seized with the disease "must forgive herself. She has not been bad; she had been ill.

"She must realize that she cannot ingest a drug that the rest of you do every day."

She made the comments at the annual awards luncheon of Stepping Stone, the city's alcoholism rehabilitation home for women.

SAUSALITO EXHIBIT — Sausalito artists are featured in a show this month at the Sausalito Art Center, among them Houlgate Davenport, whose paintings such as this, create a mood of nostalgia.

ART REVIEW

Houlgate Davenport Is Worth Visit To Exhibit In Sausalito

By LAURA DEVENDORF

It's worth a pilgrimage to the Sausalito Art Center, 630 Nevada Street, just to see Houlgate Davenport's work which is part of a Sausalito artists' show there through the 26th of this month.

If anyone can sum up the return to nostalgia and the seeking of a lovelier, more innocent time, Miss Davenport does with wash drawings and pastels which cover ground from farmland to the opera house.

All look a little like something discovered in a relative's attic. All have that darkened look of age about them and that sense of lost, yet desired time. Their colors are suppressed. The rolling spring hills are not acid with green nor is a white cottage really white. And Miss Davenport's swirling, dreamlike strokes represent after images of time, person or place rather than those things in their present clear detail.

Subject matter — a formal room or an organdy crisp lady in the afternoon —also recall an earlier time. And while none of the places or participants seem happy, they are soft and dim like daydreams or remembering and they hold you in them the same way.

Not all the other artists shown with Miss Davenport treat you as gently. Some, literally assault you, such as Richard Allen with his wall-sized, "In Search of America," its garish stars, dots, curlicues, and its Indians, wolves, trees and mountains all painted in hard, coarse colors.

Sculptor Mike de Leon can be gentle or not depending upon whether he uses wood or plastic. In wood, he develops its warmth by staining, painting, encrusting it with grainy cement or by carving it to reveal its flowing grain. In plastic, he is as cold as his medium, as he develops two lighted pieces with inner planes, tubes, hoses, knobs and balls growing through or from clear cast columns.

Rex Gross also works pleasantly in wood, carving a modern totem with sections of it laminated, collaged and painted.

And there are several craftsmen in the exhibit, among them glass blowers John Baldwin, Larry Sark and Richard Slater. Baldwin's twisted tubes with sections felted in red, and Sark's giant hand bell form in oil slick colors are more sculptural than utilitarian. And while Slater is more conservative, his scallops of color and the textured reds combined with navy give his work richness.

Interspersed among the remaining paintings, drawing and sculpture are some delightful children's paintings. Maybe it's the unguarded mood enjoyed in Miss Davenport's things which makes one so receptive. Whatever — the children's work often scores more points than the adult's more self-conscious efforts.

Priorities Sought On Proposed Trails

The Novato Parks and Recreation Commission has requested the Novato Committee of the Marin Trails Council to set priorities and cost estimates on proposed hiking, equestrian and bicycle trails.

The action was taken Monday night as the commission reviewed staff recommendations on the committee's immediate and long range goals.

Commissioners suggested the committee set its priorities and submit any request for city funds to the commission by February, reported Edward W. Adams, parks and recreation director.

The committee's immediate goals, taking into consideration the interest in horseback riding in Novato, include creation of a cross-town equestrian trail, development of an equestrian trail system in Indian Valley, and extension and improvement of existing bicycle trails.

Commissioners also received a written request from M. Elizabeth Smith of 6 June Lane for a public hearing on its decision last month against letting girls play in the Pee Wee and Farm League baseball games.

"Half the population" is female and if girls want to play, they should be encouraged, Mrs. Smith said. "Arbitrary exclusion of girls is crippling to their self esteem," she said.

Adams said two girls, 9 and 12 years old, played in the Farm League last summer as an experiment.

Commissioners last month set a policy against having girls in the boys leagues after deciding the "disadvantages outweighed the advantages," Adams said.

Staff members previously had listed as disadvantages accidents, language sometimes used by boys and the fact that some coaches might not know how to handle girls.

If enough girls are interested in playing baseball, a separate league for girls will be formed, Adams said. There is an existing softball league for girls.

Commissioners decided that since Mrs. Smith was the lone protester rather than set a public hearing, they would hear her comments at their next meeting, Dec. 6 at 8 p.m. at the Novato Community House.

Environmental Design Plan Report Tuesday

The Petaluma Planning Commission last night heard that study committee should have recommendations ready next week on an environmental design plan.

Chairmen of the six study committees said the plan will be ready for presentation at a joint city council-planning commission meeting next Tuesday at 7:30 p.m.

The environmental design plan being prepared is designed to prepare new policies on development in residential commercial, industrial, recreational areas and along the Petaluma River.

The city council declared a moratorium on rezonings and annexations pending completion of the study. Public hearings on the environmental design plan are expected to begin Dec. 7.

Coal Miners Return; Strike Nearly At End

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—The 48-day coal mine strike was practically over today in western Pennsylvania, northern West Virginia and parts of eastern Ohio.

A back to work movement begun Monday, two days after the signing of the national contract, picked up Tuesday and accelerated further today. United Mine Worker leaders in the nation's soft coal fields held a series of briefing sessions to dispel the rank-and-file members' suspicions of President Nixon's pay board and their own union.

In West Virginia, at least three quarters of the estimated 40,000 soft coal miners had returned to work. In Kentucky, Indiana, Illinois, Virginia and all coal states west of the Mississippi UMW leaders Tuesday reported all of their men would return on regular shifts, starting at midnight.

In Ohio, where 9,000 miners remained off the job Tuesday, miners began trickling back on the midnight "hoot-owl" shift, though five mines employing 1,000 men remained shut along the Ohio river.

Oil Search, Environment Are Linked

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The American Petroleum Institute ended its annual meeting Tuesday with Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., saying the search for new oil and gas reserves must be made with a concern for the environment.

Jackson, an unannounced Democratic presidential aspirant and chairman of the Senate Interior Committee, told 2,000 oil executives that the days have passed when energy policy issues could be privately resolved by industry and government leaders.

"Many in industry continue to restrict their positions to the traditional issues associated with debate or energy policy," Jackson said. "Today's policy decisions, whether of major or minor importance, must turn on issues that were not even considered a few years ago."

He said the new factors included quality of the environment, "a wide range of related national policies," and our role in the world community.

Pianist Pennario Symphony Guest

LEONARD PENNARIO
Marin Symphony soloist

Pianist Leonard Pennario will be guest artist at the Marin Symphony Orchestra's first regular concert of the 1971-72 season at 8:30 p.m. Nov. 23 at the Veterans Memorial Building.

Pennario's last Bay Area appearance was in 1970, in a Marin Music Chest concert.

He will play Rachmaninoff Concerto No. 2 in C Minor for Piano and Orchestra under the direction of Marin Symphony conductor Sandor Salgo. Other works on the program will be the overture to "Prince Igor" by Borodin and Mahler's Symphony No. 1.

A dress rehearsal for the concert will be open to Marin Symphony Association members and their families at 7:30 p.m. Sunday as a privilege offered with membership.

Season tickets for the three major Marin Symphony concerts are still available, as well as single concert tickets.

Ticket information is available from the Marin Symphony Association, Box 32, Ross, or through the Veterans Memorial Box Office, Marin Civic Center.

The U.S. Naval Academy at Annapolis opened Oct. 10, 1845.

Two Events Scheduled For Boys Club Building

Two special events have been scheduled to help the Novato Boys Club reach its $100,000 building fund goal, according to club president David A. Milano.

The Novato Trap Club will conduct a benefit shoot from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Sunday at the club range, three miles north of Novato, east of Highway 101.

Trophies will be awarded to high scorers in novice and experienced categories and there will be prizes for "best out of five" shooters, according to Paul A. Albino of Petaluma, trap club president.

Participants should bring their own shotguns and ammunition, Albino said. The Beta Sigma Phi sorority will serve lunch and refreshments.

On Nov. 27 McDonald's restaurant, 7430 Redwood Highway, Novato, will donate one third of its receipts to the building fund, Milano reported.

Gary Flynn and James Brady, restaurant operators, estimated the "Boys Club-Hamburger Day" could net up to $1,500 for the club.

Benefit Concert Will Be Sunday

A benefit concert will be presented by the San Rafael High School Music Department at 4 p.m. Sunday at St. Sebastians' Catholic Church in Greenbrae.

Proceeds will be used for a spring tour by the music students.

A string ensemble from the high school's orchestra will be directed by Hugo Rinaldi. The chamber choir singers from the school's A Capella choir — also will perform, directed by Byron Jones.

Try To Aid Dog Proves Fatal

CHESTER, Pa. (UPI)—Two persons were killed when they attempted to rescue an injured dog on a highway near here.

James J. Henry, 29, and Dawn Granger, 21, were struck by a car on state route 332 as they ran after Henry's dog late Monday.

Police said Henry was taking his pet into a veterinary hospital where Miss Henry, a student at the University of Pennsylvania, worked as an assistant, when the dog escaped. The animal ran into the highway and was struck by a car.

Thomas Robinson, 27, was charged with involuntary manslaughter in the two deaths.

Blue Named A.L.'s Most Valuable Player

NEW YORK (UPI) — Vida Blue today became the youngest player and only the fifth pitcher ever to win the American League's Most Valuable Player Award when he was accorded that honor in balloting by the Baseball Writers Association of America.

Blue, who earlier this year became the youngest player ever to win the Cy Young Award as the league's outstanding pitcher, received 14 out of 24 possible first place votes and finished with 268 points to easily outdistance teammate Sal Bando (182). Baltimore's Frank Robinson was third with 170 points and teammate Brooks Robinson took fourth with 163.

Blue, 22, was the only player named on every ballot and deposes Cincinnati's Johnny Bench, last year's MVP in the national league, as the youngest player to win the honor. Blue, who helped Oakland to the American league western division title, is the first athletics' player to win the MVP since Bobby Shantz won with the then Philadelphia A;s in 1952. He is alos only the fifth pitcher ever to win both the MVP and Cy Young Award in the same season, the others being Don Newcombe (Brooklyn), Sandy Koufax (Los Angeles), Bob Gibson (St. Louis) and Dennis McLain (Detroit).

The only other pitchers who took MVP honors in the American league were Hal Newhouser, Spud Chandler, McLain and Shantz.

Blue had a sensational first half of the season before tapering off after the All-Star break. He finished with a 24-8 record and a league-leading 1.82 earned run average. He completed 24 of his 39 starts with eight shutouts and 301 strikeouts.

Bando, the Oakland third baseman, batted .271 with 24 homers and 94 runs batted in. Frank Robinson hit .281 with 28 homers and 99 RBIs and Brooks Robinson hit .272 with 20 homers and 92 runs batted in. Lolich's 25 victories were tops in the major leagues.

Rounding out the top 10 finishers were Fred Patek, Kansas City (77); Bobby Murcer, New York (72); Amos Otis, Kansas City (67); Wilbur Wood, Chicago (54); and Tony Oliva, Minnesota (36).

SPORT NOTES

It Was Long Season At College Of Marin

By RALPH CHATOIAN

What can you say if your football team loses all nine of its games?

If you're Dick Read, you smile gamely, and talk of next year and the hopes of things to come. For Read, College of Marin's coach, it's all new, this winless thing.

"It's never happened to me before," said Read, "as a player or as a coach." Read has been coaching at Marin for 11 years and coached high school football five years before that.

THIS WINLESS thing hasn't happened to either of Read's assistant coaches, eithr. Ed Grimm has been coaching for 21 years and Pett Limm 14 years. This year the Tars of Marin lost eight of its nine games.

And it's all been so sudden. In 1967 and 1968 Read had back-to-back conference championships. Then two years later the bottom fell out of the Marin football program.

"I guess the kids just have a lot of outside interests now," said Read. "Some of the kids who played high-school football just don't want to play football any more." There are about 10 boys on the Marin campus who played high school ball but didn't ever come out for football for the Tars.

THE CROWDS are not as big at Marin Tar football games. The student pressure to play football is much greater in high school than in junior college. There is just not the glory in J.C. football as there is in prep ball. All these are factors. In addition to all this, the big four-year colleges get some of the best players off the high school fields.

What can Read do next year to stop this College of Marin tailspin?

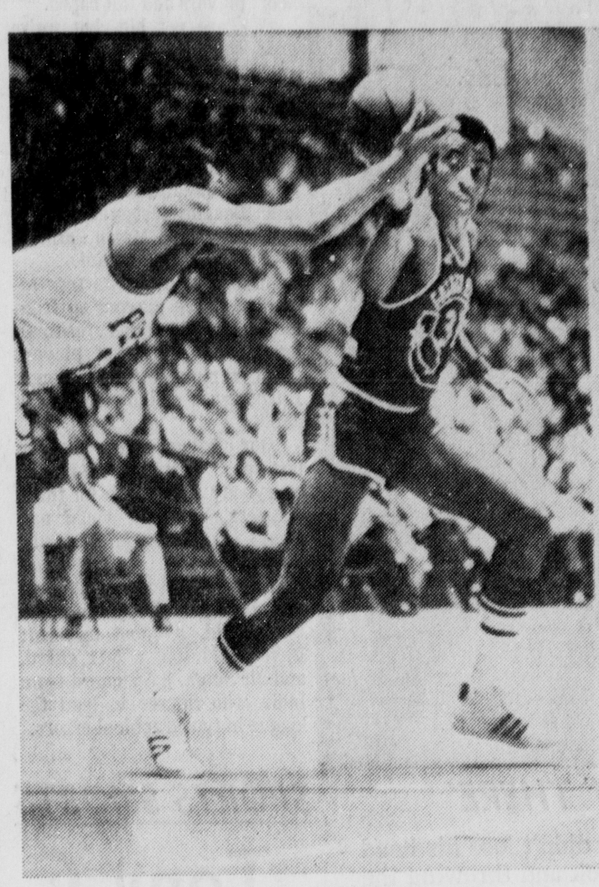
"We must go out and do a selling job, one heck of a selling job," he said. "If we get our share of athletes we'll do all right.

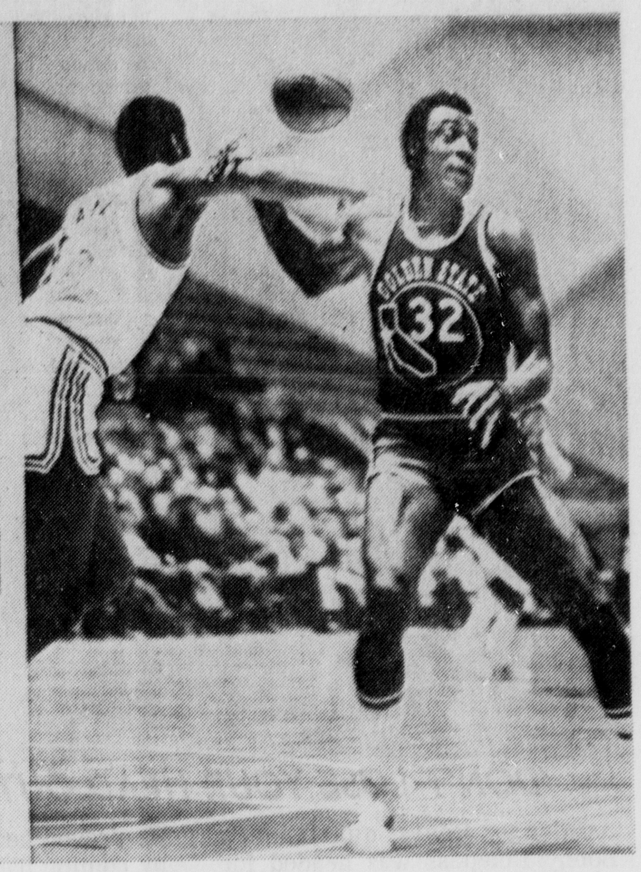
READ POINTS out the Tars had a chance to win in most of their games. They weren't completely out of things, as some of the conference statistics supplied by College of Marin student Jim Smith points out. They were behind in first downs 62-54 and in total yardage were behind by only 42 yards, 1371 to 1329. The Tars' passing yardage was better than the opposition, 755 to 432. But those are numbers. The 0-9 record is the thing.

Other factors led to Marin's undoing. The Tars used to compete in the Golden Valley Conference, made up of smaller junior colleges which drew from fewer high schools. Those championship years of 1967 and '68 were in the GVC. Now Marin is competing in the Camino Norte Conference, with the majority of junior colleges there drawing talent from more high schools than Marin, which draws from nine high schools.

And that tough schedule of non-conference games didn't help.

Well, there's always next year. Good luck, Marin coaching staff. I hope you can bounce back.





SNEAK THIEF — With the deftness of a pickpocket, Detroit Pistons' Bob Lanier (white uniform) stole the ball from Golden State Warriors' Cazzie Russell (32) during their National Basketball Association game last night. The Warriors won, 122-101.

Giants Sign New Coach; Rehire Virgil, McNamara

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The San Francisco Giants say they have completed their 1972 coaching staff by hiring minor league manager Andy Gilbert and re-hiring Ozzie Virvl and Johnny McNamara.

But no one has been named to replace the pitching coach spot vacated by Larry Jansen, who was fired earlier, which adds credibility to reports that veteran pitcher Don McMahon will be signed as a player-coach.

The Giants announced the hirings Tuesday and said McMamara, the former Oakland A's manager, will return as the third base coach. Joe Amalfitano, a former Giant player, was signed last week as a first place coach.

Gilbert, 55, a native of Bradenville, Pa., has been a Giants minor league manager for the past 22 years, joining the organization after playing briefly as an outfielder for the Boston Red Sox.

He led Amarillo to the west division pennant last year in the Texas League and has been successful in developing young talent for the parent club. Four of his former players — shortstop Chris Speier, pitcher Jim Barr, first baseman Dave Kingman and second baseman Chris Arnold —made the club in 1971.

Virgil, who will be entering his fourth season as a Giants coach, was signed by the New York Giants in 1953 and played with several major league teams.

Warriors Knock Off Pistons

DETROIT (UPI) —The Golden State Warriors ended a road trip Tuesday night by exploding with a 73 per cent shooting average in the third period to knock off the Detroit Pistons.

The third period performance, sparked by Nick Jones and Joe Ellis, who scored eight points each, brought the Warriors back from an 11-point deficit as they went on to a 122-101 victory.

The win snapped the Warriors' two-game losing streak — their longest of the young National Basketball Association season —and moved them into sole possession of second place in the NBA Pacific division, 2 ½ games behind Los Angeles.

Golden State returns home Thursday night to host the Portland Trail Blazers in the Oakland Coliseum arena.

The Warriors were trailing 56-50 at halftime Tuesday night, but when Jones and Ellis came off the bench they streaked to a 82-81 lead late in the third period. The Pistons then went scoreless for 6:02 in the fourth quarter in losing their third straight.

Jeff Mullins hit 33 points, Nate Thurmond scored 29 and Cazzie Russell pumped in 21 to lead the Warriors, who now have a 12-6 record for the year.

STAYS IN FRONT OFFICE

Saban Resigns As Coach

DENVER (UPI)—Lou Saban resigned today as head coach of the Denver Broncos, giving up his hope of making pro football's losingest team a winner.

Jerry Smith, offensive line coach who is in his first year as a Bronco coach, was named acting head coach. Saban said he would remain with the team as general manager, at least for the rest of the season.

The Broncos, beset by injuries this season, have a 2-6-1 record, including last Sunday's 24-10 loss to Cincinnati, a team which had lost seven straight games. Denver currently is in last place in the American Conference's Western Division.

Saban, an All-Big Ten player at Indiana University and a star linebacker with the Cleveland Browns of the old All-American Conference, came to Denver with a 10-year contract after being lured away from the University of Maryland.

In his first year, the Broncos had a 3-11 record. They were 5-9 in 1968 and 5-8-1 in both 1969 and 1970. Overall under Saban, the Broncos have posted a 20-42-3 record.

Although rumors persisted this year that Saban was on his way out, owners of the Bronco team denied it. Saban also had come under continuing criticism from Bronco fans at games.

Saban began his head coaching career at Case Institute in Cleveland in 1950 and later served as head coach at Northwestern and Western Illinois. He entered the pro coaching ranks in 1960 with Boston and was released the following year.

Saban then became director of player personnel for Buffalo and was named head coach in 1962. He won AFL titles in 1964 and 1965, but left in 1966 to return to college coaching at Maryland.

In 11 pro seasons, Saban has had a record of 65 wins, 73 losses and six ties.

Only last year Saban said things finally were beginning to look up for the Broncos.

"We've stressed youth and have had to pay the price for growing pains," he said. "But we now have the nucleus and are beginning to achieve a look of stability."

Joe Collier, 39, defensive backfield coach for the Broncos, was expected to be named interim coach until a successor for Saban can be named.

Collier, who played at Northwestern, came to Denver from Buffalo where he served as head coach in 1966 after Saban stepped down. He also served previously under Saban with the Boston Patriots and at Western Illinois.

Dismal Road Trip For Losing Seals

MONTREAL (UPI) —The current road trip is beginning to look dismal for the California Golden Seals.

The Seals fell 7-2 Tuesday night to the powerful Montreal Canadiens, the defending Stanley Cup champions, for their fourth straight loss since they left the San Francisco Bay area.

California gets a day to recuperate today before moving along on the National Hockey League tour when they play Buffalo Thursday night.

The Canadiens' Yvan Cournoyer did the Seals in Tuesday night as he reached the 200th goal mark in his NHL career with a three-goal hat trick.

Peter Mahovlich and Marc Tardif each chipped in with two goals as the Canadiens extended their unbeaten streak to seven games.

Cournoyer scored two goals in the middle frame with his second one coming off a Montreal power play. He added his final goal at 17:30 of the third period.

Gerry Pinder scored both goals for the Seals. The first one came on a power play in the opening period when the Canadiens were playing shorthanded and narrowed Montreal's lead to 2-1.

Score by periods:

Retail Credit Wins In Overtime

Retail Credit Co. outscored Las Gallinas Golf 8-3 in overtime to grab a 43-38 victory in the San Rafael Parks and Recreation Department adult basketball league last night. Fred Harms scored 18 points for Retail.

Gary Witermyer's 20 points led the All-Catholic All-Stars to a 52-37 win over Schlienger. Tony Deprado scored 18 as Quality Motorcycle Repair beat Marin Teachers, 40-29.

3 Marin Gridders On All-Star Team

Three College of Marin players were named to the second team as the Camino Norte Conference announced its all-star football selections today.

Sophomore Tom O'Donnell was chosen as offensive right guard. Sophomores Rick Puccinelli and Chris Fenton were picked as linebacker ends.

No Marin players were named to the first team. First team selections were:

Marin Catholic Places 2 On 'C' All-Stars

Marin Catholic High School, which won the Marin County Athletic League class "C" basketball championship with a 12-0 record, placed two men on the league all-star team announced yesterday.

The players were Mike Nivens and Steve Webb. Other firstteam selections were Mike Ambrosini, Drake; Bob Warnock, Redwood; and Rick Liss, Terra Linda.

The second team consists of Pete Butterfield, San Rafael; Jamie Connelly, Marin Catholic; Greg McMillan, Terra Linda; and Mark Ohranshall and Mike Warholski, Redwood.

High-scoring Nivens and Webb were the hub of a Marin Catholic team that has now won four league titles in a row and has a winning streak approaching 30 games.

Rangers Acquire Vancouver Duo

Ranger general manager-coach Emile Francis pointed out that the average age of four new rangers he has acquired in the last 24 hours "is 23 while the average age of the six players traded away is 28."

USF Cage Stars From 1955-56 Gather Friday

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— The coach and most of the players from USF's magnificent 1955-56 basketball powerhouses will gather Friday night for the annual Father Hubert Flynn dinner here.

Those Dons still hold the NCAA consecutive victory string at 60. They were coached by Phil Woolpert, now athletic director at the University of San Diego.

Bill Russell, the key to the Dons' success, will be at the dinner after a busy schedule that will see him talk to the USC student body Thursday and attend the dedication of the Bill Russell Room in the USF gym Friday afternoon.

Others expected to attend include K.C. Jones, Gene Brown, Mike Farmer, Hal Perry, Jerry Mullen and Stan Buchanan.

SCHOLAR-ATHLETES

Moroski, Perry Award Winners

Novato High School quarterback Marty Moroski and Drake center Tom Perry were named Marin County's football scholar athletes.

Chairman Stanley V. Onderdonk, Novato High principal, announced the two winning names for the National Football Foundation and Hall of Fame's Northern California Chapter in Marin County.

The two standouts in class, athletics and citizenship will be honored Dec. 9 in San Francisco's Jack Tar Hotel along with a host of delegates representing other Northern California counties.

Moroski was picked from a field which included San Rafael wingback Dave Urquhart and Drake fullback Rich Bozzio. Moroski, a three-year varsity starter and a two-time All-Marin County athletic League selection is truly a versatile performer. The varsity basketball star still manages to maintain an overall 3.4 grade point average and a 3.5 this term. He has twice earned California Scholarship Federation ranking.

Urquhart has a 3.64 overall, is in the top 15 in his class academically and is a two-year football starter. Bozzio is a fullback and linebacker with a 3.04 GPA.

Perry narrowly decisioned Terra Linda's Bill Dobbs, San Rafael's Bill Lechner, Redwood's Dan Young and Novato's Jeff Eisenhauer for lineman honors.

Perry, a center and linebacker at Drake, sports a 3.96 GPA and assorted other honors, which include: Boys State delegate, Judicial Board president, and a letter of accommodation from the National Merit Commissioner.

Ali Is Confident He'll Whip Buster

HOUSTON (UPI)—Muhammad Ali takes his comeback campaign into the Astrodome ring tonight super-confident he can whip two opponents at the same time —the hulking Buster Mathis in the opposite corner and the unseen spirit of heavyweight champion Joe Frazier.

Ali, although running to just a touch of fat at 223 pounds, was a 7-1 favorite to make the 260-pound Mathis, who hasn't fought in 2 1-2 years, his second victim since being beaten by Frazier last March.

"It's Buster's last stand," trumpeted Ali for the umpteenth time at his final news conference before the 12-round closed-circuit TV bout starting in the Astrodome at 9:50 p.m. CST. "Ain't no way he can go with me."

Radio station KTIM-FM will broadcast live, starting at 7 p.m.

But Ali, who insists at 29 he now is "right in the middle of prime," quickly switches the prefight talk from Mathis to Frazier every chance he gets and obviously thinks a great deal more about the champion who beat him than the man he is facing now.

"You come to the fight and watch," Ali invited his audience. "You watch the attendance and you watch the people I bring in, and then you decide who really is the king of boxing. And it isn't Joe Frazier.

"I gave Joe Frazier such a bad beating the last time he went in the hospital. I been running all over the world since then and fighting —beating Jimmy Ellis and now I'm gonna beat Mathis. And Frazier, what's he doin'? He's just sitting.

"The next time I meet him (Frazier) is going to be easy. E-Z. I'm gonna beat him the same way I beat Jimmy Ellis —stick and move, stick and move and stay out of corners. What do you mean, suppose he don't let me do that? He can't help it."

Meanwhile —and there is no indication yet when a second Ali-Frazier fight might be held —there is the Mathis bout, which will be TV'd to 106 locations with 500,000 seats in the United States as well as 27 foreign countries.

Mathis returns to the ring wars at age 27 for the first time since losing a 12-round decision to Jerry Quarry on March 24, 1969. After that fight, the big man, who has been beset by many personal problems, went into seclusion.

During his idleness, his finances dwindled and now he returns allegedly with his belief in himself renewed and a hope he can earn himself once again an important spot in the heavyweight picture.

Mathis' claim to fame is his three fights with Frazier —two victories over Smoking Joe as an amateur and an 11-round knockout by Frazier in a title fight in 1968.

"All I know is Frazier got $160,000 the time he beat me and I got trophies the times I beat him," Mathis said ruefully.

"I'm gonna beat him the same way I beat Ellis —in and out —whoosh, whoosh, smack, smack. One thing, if I get inside and him him and he don't go, I'm gonna back out of there quick. I got to watch out that I don't punch myself out.

"No, I'm not gonna try for any early knockout. I'm just gonna try for whatever I can do.

"I'm the one who livens everything up. You watch and see. Joe Frazier is just sitting."

Who says you can't win 'em all!

Outboard Contributes Little To Pollution

A reader writes: I see the 1972 outboard motors are being advertised as entirely "drainless." What does that really mean?

The outboard motor manufacturers are very senstive about this because in the past summer outboards have been attacked quite unreasonably and untruthfully in most cases as being big contributors to water pollution.

They were attacked on the basis that older outboards permitted unburned fuel and oil which collected in the crankcase under some cold, and slow running conditions, to drain into the water through small drains, or bleed holes.

These "overboard drains", as they were called, have long been abandoned on the larger horsepower engines and the ones on the small engines contributed only very slightly and briefly to pollution because the engines themselves used so little fuel. What fuel did get into the water disintegrated very quickly by bacterial action.

However, for 1972 all overboard drains have been eliminated by recirculating devices which burn all the fuel and oil. Thus the engines are called "drainless."

It's amazing how boating has been singled out for the most ruthless attacks by apologists for the real polluters — inadequate municipal sewage treatment plants and industry.

However, it has added to the confusion in most boat owner's minds about water pollution and what's being done about it. Here are some of the questions we've been asked:

Q. If a boat conforms to one state's anti-pollution laws with regard to marine toilets will it be accepted in others?

A. Not necessarily. Reciprocity is not the usual thing between states in this matter even when they share the same waters. However under federal standards, which are about to be published by the Coast Guard, uniformity among states may eventually come.

Q. Is it likely that sewage chlorinators will be acceptable?

A. It appears almost certain that ultimately boats with sleeping and living accommodation will be required to have holding tanks which must be pumped out ashore. No one really expects the chlorinator to survive long.

Q. Don't the underwater exhausts of outboards pollute the water?

A. Not if the engine is running properly. Gasoline and lubricating oil is almost entirely made up of hydrocarbons burn, water and carbon dioxide are produced. If some part of the fuel is not burned it soon disintegrates under the influence of bacteria in the water. It is said to be bio-degradable.

Q. We plan to protest to our state legislature about our anti-pollution law. Where can we get help?

A. Write to Boat Owners Council of America, 333 North Michigan Ave., Chicago, Ill., 60601. This organizations, supported by boating groups and the industry, has a legal department which can help.

Q. Where can I get an unbiased opinion on whether or not boats and outboard motors are significant polluters?

A. The most exhaustive research for the federal government has been done by Dr. Thomas Padden, Agricultural and Marine Pollution Branch, Federal Water Qaulity Administration, Environmental protection Agency, Washington, D.C. 20242. He gives outboards a pretty clean bill of health.

Raiders Fooled Computer

OAKLAND (UPI) — The Houston Oilers thought they had the Oakland Raiders computerized, but the Raiders obviously failed to cooperate.

"Houston puts all their opponent's plays through the computer," Raider middlelinebacker Dan Conners said Tuesday after Oakland demolished Houston Sunday, 41-21, "and they give the information to their rookie quarterbacks and tell them what to expect in each situation."

The Raiders, however, threw a curve to the computer.

"We dogged a lot more than we've done all year," Conners said. "And then we used a lot more zone than they anticipated."

The result was four Oakland interceptions and the firing of Ernie Zwahlen, Houston's offensive line coach.

Meanwhile, Oakland coach John Madden, who usually spends Monday nights watching game films, pulled a chair in front of the television last Monday night to watch the San Diego Chargers and St. Louis Cardinals.

The reason: the Raiders meet the Chargers Sunday in the Oakland Coliseum.

"They looked good," Madden said Tuesday, "and winning like that (on a 45-yard field goal as time ran out) will give them a lift for our game."

St. Louis Leads Soccer; USF 2nd

NEW YORK (UPI) — St. Louis University, which has a 12-0 record, received all 18 first-place votes Tuesday in the weekly inter-collegiate soccer football association of America's ratings.

St. Louis was trailed in the balloting by San Francisco, Pennsylvania, Hartwick, UCLA, Harvard, Southern Illinois, Long Island University and Navy.

'DON'T LOSE YOUR HEAD OUT THERE'

Chicago Bears quarterback Bobby Douglass was headed for trouble Sunday after Washington linebacker Chris Hanburger (55) made this heads-up tackle. Douglass actually only lost his helmet. He proved he didn't lose his head by coming back and throwing the winning conversion pass in the Bears' 16-15 National Football League victory.

BOWLING TIPS

By DON CARTER

I have seen bowlers who throw their best ball when they are shooting for a spare. On their strike ball they are tense and put too much effort into their lifting motion, causing the ball to skid rather than roll.

Try to achieve on your first ball the easier, relaxed delivery that is usually present when merely going for a one-pin spare. Don't "try" quite so hard.

Globetrotters Call A Strike

PORT HURON, Mich. (UPI) —Members of the colorful Harlem Globetrotters basketball team formed a union Tuesday to protest working conditions and promptly went on strike.

Ten minutes before the scheduled start of a game with the Boston Shamrocks, 19 of the 22 globetrotters began picketing outside McMorran arena.

The game was cancelled and the capacity crowd of 3,500 persons went home.

Gabriel Will Test 49er Reserve Backs

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — If the San Francisco 49ers start Johnny Fuller and Mike Simpson Sunday against Los Angeles, it will be hard to camouflage their inexperience in the defensive secondary from Roman Gabriel.

That's what is worrying 49er coach Dick Nolan as the team prepares for the crucial game in the National Football Conference Western division. The 49ers need a victory to stay ahead of the Rams, a team that beat them earlier in the season.

Nolan said Tuesday he would wait until Friday to decide whether all pro cornerback Jimmy Johnson, who suffered a wrist fracture in Sunday's loss to New Orleans, will be ready for action in Sunday's game at the Los Angeles Coliseum.

Johnson is only half of Nolan's problems.

Safety Mel Phillips, considered one of the best in the league, hasn't been at full speed since he injured an ankle Oct. 17 against Chicago.

"He just can't shake it," Nolan said. "He plays for a while but then it begins acting up and he has to come out of there."

Nolan said Fuller, a fourth year man, and Simpson, a second year man, played against Chicago, but were helped by the veterans because Fuller was at strong safety and Simpson at free safety.

"There's a chance Phillips will be ready to play," Sunday Nolan said. "The only question is how long he'll be able to go. I'm hoping it's long enough."

PREP BASKETBALL PROSPECTS

Drake Pirates Have Tall Hopes For New Season

(Second in a series on Marin County Athletic League basketball prospects.)

By LEW CODDINGTON

Drake High School enters the 1971-72 basketball season with short players and tall hopes.

"We are not big, but we're good shooters, and we're fast enough to do some running this year," said coach Bob Fitzhenry.

The Pirates finished in a three-day deadlock for last place in the Marin County Athletic League last year, tying San Rafael and Marin Catholic with a 4-10 league record.

They have three starters returning, three players up from the league champion freshman team, and a host of players from various other sources. Fitzhenry is delighted with his depth.

"Our opponents wore us down last year," he said. "We played everybody about even for three quarters, but they would pull away in the middle of the fourth."

The three returning starters are all seniors. They are Mark Daubenfeld, a 6-foot forward; Dave Wilkinson, a 5-11 guard, and Jit Singh, a 5-7 guard from India who figures to lead the league in typographical errors.

Up from the frosh, who were 14-2 last season, are 5-11 guard Ed Chavez, 5-10 guard Ric Herbert and 6-3 center Dan Trimble.

A good season from Trimble or 6-3 center John Channell could go a long way toward alleviating Drake's height problem. Channell, up from the junior varsity, has been exceptional in practice so far, according to Fitzhenry. If either one can neutralize the various 6-5 and 6-6 centers roaming around the league, then the Pirates' other strengths can carry them to victory.

Drake figures to get still more help from transfers. Bruce Katuna, a 6-0 sophomore forward from Daly City, has impressed Fitzhenry with his aggressiveness. Mike Symonds, a quick 5-11 guard who played quarterback on the football team, is a good ball-handler. He came from Virginia. The other transfer is Chuck Hildreth from Michigan, and gives Drake a modern MCAL record for most mileage, transfers, season, 5,489.

Two reserves from last year's varsity are also in the picture, especially since they provide needed height. Tom Carlisle and Greg Shaw are both 6-3 forwards.

The Pirates open their season next Tuesday, hosting Balboa of San Francisco. Their MCAL opener is Jan. 7, at San Rafael.

Drake again will host the annual Drake Invitational Tournament Dec. 8-11. Two visitors from up north, Napa and Petaluma, will join six MCAL teams in the four-day affair. MCAL teams will be Novato, Marin Catholic, San Rafael, Terra Linda, San Marin and Drake.

Tony C. Wins Pay Fight

By U.P.INTERNATIONAL

ANAHEIM — Tony Conigliaro's long-standing grievance against the California Angels was settled yesterday when the club agreed to put the retired star on the disabled list, with pay, retroactive to last July 13.

Conigliaro filed the grievance with the Major League Players Association six weeks after he announced his intention to retire from the Angels last July 10.

He had been traded to the Angels from Boston in 1970 and in 74 games batted only .222 and scored only four homers and 15 runs batted in.

Conigliaro was injured when beaned on Aug. 18, 1967 and the resulting eye injury kept him from playing for the Red Sox for the entire 1968 season.

Basketball

CHICAGO — National Basketball Association commissioner Walter Kennedy said yesterday he thinks it will be "quite some time" before any legislation that would allow a merger of the NBA and the American Basketball Association comes out of a U.S. Senate subcommittee.

Russ Gibson Makes His Radio Debut

Russ Gibson made his radio debut Monday. He was leadoff man in a lineup of Giants batting for Jim Lange. Alan Gallagher followed Gibson to the mike Tuesday. Willie McCovey is up today with Jerry Johnson and Gaylord Perry slated for Thursday and Friday. That will complete a week of vacation for KSFO's regular dawn patrol disc jockey.

After the first 90 minutes of his debut, Gibson sent greetings to his wife, Ann, and said: "You better be thankful I can play baseball." Gibson didn't have to downgrade his efforts. His taste in music is excellent. And his Boston accent also pleases the ear.

WHAT WAS THE toughest part of the job?

"Getting up at 5 a.m.," said Gibson who is a good man with one liners.

Gibson followed the format of Lange's show, part of which is a q. and a. period. The first call to Gibson came from a youngster. Gibson, expecting a baseball question, momemtarily gasped when the youngster asked him: "What are you doing about pollution?"

"I just bought a new car," said Gibson who, like all of his teammates, got $6,198.29 this year for winning the National League West title, a tidy extra dividend for seven months work but nothing like the $18,164.58 each Pirate got for beating the Orioles in the World Series after eliminating the Giants in the NL championship playoff.

"DON'T YOU have a baseball question?" Gibson asked the youngster who did. Gibson gasped again when he heard it. "How many home runs have you hit?" However, the query didn't leave Gibson gasping long.

"I can count 'em on my right hand — four," he replied.

Actually, Gibson has hit a total of eight homers in his five-year major league career. But he isn't a braggart.

Another youngster had another baseball question for Gibson. "How do you feel when you go to bat in the ninth inning as a pinch hitter?"

"I'VE NEVER had that experience," said Gibson. "The only time I get into a game in the ninth inning is as a substitute catcher."

Gibson's honesty is refreshing. So, too, is his concern for his fellow teammates, particularly Jerry Johnson.

"Jerry is a fine fellow," Gibson told KSFO's studio engineers. "But keep an eye on him when he comes in Thursday. Little things sometimes upset him. He has a short fuse. There's a lot of expensive equipment around here. Jerry could turn it into junk in a minute. He really doesn't know his own strength."

Four-Way MCAL Grid Battle Seen

By RON LENT

The Marin County Athletic League will have four varsity football champions in 1972.

This is the forecast, if one is to accept the Terra Linda, Novato, San Rafael and Redwood claims.

Defending co-champions Novato and San Rafael, bolstered by title-winning junior varsity teams, are, according to their respective coaches Al Scott and Bob Muster, going to take top honors. However, Terra Linda boss Don Lucas and Redwood mentor Phil Roark believe their teams will secure first place.

Novato's Hornets are talking dynasty. Scott has said his delegation will be up there consistently in the years ahead and he may have the horses to pull his wagon dream. The defensively potent Hornets lose All-League tackle Russ Weklych, Pat Karinen and Rick Reis, in the line but retain a full corps of linebackers, notably John Empio, Tom Hoog, Stan Conte and Ladd Schulman.

Hoog can also play defensive end admirably, joining another vet, Jay Suder, on the wings. Mike Rennier and Tom Conklin will lend helping hands in a good secondary.

Ofeensively, the Novatans will be solid with Conklin and Chris De Recat, a J.V. graduate, battling for the starting signal-caller post. Whoever wins first-string status will have ample targets to throw to. Joe Powell and Joe Robinson, the incumbent ends, will present their speed and catching abilities again next year. Greg Lash, another proven varsity commodtiy, will see plenty of playing time also.

Alternate center Paul Kessler, a 6-foot-2, 210-pound giant, starting tackle Dean Palmer, plus tackle Dean Davis, 6-2, 225, will bulwark the offensive line.

Like Novato, San Rafael has a championship J.V. aggregation to strengthen next year's varsity. Additionally, 17 members of this year's victorious team return. As always, the rushing attack will be well manned. Speedster Jim Grigg, a proven breakaway threat, heads the backfield cast. He'll be joined by two other 1971 varsity members, namely Steve D'Ambra and Dave Day.

The former will be a junior next fall and is expected to help pick up the slack from the loss of Mark Farrar and Scott Duncan. If this trio does succeed in continuing San Rafael's winning ways, much of the plaudits may go to lineman Mike Cook and John Lechner. The two were starters in San Rafael's outstanding 1970 "pit."

Tight end Mike Sinclair, still another proven product, will also be eligible for service next year.

Defensively, Lechner and Cook will participate in a revamped starting array. The old one was depleted by graduation. Burly Dan Dell'Era, a 5-10, 215-pounder and Chris Valentino, a starting end, are among those returning.

As is the case with Novato and San Rafael, Redwood has a heavy investment in blue-chip returnee futures. Specifically, Roark welcomes back 12 survivors from the strong 1970 squad. This group will be headed by the sensational Mike Connor, who tallied five times in the curtain-closer against Tamalpais Saturday. This set an MCAL record and served as an omen for next year — watch for the Redwood running.

If Connor were the only returnee, the Roark rushing brigade would be powerful, but there is more. Bill Edralin will be in the lineup for another two campaigns. This excellent back will team with Connor to give the Giants an awesome one-two punch. Alternate quarterback John Troppmann will be on hand to direct the assault.

Katsumi Johnson and Matt Gondak will lead the defense. Other helpful varsity vets are Mike Beyrle, Frank Giorg, Bill Deedy, Bob McAllister, Gerald Jack, Steve Gorman and Ron Cupp.

Faced with this competition, Terra Linda fans remain undaunted. "We're going to have a heckuva team next year," Lucas promised. He casually mentioned that 25 veterans will reappear next fall.

The array includes backup quarterback Jeff Leaird plus a trio of experienced runners — Doug Long, Sean Casey and Pete Corbett. Corbett doubles as an excellent place kicker

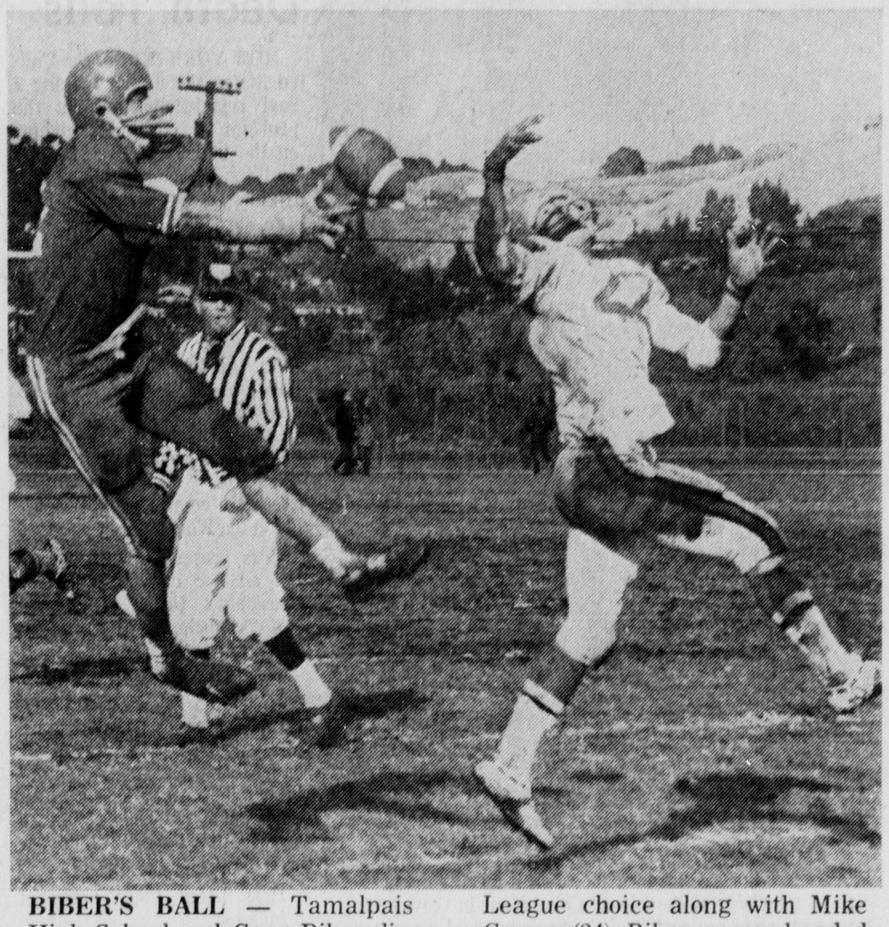
The line will include Jon Loberg, an ever-improving 6-0, 210-pounder, two-way starting tackle Larry Madden, Bob Spain and Dan Skeen. Lucas will also have some seasoned receivers in Paul Mooney, Steve Miles, tough Wes Emerson and Rich Nicholes. Nicholes worked his way into the lineup during the regular season and proved to be a fine performer.

He also starts in the defensive backfield; Leaird, Greg Beltran, Dan Walsh, Rick Tallariti and Scott Logan are also first-rate athletes returning in the secondary. Wil Hamilton, Larry Chiaroni, Madden, and Loberg will man the "pit." Steve Withers, probably one of the best linebackers in the league, will also be back.

While Drake, San Marin and Tamalpais cannot match the first four teams named in quantity, the trio could match some in qualifty.

For example, San Marin closed out its season on a winning note and is optimistic about the prospects ahead. Coach Bob Martin reported that "we'll have (quarterback Hoza) Wright back next year." Similarly Drake has its quarterback again in Tom MacAusland, plus good runners in Phil Wilkinson, Ric Herbert and Dan Nickelini. Dan Trimble and Don Asay are fine veteran pass catchers.

Tam also has some excellent vets back, like quarterback Tim Nowell; running backs Alvin Price, Craig Marshall and Mike Shimmin; linemen Herbert Wade, a 1970 All-Leaguer, Tom Silawicz, Bob Brewster, Carl Freeman, Rob Michaelsen and Art Slocum. This group earned a lot of bruises this year, but winless coach Mike Davlin warned, "Our boys will remember the scores from this year." Should be quite a year.



BIBER'S BALL — Tamalpais High School end Greg Biber displayed the form against visiting Redwood Saturday which made him an All-Marin County Athletic League choice along with Mike Connor (24). Biber, a sure-handed receiver will be graduated, but Connor, a two-way All-League pick, returns in 1972. (Ty Barbour Photo)

NBA ROUNDUP

Lakers Push Win Streak To Nine

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Jerry West's earlier sick leave was just the medicine Los Angeles needed to become one of the most improved teams in the National Basketball Association.

Since West's return the Lakers have been almost unstoppable. Their 108-90 victory over Cleveland Tuesday night was the ninth straight for Los Angeles, two short of the club record.

West scored 25 points against Cleveland. The Cavs held an early eight point lead, but couldn't contain the raging Pacific Division leaders who raised their record to 15-3 to maintain a three game lead over Golden State. Austin Carr made his pro debut for the Cavs after being sidelined by a broken foot since summer training. He scored five points in nine minutes. Bobby Smith led Cleveland with 16 points.

In other National Basketball Association games, Milwaukee beat Portland, 125-105; New York edged Phoenix, 112-111; Golden State defeated Detroit, 122-101; Chicago stopped Seattle, 95-87; Baltimore beat Houston, 110-107, and Buffalo surprised Cincinnati, 102-98.

Milwaukee, going after its own nBA record of 20 straight wins, also captured its ninth in row as Kareem Jabbar netted 33 points and Bob Dandridge added 31. Oscar Robertson was ejected after drawing his second technical foul with 4:10 remaining. A total of five such fouls were levied by officials against Milwaukee personnel.

The Bucks were leading 38-30 in the second period when they turned on a 20-5 surge to gain a 62-43 halftime advantage. Sidney Wicks led Portland with 20 points.

Walt Frazier rallied New York from a 19-point deficit in the fourth quarter with 16 of his game-high 39 points against Phoenix. Jerry Lucas, who scored 23 points and collected 17 rebounds, put the Knicks in front for good at 108-107 with 2:17 remaining on a three-point play. Dick Van Arsdale led Phoenix with 26 points.

Chicago had six of eight players in double figures as the Bulls dropped Seattle from second place in the Pacific Division. Bob Love scored 10 points for the Bulls in the first period and wound up the game's high man with 23 points. Don Kojis led Seattle with 22 points.

Rookie Phil Chenier's free throw with 11 seconds left and Wes Unseld's two charity tosses at the buzzer boosted Baltimore past Houston. Chenier paced the Bullets with 26 points. Houston, holding a 107-103 lead with 1:08 to go, was led by Elvin Hayes' 31 points.

Walt Hazzard and Elmore Smith paced Buffalo's victory over Cincinnati. Hazzard scored 27 points and Smith hauled in 18 rebounds. Nate Williams netted 27 points for the Royals, who are tied with Baltimore for the Central Division lead.

Neumann Scores 32 For Memphis

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Memphis knows it has a real pro in Johnny Neuman.

Neuman, who quit the campus for the greener pastures of professionalism, scored 32 points Tuesday night in leading the Memphis pros to a 119-109 victory over the Floridians.

The Denver Rockets edged the Indiana Pacers, 111-108, in the only other scheduled American basketball association action.

Neumann tallied 14 points during a nine-minute span in the first half as Memphis recovered from a 35-25 first quarter deficit to take a 63-51 halftime lead. The victory moved the pros into sole possession of third place in the west division.

Insurance Group Underwrites Tennis

LONDON (UPI) — The International Law Tennis Federation announced Tuesday that the Commerical Union Insurance Company of Great Britain will underwrite the Grand Prix of tennis with $500,000 over the next two years.

The Grand Prix Circuit of Tournaments has been sponsored during the last two years by Pepsi Cola.

FIGHTS LAST NIGHT

WEMBLEY, England (UPI)—Jerry Quarry, 203, Bellflower, Calif., knocked out Jack Bodell, 203 ¾, England (1).

HONOLULU (UPI)—Jesus Pimentel, 118 ¾, Los Angeles, knocked out Dave Pierson, 119 ¾, Phoenix, Ariz. (2); Ben Villaflor, 128 ¾, the Philippines, stopped Raul Cruz, 127 ½, Mexico (8).

Quick Kayo For Quarry In England

WEMBLEY, Eng. (UPI) —If there's an easier way to earn a buck, and restore a somewhat tarnished reputation, Jerry Quarry would like to know it.

"It all went just as we planned it," Quarry said after knocking out beefy Jack Bodell, champion of Britain, the British Commonwealth and Europe to boot.

The scheduled 10-round heavyweight bout at the Empire Pool Tuesday night lasted just 64 seconds. That's how long it took the rugged Californian to demolish Bodell's cherished dream of supplanting him as "the world's No. 1 white heavyweight."

Promoter Harry Levene would not reveal how much he paid Quarry for that brief appearance, his first outside the United States, but he's willing to write another big check to get him back next March.

"I was amazed at the reception I got. Now I want to come back and entertain them all once more," said the happy Quarry after his 24th inside-the-distance win, his 40th victory in 49 starts.

Quarry's next bout could be the one he's been angling for, a joust with No. 2 contender George Foreman —and if Foreman's business adviser, Marty Erlichman, is serious, it could take place here.

Bodell, a 31-year-old southpaw whose main attribute is his awkwardness, never tested Quarry.

The Briton, who moved into the big money league in European boxing by upsetting Joe Bugner for all three titles in September, was hit hard in the first few seconds.

Rams Sign New Lineman

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Former UCLA defensive tackle Tim Oesterling is going back to work for his old coach, Tommy Prothro, now the head coach of the Los Angeles Rams of the National Football League.

Prothro announced Tuesday that Oesterling, 23, signed to a reserve contract to replace Bill Nelson, who recently underwent back surgery.

Oesterling, the 10th round draft choice of Oakland this year, is 6-4 and weighs 250 pounds.

Prothro, whose Rams meet the San Francisco Forty Niners Sunday in a game which could decide the NFL's Western division title, said cornerback Gene Howard and offensive tackle Charlie Cowan may be able to play "but I don't plan any scrimmages this week to find out.' He said also that the trainers reported David "Deacon" Jones "is in better shape than at any time since he's been hurt, but I still don't know exactly how well that is."

Jones has been hampered by a sprained arch and Jack Youngblood has alternated with him in relief. Prothro said Youngblood has been playing "real good football."

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Can Invest Little As $40 Trimonthly

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I am 62 years old and on salary. Is there any chance at all for a person of limited means to buy stocks on a very small basis? — M. G.

A. Yes, indeed. You may invest as little as $40 every three months through the Monthly Investment Plan (MIP) which is offered by several New York Stock Exchange member brokerage firms. The only requirements for investing through MIP is that you are 21 and that you declare your intention of investing with any amount of money from a minimum of $40 every three months. This declaration of intent is not binding; you may stop or skip a payment when you wish.

When investing in this manner, you can buy shares by the dollar's worth instead of by the share — just as you would buy so many dollars or cents of gasoline. For additional information, write to a NYSE member firm in your area.

Q. Last year I purchased shares of Sheffield Watch Co. which have since stopped trading on the AMEX. Someone told me they were in financial trouble. Any information you can supply would be appreciated. Also, in case of bankruptcy, am I notified? — F. C.

A. Trading in Sheffield shares has been suspended on the AMEX since May 7 pending a petition for involuntary bankruptcy filed against Sheffield last June by three creditors. Sheffield denied it was insolvent — a state necessary for the involuntary bankruptcy.

Meanwhile, the firm reached an agreement in principle with SSIH of Switzerland (Societe Suisse pour l'Industries Horlogere S.A.) whereby SSIH will make a substantial investment in Sheffield in return for a controlling interest. Representatives of the firms recently met with agents of institutional and trade creditors to jointly present a plan for settlement of the creditors' claims. Details have not been made public.

In the case of bankruptcy, the trustee, at the appointment of the court, usually notifies all shareholders of record. In addition, news of a publicly held firm's insolvency is automatically published in various financial newspapers.

Market In Turn Lower

NEW YORK (UPI) —The stock market turned lower today amid lingering concern about Phase Two and disappointment that Treasury Secretary John Connally did not unveil a major piece of economic news in a speech here Tuesday evening.

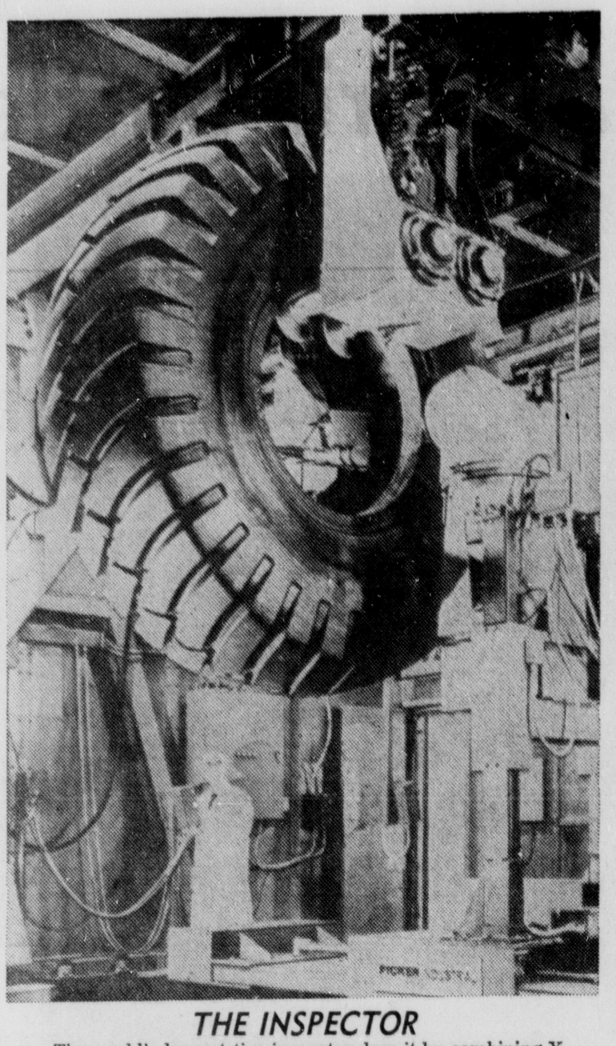
Connally's speech contained few surprises in that it turned out to be a staunch defense of existing policy instead of what had been billed as a major policy statement. It was this speculation that was partly responsible for the market's brisk rally Tuesday.

Shortly before noon today, the Dow Jones industrial average, which had climbed more than 8 points Tuesday, was off 3.14 at 815.57. Declines topped advances by around 200 issues.

Prices also backed off in slow trading on the American Stock Exchange.

Among the most active Amex issues were Western Union International, down more than a point on around 30,000 shares, Child World down fractionally on 20,000 shares, and Prentice-Hall, also slightly lower on 18,000 shares.

Electronic, oil and selected specialty stocks were among the softest spots on the Big Board, with losses ranging to more than 3 points.



THE INSPECTOR

The world's largest tire inspector does it by combining X-rays and television at the Picker Corp. plant in Cleveland. The operator can see details of the tire's internal construction on TV. The X-ray equipment can inspect tires of up to 11 feet in diameter and weighing 6,000 pounds.

Toyota, Datsun U.S. Growth Near An End

TOKYO (UPI)—Japan's two largest automobile companies announced today they will halt expansion of their dealer networks in the United States.

The move came in the wake of reports that the United States is considering restrictions on importation of Japanese cars.

"We do not intend to increase the number of our company's dealers in the United States any further," said Katsuji Kawamata, president of the Nissan Motor Co., maker of Datsun autos.

A spokesman for the Toyota Motor Company said that the dealerships in America would be stabiiized at the end of this year. "The substance of the system will be revised in the interests of better organization," he added.

Nissan began marketing Datsuns in the United States in 1960 with only 47 dealers. A company spokesman said there are 920 at present.

Toyota also began sales operations in the United States in the early 1960s. It had 881 outlets at the end of August of this year, up from 792 at the end of 1969.

Japan's low-cost automobiles have enjoyed spectacular sales growth in America. Japanese car makers shipped 290,742 autos to the United States in 1969, and 436,215 in 1970. Sales for the first nine months of 1971 totaled approximately 550,000 — more than all of last year.

On Sept. 29, 1939, Germany and Russia signed an agreement dividing Poland between them.

U.S. Scored On Highway Death Tolls

NEW YORK (UPI)—The United States still is not making a real scientific attack on the problem of curbing slaughter on the highways, Prof. Robert L. Hess, director of Michigan's Highway Safety Research Institute, says.

Hess also says the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration's (NHTSA) air bag program is a $2 billion gamble that may never pay off in saved lives. Further, he doesn't believe the NHTSA staff should continue to be allowed to be their own masters. They should be brought under supervisory control of "a qualified scientific executive committee" responsible to the White House, he said.

Hess presented his views to the ad hoc committee of the President's Office of Science and Technology early in September.

He said the problem of highway deaths must be attacked on a number of fronts at once and all these attacks will be expensive. He suggested the $2 billion that could be saved by abandoning the airbag venture be used to finance other approaches.

Hess listed these areas of attack as:

—Vastly expanded public ambulance and hospital emergency room facilities.

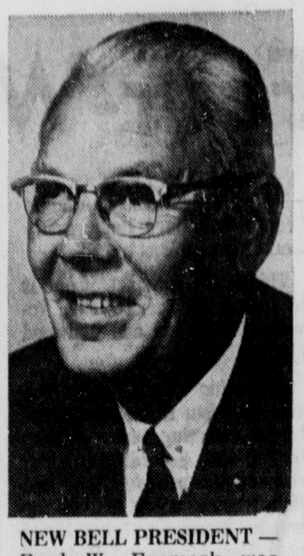
—Making the roads themselves safer by means of cushioned guard rails and other obstacles an out-of-control car may hit.

—Tough laws to compel people to wear safety belts.

—Tough laws against drinking drivers and scientific enforcement standards for such laws.

He said the object should be to prevent all problem drinkers from driving. He presented statistical data indicating that at present only about one-fourth of the drivers on the road who have drunk too much are apprehended. These usually have a blood alcohol content of 0.10 to above 0.15—yet a blood alcohol content of 0.05 can increase that driver's chances of having an accident by 600 per cent.

Finally, he said, of 40,000 drinking drivers arrested on Michigan's highways in two-and-a-half years, 30,000 turned out to be identifiable problem drinkers, yet fewer than 1,000 ever had any enlightened treatment or social service care.



NEW BELL PRESIDENT — Fred W. Enemark was named president of Bell Savings and Loan Association by directors at their meeting yesterday. Formerly executive vice-president, he replaces Clyde Charleton who becomes chairman of the board and continues as president of the parent company Pacific Coast Holdings Corp.

Marin Bank Clearings Up

The Federal Reserve Bank of San Francisco has reported unadjusted debits at $262,372,000, compared with $228,671,000 a year ago. Unadjusted deposits of $124,861,000 also were higher than the $110,265,000 reported for October of last year.

Consanis Leave San Francisco For Corte Madera Floral Shop

Ruegg

May

A newly opened floral shop is Corte Madera Florist at 518-C Tamalpais Drive, Corte Madera.

Owner George L. Consani and his wife Rosemary have lived in Corte Madera for the past 10 years, but he has been commuting to San Francisco where he and his family owned and operated Bay View Florist for more than 50 years. This shop has now been closed.

He is a qualified floral designer and has won a number of floral awards from the San Francisco Museum of Art. His work has been photographed and published in Better Homes and Gardens.

Business hours are 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Mondays through Saturdays.

TWO MARIN MEN, Richard M. Garvin of Corte Madera and Edmond G. Addeo of Mill Valley, have collaborated on a biographical novel published this month by Bernard Geis Associates. The book is a novel based on the life of Huddie (Leadbelly) Ledbetter, a legendary southern black folk musician who served several prison sentences while he wrote hundreds of work songs and prison laments.

Garvin is an account supervisor with Lennen and Newell Pacific. Addeo works with Paul Purdom and Co. on several accounts. They are scheduled for a nationwide radio and television promotional tour later this month.

TWO ASSOCIATES added to the staff of the recently formed loan brokerage company, S and C Home Loans, 1010 B Street, San Rafael, are Fred Ruegg of Novato and Kent Beardsley of Tiburon.

Ruegg, for many years an executive with CBS in San Francisco, New York and Los Angeles, has been involved in real estate investments for the past four years.

Beardsley, real estate broker and licensed real estate appraiser, has been active in Marin real estate for the past 11 years.

INSURANCE: Donald H. May of Novato, manager of the San Francisco-North District for Prudential Insurance Co., has completed 30 years with the company, for which he has received special commendation from the top office . . . Michael B. Fitzgerald of Novato was elected vice-president of a recent educational conference in San Mateo for New York Life agents from California and Nevada . . . A. Dean Merrick of Kentfield has been attending a special advanced underwriters seminar of Northwestern Mutual Life agents in Napa. He is with the Curt Ford general agency in San Francisco.

A ONE-DAY Tax Practitioner Institute, sponsored by Sonoma State College at Rohnert Park in cooperation with the Internal Revenue Service, will be held Saturday, Dec. 11. Registration will start at 7:45 a.m. in the college's Fred Warren Memorial Auditorium, Ives Hall, room 101. Tax practitioners who plan to attend should contact Dr. V. Mjelde, dean of instructional services and continuing education at the college, as space may be limited.

How To Catch A Whale

Frank (Boots) Caladrino is a whale hunter who uses a net and lasso instead of a harpoon. He searches the Pacific Ocean for fish and mammals for Marineland of the Pacific. Caladrino, who has been collecting for Marineland for 17 years, shows how he did it off Catalina Island in this series of pictures (looking counterclockwise). Collecting fish and mammals for display — he says he collects most of Marineland's — is just one of his jobs. He also collects for the Navy and research institutions. First (above) he stations himself at the end of a 30-foot boom off the bow of the ship. Because he bobs like a cork his movements require split-second timing as he reaches out with a net (below) and then nets a whale (lower right). The whale is netted from behind so it can't dive. The animal is then roped and lifted aboard. This freshly caught pilot whale, 10 feet long and weighing 850 pounds, is a juvenile. He is lifted to shore in a sling (right) and covered with a wet sheet to protect him from the sun. Later he swims around (upper right) in his new home. The animals are placed in a holding tank and are innoculated with antibiotics and blood samples are taken. After they get used to captivity trainers start working with them, and eventually they wind up performing with other whales.

BIRTHDAY QUIZ

By GORDON B. GREB

Guess who was born today, Nov. 17, and became famous as: 1. A leading man in Hollywood movies? Playing a Texas oilman nearly got him an Oscar in "Giant" but comedy roles opposite Doris Day probably got him more contract renewals and a crack at his own TV show this season: (A) Billy DeWolfe; (B) James Garner; (C) Rock Hudson.

2. A British World War II military hero? An Irishman by birth, this cocky desert commander stopped Rommel's Afrika Corps in its tracks at El Alamein and then with American help chased the Germans home to Berlin: (A) Bernard Montgomery; (B) Harold Alexander; (C) Archibald Wavell.

3. One of America's greatest track and field stars? A 41-year old Congressman today, this Californian became the first U.S. competitor to win the decathlon two times in a row, by his Olympic victories of 1948 and 1952: (A) Rafer Johnson; (B) Bob Mathias; (C) Bob Richards.

4. A great American theatrical director? Brought to the U.S. at age 8 by his Austrian parents, this gifted director earned a first rank reputation in New York theatre, receiving the Pulitzer Prize for "Men in White" in 1934: (A) Lee Strasberg; (B) Erich Von Stroheim; (C) Michael Curtiz.

ANSWERS

1 (C) (Rock Hudson); 2 (A) (Bernard Montgomery); 3 (B) (Bob Mathias); 4 (A) (Lee Strasberg).

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Overplay At Tournament Usually Spells Defeat In Extra Efforts

When the national tournament begins in Phoenix on Friday, several thousand bridge experts will begin to play as though they had never heard of safety. Instead of playing to assure the contract, when this is quite possible, they will play for every trick that isn't nailed down. Naturally, this will sometimes cost them the contract. The difference between tournament bridge and rubber bridge may be seen in today's hand.

FIRST ACTION

South wins the first trick with the ace of clubs, ruffs a club in dummy and returns a trump. East must play low, and if South is playing tournament bridge he wins with the ace of spades. He ruffs his remaining club in dummy and leads another trump to the king. West discards a club, and South sees that he will have to lose a trump trick.

This is unfortunate, but not necessarily fatal. South draws a third trump with the queen and begins the diamonds. All will go well if East has three or more diamonds since then South will manage to get rid of at least one heart on a good diamond. Even if East ruffs an early diamond, South may land on his feet if the ace of hearts is in favorable position.

As the cards lie, however, everything is sour. East ruffs the third round of diamonds, and the defenders can then take three heart tricks. Down one.

SAFETY PLAY

At rubber bridge South would assure his contract by means of a safety play. He takes the ace of clubs, ruffs a club in dummy and leads a trump. When East plays low, South takes a deep finesse with the seven of spades.

This play gives up a trump trick to West, thus making sure that East can never gain the lead with a trump. No matter what West returns, South can ruff his last club in dummy, draw trumps and then run the diamonds without interruption.

GREEDY SOUL

The rubber bridge expert is sure of 11 tricks; the tournament expert, poor greedy soul, goes down in the attempt to win 12 tricks.

'Traveler Alert' Issued By CHP

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Because of high winds, the California Highway Patrol issued a "travelers' alert" today in the Vallejo area.

The patrol said it had reports of trailers being in danger of overturning.

The alert applies to Interstate 80 east of American Canyon Road and to State Route 21 from the Benicia-Martinez Bridge to Interstate 80.

Employees Get Pay Increases

I-J Special Report

SANTA ROSA — The Sonoma County Board of Supervisors have granted county employees the step increase salary raises they were to have received during the 90-day pay freeze.

The board said the annual 5 per cent step increases would not be retroactive and would be subject to approval by the price-wage control board.

They said that 284 employees who would have normally received increases between Aug. 15 and Nov. 15 would receive the increases immediately.

County Plan Doubted By Homeowners

Members of the San Geronimo Valley Association have raised doubt and concern over provisions of the preliminary countywide master plan, but have no vote on whether to back and reject the proposal.

"The tone of the questioning was whether we can afford it," said Betty Gardner of Woodacre, vice-president of the homeowners' group.

The plan calls for concentration of much of the county's future growth in the so-called eastern corridor, with extensive open space in the rest of Marin.

Mrs. Gardner said persons in the audience Monday night also expressed concern over widening of Sir Francis Drake Boulevard through the community to enable smoother access to Point Reyes National Seashore and other West Marin recreational spots.

Sol Silver, chief of county advanced planning who explained the master plan to the group, advised the association that no major expansion of Sir Francis Drake for recreational travel was planned, but that alternate solutions were being investigated.

In other matters, the association sent a letter to the county board of supervisors urging stricter enforcement of dog leash laws. Members complained of roaming animals, Mrs. Gardner said.

Chamber In Mill Valley Picks Directors

Members of the Mill Valley Chamber of Commerce have elected four incumbents and one newcomer to the board of directors for 1972 and 1973.

Ballots mailed in by members and tabulated Monday yielded the following results, according to Chamber Secretary-Manager Granville L. Beedle:

Incumbents Normand B. Black, William A. Lewis, Samuel W. Schneider and Jack Packard were returned to office, and newcomer John P. McNamara was chosen to fill the seat of chamber president Richard C. Conrad, who did not run.

The five newly elected directors will join five other board members whose terms expire next year. They are William R. Bacon, Gerald Belanger, Lawrence A. Mayer, Edward N. Mills and Christian R. Steindl.

Officers of the board will be elected Dec. 6, Beedle said, and take office the first of the year.

A Key Corona Witness Dies

MARYSVILLE (UPI) —A key witness in the Juan Corona mass murder case died yesterday of injuries suffered in a fight at a skid row hotel.

He was Roy Delong, 53, a laborer who told authorities he saw one of the 25 victims, Sigrid Beierman, 63, get into a vehicle driven by Corona, a 37-year-old farm labor contractor from neighboring Yuba City.

Police said Delong fought Oct. 30 with Walter Taylor, 37, a room clerk at the Golden West Hotel where Delong lived. Delong was hospitalized with head and face injuries Nov. 1.

Reagan Signs Textbook Law

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—Gov. Ronald Reagan has signed legislation requiring that state adopted textbooks, guides and manuals include material on drug education.

The measure expressed legislative intent that the State Board of Education give priority to adopting instructional materials which will provide teachers and school districts with accurate, objective and current drug information.

Assemblyman Wadie P. Deddeh, D-Chula Vista, authored the bill.

Marin Shakespeare Festival Elects

James Frush of San Rafael has been elected president of the Marin Shakespeare Festival at the annual general meeting held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Dahl in San Rafael.

Joan Lisetor was elected vice president and Donna Dodson, secretary, both of San Rafael. Claude Pynch of San Anselmo was re-elected treasurer.

South Vietnam Oil Trump Card In Paris

By HAROLD KING
Toronto Telegram News Service

PARIS — There is a whiff of oil about the Vietnam peace conference these days which is proving a strong trump card behind the scenes in the hands of the new U.S. delegation leader, William Porter.

Important oil sources were discovered last December along the coasts of South Vietnam. According to the French Compagnie Fancaise des Petrole, there is "lots and lots" of oil in South Vietnam.

Porter makes no secret about his new bargaining weapon. While President Nixon's policy of withdrawal of American combat troops from Vietnam remains valid, it is agreed now among American officials that it will be necessary to bring into South Vietnam specialists, technicians and oil-pumping equipment, and also no doubt to maintain for a long time to come the essential framework of the giant American bases situated along the coast line of South Vietnam from Da Nang to Cam Ranh.

Thanks to the oil, the American delegation at the Paris peace conference now knows where it is going.

The Saigon regime has suddenly become a more valid negotiating partner.

South Vietnam negotiations with 15 American oil companies, of which Gulf and Caltex are the most important, have been conducted with notable speed. The Japanese are also in on the deal, Japan being the biggest oil importer in Asia with around 160 million tons a year.

The South Vietnam peace conference delegation in Paris reports that negotiations with the oil corporations are virtually completed. Concessions are expected to be formally granted as soon as the Saigon presidential election is out of the way.

These concessions will be on the same lines as those now accorded the producing countries of the Near East. The corporations will pay concession rights and share the production revenue with the South Vietnam government.

South Vietnam sources in Paris say that production of crude oil should start within a year, except for such concessions as apply only to sub-soil exploration.

The South Vietnamese Communists of the National Liberation Front have, of course, reacted violently to what they describe as "a giving away of the national heritage."

The front has already solemnly announced that it considers these oil agreements as null and void in advance.

They realize that the arrival of even a coalition government in Saigon (as constantly called for by the North Vietnam and Liberation Front delegations at the Paris peace conference table) would endanger their new oil interests in South Vietnam.

Squatters, Army Engineers Battle Over Scenic Delaware River Land

SHAWEE ON THE DELAWARE, Pa. (UPI)—A lonely and beautiful patch of land stretching nearly two miles along the Delaware River has become the center of a bitter controversy between Army engineers and 46 dropouts from society.

The 250-acres are owned by the government and are destined to be part of a 10,000-acre lake when the controversial Tocks Island Dam is built.

The squatters—men, women and children—have insisted they be allowed to live on the land until construction of the dam begins. The Army Corps of Engineers, with equal insistence, has demanded they leave.

Events within the next two weeks may decide which side will have its way.

U.S. Magistrate Raymond J. Durkin of Wilkes-Barre was expected to rule on a trespassers suit brought by the engineers in a move to have the squatters evicted. An attempt by Army engineers to level some of the homes last Sept. 3 failed when the squatters blocked the bulldozers by climbing on the roofs of the houses still standing.

"They are trespassers," a corps spokesman said, "and the law is the law. We leased some of the homes to them when it was already government land, but the leases were not renewed. It was all perfectly legal."

The proposed project also has come under increasing fire from local and national environmental groups. A corps report on the environmental impact of the $239 million project has been submitted to the President's Council on Environmental Quality.

The dam and its 37-mile long reservoir will serve as the focal point of the Delaware Water Gap recreational area, 70,000 acres of land straddling New York, Pennsylvania and New Jersey. It has been designed to handle more than 10,000,000 visitors each year.

The squatters point to the uncertain future of the project as one reason for fighting eviction.

Christian Evans, 32, former government manpower consultant, lives in a small home on the disputed land with his wife and young child. He wants to stay.

"All we are saying is that this land is in hiatus," Evans said, "and we just want to peacefully occupy the dwellings until the public decides."

The squatters say they are a "peaceful people" who work small farms, raise children and quietly live their own life styles.

Evans said most of the 33 adults first leased the homes and then tried to buy them, but the engineers refused to sell.

A corps spokesman denied this and said most of the squatters now on the land never leased, but simply moved into the houses.

"They're trying to freeze us out," said Banko Omedelli, 32, author of children's books who heads the squatters parents committee.

"There are only four houses left with electricity and heat in them so we've put all the children there. We're trying to store food up for the winter."

Peter Degelleke, a supervisor for the National Parks Service in the Tocks Island area, is the government man closest to the disputed area.

"I'd say it's a pretty tense situation," Degelleke said. "The local residents are very concerned. Some of these people go on relief, others live in unsanitary conditions. There's always a danger of a flare-up between the two factions."

Veronica Reiner, 24, who lives with her husband, Richard, on the federal land, blames the squatter's bad image on the authorities.

"Young kids have come around here shooting our dogs because the Army Corps of Engineers has made an image of what a squatter is," she said. "They say we're sloppy, stupid, dirty people and they don't give us any alternative."

Degelleke, who has observed the situation for two years, wants to see the squatters go.

"After all," he said, "if these people can take up residence on public land so can you or I or 200 million other people."

Stolen Auto Is Recovered

A Tiburon man whose house was burglarized and his car stolen from his garage Oct. 19 has recovered the car intact in San Francisco, Tiburon sheriff's deputies reported today.

They said Robert A. Fishman, of Southridge Drive East, got a call Saturday from a San Francisco man who said the car had been parked near the man's home on Arguello Street for several days.

Fishman picked it up Sunday, officers said, but there was no trace of items taken from his home in the burglary, including liquor, statuettes and frozen food.

Singapore No Longer Flies British Ensign

LONDON (UPI) —The British Royal Navy's white ensign has been hauled down for the last time at Singapore, once Imperial Britain's mightiest foreign base.

For the first time in 150 years—broken only by a three-and-one half year interlude of World War II Japanese occupation—there is no British garrison at the strategic and commercial crossroads of the Far East.

For the past six years Singapore Island has been an independent republic. But it still was linked to Britain by a defense agreement backed by the Royal Navy's Far Eastern Command and an army garrison and strong air force units.

Now that pact has lapsed, too, under the stress of stringent economy needs that have compelled Britain to carry out an all but total military pullout east of Suez.

The last British warships have steamed away from the strategic island which Sir Stamford Raffles, one of the pioneers of the British Empire, persuaded the Sultan of Johore to cede to the East India Company in 1819.

Far Eastern Command has closed its doors.

Henceforth Britain's military "presence" at what once was her proudest Far Eastern fortress has been slashed to a modest share in a new five-national Commonwealth defense force.

The former defense pact, under which Britain was pledged to rush to the defense of either Singapore or neighboring Malaysia, has been replaced by a new agreement reached in London last April.

Under this agreement, the five member countries—Britain, Australia, New Zealand, Malaysia and Singapore—promised to consult immediately in case of any external attack against Malaysia or Singapore.

But it stopped short of an undertaking to come automatically to the aid of the two Southeast Asian countries.

Under the new agreement, the former British garrison in Singapore has been replaced by a mixed brigade totalling about 7,000 men. It consists of 3,300 Australians, 2,550 British and 1,150 New Zealand troops under a British commander.

Malaysia also will contribute 24 army battalions stationed on her own territory and Singapore will contribute eight stationed on the island.

The naval force, also under a British officer, consists now of two British, one Australian and one New Zealand frigates or destroyers and an Australian submarine.

Later, the British contribution may be stepped up to six frigates and one submarine alternating with the Australian submarine.

The air setup will consist of 44 Australian Mirage fighter-bombers—eight of them based on Singapore Island and the rest at Butterworth Air Base in western Malaysia.

There also will be a detachment of British Shackleton maritime reconnaissance aircraft—to be replaced in 1972 by Nimrods—British Whirlwind helicopters and New Zealand air force Bristol freighters and Iroquois helicopters.

In addition to the permanent commonwealth force based in Singapore and Malaysia, British, Australian and New Zealand troops will use the former British jungle warfare school in Malaysia and British planes and ships will visit the area regularly.

Christmas Dance Slated In Fairfax

A Christmas dinner-dance sponsored by the Marin County Board of Realtors will be at 7 p.m. Dec. 4 at the Meadow Club in Fairfax.

A no-host cocktail hour will start at 7 p.m., with dinner at 8 p.m. Dancing will be until 1 a.m., according to Daniel F. Deedy, executive manager.

Catholic Schools Put Responsibility First

A teacher strike has come to Marin County —and at an unexpected place.

On Monday, the Independent Secondary Teachers Association, which is affiliated neither with the California Federation of Teachers nor the California Teachers Association, went on strike at the seven high schools operated by the Roman Catholic Archdiocese of San Francisco, among which is Marin Catholic High School in Kentfield.

There have been teacher strikes in neighboring counties — San Francisco, Contra Costa, San Mateo. But school officials in Marin generally have clung to the belief that "it can't happen here."

And if anyone had speculated where a teacher strike was most likely to occur in Marin County, probably Marin Catholic High School would never have occurred to him. But that's where Marin has its first teacher walkout.

AT ISSUE ARE SALARIES, which the Independent Secondary Teachers Association complains are below those in public high schools of the Bay Area.

The Catholic schools have been hard-pressed financially in recent years. As fewer young men and women entered the church's orders which provide teachers, the schools have found it necessary to hire more lay teachers. This has greatly inflated their faculty payrolls. At the same time, they have tried to keep tuition low, so that all Catholic families could have their children educated within the church.

The resulting squeeze has forced many Catholic schools across the nation to close their doors, putting an added burden on the tax-supported public schools.

The San Francisco Archdiocese has kept its high schools operating by granting them subsidies. And it has attempted to keep salaries competitive with the public high schools — an attempt which has failed because of the rapid rise in public school teacher pay.

THE ARCHDIOCESE has declared flatly that it will not close its schools because of the teacher strike. At Marin Catholic, more than half the regular teachers refused to join the strike. With a few substitutes, and with administrators filling classroom roles, Marin Catholic is providing instruction for all its classes, according to Rev. Francis Lacey, principal.

The archdiocese, and Marin Catholic High School in particular, are to be commended for keeping the schools in operation despite a teacher walkout. They have rightly placed their duty to the students and the community above the selfish interest of an organized pressure group. They deserve the full support of all Marin County residents in their devotion to the public interest and their determination not to let education be disrupted.

AFFAIRS OF STATE

Thar's Gold In Them Thar State Consulting Contracts

By MARY K. SHELL

SACRAMENTO (Capitol) — Looking for a lucrative business? Try a consulting service — and then get in line for a state contract.

The Joint Legislative Audit Committee revealed last week state agencies have spent nearly $32 million since 1966 for outside consulting services. And many of these consulting contracts were awarded without competitive bidding.

The fiscal watchdog committee wants to know why millions of dollars of state funds are being spent on outside help "that state employees could perform at a lower cost."

THE 65-PAGE AUDIT report, prepared by Auditor Gen. William E. Merrifield, reveals state agencies expended some $31.9 million on consulting services between July 1, 1966 and June 30, 1971. Of this amount, $6.6 million was spent by the Department of Public Works (Division of Highways); $3.2 million by the Department of Education, and the balance of $22.1 million was spread through the other agencies.

In some instances, consultants have been paid to evaluate reports by other experts. For instance, in 1968 the Division of Highways paid Price Waterhouse $9,000 to evaluate the State auditor general's recommendations concerning its accounting and budgeting systems.

Some agencies obviously have their favorites among consultants. A March, 1970, survey conducted by the management assistance division of the Department of General Services revealed 38 of 50 consulting contracts were awarded without going through the process of competitive bidding.

Six organizations have received more than $1 million each for consulting services rendered: University of California, $4.2 million; Daniel, Mann, Johnson and Mendenhall, $3 million; Arthur Young and Co., $2 million; International Engineering, $1.9 million; Bechtel Corp., $1.4 million; and Peat, Marwick, Mitchell and Co., $1.2 million.

"Consultants' fees are usually more than double the salary rates of comparable state employees doing the same type of work," observed Assemblyman Vincent Thomas, D-San Pedro, legislative audit committee chairman.

The watchdog committee also questions whether these high-priced studies are actually used by the contracting agencies.

GRUEN ASSOCIATES was paid a high price ($750,000) for its "investigation of opportunities and conceptual designs for community enhancement along the adopted Route 105 Century Freeway."

The Massachusetts Institute of Technology was paid $137,000 in 1970-71 for its study of "Community and Environmental Factors in Transportation Planning."

At the other end of the scale, Moving Consultants and Coordinators was paid $4,980 to give an estimate of costs for moving personal property on parcels to be relocated "in the event they were acquired for state highway purposes."

A favorite consulting firm of the Department of Education is Peat, Marwick, Mitchell and Co., which received $102,500 in 1970-71 for implementing a program planning and budgeting system. In 1969-70 this firm received $186,500 for similar consultation work and in 1968-69 it was paid $125,325 for still another "program planning and budgeting system."

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Marin Home Care Dedication Outstanding

It was with real joy I read that the Wells Fargo Bank had agreed to loan the Marin Home Care nursing service the funds necessary for its continuation in November and December.

The dedication of the staff of this agency could never be adequately recompensed by money. During the recent terminal illness and death of my husband the "tender loving care" given by these skilled nurses was inspirational. Their compassion and dignity in the treatment of a dying person was a great consolation. I am most appreciative of the warmth and courtesy received in my every contact with this service. Marin citizens are indeed fortunate in having such dedicated nurses to serve their sick.

Board Of Supervisors Scarcely Consistent

One reads in the Nov. 10 issue of the I-J that the Marin County Board of Supervisors rejected the Kaiser Aetna Co.'s proposal to build 145 town house units on 18 acres in Marinwood.

It seems some 80 Marinwood residents complained the higher density development would adversely affect their community. The Board ordered the proposal modified to 108 units.

Not too many weeks ago a group of Corte Madera residents appeared before the same board and opposed construction of 121 town house units on an eight acre parcel located in the county, but surrounded by Corte Madera. The board at that time decided that 114 units was not too dense for an area that will when developed be annexed to Corte Madera.

If 145 units is too dense for 18 acres and the Board saw fit to modify this by 25 per cent to 108 units, it would certainly seem 121 units is way too dense for eight acres and a reduction by only 6 per cent to 114 units is still way too dense for eight acres.

Small wonder citizens are sometimes somewhat befuddled by Board action!

Successful Draft Counseling Service

Your editorial "Youths Need Real Draft Counseling":

Your opinions are thoughtful and to the point. Good draft counseling is needed. For the benefit of anyone in your area wishing to provide such a service I offer the experience of a draft counseling service provided in Palo Alto. Called the Interfaith Draft Center, it was started by 15 cooperating churches in the area in June 1970,. with the stated purpose of providing a generalist, non-coercive counseling service for young men at any stage of the draft process. We operate on something of a financial shoestring, but have been able to employ the services of a highly professional and objective draft counselor who is thoroughly knowledgeable in the intricacies of the draft regulations. Conduct of the affairs of the draft center is by a policy board (one representative of each of the sponsoring churches) and an executive committee of five members and the coordinator. We utilize the services of a technical advisory board (volunteer attorneys, doctors, clergymen and retired service personnel) when necessary. We enjoy harmonious relations with service recruiters and high school counselors and handle referrals from those sources. In the past we have taken care of about 80 consultations a month (fewer now with the mid-summer suspension and the lower draft calls since the law was extended.)

If there is interest in Marin County in organizing such a service we would be happy to provide additional information. This can be obtained by writing the Interfaith Draft Center, 930 Embarcadero Road, Palo Alto 94306.

Point Reyes Belongs To All Creatures

Did you report (13 Nov.) the recent speech of the president of the Marin Property Owners Association accurately? I can't believe my eyes!

What gives us the right to carve up a billion-year-old creation and introduce more pollution-belching, plant-killing, animal-frightening automobiles? No, Point Reyes does not belong to "all the people in the United States," but rather to all the creatures of the world and especially to those yet unborn because they outnumber us. We, the present and quite temporary custodians, cannot purchase rights which are priceless.

Does the new president of the Marin Property Owners Association speak for the majority of Marin's property owners? Oh God, deliver us from our leaders!

Why Not Revoke Licenses Of Drunks?

My husband and I have watched for some months the reports of the sentencing of drunk drivers in the I-J. We are disturbed to see that in no case has Judge Smallman taken a driver's license away. Even after repeated convictions the stiffest sentence we've noted is 30 days in jail and a fine. We feel this fails miserably to protect the sober drivers of Southern Marin from those who drive while drunk. We have written Judge Smallman to this effect. Why cannot these drivers' licenses be taken away? Would this not assure proper protection for the rest of us? If they were, after a certain number of convictions for drunken driving, perhaps the roads would be a shade less dangerous, the courts less crowded.

Draft Counseling Considers All Options

I was most disappointed at the ignorance you showed about Marin County's draft counseling agencies in your editorial of today. (Nov. 10) Your points about providing information on all options under the draft, careful assistance in helping young men to define their own ultimate values and in helping them to act out those values, are fine points. Every counselor I train receives careful supervision in those areas, for the young man (not we the counselors) is ultimately responsible for his own actions. He alone must face pressure from parents, friends, selective service, and the military recruiters. As the trial of Lieutenant Calley, and the trials at Nuremburg have shown, the individual will be held responsible for his own action or inaction.

For readers' information, Marin County's three counseling centers are San Anselmo Draft Help, Mill Valley Draft Help, and Marin Peace Coalition. You can be sure that young men will not be propagandized at these centers. The San Anselmo center works in conjunction with area lawyers, and all counselors go through demanding education and apprenticeship programs. I do the draft and military counseling at MPC, and have been through training with Jewish Peace Fellowship, and American Friends, as well as having done substantial undergraduate study of values, psychology, and religious beliefs . . .

Having completed two years of alternative civilian service as a conscientious objector in Vermont, I am very aware of the stress that people face when they take a stand against war, and would never want a person to take such a stand without being sure that is what they believe.

If you or other area people are interested in observing our draft counseling at College of Marin, you are welcome to come, and, with the counselee's permission, sit in on a counseling session with me. I'm at College of Marin, College Center, Conference Room C, every Wednesday 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Please feel free to come and visit.

It All Depends, It Seems What's Confidential To Whom

WASHINGTON — Goodness gracious, it's happened. Somebody has leaked one of Daniel Ellsberg's very own papers. And he doesn't like it one bit. He is downright "pained" by this unauthorized disclosure. He thinks it awful that he should be subject to such a grave breach of confidentiality.

What are we coming to that the leading practitioner of the right to violate the confidentiality of official government papers should desert to the enemy and become very annoyed because he finds that somebody is violating the confidentiality of his private, personal papers?

This is very inconsiderate of Dr. Ellsberg. Surely those who applauded his taking classified government documents and turning them over to the press deserve a whole hero — not just half a hero who bravely releases other people's papers to somebody and cries in agony when others release his papers to somebody.

TELL'EM IT AIN'T SO, Dr. Ellsberg.

Tell us that you are an all-weather, all-purpose, all-out defender of everybody's right to know everything and that "confidentiality" of all documents — public and private, government and nongovernment — is for the birds.

Tell us, Dr. Ellsberg, that you don't mean it; that you don't mean it is all right to leak classified government papers, but just isn't cricket to leak classified private papres.

Your admirers will begin to wonder. They surely will, Dr. Ellsberg.

HERE IS WHAT Dr. Ellsberg is so pained about:

It appears that about a year ago the Council on Foreign Relations in New York, which publishes the prestigious Foreign Affairs Quarterly, held one of its frequent seminars to discuss aspects of foreign policy.

The talk as usual was frank and uninhibited and the give-and-take was under the traditional rules of strict confidentiality. Dr. Ellsberg delivered a paper at one of these seminars. Recently it was surrendered to the federal government in response to a subpoena.

Dr. Ellsberg felt that this release of his paper by the council, even under advice of counsel, was an invasion of the privacy of what he had written.

It may well be — and I am not arguing it isn't.

What I am contending is that if Dr. Ellsberg feels that he can decide it is appropriate for him to destroy the confidentiality of classified government papers, why is it not equally appropriate for the Council on Foreign Relations to remove the confidentiality of Dr. Ellsberg's classified personal papers?

IT IS EVIDENT that the council acted unilaterally to change its rules without consulting Dr. Ellsberg.

But why should he object to that? Didn't Dr. Ellsberg in the case of the Pentagon Papers act unilaterally to change the government's rules establishing the confidentiality of the Pentagon Papers without consulting with the government?

Or look at it this way:

If it is proper for Dr. Ellsberg to give government secrets to the press by ignoring the law, by what logic should Dr. Ellsberg complain when the Council on Foreign Relations yields his private secrets to the government in obeying due process of law?

Many may, I think, like the original Dr. Ellsberg better than the new pained, indignant, complaining Dr. Ellsberg. I felt he did wrong when he appropriated and released classified government documents. He seemed like an honest man who wouldn't turn his back on anyone's right to do to him what he had done to others.

It's hard to see how in reason and good faith Dr. Ellsberg can demolish the confidentiality of others and demand that it be preserved for him. This is the moral and legal dilemma he has to face up to.

BY NO MEANS NEUTRAL

'Safe To Come Home' For Those Who Deserted?

By ERNEST B. FURGURSON

WASHINGTON — Some of my colleagues are playing a sad, sad song for Thomas G. Jolley, a young man who thought so little of his country that he fled to Canada and consciously, intentionally, with considerable forethought renounced his United States citizenship rather than serve in the Armed Forces.

It is among the first of what will become later a small flood of such cases, growing as the Vietnamese war winds further down, the weekly casualty lists diminish, and those who ran away from the draft realize that the personal likelihood of joining their erstwhile compatriots in uniform and possibly in a military cemetery is acceptably remote.

JOLLEY'S CASE is celebrated now because he came back to this country and the Immigration and Naturalization Service ruled that as an alien he should be deported, and in turn the Supreme Court has now upheld that ruling.

Thus the Washington Post, for one, sets Tom Jolley up as a modern-day Philip Nolan, a "man without a country" comparable to the hero of Edward Everett Hale's famous short story, and a subject worth 39 column inches of news space beginning on Page One.

Rather than floating his stateless life away on the high seas as Nolan did, however, Jolley currently is working as a reporter in Tallahassee. The Post quotes him as saying his own story belongs back in the comics section rather than in an old-fashioned work of patriotic literature. And it summarizes the unconvincing illogic by which he characterizes his renunciation of citizenship as an involuntary act — a theory that failed to sway the high court.

THAT IS THE WAY his saga was played here in the nation's capital. But down in Bremen, Ga., where Jolley was brought up and where he was registered for the draft when he turned 18 in 1962, the story got no play at all.

Bremen is a town of about 3,500 people, mostly employed in making men's clothes in five local plants. It is in hilly country, 50 miles west of Atlanta near the Alabama line. A conscientious objector, which is what Jolley tried to qualify as at first, is as rare around there as a Chinese diplomat. Failing in his C. O. effort, Jolley got a student deferment and went to the University of Georgia. When he flunked an exam and his deferment was running out, he fled to Canada at the age of 23. It is not an everyday story in a small town in Georgia.

Nevertheless, the local weekly, the Bremen Gateway, has not printed a word about it.

THUS DO STANDARDS of news judgment vary, to the everlasting glory of the American press, et cetera. But while news values may depend on the eye of the beholding editor, there are some absolutes brought up by the Jolley case that need to be restated now, as the war dwindles and the draft dodgers, deserters and their brethren get homesick and seek amnesty.

The minimum age of these men is 18, an age determined by the latest constitutional amendment to be sufficiently mature to exercise political judgments of gravity. That should be old enough to understand right and wrong, duty and conscience as well. In any case, dodging the draft, for example, is not accomplished by the snap of a finger. There are many ways to go about it — medical, educational, religious, others — and probably the one that takes the most planning and thought is to flee the country.

Jolley happens to have taken that option one step further. He went to the U.S. Consulate in Torontoand flatly, absolutely renounced his citizenship although the consul followed orders by making certain that he understood what it meant to become a stateless person and what he would have to go through if he ever changed his mind.

NOW HE HAS CHANGED his mind. Now and in the months ahead hundreds, likely thousands of others who fled the country (3,000 to Canada alone) will change their minds. There will be a political campaign to grant them amnesty — in fact, one line advanced by the draft "counseling" committees advising young Americans to flee the country was that the larger the number of such fugitives, the more effectively pressure could be brought for amnesty once it was safe to return.

To routinely reward them by handing back their citizenship rights or forgiving their crimes will be to bring their evasion schemes to a happy ending precisely according to their own script. And before our politicians commit themselves on that question, I suggest that they consider carefully the feelings of all those Americans who did not flee but did their unpleasant duty, and the memory of those who took their chances without whining, and lost.

Games District Attorney Plays Don't Leave Outcome In Doubt

It did it again.

The Marin County district attorney's office played its old game of "no intent" with the same old results.

For those who are new to the county and aren't aware of the game, there's really nothing to it.

The district attorney, or one of his deputies, upon learning of a complaint about a public agency — say, for example, violation of the state's anti-secret meeting law by the Marin County Housing Authority board — announces he will launch an immediate and thorough probe.

The game has begun.

Flags wave, rockets soar, and bugles blow.

One of his several investigators is assigned to the task of ferreting out the facts.

Then after a week or so things quiet down. The game becomes intense.

It can go on for weeks, or months, or possibly even years providing someone doesn't inquire as to the progress of the investigation.

If, by some unfortunate circumstance, someone does, the district attorney's office immediately announces it could find "no intent" by the suspect agency to violate the law.

The game ends.

SEE, THERE'S REALLY nothing to it.

It's all just a game. A game the district attorney's office is especially good at. It stays in practice.

There's another favorite played by some around the district attorney's office.

It's called "no answer."

The object is two-fold. By either refusing to accept or return a phone call, some in the DA's office avoid bothersome questions and at the same time give the impression of being taxed to the limits of their work capacity.

Unlike the first game, certain variables can be worked into this one.

FOR EXAMPLE, your first call may be accepted or returned. After that (once the nature of your call is learned) you're on your own.

8:35 a.m. — "I'm sorry, he's in a meeting. Can I take a message?" asks a friendly sounding secretary.

9:03 a.m. — "I'm sorry, he's with witnesses. Can he return your call?"

10:15 a.m. — "He's not in right now."

11 a.m. — "He just stepped out of the office with two officers. Can he return your call?"

Next day:

8:55 a.m. — "No, he doesn't come in until 10:30 (a.m.)"

11:05 a.m. — "No, he's not in the office. Can I take a message?"

That was last week and still the calls haven't been returned. This game apparently has no end.

THE PEOPLE'S SCHOOLS

Some Stories Of Success And Tales Of Tragedy

By BRYCE W. ANDERSON

There are heartening success stories among the tables of figures in the report on 1970 statewide reading tests, released last week. And there are tales of tragedy.

Median reading scores of pupils in the districts were ranked statewide on a scale on which 99 represented the highest possible. Success stories are to be found in reading score ranks like these for 1,321-pupil Live Oak Elementary School District in Santa Cruz County: First grade 1, second grade 21, third grade 41, sixth grade 74.

Here is a picture of children slow at first in learning to read, but progressing steadily so that by sixth grade they are far above the statewide average.

OF COURSE, NOT the same children were tested in May, 1970, in both first and sixth grades. But they are from the same populace and largely the same families, so the figures tell of success and accomplishment. The statewide reading tests have been in use only since 1966, so how the same children progressed cannot be charted — nor can it ever, probably, for the state has changed the tests used in pirmary grades and may change that in sixth grade.

Live Oak is by no means alone among school districts whose reading test figures tell a success story, although the gains made by its pupils were among the most spectacular.

The tales of tragedy are in reading test scores like these from two school districts in Tulare County: Oak Valley (302 pupils), first grade 97, second grade 99, third grade 36, sixth grade 2. Waukena (174 pupils), first grade 95, second grade 77, third grade 5, sixth grade 4.

One is tempted to wonder whether education goes on at all in schools whose pupils, like those in Oak Valley and Waukena, score almost at the top statewide in first grade, yet almost at the bottom in sixth grade.

A SEARCH of the 620-page report discloses only one of the biggest districts (25,000 pupils and over) making large gains in reading scores from first to sixth grade. Pasadena Unified School District (26,802 average attendance) showed these rankings: First grade 30, second grade 39, third grade 45, sixth grade 61.

But the state's biggest district, 536,972-pupil Los Angeles Unified, was another story: First grade 64, second grade 49, third grade 36, sixth grade 29 — a steady decline in accomplishment. (The story might be very different, of course, for some individual schools in the vast Los Angeles district.)

EDUCATION LEADERS often try to tell us that, if schools are not producing results, the solution is to spend more money. But the cost-per-pupil of instruction in Live Oak School District was shown as only $481. Oak Valley and Waukena certainly might benefit from spending more, for their per-pupil costs were $321 and $383, respectively. And Pasadena outspent Los Angeles slightly, $632 per pupil compared with $567.

However, the highest spending per pupil I found among districts showing spectacular first-to-sixth grade gains was $395 in 262-pupil North Fork Elementary School District in Madera County, whose pupils ranked 1 (the lowest possible) in first grade and advanced to 63 in sixth.

The biggest spending per-pupil in California was in Emery Unified School District in Alameda County, which spent $1,733 for instruction of each of its 511 pupils. And here are the Emery district's ranks in reading: First grade 46, second grade 13, third grade 48, sixth grade 18. And by 12th grade, they had fallen to 1 — the very lowest. A tale of tragedy!

In most, but not all, cases sixth grade pupils in districts showing spectacular advancement had higher median scores on the Lorge-Thorndike "IQ" test than those in districts showing spectacular retrogression. But, after all, a child's ability to read has considerable effect on the score he'll make on an "IQ" test.

No Objections To Floating Dock

No objections to a proposal to build a floating dock on Corte Madera Creek near Larkspur Plaza have been received by the Army Corps of Engineers in San Francisco.

The deadline for submitting protests to the application by builder Charles J. Hendrickson for the dock at 55 Larkspur Plaza Road was yesterday. The dock is designed in conjunction with an apartment building.

The proposed dock must also be approved by state and federal officials, a corps spokesman said.

New Food Fare On UC Campus

SANTA CRUZ (UPI)—Things have improved for University of California students with a taste for such items as cabbage-potato borscht and egg-almond sandwiches.

The Whole Earth Restaurant, which had been closed for renovations and enlargements, reopened Monday to serve organic foods on the university's Santa Cruz campus.

Foods are obtained from an organic gardea established on the campus by philosophy professor Paul Lee.

Unbelieveably exciting if you prefer the dignified charm of the old world, custom fixtures, wool carpeting, warm paneling, stately trees and the like. The grand music room is acoustically perfect. The formal living and dining room as well as the library have fireplaces. A paneled office, country kitchen and butler's pantry complete the main floor. Five bedrooms, 2 with fireplaces, and a children's recreation room complete the 2nd floor. Servants quarters (or additional bedrooms if you prefer) are on the 3rd level. 5½ baths. Additionally there is a separate house for guests, a real orchid growing hot house, an aviary and a delightful outdoor kitchen and BBQ area complete with outdoor fireplace for entertaining any time of the year. You will agree that this estate is underpriced at $195,000. For viewing call CAL REALTY, 771-4900; evenings & weekends, 456-3398.

COUPE
This little Opel sport coupe in baby blue with bucket seats would make the perfect 2nd or 3rd car for some Marin family with teen-agers.
Built in Germany by General Motors and distributed in the US by Buick — we sold this car new in '66 to local family and have taken back on another new Opel.
We've just gone through the engine on this clean little Opel — so you should drive trouble-free for quite awhile. Over 25 miles-per-gallon of gas.

RESOLUTION NO. 152
RESOLUTION OF THE BOARD OF TRUSTEES OF THE SAUSALITO SCHOOL DISTRICT AUTHORIZING LEASE OF A PORTION OF CENTRAL SCHOOL PROPERTY TO THE MARIN COMMUNITY COLLEGE DISTRICT

WHEREAS, the Sausalito School District is the owner of certain real property known as Central School; and

WHEREAS, said portion of property is not currently needed for classroom purposes of the Sausalito School District; and

WHEREAS, the Marin Community College District is desirous of acquiring a portion of said property for use as an adult learning center; and

WHEREAS, pursuant to Education Code Sections 16201, et seq., a school district may, upon the unanimous vote of the Board of Trustees, lease school district property to another school district upon such terms and conditions as the parties may agree; and

WHEREAS, a lease Agreement has been prepared providing for the lease of said property for the period from October 26, 1971 to December 11, 1971; January 10, 1972 to March 31, 1972; and April 3, 1972 to June 15, 1972 for the rental of $537.00 per quarter.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT HEREBY RESOLVED as follows:

, 1. That the Clerk of this Board publish this Resolution in a newspaper of general circulation in the District, once a week for three weeks.

2. That at the conclusion of said publication period, the Chairman of this Board be, and she is, hereby authorized to execute said lease Agreement with the Marin Community College District.

PASSED AND ADOPTED by the Board of Trustees of the Sausalito School District at a Regular meeting held on the 8-11 day of November, 1971, by the following vote:

NEW LOOK FOR COURTHOUSE SQUARE

Charles Bentivegna of the San Rafael Park and Recreation Department rakes gravel on one of the new walkways being installed in the old Courthouse Square. The city and county are sharing the $1,000 cost of landscaping the site where the old Courthouse stood to get it ready by the holiday season. A circular planter box has been built near where the Doughboy statue formerly stood; winding paths will circle from Fourth Street to the parking lots.

SACRAMENTO ROUNDUP

Reagan Vetoes Methadone Funds

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Several bills, including measures to spend $5 million for methadone treatment of heroin addicts and require taxpayers to finance the full cost of state employe health insurance were vetoed Tuesday by Gov. Ronald Reagan.

Reagan said that although heroin addiction is a "terrible problem" existing programs should be studied to learn their effectiveness before additional state funds are spent on methadone maintenance.

He ordered an administration review of such programs.

Assemblyman John Vasconcellos, D-San Jose, who authored the bill, called Reagan's veto message, "dishonest, uninformed and unconcerned."

Reagan also rejected a bill by Assembly Republican leader Robert T. Monagan of Tracy which would have required the state to pay the total cost or $20, whichever was less, of the monthly health plan premium of a state employe and his family.

The governor said the extra cost would "worsen the already critical deficit facing the state" but promised in his next budget to include funds for a larger share of the employe health insurance costs.

Other vetoes include these:

EDUCATION —A bill by Sen. Walter W. Stiern, D-Bakersfield, appropriating $1.8 million for bilingual and bicultural programs in all school courses. Reagan said more study was needed on the concept.

COMMUNITY --A measure by Assemblyman John Dunlap, D-Napa requiring the community college enrollment period to be kept open until after the first week of instruction. Reagan said the bill "would cause community college classes to be disrupted into the second week and beyond, making it difficult for instructors to organize their courses."

AGRICULTURE —A bill by Sen. George Zenovich, D-Fresno, earmarking up to $1.5 million a year in horserace revenue from the state Fair and Exposition fund for vocational education programs in agriculture. Reagan said specific programs "should be considered in light of the state's overall educational needs and should not be approached on a piecemeal basis."

HEALTH —A bill by Assemblyman Ken MacDonald, D-Ojai, which would have changed the formula by which state allocations are made to county health departments. Reagan said the proposal was "unfair to the state."

FLOOD —A bill by Assemblyman Frank Murphy Jr., R-Santa Cruz," to authorize state aid for the Merced stream group flood control project. "It is inequitable for the taxpayers of this state to bear the cost of flood control projects without requiring greater local participation in the costs," Reagan said.

MARITIME — A bill by Sen. George Moscone, D-San Francisco, to empower the state to sell, lease or transfer property of the San Francisco Maritime State Historical Park. Reagan said the bill was "imprecise."

WELFARE —A bill by Assemblyman Dixon Arnett, R-Redwood City, requiring the state to reimburse counties for general relief paid to persons while they were successfully applying for aid to the disabled. The governor said the bill would upset a "delicate balance" established under the new welfare reform act in sharing of administration costs.

ALIMONY

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —A bill making the economic change in a divorced person's life the sole basis on which alimony payments can be revised up or down has been approved by the Senate.

The measure by Assemblyman James Hayes, R-Long Beach, was returned to the Assembly Tuesday on a 22-5 vote for concurrence in amendments.

It would allow modification of alimony payments if proof of a change in the economic circumstances of either party is shown.

Sen. Gordon Cologne, R-Indio, upper House floor manager of the bill, said presently the modification can be instituted if the wife lives with another man or the husband with another woman.

"The fact people are living with each other in sin is of no importance in this matter," Cologne said.

Sen. John Holmdahl, D-Oakland, opposed the measure on grounds the divorced alimony-paying spouse should not have to support his or her former partner who is living with another person.

REPOSSESS

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —A bill forbidding a finance company from repossessing an automobile without having a court order has been killed by the Senate Judiciary Committee.

The measure by Assemblyman Henry Waxman, D-Los Angeles, died Tuesday after car dealers and lending institutions vigorously opposed it on grounds bad-risk poor people would have difficulty getting a loan.

The legislation also would have banned the private repossession of cars, leaving the job to marshals and sheriff's deputies ordered to take the vehicle into possession by a court.

Joseph Shockley, lobbyist for the California Association of Licensed Repossessors, opposed the bill contending law officers are "not equipped" to find cars whose owners have defaulted on payments. "This is our job," Shockley said.

LEGAL TOOLS

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Legislation giving the attorney general additional legal tools to deal with cases of alleged pollution or environmental damage was signed Tuesday by Gov. Ronald Reagan.

The measure by Sen. Robert J. Lagomarsino, R-Ojai, will permit the attorney general to intervene in court and administrative proceedings involving such cases.

Reagan said the bill "will allow the attorney general to move swiftly against anyone who attempts to destroy our natural resources or endanger the health of our citizens through irresponsible actions."

The measure also will require that the attorney general be notified about lawsuits which charge there has been pollution or environmental damage.

KEPT ALIVE

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —The Senate has crushed an Assembly-passed proposal to extend the terms of state legislators by another two years.

The proposal was rejected by a lopsided 11-15 vote Tuesday after opponents warned it would give ambitious assemblymen a free hunting license for Senate seats.

But Sen. Ralph Dills, DGardena, Senate sponsor of the proposed constitutional amendment by Assemblyman Harvey Johnson, D-El Monte, kept it alive by announcing he'll seek to have the defeat reconsidered. It needed 27 votes.

The proposal, subject to voter approval, would extend the terms of assemblymen from two to four years and for senators from four to six years.

INSURANCE

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —The full Senate has received a proposed constitutional amendment authorizing the state to provide insurance against tidal waves, earthquakes, floods and landslides.

The Assembly-passed measure by Assemblyman John J. Miller, D-Berkeley, was sent to the floor Tuesday by the Senate Judiciary Committee. If approved, it would be submitted to voters next year for rejection or ratification.

Miller said the amendment would allow the state to set up a program to provide low-cost insurance for natural catastrophes. He said the cost of such insurance is currently "prohibitive."

MED FEES

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —A bill authorizing state grants to needy medical students in private colleges and payments to private medical schools which increase their enrollment was signed Tuesday by Gov. Ronald Reagan.

The grants under the measure by Sen. Donald Grunsky, R-Watsonville, would be limited to tuition and fees.

The bill also gives "incentive payments" of $12,000 annually for each additional student private medical schools enroll.

CONFIRMED

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —Gov. Ronald Reagan's reappointment of William Gianelli as state water resources director was unanimously confirmed Tuesday by the Senate.

Senate leader James R. Mills, D-San Diego, who earlier clashed with Gianelli over the director's criticism of his support for a wild rivers bill, recommended confirmation.

More UC Rare Books Stolen

DAVIS (UPI) —Rare botanical books worth an estimated $4,500 have been stolen from the library of the University of California at Davis, librarian J. Richard Blanchard reported Tuesday.

Blanchard said the theft was identical to a book theft last week at the California Academy of Sciences in San Francisco, adding "I'm inclined to think it was the same person."

Taken from the UCD library was a set of 23 bound volume of Curtis Botanical Magazine, printed in London between 1787 and 1815, and a 16-volume collection of Paxton's Magazine of Botany, issued in London between 1834 and 1849. The collections contain several thousand hand-colored prints of plants.

Complaint Over Wage Panel

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— California's Carpenters Union Council Tuesday urged withdrawal of the five labor members from President Nixon's Phase II wage panel.

Secretary-Treasurer Anthony Ramos sent the request to AFLCIO President George Meany, a member of the 15-man panel.

Ramos said representatives of the state's 100,000-man union approved a resolution condemning wage controls as "an unconstitutional invasion of the right to free collective bargaining."

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

The Foundation Of Youth Found Too Late For Most Of People

In 1927, the late Clive M. McCay began experiments on prolonging the life of rats by controlling their dietary intake and growth rate. The results were fantastic and if they were applicable to man, a person could be a healthy, sturdy teen-ager at 90.

One group of rats were fed a diet of essential proteins, minerals, vitamins, and an unlimited supply of calories from a sugar and lard mixture. The rodents thrived and lived a normal life span.

The oldest attained the ripe old age (for a rat) of 969 days. The second group received the same diet but not enough sugar and lard to encourage growth and development.

The underfed rats remained juveniles for periods up to 1,000 days. At this point, Dr. McCay increased their caloric intake to reestablish normal growth. And to everyone's surprise, the rodents rapidly grew and matured. Ultimately they died after living almost twice as long as most rats. The oldest survived 1,465 days.

A PHOTOGRAPH in Medical Opinion and Review showed a wizened old rat renewing acquaintances with a healthy looking juvenile who remained young on his low caloric diet.

By extending youth, McCay doubled the life span of these rats. We must reemphasize that these experiments were started early in the rat's life. The dietary regimen does not work after growth and development is complete. Most people searching for the fountain of youth are long past the age when an "elixir" will do any good.

Questions on medical topics will be answered by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the Independent-Journal.)

CHRONIC CONSTIPATION

C. L. G. writes: What causes chronic constipation and what, if anything, can be done about it?

REPLY

The most common cause of constipation is failure to heed the signals of the rectal reflexes that denote a need to move the bowels (nature's call). In time, the body tires of telling the individual and constipation is established. In other words, it is a bad habit fostered by laziness. Other causes for the symptom include lack of roughage in the diet, not enough liquids, an irritable colon, rectal pain, emotional tension, and diseases of the colon. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope for our leaflet on this disorder.

BARNYARD NUTRITION

L. A. B. writes: Is an egg from a caged hen (one that has eaten only what was necessary for fast growth) as nutritious as an egg from a yard hen? The yard hen has been on the ground and eats insects.

REPLY

To my knowledge, there is no data along this line. However, I doubt if it makes much difference whether the hen is caged or loose in the barnyard. Actually, the caged hen is scientifically fed because growth is important.

CHRONIC SINUSITIS

R. B. writes: In your opinion, has a sinus condition ever been cured? I get relief now and then, but the symptoms always return.

REPLY

Yes. A recurring sinus infection deserves a thorough medical study to determine whether the structure is draining properly. If not, surgery may be needed. I assume allergy is not responsible and that the attacks are bona fide sinus infections and not nose colds. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope for our leaflet on sinus disorders.

SKIPPED BEATS

Mrs. H. K. writes: For three weeks, after heavy phsical exertion, my heart has been skipping a beat regularly. I'm 46 and otherwise in good health. Is this heart condition serious?

REPLY

The symptom may not be serious but a thorough examination will be needed to find out. Many people with this complaint have an irritable heart due to overindulgence in coffee, tea, or tobacco.

TRIANGULAR DIMPLE

Mrs. O.R. writes: At the base of my spine, there are three holes, evenly spaced, making a perfect triangle. Can you explain this condition?

REPLY

Michaelis's rhomboid is a diamond-shaped region with four dimples. Since you have only three, the condition may represent pilonidal cyst.

BEST SHOWS FOR TONIGHT

Unusual on television tonight:

KTVU (2), 8 p.m. — "Creedence Clearwater Revival" is a one-hour special offering a rock concert filmed at the Oakland Coliseum. It is a repeat.

KPIX (5), KXTV (10), 8 p.m. — Mel Torme and Nanette Fabray join Carol Burnett in a humorous Busby Berkeley movie spoof titled, "43rd Street."

KQED (9), 8 p.m. — Julia Child shows how to roast a turkey on "The French Chef."

KTVU (2), 9 p.m. — "Fiddler on the Roof" is a one-hour special highlighting the premiere of the musical. Polly Bergen and Dave Reeves are the hosts. Among the stars appearing are Jack Benny, Debbie Reynolds, Anthony Quinn, Kirk Douglas and Lucille Ball.

KGO (7), 11:30 p.m. — Motion picture star Bette Davis will be the sole guest on "The Dick Cavett Show."

Sesame Street Wins Top Japan TV Honor

TOKYO (UPI) — "Sesame Street," a revolutionary television program for children, received a $2,000 cash prize from the Japan Broadcasting Co. yesterday.

The program is produced by the Children Television Workshop of New York.

The prize will come from a company known in Japan as Nihon Hoso Kyokai (NHK), which operates the only noncommercial television station in the country. It has been televising "Sesame Street" since last summer.

NHK's awards, the "Japan prizes," are presented each year to outstanding television programs.

Britain declined several months ago to purchase the "Sesame Street" series for its public British Broadcasting Corp. (BBC). The decision was made after the BBC's education advisory panel said the show was too "authoritarian" in presenting material, too "middle class" in outlook and too long for the concentration spans of British youths.

The British Independent Television Authority (ITV) picked up the series, however, and is running the program on 15-20 regional stations each Saturday.

NHK is operated by subscription fees collected from Japanese TV owners.

San Anselmo Sets Series Of Meetings

The 1972 San Anselmo Town Meeting will be held in a series of evening meetings during a two-week period in March, chairman J. Michael Anthony announced yesterday.

In past years, the meeting was held in a one-day Saturday session.

Anthony said the new format of four or five evening meetings would allow San Anselmo merchants and other residents who work on Saturdays to participate in the sessions.

The meetings will be held during the first two weeks in March, he said, and the Town Meeting committee hopes to select discussion topics expected to be issues during the San Anselmo city council elections in April.

A topics committee, headed by Eugene Jacks of 540 Fawn Drive, Sleepy Hollow, is now seeking suggested topics, Anthony said, adding that topics already under consideration include concerns in the areas of transportation, the environment, housing, city government, schools and personal living.

Persons interested in assisting the topics selection committee or in serving on the Town Meeting committee may telephone Anthony, Jacks or William L. Montgomery of 10 Black Hawk Drive, cochairman of the Town Meeting Committee.

Anthony, a deputy Marin County district attorney, was elected chairman of the committee in September.

Gulls Are Getting The Word

If there's a grapevine among seagulls, the word must be spreading: "If you have a broken wing, they'll take good care of you in Alto."

A young California gull with a broken left wing was rescued from certain death on an Alto playground last December by three Edna Maguire School students who took the bird to the Louise A. Boyd Marin Museum of Science for amputation and a permanent home.

Chief Carol O. Heynen Jr., who has photos to prove it, said he peered out his window at about 9 p.m. and spied the bird waiting patiently at the doorway to the fire station across the street.

He called the firemen on duty, and they managed to trap the seagull with a sheet and take him inside.

Once there, Heynen said, they discovered the broken wing. On the advice of the Marin Audubon Society, the gull was taken to the Mill Valley small craft harbor and released.

"He kept swimming away from us, then turning and looking back for a long time," Heynen said.

The chief said the Audubon Society told him a gull with a broken wing can survive if he makes it to water.

Low Density Sought For Housing Plan

Larkspur's architectural review committee has called for lower density in a huge apartment development proposed for Bon Air Hill.

Graham Lang, building inspector, said the committee mentioned no density limit Monday, but was unhappy with proposed density of less than 2,000 square feet a unit.

The committee's comments on the development plans will serve as recommendations to the Larkspur Planning Commission, which will consider the plans of Larwin Multi-Housing Corp. of Beverly Hills Tuesday at 8 p.m. at city yall.

The corporation proposes to build 224 units on a 12-acre site adjacent to the Tamalpais retirement home. The site is owned by Greenbrae developer Niels J. Schultz Jr.

The committee also recommended more parking spaces and a visual break at the southern end of the apartments, Lang said.

Marin Horsemen Shine At Annual Schooling Show

Marin County horsemen took 13 first-place ribbons at the Fourth Annual All Novice Schooling Show held at Circle V Stables in Fairfax.

Last weekend's show, according to Beverly Mager of San Rafael, featured competition among 182 horses in 16 classes. The event was sponsored by the Marin Mounted 4-H Club.

First place Marin winners were: English equitation-maiden-open: Barbara Drechsel of Novato, riding Trires Touch; 4-H Junior Showmanship-Danish system: Sherry Schooling of Novato, riding O'Kie Joe Papoose; Obie Starr of Kentfield, riding Tiffany; Nancy Sutherland of San Anselmo, riding Helleck Dan; Lisa Murphy of Fairfax, riding Milkman; Sandy Sabo of San Anselmo, riding King Delicate; Cina Huppert of San Anselmo, riding Mr. Newt, and Duffy Hermann of San Anselmo, riding Decker's Jewel.

Karlee Swainston of Fairfax, riding Rey Blanton, won first in trail-open class. Cindy Lewis of San Rafael, riding Chant's Val Rey, won western equitation — 14 through 17. Debbie Thompson of Novato, riding Lynn Deck, won western equitation-open-novice. Marilyn Lopes of San Anselmo, riding Skiparoo, won western pleasure — 17 and under. And Debbie Thompson of Novato, again riding Lynn Deck, won western pleasure-open.

Panel Moves On Nonreturnables

The Novato Environmental Quality Committee has supported controlling use of nonreturnable beverage containers — a move under consideration by the Novato City Council.

Committee members endorsed the concept of controlling legislation Monday night and appointed a three-member committee to submit recommendations to the council, according to city administrative assistant Rodney B. Brown.

The committee also scheduled a special meeting at 8 p.m. next Monday at city hall to complete its statement of goals, which will be sent to the council, Brown said.

Corte Madera Thief Jailed For 90 Days

Ronald Berg Goodrich, 21, of Larkspur, has been sentenced to 90 days in county jail and placed on two years' probation for a May 5 burglary of a home in Corte Madera.

Goodrich pleaded guilty on Oct. 4 and was sentenced Monday by Judge E. Warren McGuire of Marin Superior Court.

TWA's AMBASSADOR SERVICE. IT TOOK A YEAR TO PERFECT IN AMERICA AND NOW WE'RE BRINGING IT TO EUROPE, THE PACIFIC AND THE FAR EAST.

DECEMBER 1ST.
TWA EXPANDS AMBASSADOR SERVICE TO EUROPE AND THE PACIFIC.

After a year of expanding and improving Ambassador Service across the United States, TWA is ready to introduce Ambassador Service to the world.

International travellers will now enjoy new planes, new twin seats, choice of entrees, in short everything that has made Ambassador Service the success it is today.

It all started a year ago, when we put into effect a program designed to give our passengers a whole new way to fly across the United States.

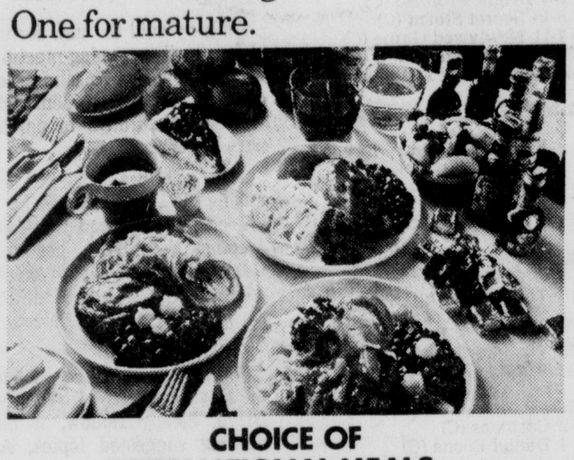
This is how it all began:

NOVEMBER 1970.
TWA INTRODUCES NEW REFURNISHED PLANES.

We ripped out all the interiors of our 707s, and put in new seats, new fabrics, new colors, new carpets, new everything.

CHOICE OF MOVIES...

On all movie flights, only TWA gives you a choice of two first-run movies. One for general audiences. One for mature.



CHOICE OF INTERNATIONAL MEALS...

In coach, you'll find a choice of three international meals. In first class, a choice of five. With champagnes, wines, liqueurs, cheeses and desserts from around the world.

NEW TWIN SEAT IN COACH...

If the plane's not full, our new Twin Seat can be two across or even a couch.

TWA GROUND AMBASSADOR...

If passengers have the slightest problem at all, there's a TWA Ground Ambassador waiting to help solve it.

AND CONTAINERIZED BAGGAGE.

Containerized Baggage is the safest, most modern way for your luggage to travel without getting banged around, lost or arriving late.

In fact, passengers found that their luggage travelled in almost as much comfort as they did.

1. Movies and alcoholic beverages available at nominal cost in coach. Movies by Inflight Motion Pictures, Inc.

APRIL 1971.
WHAT TWA DID FOR COACH, TWA DOES FOR FIRST CLASS.

We completely redesigned our first class sections on all 707s. We put in new seats, new carpets, new fabrics, new everything.

JUNE 1971.
NEW HOSTESS UNIFORMS.

TWA commissioned Valentino of Rome to create new hostess uniforms. Everything from pants suits to hot pants.

SEPTEMBER 1971.
TWA GUARANTEES, "A LOUNGE ON ALL AMBASSADOR FLIGHTS."

First TWA introduced its big spacious 747 coach lounge.

Then TWA introduced its smaller, more intimate 707 coach lounge.

OCTOBER 1971.
TWA ISSUES ANOTHER GUARANTEE, "TWA WILL NOT BE UNDERSOLD."

While every other airline was promising new low fares all over the place, TWA gave you this guarantee:

"TWA guarantees that no scheduled airline will take you to any TWA city, across the United States or around the world, for less money than TWA.

TWA WILL NOT BE UNDERSOLD

"In addition, if you buy your ticket now, and TWA lowers the price of your flight any time before you take off, TWA guarantees to pay you back the difference in full."

When you fly TWA, we guarantee you the lowest prices available to the general public for the same service and routes.

TWA's PRIVATE CUSTOMS.

And of course, when you return, TWA is still one of the few airlines to have its own private customs and immigration facilities in its own terminal, Flight Wing #1 at JFK.

DECEMBER 1971.
TWA GIVES AMBASSADOR SERVICE TO THE WORLD.

So now, whether you're going across the United States, across the Atlantic or across the Pacific, take a TWA Ambassador Flight.

No other airline gives you anything like it.

Call your travel agent or TWA.

Professor Is 90 Years Old —And He's Still Going Strong

BERKELEY — Joel H. Hildebrand, who published his first scientific paper in 1906, discussed the newest knowledge from his research recently in the annual Gilbert N. Lewis Memorial Lecture on the Berkeley campus of the University of California. The famous Berkeley chemist was 90 years old yesterday.

Dr. Hildebrand's fame has been earned not only as a chemist, but also as a teacher, author, administrator, educational philosopher, athlete, and mountaineer.

He taught chemistry to more than 40,000 students during the 39 years he was on active teaching duty at Berkeley.

Although he earned emeritus status in 1952, he never really "retired," but continued with his research, his guidance of post-doctoral students, and his widespread service to education.

He gave up skiing ("reluctantly") after his 75th birthday.

Member of the chemistry faculty at Berkeley since 1913, he has served also as dean of men, dean of the college of letters and science, and dean of the college of chemistry at Berkeley. The university awarded him an honorary doctorate degree in 1954 and has also named a major chemistry building "Hildebrand Hall."

Early in his career, Hildebrand began to develop his important "theory of regular solutions," and his research interests over seven decades have ranged to many subjects related to the problems of solutions and the molecular nature of liquids.

He is past president of both the American Chemical Society and the Sierra Club, managed the U.S. Olympic ski team in 1936, and was a member of the Citizens Advisory Commission on Public Education Systems that reported in 1960 to the California legislature.

Hildebrand's three sons and daughter were all educated at UC Berkeley.

"I stopped to get myself winterized. I'm protected to zero minus sixty degrees."

Mass Escape Upset Many Uruguayans

By TORONTO TELEGRAM SYNDICATE

MONTEVIDEO — On the day when the mass escape of Tupamaros from Montevideo's fortress-like prison was made public, many Uruguayans looked as if they had been hit on the head.

For two reasons. First, the virtually incredible facts of this escape: Prisoners dig a tunnel more than 40 yards long, which must have taken them many weeks; they have the necessary tools (from where?); they hide the excavated earth in nylon sacks (where did these come from?); they have apparently perfect communications with their outside helpers (how?); since the cell from which the tunnel begins houses only four inmates, they dig no less than 40 passages from one cell to another, also organize the escape of prisoners kept in upper-story cellblocks, and disappear with perfect precision.

When the police, tipped off too late, call the prison, they are told that everything is in apple-pie order — and this is after 111 prisoners had already disappeared without a trace, nearly all of them Tupamaros, including all the group's leaders.

The tunnel leads to a house. Hours before the escape a group of harmless-looking youngsters appears at the house to prevent the resident family from interfering; the members of the family let them in without concern because one of the group is the niece of the homeowner — and, of course, also a Tupamaro. With a stethoscope the youngsters follow the progress of the approaching of underground sounds digging and at the right moment tear up the floor.

It was not only the escape itself that depressed the Uruguayans, but the general situation of which it is a symptom.

The mere fact that they gained their freedom is not crucial to the conduct of the Tupamaros' activities. But the crassness with which the escape made visible the ineptness, corruption and helplessness of the authorities was a shock to the public.

More than a year ago, the then minister of interior stated that a special prison was being prepared for the most dangerous terrorists, to be situated on an island, in order to prevent escapes. It is assumed that not a finger has been lifted so far to carry out this plan. And today it is widely assumed that it would have been useless in any case, since the Tupamaros would simply have used boats.

A Bit Of England In The Valley

I-J Special Report

DAVIS — Those big, bright, red, double-decked London buses which have joined the bicycle as a UC Davis trademark have gone public.

Now, for just 15 cents a ride, the townspeople of Davis can join students, faculty, and staff in experiencing a slice of Merry England in the Central Valley when they climb aboard one of the four student-operated double-deckers which make up half of the University Transport System fleet.

The eight-bus operation, dubbed "Unitrans" by its patrons, is managed and serviced entirely by students. The three dozen young people paint them, fix them, drive them, serve as on-board conductors, and manage the books.

"Our aim is to provide service, not to make money," says student manager Andy Irwin, who adds that like all public transportation systems, this one operates at a deficit.

The buses carried around 125,000 passengers last year, and Irwin predicts the figure will jump above 130,000 this year by allowing non-UCD people to ride the system.

Five days a week during normal school hours, the buses wend their way from the traffic circle north of the Memorial Union complex over five different routes to the outer reaches of Davis and back again.

This Is Terry, 19: Zookeeper

FEEDS ZOO BABIES — It's a busy life for Terra Waldear an attendant at the Oakland Baby Zoo. She bottle feeds baby camels, with help, and prepares many formulas each day. Here she's praising a baby llama after it had eaten nicely.

I-J Special Report

OAKLAND — Ever try to dress a chimp in diapers when it doesn't want to be dressed? Or feed a baby llama a bottle when it doesn't want the bottle? Or move a 550-pound tortoise when it doesn't want to move?

It's all in a day's work for 19-year-old Terra Waldear, already a veteran at the Oakland Baby Zoo.

She considers her job "one of the most unusual any girl my age can ever have. This job at the zoo really makes me happy. I love the environment; I love working with animals of all kinds, and I like to relate to animals.

Terry, who has worked at the zoo for four years (three years in the summer, and one full year after graduating from high school), has had a varied list of assignments.

"I started out being a lookout around the dolphin/seal pool, making sure that children didn't fall in, that they didn't tease the animals in the pool or sit on the edge.

"Only one child fell in during my two-summer tenure at the pool, and his mother just pulled him out by the seat of the pants before he barely got wet," she said.

"I make formula for our bottle babies every day. We have had up to 20 bottle babies at any given time — including baby elephants, pigs, chimps, llamas, donkeys, and many others. And, if the children happen to be there at feeding time, we let the customers do the bottle-holding.

Terry said her toughest jobs included trying to dress a chimp in diapers.

"Sometimes it is easy, but most times they wiggle and squirm, and then, after we have them all dressed, they peel off their clothes. We usually have to dress the chimps when we take them to a television station or out for a personal appearance," she said.

Other "tough" assignments include feeding a baby camel a bottle when he doesn't want it. "It usually takes two of us — one shoves the bottle in the camel's mouth; the other holds his jaws over the bottle, and then the camel still can push the bottle out," Terry said. "We have spent literally days and days trying to get the camels to accept their bottles."

Tougher Ecology Laws Want The Pros And Cons

I-J Special Report

DAVIS — Perhaps the most important result of increased public interest in ecology is recent legislation which requires state and federal agencies to consider the cons, as well as the pros, of large scale projects they wish to undertake.

A proposal for a new dam or waterway, a large housing development or a highway, a power plant, a pipeline, or a nuclear test, must be backed by a report — called an "impact statement" — which examines the effects the project may have on the environment, and on the plant, animal, and human life of the region concerned. The statement also must present alternatives to the project proposed, and the debits and credits of these.

The legislation governing such reports on the federal level is the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969. State agencies in California are governed by the Environmental Quality Act of 1970. Other states throughout the country have passed similar legislation.

Since the enactment of these laws, many projects, steamrolling toward completion, have ground to a halt. The AEC has been blocked from building new power plants until such reports are prepared; the Cross Florida Barge Canal, already half-dug, has been permanently abandoned by Presidential decree on the advice of the Council on Environmental Quality; the Alaskan pipeline still is being investigated in all of its ramifications; and, at the regional level, the Tahoe Regional Planning Agency will seek to require impact information from private developers.

A program in environmental impact analysis, recently announced by University of California Davis Extension, presents an alternative for agencies with proposals on the drawing boards.

Devised by the Division of Environmental Studies, UCD, its goal is to help policy level administrators develop comprehensive, effective, and accurate impact statements. Its method is to put these administrators in contact with one another, and with experts in the academic, scientific, business, and conservation communities who can provide information outside the agency's normal range or functioning.

Big Demand For 1970's Census Data

I-J Special Report

BERKELEY — A new census data center at the University of California in Berkeley has supplied literally tons of computer printouts to meet an unexpectedly large demand, according to the first annual report issued by the UC Census Service Facility.

The facility has been developed during the past year as the major public center for detailed 1970 California census data.

There have been 191 subscribers to date for the census data. Among them are many cities and counties, state agencies, schools, and private organizations.

The facility is also contributing to teaching and research of university and colleges throughout the state. Several hundred students have already used the census printouts, which are maintained in the library of the Institute of Governmental Studies on the Berkeley campus.

The U.S. Census bureau lacks resources to service the many agencies needing its data, so the bureau supplies raw data to centers for processing and distribution. Several private census centers operate for commercial use in the state.

"It provides a badly needed service to local and state governmental and quasi-public agencies, which up to now have proceeded individually, and somewhat blindly, to understand the potential of the 1970 census and how it can be used," says IGS director Eugene C. Lee.

ENOUGH'S ENOUGH

Catching a few sun rays in Detroit's Grand Circus Park during the last few days of fall is all very well and good, but this young pup seems to be thinking that enough is enough as she first enjoys the sun's warmth, then, seeing her master asleep, decides it's time to wake him up and be on their way.

UN's Anti-Malaria Campaign Faltering

I-J Special Report

RIVERSIDE — A setback that could disrupt the United Nations' campaign against malaria in certain parts of the world is reported by a University of California scientist at Riverside.

Dr. George Georghiou, professor of entomology, said he has uncovered a dangerous trend toward resistance to new control compounds such as propoxur in malaria-transmitting mosquitoes.

At present this trend is most serious in four Central American countries — El Salvador, Guatemala, Honduras, and Nicaragua.

"It seems that the heavy use of pesticides against cotton pests has caused mosquitos in Central America to develop genetic strains that resist the new compounds," said Dr. Georghiou.

"Mosquitoes in areas near cotton fields were given a sort of basic training that prepared them for resisting malaria control chemicals such as propoxur.

"This shows that, in the future, materials designed for public health pests must be distinctly different from agricultural pesticides and must be reserved for use only against vectors, or carriers, of disease."

Britain's 'Victory' In The Drug War

By Toronto Telegram Syndicate

LONDON — Britain is cautiously claiming a victory in the battle against hard drugs, and at the same time is preparing to step up its war on drug pushers and users.

The victory is reflected in official figures of the number of people addicted to hard drugs such as heroin and cocaine.

For the first time in 10 years, the number of addicts has dropped. At one time during the 1960s, the number of heroin users was doubling every 16 months.

Before 1968, the law was tightened and doctors had to report any drug-dependent patients to a central register. And the supply of hard drugs was restricted to a few specially licensed doctors and to the drug treatment clinics — most of which are attached to hospitals.

The British system has been praised, particularly in the U.S., because the legal supply of drugs or substitutes to addicts has apparently prevented a serious crime problem.

But not all applicants to clinics are accepted.

"The clinic has to be convinced that the person wants a cure, and is not just looking for a way of keeping his habit going," a health department spokesman said.

For this reason alone some volunteer agencies engaged in the care and welfare of drug users, doubt the official figures showing reductions. They say many addicts avoid the clinics, and buy their drugs on the black market — particularly around the Soho and Piccadilly areas of London.

These agencies claim many former heroin users are turning to substitutes. "It's a very difficult situation. It's like cigarettes. If you banned tobacco tomorrow, someone would start smoking tea-leaves," the spokesman said.

No one doubts that there has been a massive increase in the use of a wide range of other drugs, particularly by young people.

And it is not confined to London. A few weeks ago, Portsmouth's standing committee on the misuse of drugs estimated there were between 2,000 and 3,000 drug users in the city.

"This is no worse than in any other city of Portsmouth's size," the committee said. It also noted that there had been a swing away from cannabis to LSD.

In England last year, 7,520 people were convicted of using or pushing cannabis. This was triple the figure of three years earlier.

Convictions for misuse of amphetamines and hallucinogens (such as LSD) were up by 150 per cent in the same period. And some student leaders and health service officials estimate that up to 60 per cent of students try cannabis.

The misuse of barbiturates is also rising sharply, particularly for drug pushers, and gives the government much more flexibility to deal with changing patterns on the drug scene.

The law establishes three classes of drugs — "hard," "soft" and others. Pushers of hard and soft drugs face up to 14 years jail and/or an unlimited fine.

Users of hard drugs could get seven years in jail and/or an unlimited fine. Drugs in the soft section carry a maximum of five years and/or a fine.

Those in the third class have a maximum penalty of two years jail and/or a fine.

Lacking Knowledge About Africa? Then Tune In

I-J Special Report

Most Americans would fail a quiz based on questions like these. Even students of African history seldom have up-to-date knowledge of modern Africa.

But during the past month listeners to the radio series "The UC Drum," heard Momar Fall, deputy Ambassador of Senegal to Gambia, discuss the possibilities of establishing a single national, Senegambia. They heard Moses Olabode, an accounting student at the University of Lagos, describe public executions of robbers and thieves. They learned from L. P. Allen, MP and deputy minister of education in Sierra Leone, that Fourah Bay College was founded in 1827 at Freetown.

The Drum is broadcast on seven commercial stations throughout California. The half-hour program begins with Congolese drumming and features interviews with African visitors to any of the nine UC campuses.

Why a series on Africa? Valena M. Williams, producer of the 18-month-old Drum, explains:

"More than thirty African nations have achieved independence since Ghana's liberation in 1957. For most Americans these countries are remote, exotic, and overly romanticized.

"The UC Drum allows Africans to explain their countries firsthand. For those who listen, the Africans become real, their cultures understandable, their goals defined," she said.

Mrs. Williams has taped interviews with more than a hundred Africans, most of them at UCLA and UC Berkeley. As she observes, "The University of California is a mecca for many black people. African diplomats and scholars are daily visitors. They come to confer with UC professors and experts, with African students, and to see such technological achievements as the Lawrence Hall of Science and the Davis plant pathology experiment stations."

These African leaders seldom have an opportunity to talk with many University students or community groups. The UC Drum bridges this gap and through radio reaches a far greater number than would be possible on a personal basis.

"We all need to know more about Africa," says Mrs. Williams, who this summer made a study tour of West Africa. "I developed this series because I thought Africa was culturally important to Afro-Americans. This is still true, but African countries are increasingly important in terms of international politics, economy, and even geography."

Many of the men and the occasional women are touring the U.S. as guests of the State Department. Others are diplomats and professionals sponsored by their governments or specialized organizations. Their political range is wide and reflective of their countries. Tanzania's Ujamaa villager is very unlike the resident of Abidjan, jewel of the Ivory Coast Riviera.

Equally varied are the languages spoken. While all speak either French or English fluently, their vernacular languages are not heard often in this country. Mrs. Williams usually asks the visitor to speak a few sentences of his primary tongue. UC Drum listeners have recently heard snatches of Tigrina, Bambara, Amharic, Twi, Fanti, and Ga.

There is one problem, Mrs. Williams admits. Sometimes accents are very thick and one has to listen very attentively. Woody Miller, program director of station KLIP in Fowler, says: "The content of The UC Drum is so important that we think our listeners will make the extra effort that is now and then needed." KLIP carries two segments of Drum each week in prime time.

One audience that had not been anticipated: Students of French in schools and colleges listen to the French-speaking Africans and check themselves against the immediate translation.

The 'Pop' In Your Ear Is Researched

I-J Special Report

LOS ANGELES — A new surgical treatment for sudden nerve deafness may restore hearing if performed promptly.

Dr. Victor Goodhill, professor of surgery (otology), UCLA Medical School, describes four cases of this disorder involving a shallow scuba dive, excessive alcohol consumption, 47 sit-ups (exercise), and yelling at a football game. All patients experienced a "pop" in their ear and/or sudden deafness in one car associated with the respective incidents. In some instances, there was also severe dizziness.

The scuba diver recovered his hearing following prescribed bed rest and medication, apparently as a result of spontaneous healing of a ruptured membrance.

The "over-imbiber" and the physical fitness devotee were diagnosed as having a ruptured round and oval window membrane, and there was improvement in hearing following perichondrial graft surgery. The football fan, who was not operated on until four months following the injury, did not recover her hearing.

Since the report of these four cases, Dr. Goodhill and his associates have operated on six additional cases.

MILITARY SEIZES THAILAND POWER

Field Marshal Thanom At Helm; Action Follows Cabinet Bickering Over Memoirs

BANGKOK (UPI) — Field Marshal Thanom Kittikachorn, who already was prime minister, seized full power in Thailand tonight with the backing of the military, Radio Thailand announced.

The broadcast said the government was now in the hands of a new Revolutionary Party headed by Thanom, that the constitution was suspended, Parliament and the cabinet abolished and martial law imposed.

The action appeared to have been triggered by a dispute within the cabinet over whether Economic Affairs Minister Bunchana Atthakor should be forced to resign because of his recently published memoirs criticizing members of the government.

Thailand, considered the United States' strongest ally in Southeast Asia, has undergone a series of military coups since 1932 when a civilian and military group ended the absolute monarchy that had ruled the country for centuries.

Thanom assumed power in 1958 upon the death of Field Marshal Sarit Thanarat, ruling in an authoritarian style. He continued as prime minister when the country became a parliamentary-type regime in 1968 under a limited monarchy.

Radio Thailand announced that King Bhumibol Adulyadej would continue to reign. The king, who was born in Cambridge, Mass., has had little real power since the original 1932 coup.

The move was not expected to change Thailand's foreign policies. Thanom has rejected neutralism and aligned Thailand with the United States, helped form the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization (SEATO) and sent 12,000 troops to fight in Vietnam.

He also permitted the use of Thailand as the site of U.S. air bases and 48,000 Americans still are believed stationed here. Thailand-based planes have bombed heavily in Vietnam, angering both Hanoi and Peking.

Radio Thailand announced at 8 p.m. (8 a.m. EST) that the armed forces under Thanom

Students Backing Strike; A Bomb Call Cancels Plan

Marin Catholic High Lay Teachers Backed At 'Rally'

By C. P. McCARTHY

Striking lay teachers at Marin Catholic High School received student support today, but a planned student walkout was aborted by a telephoned bomb threat to the school.

The school's 767 students were evacuated at 10 a.m. — minutes before they had planned to walk out on their own.

Rev. Francis A. Lacey, the school's principal, said he did not know of the planned student walkout although some of the exiting students grumbled that the bomb threat and evacuation appeared to be very "convenient" for the school administration.

Father Lacey said he received the telephone call at 9:58 a.m. and was told by a muffled male voice, "There's a bomb in your school." The caller then hung up, the priest said.

John Bechtold, a social studies teacher and spokesman for 14 striking teachers at Marin Catholic, said there had been bomb threats at the school before, but they had always been ignored.

Father Lacey agreed, but said he ordered the school evacuated today because "circumstances are now not normal."

"With a reduced staff, we thought it best to be safe."

Students were evacuated to the football field, east of the main school complex, where they adapted football cheers to put on an impromptu rally in support of the strikers. Pickeers were a short distance away near the main entrance to the school on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard.

"Yea blue! Yea white! Yea teachers, strike! Strike!" went

Marin Could Get Trial Cost Break

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

SACRAMENTO — Legislation requiring the state to reimburse Marin for the Angela Davis and Ruchell Magee trials has been amended to cover roughly half the costs, or about $750,000.

The bill, AB 644 by Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, is pending final Senate approval. Assembly concurrence in upper house amendments would send the measure to the governor.

Marin County Auditor-Controller Michael Mitchell claimed last week that the bill would cover only about one-quarter of the total expenses, estimated at $1.5 million. But his figuring came before the bill was amended to extend also to costs for "necessary courtroom security reasonably required to protect the court, the participants, and the public."

A spokesman for Bagley said these costs probably would have been covered anyway by the bill, according to an opinion last week by he legislative counsel's office, but the amendment was tacked on to eliminate any possible uncertainty, the spokesman said.

The bill was supposed to have been voted upon yesterday by the Senate, but Bagley had it postponed pending final negotiations with the Reagan administration on new amendments designed to limit the state's liability to the Davis and Magee trials.

Bagley's bill would add conspiracy to escape from prison to those offenses for which the state must reimburse trial costs. Miss Davis and Magee are charged with murder, kidnapping and conspiracy in connection with the shoot-out in August 1970 at the Civic Center in which Judge Harold J. Haley and three other persons died.

None of these charges, however, qualifed the trials for state reimbursement, the attorney general ruled.

Bagley stressed that the bill was designed to assure state reimbursement only for costs directly related to the investigation, preparation and security for the trials and pre-trial hearings.

The trial of Miss Davis has been transferred to Santa Clara County, but that county will bill Marin for its cost.

Bagley's bill, however, would not cover general security costs for the Civic Center, estimated by Mitchell at $600,000 a year. The assemblyman said that the bill would not have had a chance of surviving if he had included these costs as well.

He noted that his bill set no limit on the amount of state reimbursement.

Also pending in the Legislature is SB 1633 by Sen. Fred W. Marler, R-Redding, which would provide state reimbursement to counties for murder trial costs above the amount a county can raise with a property tax of five cents per $100 assessed valuation. In Marin, that would mean the state would reimburse the county for all costs over $365,000 if Bagley's bill failed to become law.

Civic Center Security Will Remain

By ERIK M. INGRAM

Tight security measures at the Marin Civic Center will remain in force at least for the time being, the Marin County Board of Supervisors decided yesterday. (Other supervisors stories, page 6.)

While no formal vote was taken, supervisors displayed general agreement that forthcoming trials of San Quentin inmates necessitate continued security.

Their consensus amounted to a rejection of a proposal made Friday by County Administrator John F. Barrows that security be greatly relaxed.

Barrows, who said yesterday he wasn't sure he had arrived at a correct solution, recommended that checkpoints used for screening persons entering the Administration Building and Hall of Justice be eliminated.

Building security was set up last October shortly after a bomb exploded in a Hall of Justice restroom. It completely destroyed a nearby courtroom.

That incident followed by two months the murderous Civic Center shoot-out in which four persons were killed. Angela Davis and San Quentin inmate Ruchell Magee face trial in connection with the shoot-out.

Among the highlights of yesterday's lengthy hearing was a claim by a sheriff's lieutenant that an individual on the Federal Bureau of Investigation's "10 Most Wanted" list had been photographed in the Civic Center.

According to Lt. Ronald Retana, who heads building security, the fugitive was not identified until the day after the visit.

Retana, who declined to name the individual, said the person was in disguise and was photographed by a camera which is part of the building's surveillance system.

"He was checking out the building," Retana said in response to a supervisor's question.

That only minor incidences have occurred (the arrest of two persons with weapons and one with a phony bomb) proves the effectiveness of the system in deterring violence, he said.

Only one supervisor, Michael Wornum, spoke in complete favor of Barrows's' recommendation.

"If we don't end it now, we never will," Wornum argued. "There will always be good reasons to continue it and always risk involved to abolish it." He said he agreed with Barrows that democracy can only thrive in an open atmosphere.

He was partly supported by Supervisor Arnold M. Baptiste of Novato, who said he agreed with slackening security in the Administration Building, but wanted a high level of security on the court floor.

"It's a heavy responsibility, but it's my judgment that we should reduce security," he said.

The most outspoken critic of any relaxation was Samuel W. Gardiner, presiding judge of Marin Superior Court.

Gardiner said he viewed the Civic Center as entering "a more critical situation" with the approaching trial of six San Quentin inmates, involved in a bloody prison escape attempt, than that recently gone through with Angela Davis.

"She (Miss Davis) hasn't been the danger from the point of view of violence," he said, adding the six inmates are "a built in danger." He added that he didn't foresee "in the future any way of reducing the security."

Among the other concerns expressed by Gardiner was that jury members and witnesses could be adversely affected psychologically by any lessening of security.

"The juries are satisfied with security now . . ." he said. "Take off the security and we're not going to get a cross-section of the community" because many won't be willing to serve in an atmosphere of fear and intimidation.

Gardiner's points were picked up by board chairman Louis H. Baar and supervisors Peter R. Arrigoni Jr. and John F. McInnis as primary reasons for continuing the present level of security.

Gun Testimony At Orr Hearing

By LARRY MOWELL

The first witness in a quasi-judicial hearing on the firing of Fairfax Police Chief James R. Orr testified last nightthe ousted chief once pointed a loaded gun at him.

Douglas Miller, a former Fairfax police cadet, told the Fairfax Board of Review that in the spring of 1970 Orr aimed a revolver at his face.

"I could see no provocation for the weapon being pulled out. I could see it was loaded. I was frightened at the time," Miller, now a Larkspur cadet, told the board.

Miller was the first of 13 witnesses to be called by City Atty. Wallace S. Myers in the hearing before te board. The board to which Orr appealed his ouster is the city agency with final say on whether the firing was justified.

City Administrator Robert E. Crowe fired Orr Sept. 30 and the city council, by a 3-2 vote, ratified the move four days later. Orr had been chief nine years.

More than 100 persons jammed the Fairfax Women's Club then to protest council ratification and about 70 were present last night. However, the audience, including all five councilmen, was generally silent in the courtroom atmosphere.

Orr sat quietly chewing while his attorney argued against consideration of charges not presented to the city council.

The additional charges, revealed for the first time last night, included six allegations of drunkenness, both on and off duty.

Included are claims that Orr was drunk and punched his own patrolman during efforts to subdue an unruly crowd in 1969, that he had to be restrained because he was drunk at a peace officers' meeting and that he became drunk at the home of a Fairfax woman and so frightened her that she called police.

Shaw had sought a court order forbidding the city to present such additional charges to the board of review, but his move was denied by Judge Samuel W. Gardiner in Marin Superior Court.

Miller was called to testify after two hours of bickering on ground rules between Myers and Orr's attorney, Leonard Shaw.

In addition to stating the chief aimed a gun at him, Miller said that when the chief visited the police station during the evening shift, "there was the odor of alcohol around his person."

He also said the department had no written rules on police procedure when he was with the force.

The statement for dismissal drawn up by Crowe lists 26 reasons lumped under inefficiency, incompetency, inexcusable neglect of duty and "other failure of good behavior, either during or outside of duty hours, which is of such a nature that it causes discredit to the police department of the town of Fairfax and to your employment."

Under the last heading are alleged instances of drunkenness and of a "social relationship in a manner offensive to propriety" with Marsha Kittelman, a Fairfax policewoman.

Miller testified that he saw the chief's car outside the Kittelman residence after 1 a.m. an average of two to three times a week between July 1969 and July 1970 when he went into the military.

The charges the board is considering are an amended list drawn up by Crowe Oct. 22. The list is more specific and, Shaw claimed, added charges to the sketchy allegations on which the city council acted.

However, the board denied Shaw's motion to bar evidence not considered by the council when it made its decision.

The board set further hearings for 7:30 p.m. Friday and 9 a.m. Saturday at the Fairfax Women's Club.

Nixon: Not Bound To Viet Date

WASHINGTON (UPI) —President Nixon signed into law today a $21.3 billion procurement bill but said he would not be bound by a section calling on him to set a "final date" for the total U.S. withdrawal from Indochina.

In a strongly worded statement, Nixon said: "To avoid any possible misconceptions, I want to emphasize that section 601 of this act —the so-called 'Mansfield amendment' —does not represent the policies of this administration."

The amendment requests that Nixon set a final withdrawal date subject only to the release of American prisoners of war and an accounting of GIs missing in action.

This was a dilution of the original wording of the amendment, sponsored by Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield, which would have set next spring as the time for total withdrawal, provided POWs were released.

Even without a specific time, however, Nixon refused to be bound by the amendment.

He said the amendment "expresses a judgment about the manner in which the American involvement in the war should be ended.

"However," Nixon added, "it is without binding force or effect; and it does not reflect my judgment about the way in

Developer Abruptly Withdraws Big Harbor Expansion Plans

By DAVID DIETZ

Herbert Madden Sr., owner of the Sausalito Yacht Harbor, last night abruptly withdrew plans for a $3 million expansion of his 425-berth facility.

The move, disclosed in a letter delivered to city hall, came a short time before the city council was to consider a conditional use permit that would have paved the way for the massive development. (Another Sausalito City Council story, page 12.)

Madden cited conditions attached to his plans earlier by the city planning commission as his reason for killing the proposal.

City Mgr. Albert R. St. Cyr, after the council meeting expressed surprise at Madden's pullout and said, "I think any move from now on will be his."

Madden once before had threatened to withdraw his plans — after the planning commission had sent the proposed development back to the drawing board — but he returned for another try at an Oct. 20 commission hearing following negotiations with city officials.

At that time, the commission included 28 conditions for approval of the permit, including a reduction of planned berths from 950 to 826. Madden indicated in his letter last night he couldn't live with all of the conditions.

"Actually we were at no time consulted," he said.

In addition to berth expansion, Madden's plan called for a 200-unit hotel-boatel near Humboldt and Johnson streets, boat sales, storage and repair facilities, commercial and office buildings and a fuel dock. And, despite Madden's misgivings, the plan also would have provided the public with boardwalk access, observation points, a minipark and several plazas with restrooms.

Said Madden in his letter: "It seems to us that the city for years has been trying to keep the multitudes out of Sausalito and at this time, it is endeavoring to create a recreation area for all the people of California at our expense."

He called upon the city to condemn land it feels should be set aside for public enjoyment.

A point of prime contention between Madden and city offi-

American Motors' Request To Hike Prices Approved

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Price Commission approved today a 2.5 per cent average increase requested by American Motors for itu 1972 model automobiles.

The commission said it was considering two other requests for automobile price increases —a 5.9 per cent average boost by the Chrysler Corp. and a 2 per cent increase by Ford.

The American Motors increase equals the yardstock laid down by the commission for most price increases after the freeze. The commission said the increase "was justified by allowable costs, taking into consideration productivity" and a statement by the manufacturer that the increase would not increase its profit margin over a three-year base period level.

The seven-member commission asked Chrysler for more information on its request and extended the 72-hour period by which it had expected to return a decision. The Ford increase request was based on "deferred labor costs," and the commission said it was studying it further.

At the same time, the commission turned down a request by a Connecticut electric firm, United Illuminating Co. of New Haven, to increase prices to compensate for having to buy more expensive but less polluting fuel oil for its generators.

It was the first action by the commission on a request for exemption from the post-freeze economic control guidelines.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Foreign Aid

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A conference committee today was assigned the job of reconciling differences in House and Senate-passed resolutions that would allow foreign aid to continue for two weeks while Congress finishes work on the program's budget.

The senate passed unanimously Tuesday and sent to the House a resolution that would keep congressional appropriations flowing into the program until Dec. 1.

Also covered by the resolution are funds for the Defense Department, the Office of Economic Opportunity and the District of Columbia government. Regular appropriations bills for these departments have not yet been enacted.

Study Welcomed

NEW DELHI (UPI) — Prime Minister Indira Gandhi told senior parliament members Tuesday she had no objection to an outside evalution of the Indo-Pakistani troubles as long as the study was made impartially, according to sources in her ruling Congress party.

Mrs. Gandhi, who recently returned from an extensive tour of the West, said she would not object to study by a group of foreigners as long as the study was not confined to the issue of East Pakistani guerrillas operating in border areas.

On the war front, news reports said that Agartala, the capital of Tripura territory on the eastern flank of East Pakistan, was shelled Tuesday by Pakistani gunners. The reports said there were some casualties but no official figure was available.

Abel Tribute

MOSCOW (UPI) —The army newspaper Krasnaya Zvezda Red Star paid glowing tribute today to Soviet masterspy Rudolf Abel, eulogizing him as a "dauntless, experienced intelligence man and an able leader."

The comments were quoted in an official Tass news agency dispatch some 10 hours after unofficial Soviet sources reported that Abel died Monday from lung cancer. He was 68.

Fashion Triumphs

ATHENS (UPI) — Greece's Puritan-minded military rulers once described long-haired youths and hippies as representatives of "anarchism and communism." But fashion has triumphed and long hair is now a way of life in Greece.

Today, Greek barbers appealed to the government to let them raise prices for haircuts which they said are becoming increasingly artistic and elaborate. Unless the $1 ceiling on haircuts is removed, they said, they cannot survive.

The plea was contained in a memorandum from the Supreme Federation of Barbers and Hairdressers to the Price Control Board.

Eban Uproar

JERUSALEM (UPI) — The Israeli Knesset (Parliament) burst into a rowdy uproar today over statements by Israeli Foreign Minister Abba Eban about an American television show. Eban shouted "liar" at one of the parliament members.

The parliamentary storm began when two opposition members called for Eban's resignation for saying on the David Frost show he saw no point now in hunting down Nazis for war crimes.

Samuel Tamir accused Eban of "treason against the law of bringing Nazi war criminals to justice for murdering the Jews" in World War II.

"You are a liar," Eban retorted angrily from the government front bench.

Eban's outburst brought an uproar with members banging tables and shouting until the speaker could bring order.

Boy, 13, Wounded

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI) — A 13-year-old boy running an errand for his mother was seriously wounded today when a submachine-gunner opened fire on a group of British troops removing barricades on the fringe of the Roman Catholic Bogside area in Londonderry, the army said.

Robert Canning was walking on Lonemoor Road when he was caught between the gunman and soldiers. The gunman leveled three bursts of about 15 shots at the troops and escaped.

No shots were fired back because of the chance of hitting other bystanders, the army said.

The youth received bullet wounds in his back.

Mideast Deadlock

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Two Israeli newspapers reported today that President Nixon was considering separate meetings with Israeli Prime Minister Golda Meir and Egyptian President Anwar Sadat in an effort to break the deadlock over Middle East peace negotiations.

There was no official denial of the reports in the morning newspapers Davar and Ha'aretz but an Israeli government official said, "I have had absolutely no indication the United States is planning such meetings."

The reports of a new Nixon initiative came as political sources in Tel Aviv reported that U.S. refusal to sell more F4 Phantom jet fighter-bombers to Israel would have to conduct a major review of its foreign policy.

DuPont Charged

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Federal Trade Commission (FTC) charged today that DuPont at one time promoted its Zerex antileak antifreeze while knowing the product could damage auto cooling systems.

But the FTC withdrew its earlier complaint alleging deception in Zerex's "can stabbing" television commercial, and said it was not sure that the current Zerex formula would damage cars. The agency said Zerex had been reformulated and its complaint concerned the original formula.

DuPont issued a statement saying it was confident the product's worth would be proven pending litigation of the case, and it complained that publicity resulting from the original FTC action unfairly hurt Zerex's repute with consumers.

Soledad Trial Drags Along

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The murder trial of the two surviving "Soledad Brothers" dragged into its ninth day today without a single juror seated.

The 12 persons seated tentatively in the jury box still have to be interrogated by the prosecutor and neither the state nor the defense have used any of their 30 peremptory challenges.

Attorneys for defendants John Clutchette and Fleeta Drumgo eliminated 16 prospective panelists for cause in eight days of trial during the first two weeks.

New Pan Am Chief Elected

NEW YORK (UPI)—William T. Seawell was elected Tuesday as president, chief operating officer and a director of PanAmerican World Airways. He will take over his duties Dec. 1.

Seawell is president of RollsRoyce, Aero Engines, Inc., and chairman of Rolls-Royce, Canada. A retired brigadier general in the Air Force, Seawell, 53, was senior vice president of operations for American Airlines.

"Mr. Seawell's primary function is to return the airline to profitability and he has been given all the authority and resources essential to do it," Pan-Am board chairman Najeeb E. Halaby said in making the announcement.

Yank 'Copters Kill 26 N. Viets

SAIGON (UPI) — American helicopter gunships killed 26 North Vietnamese in an attack in the jungles of the Central Highlands near the borders of South Vietnam, Laos and Cambodia, the U.S. command reported today.

Far to the south in the Mekong Delta, South Vietnamese forces killed 24 Viet Cong in driving off four separate Communist attacks against allied outposts. The government forces lost two dead in the clashes.

The fighting involving the U.S. helicopters broke out on Tuesday near Kontum in the Central Highlands. The helicopter crews called in artillery and fighter-bomber strikes.

The action in Kontum province followed recent indications that the Communists were stepping up pressure in the Central Highlands as they get more and more supplies and munitions from Laos over the Ho Chi Minh Trail.

As the Communists stepped up their truck traffic over the trial through Laos, U.S. B52s struck along and inside the Demilitarized Zone (DMZ) and were joined by carrier-xased jets in Laos Tuesday night and today.

Military sources also said the United States had doubled the number of aircraft carriers in the Gulf of Tonkin off Vietnam and halted Air Force withdrawals in the effort to stem the resupply attempt by the North Vietnamese.

The Navy now has two carriers rather than one in what the U.S. Command calls "Yankee Station" off Vietnam.

Two waves of B52s dropped nearly 180 tons of bombs on targets in and to the south of the DMZ. Other B52s along with jet fighter-bombers attacked the Communist supply network in nearby Laos.

To the south near Saigon, two South Vietnamese F5 "Freedom Fighter" jets collided in flight killing one of the pilots. The other parachuted to safety.

Military spokesmen said the jets, the fastest in the South Vietnamese air force, were carrying bombs and on a combat support mission.

The allied commands reported only three battles throughout South Vietnam Tuesday and none involved U.S. forces.

South Vietnamese forces killed 18 Viet Cong in two battles in the Mekong Delta at the nation's southern tip without any government casualties, military spokesmen said.

On the northern coast South Vietnamese infantrymen battled North Vietnamese regular troops killing five Communists and capturing one without any government troops killed or wounded.

U.S. sources in Saigon reported that American military intelligence squads under command of the Saigon headquarters are operating in secret in Cambodia. The sources said the teams question Communist prisoners of war, gather information in Phnom Penh and report to the U.S. Military Assistance Command in Saigon.

Cambodian government sources said Prime Minister Lon Nol had called a meeting of the Etat Major, or Cambodian military chiefs of staff to discuss the security of Phnom Penh. Field commanders southwest of the capital said documents captured from a North Vietnamese regiment disclosed undated plans for an attack against the capital.

THESE TWO 11-year-old Cambodian youths, and others like them, are a common sight along Highway Six where they stand guard duty 50 miles north of Phnom Penh, watching for Communists. As refugees stream from the fallen village of Rumlong and with Cambodian forces decimated, youngsters like these have been turned into real soldiers.

Battle Is Set For House Job

MONTPELIER, Vt. (UPI)—Republican Richard W. Mallary and Democrat J. William O'Brien won their primary elections Tuesday and will square off Jan. 7 in the election to fill Vermont's seat in the U.S. House of Representatives.

Mallary, the state administration-commissioner and Gov. Deane C. Davis' heir apparent, led the six-man Republican field with a total unofficial vote of 15,011—or 41 per cent —while his nearest challenger Secretary of State Richard C. Thomas, had 10,833.

O'Brien, a probate judge from Winooski who had been opposed by some party elements because of his efforts last year against former Gov. Philip H. Hoff's U.S. Senate campaign, topped a four-man field by getting 5,744 votes, or 45 per cent.

Nixon Is Unhappy Over Water Cleanup Proposal

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon has expressed fears through White House aides that water cleanup legislation passed by the Senate could prompt some industries to relocate in less developed nations.

The message was given to Republican members of the House Public Works Committee in a White House meeting Tuesday.

Several of the GOP lawmakers said they would press at a committee meeting today for full public hearings on the bill, although the House committee held its own extensive hearings on water pollution legislation last summer.

The dispute threatens to become a major 1972 presidential campaign issue since the sponsor of the Senate bill is Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine.

The bill passed the Senate 86 to 0 two weeks ago. The White House subsequently confirmed newspaper stories saying Nixon was dissatisfied with the bill, but gave few details. Tuesday, however, a participant gave an account of the White House meeting, paraphrasing comments made by presidential aides John Whittaker and John D. Ehrlichman.

Suit Filed On Denial Of Jobs

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —State and federal officials have been accused in a lawsuit filed by California Rural Legal Assistance (CRLA) of unfairly denying jobs to Mexican-Americans under a federal employment law.

In a suit filed Tuesday in U.S. District Court, seven Mexican-American farm workers claimed they were denied jobs under the $1 billion Emergency Employment Act for failing to meet educational and experience requirements which had little relationship to the job in question.

It also charged that they were required to take job tests in English.

Agnew's Grid Style Ridicule Of Demos

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Vice President Spiro T. Agnew turned his rhetoric on Democratic presidential hopefuls Tuesday, ridiculing most of them as wayward football players.

Of Sen. Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota, he said:

"His touchdown production is low; his pass completion percentage embarrassing, his ball-handling less than sure. But he does move. He moves even if it means rolling completely out of the pocket and runnning out of bounds."

He said Sen. Edmund Muskie of Maine "seems determined to keep his own game plan consistent at all costs. But I seriously doubt if two yards and a cloud of dust is sufficient to impress even his fellow Democrats in the coming year."

He classified Sen. Edward Kennedy of Massachusetts and George McGovern of South Dakota as "the compulsive bomb throwers of the opposition —in the football, not the revolutionary sense."

Agnew said Kennedy "believes he knows more about how to wind down the war, to settle the Pakistan issue and deal with the affairs of Northern Ireland than the President —or for that matter (British) Prime Minister Heah."

Of Los Angeles Mayor Sam Yorty's just-announced candidacy for the Democratic presidential nomination, Agnew said "the surprising news is that he did it here in Los Angeles. The absentee mayor has been in New York more than the mayor of New York."

Agnew spoke to a management conference of the International Food Service Manufacturers Association. He defended the Nixon government's record on free school lunches, saying Humphrey had called the administration "this chiseling outfit," charging the lunch program was being cut back.

On the contrary, he said, the administration "in its 35 months in office increased to 8 million the number of needy children receiving school lunches ... an increase of nearly 300 per cent from the 2.8 million who were receiving free lunches when the administration (Humphrey) served left office in January, 1969."

Agnew said he dined recently on a lunch of the kind given school children under the program and "that hamburger was better than some of the food on the banquet circuit."

Oil Tanker Is Floated Free

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A tanker carrying 562,000 barrels of oil from the Arabian gulf ran aground in San Francisco Bay Tuesday but was floated free after part of its cargo was transferred to another vessel.

The Coast Guard said the 849-foot Phillips Louisiana, en route to a local refinery, ran aground about a quarter of a mile out in the bay just before dawn. It was refloated several hours later after parts of its cargo was transferred to another Phillips Petroleum Co. tanker.

There were no signs of leakage from the tanker as it headed for docking, the Coast Guard said.

The Phillips Louisiana was headed for the Phillips' Avon refinery near Martinez.

RELIC DAMAGED — The roof and side of a century-old log cabin in Boyd Memorial Park, San Rafael, bore evidence of fire damage today. The cabin, built in the 1870s on the site of what is now city hall, was moved to the park in 1968 for use as a play house.

$30,000 In Fire Damage To Homes

Fire caused heavy damage last night and today to homes in three Marin County communities, but no injuries were reported.

The blazes, in San Rafael, Sausalito and San Anselmo, caused a total of $30,000 in damage.

The most serious fire occurred in San Rafael, where the home of James L. Thompson at 317 Glen Park Avenue received $20,000 damage in a blaze which broke out shortly after midnight.

The fire started when clothing in a dryer caught fire as a result of an attempt to relight the gas unit. Flames spread throughout the laundry area, then to a hallway, dining room, living room and roof. The rest of the house suffered heat and smoke damage.

About $5,000 damage was reported at the home of Dr. Robert M. Perlman at 416 North Street, Sausalito, when fire erupted from an overheated sauna. The blaze, at 9:10 p.m., also knocked out electrical service in the area for several hours.

In the third blaze, a carport of a duplex occupied by Janet Barrosi at 52-54 Tamalpais Avenue incurred about $5,000 damage. A paper light shade which caught on fire was blamed. One auto parked in the carport was damaged and another was saved.

Return To Prison Is Being Fought

A last minute legal effort to keep an Oakland ironworker from going back to San Quentin Prison on a technicality was undertaken today by attorney Salle S. Solady.

"I'm going to file in Marin Superior Court and in federal court in San Francisco for a stay of execution," Mrs. Soladay said.

If her efforts fail, Frank A. Nubin, 46, who has been free on bail for 22 months, will have to reenter prison Friday, under an order issued reluctantly by Marin Superior Court Judge E. Warren McGuire.

Nubin was sent to prison in 1961 on an assault with a deadly weapon charge. Paroled in 1967, his final discharge was set for Jan. 4, 1969.

Because of a quarrel with his wife on Christmas Eve, 1968, the California Adult Authority revoked his parole. Nubin's fate hung on the date of that revocation.

Mrs. Soladay contended that the revocation came after the final discharge date of Jan. 4, 1969, whereas the adult authority maintained that the parole was revoked on Jan. 3, and written documents giving a Jan. 31 date were due to a clerical error.

Judge McGuire last Friday ordered Nubin back into custody. He acknowledged today that it was a technical revocation just 24 hours before discharge.

"If I were the Adult Authority, I could not in good conscience send him back," McGuire said. But under the law and the facts presented, he said the Adult Authority had technically acted within the legal period.

Log Cabin At Boyd Park Hit By Fire

A small log cabin, built at the home of a Mexican War veteran in the 1870s and later moved to Boyd Memorial Park as a play house, was severely damaged by fire in San Rafael last night.

Fire Chief Robert E. Marcucci said the cabin, located above the park's main play area, was hit by fire of unknown origin at 10:48 p.m. Flames broke through the roof and charred the sides of the cabin.

A link with Marin's past, the hand-hewn cabin was built at the Fifth Avenue and C Street home of Maj. George W. Stillwell, a veteran of the Mexican War and former Marin supervisor, by Charles H. Fish, a miner and gardener who cared for the grounds at the residence.

Fish notched the logs with an ax and erected the cabin much as early settlers had done.

The building was discovered in later years when Dr. Leo L. Stanley of Fairfax, longtime Marinite and historian, owned the Stillwell land. It was moved in 1968 to its present site when the city bought the Stanley property to build a new city hall.

Two Indicted For Death Of Guard

The Marin County Grand Jury last night indicted two San Quentin convicts for the fatal stabbing of a guard who was slain while protecting the life of a wounded prisoner.

Indicted on murder charges were Earl Billy Gibson, 28, serving a life term for first degree burglary in 1965 in Los Angeles County, and Lawrence Justice, 28, convicted in 1968 on two felony assaults and grand theft in Los Angeles County.

They were accused of murdering correctional officer Leo Gaston Davis, 38, of Richmond, in the prison hospital on July 21. Davis was on guard duty outside the hospital cell containing inmate Herman Earl Johnson, 25, who had been stabbed in the prison yard two days earlier.

Johnson had apparently become a marked man because he testified in the trial of seven Soledad Prison inmates accused of killing a guard there a year earlier, prison authorities said.

Davis, unarmed according to then-standing policy, was guarding the door to Johnson's cell when a group of convicts attacked him. Although David died of nine stab wounds, the convicts were unable to get at his ward.

MADDEN

cials was the future of the sandspit area east of Humboldt at Anchor Street, now held by Madden under lease from the city until the year 2003.

St. Cyr, in a memorandum to the council recommending conditional approval of the use permit, endorsed a plan under which Madden would be granted building bonuses in other portions of the development if the city could regain immediate control of the spit area.

Roland Mays, architect for Madden, had indicated at the Oct. 20 planning commission session that either his client should be allowed to develop the spit area or the city should buy back the lease or compensatory development should be allowed in another portion of the property.

Aside from the recreation and sandspit issues, Madden's letter objected that the planning commission had trimmed the number of propsoed parking spaces for the development from 312 to 270. Madden said the reduction would add to the city's "already overburdened" parking.

Madden, whose proposal had been before city officials since May, also noted taxes were running $22,000 a year on his property in the absence of expansion.

meanwhile, made a fresh attempt to resolve the dilemma of how far to go in granting exceptions to its rule against retroactive wage increases that were blocked by the 90-day freeze.

The 15-member board convened at midmorning to pick up where it left off in a long session Tuesday which produced no decision —except a refusal to go along with labor members' insistence on permitting full retroactive payments.

The board is under pressure from teacher groups to permit payment of higher salaries teachers were due at the start of the new term, but which were blocked in most cases when the freeze was imposed by President Nixon Aug. 15, prior to opening of the fall term.

Chairman George H. Bolt said the board's staff also was studying the newly negotiated soft coal industry contract which was said to contain a wage increase of nearly 40 per cent. The board has set a general guideline of 5.5 per cent for annual pay raises, but made clear exceptions would be considered.

Melodrama Set At High School

A short one-act melodrama, "He Ain't Done Right By Nell" by Wilbur Braun, will be presented at 8 p.m. Friday at San Rafael High School by the San Rafael High School Drama Club.

The heroine, Nell, will be played by Stacy Scott. The hero, Jack Logan will be played by Jack Jenkins. The villian, Hilton Hayes will be played by Peter Whitney.

Others in the cast are Robin Longheart, Cathy Selmi and George Plank.

The student director is Edward Decker and technical supervisor is Karen Pullin.

Plan For Park To Be Reviewed

The County of Sonoma plans to develop a play and barbecue area adjacent to the city boat launching ramp off Lakeville Highway.

A meeting of the city council committee studying all city recreation programs will be held following the commission meeting at 5 p.m.

Senate Votes To Kill Car Excise Tax

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Senate rejected 64 to 25, today a move to merely suspend, rather than repeal, the federal excise tax on new cars.

Senators decided to go along with President Nixon's proposal to kill the 7 per cent tax. Nixon predicted an upsurge in auto sales resulting from removal of the levy would create half a million jobs.

Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., sponsored the motion to suspend the tax between Aug. 15, 1971, and Jan. 1, 1973.

Cranston also proposed that the money raised by the tax be used for mass transit, air pollution and other transportation needs. He said the tax would raise about $20 billion between 1973 and 1981.

Sen. Wallace F. Bennett, R-Utah, speaking against the Cranston proposal, said it would create chaos in the auto industry.

"Everybody would want to buy a car before the price goes up," Bennett said, creating what he said would be intolerable distortion in an industry which directly or indirectly employs one out of every six workers in the country.

Cranston's amendment was offered to President Nixon's request to cut taxes by $15.5 billion a year over the next three years.

Amendments tacked on to the bill by the Senate —but still short of ultimate enactment — would raise the three-year total by more than $10 billion, mostly through additional tax relief for individuals.

Business firms also would benefit from Senate changes. In back to-back votes, senators agreed to proposals to give tax relief to firms which locate plants in declining rural areas or in urban ghettoes.

The proposals, adopted Tuesday night as amendments to President Nixon's tax bill, would give a total of $750 million a year in tax cuts as an inducement to firms to build plants in those areas.

Sen. James B. Pearson, R-Kan., proposed the $500 million tax cut to firms which locate in rural areas which have lost population. Sen. Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn., then submitted a $250 million cut for plants which locate in central cities with more than 6 per cent unemployment.

Other amendments offered today would increase Social Security benefits next year by 5 per cent and would give states more than $1 billion to meet rising welfare costs.

Both were expected to be defeated on the grounds that the Senate can best deal with the issue next year when the House-passed welfare reform bill, which also provides a 5 per cent Social Security increase in pensions, is expected to reach the Senate floor.

In Tuesday's voting on the major tax bill, the Senate:

Voted to give taxpayers at or below the poverty level a $992 million tax cut on their 1971 income. The amendment, by Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., would increase the minimum standard deduction to $1,300 for taxes on 1971 earnings instead of for 1972 and future years as proposed by the Senate Finance Committee. Humphrey's amendment would relieve 2.7 million poor taxpayers of all tax liability for 1971 earnings.

UPI photographer Anant Chumchuen reported that M41 tanks had moved into position around the parliament building.

Foreign Minister Thanat Khoman, who was attending a dinner at the Foreign Correspndents Club when the coup was announced, told newsmen all of Thailand's international agreements "will be respected and honored."

Internal bickering had been reported over Thailand's decision to vote for admission of Red China to the United Nations but Thanat said he doubted if China policy had anything to do with the situation—"it was an internal thing; it was due to abuses of parliamentary and democratic freedom."

Lot Motion Is Made By Wornum

The Marin County Board of Supervisors' decision yesterday to permit the City of San Rafael to blacktop the old county courthouse site for a parking lot was made on a motion by Supervisor Michael Wornum.

The Independent-Journal erred yesterday in reporting the motion was made by Supervisor John F. McInnis. McInnis seconded it.

SCHOOL

one Wildcat cheer revised for the day.

Student body Pres. Paul Matthew said the students had intended to walk out of classes about 10 a.m. and stage a rally in support of the striking teachers at the entrance to the school.

Both striking teachers and students themselves said the planned walkout was the idea of students and had not been instigated by the teachers.

Following a search of the building and grounds by working faculty and staff, the students were ordered to return to their classrooms.

Most did, but about 100 gathered near the picketing teachers, an area declared off-limits for students by Rev. John Heaney, dean of students, according to Matthew.

Students who were on their lunch hour were allowed to remain near the pickets, but those with classes were ordered to return to the school building. Most said they were on their lunch break.

Bechtold disputed a claim made by Father Lacey yesterday that things were going "very smoothly" at the school despite the strike by 14 teachers, including four sympathetic nuns.

He said the fact that some students were on their lunch period at 9:30 a.m. today indicated things were not going that smoothly.

The lay teachers are members of the Secondary Teachers Association which went on strike Monday in a salary dispute against seven Bay Area schools operated by the San Francisco Archdiocese.

Bechtold said the striking teachers sent a telegram last night to Archbishop Joseph T. McGucken, who he said was in Washington, D.C.

The telegram said the teachers were willing to negotiate at any time and urged the archbishop to return to San Francisco to negotiate with them.

Father Bernard Cummins, superintendent of the Archdiocesan schools, said yesterday that negotiations with the teachers would resume tomorrow.

which the war should be brought to a conclusion.

"My signing of the bill that contains this section, therefore, will not change the policies I have pursued and that I shall continue to pursue toward this end."

The bill Nixon signed sets aside $1.1 billion for the Safeguard antiballistic missile system and also sets a limitation of $321.5 million for all appropriations for the CSA cargo plane this fiscal year, in addition to funds for other weapons procurement.

Nixon said that the fact of his signing the bill would not alter his policy. He defined it as follows:

"Our goal —and my hope --is a negotiated settlement providing for the total withdrawal of all foreign forces, including our own; for the release of all prisoners and for a ceasefire throughout Indochina."

SECURITY

points would not be worth the risk, Baar reasoned.

Arrigoni, meanwhile, said he felt "there are too many ifs" involved in reducing security.

The $32,000 which could be saved this fiscal year "isn't my concern," he said. "It is the people who work here . . . the people who come here . . . they are the ones we have to put a value on. I don't think today is the day to lessen security."

"If it were not for the San Quentin uprising I'm sure I would vote to decrease security," McInnis said.

Among speakers opposing relaxing security were Sheriff Louis P. Mountanos, Winifred S. Frederick of the Irate Taxpayers of Marin and Harold Stockstad of the Marin Council for Civic Affairs.

Favoring relaxation, as recommended by Barrows, were County Librarian Bruce D. Bajema and Marge Nacris of the county planning department.

The supervisors, in agreeing to continue security, said they wanted a study on the insurance risk when security is dropped since, they said, insurance companies may not be interested in covering the building without internal security.

They also requested study of possibly setting up checkpoints inside the Civic Center where the Administration Building leads into the Hall of Justice.

That idea had been discussed at length during the meeting, but dropped because of inadequate information.

OPAL RILEY

Opal G. Riley, 70, of Novato, died yesterday in a local hospital after a long illness.

She was a native of Missouri and lived there until moving to Sacramento 33 years ago. For the past four years she had made her home with her son and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. James G. Warner of 2230 Oak Knoll Road.

She is also survived by her husband, Louis Riley of Sacramento; another son, Oscar E. Warner of Menlo Park; two sisters, Sylvia Heater and Pauline DeShon; six brothers, Marvin, Norman, Peter, Donald and Forest Barnett all of St. Joseph, Mo. and William Barnett of Los Angeles, and three grandchildren.

Funeral will be at 11 a.m. Friday at Harry M. Williams Mortuary in San Rafael. Entombment will be in Mount Tamalpais Cemetery, San Rafael.

PERRY, JOHN (JACK) — In loving memory of my husband JOHN (JACK) PERRY who passed away 20 years ago today, November 17th.

The years are passing away one by one,
Time speeds and twenty years have passed
Since death its gloom, its shadow cast.
God knows how I have missed you
In a house that is still lonely today,
But there is nothing I can do but wait and pray
Until the time we'll meet in the vast eternity.

Scientific Opinions Differ —Slightly—On Mars Life

PASADENA, Calif. (UPI)—A leading planetary scientist says the chance of life existing on Mars is at best a longshot and he blames man's imagination for the idea in the first place.

"Mars somehow has extended beyond the realm of science, and so grabbed emotions and thoughts that it has actually distorted scientific opinion about Mars," said Dr. Bruce C. Murray, professor of planetary science at the California Institute of Technology and a member of the Mariner 9 science team.

"The reason this happened is that man as a human species has been guilty of wishful thinking collectively that Mars would be like Earth. He had a very deep-seated desire to find some other place that may somehow be habitable."

Murray said investigations by three earlier Mariner spacecraft that flew past Mars in 1965 and 1969 showed that the planet is very hostile to earthly forms of life. It is cold and dry, has no atmosphere of carbon dioxide with almost no water vapor and there is no evidence Mars ever had oceans.

"I really don't think there is any life on Mars," Murray said at a Caltech panel discussion. "There never has been any evidence of it. It has just been a very attractive idea. You cannot disprove that any more than you can disprove there is life on the moon."

Dr. Carl Sagan, Cornell University astronomer who also is a Mariner 9 scientist, said he agreed with Murray that man's desires may have influenced his conclusions. But Sagan said, "that doesn't mean that because a possibility is interesting it isn't true."

"Just as there clearly have been excesses in the direction of conclusions that there is life on Mars, I think there also have been excesses in the other directon," Sagan said. "There is, as far as I can tell, no more reason to conclude that Mars is lifeless than it is to conclude that it is inhabited."

Murray said the notion of life on Mars developed in the late 19th century and grew out of proportion in the early 20th century under the dominant personality of Percival Lowell, an expert on the Far East who became interested in Mars and formed the Lowell Observatory near Flagstaff, Ariz., in 1894.

Several astronomers in the last half of the 1800s reported seeing lines on Mars which they called canals. Lowell claimed he, too, saw them and in time he identified over 500 canals.

Lowell's observations interested the general public because he said the canals were not natural features but the work of "intelligent creatures, alike to us in spirit, though not in form."

MANSION FOR CHIEF JUSTICE

The Senate Judiciary Committee has agreed to accept this $250,000 mansion as an official residence for the chief justice of the United States. Office of the home and a $500,000 fund to maintain it was made by G. Howland Chase and his wife, May Hale Chase. Chief Justice Warren E. Burger has advised the committee, which took action on the offer yesterday, that he was prepared to occupy the mansion if Congress accepted the gift.

Children Offered For Sale

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (UPI) —Police converged on a restaurant and motel Tuesday night and arrested two men accused of attempting to sell two Oklahoma city toddlers for $7,000 and a used car.

Detectives were investigating the possibility the children, aged 2, and 3, were kidnaped, but initial charges were in violation of Florida law for "attempting to sell children."

Robert Westenhaver, 37, and Milford Bennett, 22, both of Oklahoma City, were taken into custody.

County investigator W.E. Beacham told newsmen they were attempting to sell Teresa Cox, 3, and Butch Cox, 2, to a Jacksonville couple, whom police did not identify.

Beacham said the men claimed they obtained the children from their mother, Mrs. Dorothy Cox of Oklahoma City who complained she had an alcoholic husband to support and needed the $4,000 the pair promised her for sale of the children. Police said the men intended getting $7,000 and a used car in exchange for the two children.

The FBI was checking with Mrs. Cox, who said she has another child at home with her.

Police said Bennett met the Jacksonville couple a year ago and the husband mentioned in conversation he and his wife would like to adopt some children.

The man allegedly paid a $100 "deposit" for the children, but then went to police who moved in for the arrests.

Arraignment was scheduled for later today in Jacksonville.

'Right On' For A Rock Concert

Promoters of a "hard rock' benefit concert Nov. 24 in the Marin Veterans Memorial Building won a unanimous "right on" from the county supervisors yesterday — with a warning that any troubles could result in future restrictions on the building's use. (Another supervisors story, page 1.)

Forty to 50 supporters of the concert crowded the supervisors' chambers to hear the building use issue debated. It turned out to be no debate. The board listened to a parade of Marin County youth, human rights, civil liberties and police-community relations spokesmen favoring the concert, but no opposition surfaced.

Supervisor John F. McInnis then commended Leon G. Kalimos, director of the new building, for seeking the board's policy on such concerts, and moved for approval of the Nov. 24 event.

Kalimos had reported that other auditorium managers had problems with rock groups and their audiences. He recommended requirement of special insurance if the board permitted the Quicksilver Messenger, Big Brother and the Holding Company and similar groups to perform for the benefit of the Marin Open House. "'Hard Rock' has a philosophy of 'turning people on'" that might result in damage to the building, Kalimos wrote.

"I get 'turned on' by all sorts of things that don't faze young people a bit," Supervisor John F. McInnis declared. "that term is a lousy one."

All the supervisors spoke in favor of putting the building to the widest possible variety of uses before drafting restrictive rules.

Fred Mayer, Sausalito pharmacist, county youth commission member and chairman of the California Pharmaceutical Association's drug abuse council, said he had put up $500 seed money to reserve the building and advertise the concert in hopes of raising $2,400. The money is needed to keep alive the teen-age Reach Out answering service operation of the Marin Open House antidrug center, Mayer said.

Reach Out participants offered to supply 20 teen-age workers to usher and keep the concert audience orderly; Mayer said he could provide eight off-duty Sausalito policemen and private security officers as needed.

Supporting the concert were John Donovan of the American Civil Liberties Union; Gerald J. Hood, county human rights director; L. Charles Smith, coordinator for the county youth commission and county juvenile delinquency prevention commission; Bella Aaron of the police-community relations panel; Ariene Lind of Marin Alternative; Albert Kline, attorney for Marin Open House, and Stephen Kramer, real estate firm owner and rock concert fan.

61 Arrested At White House

WASHINGTON (UPI) — U.S. park police Tuesday arrested 61 persons, most of them from Boston, on charges of blocking the northwest gate of the White House

The demonstrators were participating in a movement called the "Daily Death Toll," which each day since Nov. 8, has sent persons from different cities to Washington where they attempted to seek entrance to the White House. Once refused, the group flops down on the street.

The demonstrators are protesting the Nixon administration's Vietnamization policy which they say is "substituting Asian deaths for American casualties." Last week, 250 persons were arrested on disorderly conduct charges in connection with the protests.

The Third Time Was A Charm For Police

BEIRUT (UPI)—James Calvin Sirjes, arrested on a charge of trying to smuggle hashish, slipped out of handcuffs by what police described as a "very technical way." Caught and handcuffed again, he escaped by smashing the cuffs against a wall.

Police dispensed with the handcuffs the third time and quickly put him behind bars.

Charges In Forbidden Game Sales

TACOMA, Wash. (UPI)—Criminal charges have been filed against five men, including a taxidermist, for allegedly killing and selling mountain goats and bald and golden eagles.

The charges, announced Tuesday, said the mountain goats were taken in the remote Cascade Mountains and shipped to New Jersey, Montana and Ohio.

The eagles, protected by federal law, were taken mostly from southwestern Washington and their frozen carcasses mailed to Chicago to be mounted for private collections.

"This is an example of persons using the wildlife resource of a state purely for commercial gain," said state game director Carl Crouse. He said the actions were "in no way representative of the thousands of persons in Washington who enjoy and participate in the sport of hunting."

The five men, including Tacoma taxidermist Paul Hamel, were charged with illegal possession of 12 mountain goats. Federal charges were expected soon in connection with the killing of seven eagles.

All the charges were the result of a coordinated investigation involving the state game department and the Federal Fish and Wildlife Service.

Supervisors Delay Road Grading Policy

The Marin County Board of Supervisors yesterday continued for two weeks consideration of a proposed interim ordinance to control private road grading.

The proposal, adopted Monday by the county planning commission, brought criticism from supervisors who noted that the department of pubic workd had not been consulted.

"The planning commission didn't have the courtesy to ask the director of public works (Ray K. Foreaker) to speak at its meeting (before adopting the proposal)," chairman Louis H. Baar said.

Supervisors asked Foreaker months ago to begin study of loopholes in the existing grading and excavation ordinance after they learned of extensive road grading by subdividers in West Marin.

In calling for the continuation, Baar urged more coordination between the planning department, planning commission and the public works department.

Marin County Board of Supervisors Also:

FAIRGROUNDS — Heard a report from Pierre W. Joske, county parks and recreation director, that most of the $75,000 budgeted for fairgrounds maintenance will go to salaries.

LAND CONTRACTS — Notified seven West Marin property owners that their property has been recommended for removal from Land Conservation Act contracts which give tax breaks to owners of agricultural lands. The owners may protest the action and a hearing will be set.

STAFFORD LAKE — Authorized an agreement with George Grossi for the purchase of 65 acres of land for inclusion with the Stafford Lake County Park.

GRAND JURY — Authorized submittal of the county's response to the grand jury report for 1970.

LEGAL AID — Asked the county administrator's staff to report its recommendation in three weeks on the Marin Legal Aid Society request for an emergency allocation of at least $5,000 to meet increasing expenses.

Poultry Plants Hit; Lack Of Sanitation

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Government investigators reported today they found "unacceptable" sanitary conditions in 68 poultry slaughtering plants they visited, including one that an inspector compared to a cheap horror movie scene.

The General Accounting Office (GAO), in a report to Congress, concluded that the unsanitary conditions were mainly the result of weak enforcement policies of the Consumer and Marketing Service in the Agriculture Department.

None of the plants was identified, according to GAO investigative policies.

The GAO said one of the 17 plants covered in the prior investigation, identified only as "Plant A," was revisited in January, 1971 with a new Agriculture Department inspector who commented that "the ceiling areas gave the appearance of a cheap horror movie scene with numerous cobwebs and heavy dust accumulations."

Former 'Boy Wonder' Is Dead

OKLAHOMA CITY (UPI)— James Howard Edmondson, 46, the nation's youngest governor when he was elected Oklahoma's chief executive 13 years ago, died today of an apparent heart attack in his suburban home.

Edmondson, also a former U.S. senator, had been labeled the "boy wonder" of Oklahoma politics when elected governor at age 33 in 1958. He was a Democrat.

He was the brother of Rep. Ed Edmondson, D-Okla., who is running for the U.S. Senate next year.

Nixons Plan A California Holiday

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon and the First Lady are expected to fly to California next week to spend the Thanksgiving weekend at their San Clemente home.

The President's daughter, Julie Eisenhower, and her husband David will not be along for the trip however, spending their holiday instead with Eisenhower's parents in Phoenixville, Pa. It was not known where the President's other daughter, Tricia Cox and her husband, would spend the holiday.

$300 In Damage To Restrooms

Vandals caused about $300 damage to the restrooms at Pioneer Memorial Park during the past weekend, Novato police reported today.

White paint was thrown on the walls and orange paint sprayed on walls, fixtures and mirrors, obscenities were written on walls, paper towels burned and a broken beer bottle left on the floor, police said. Orange paint also was sprayed on an outside lamp post.

The damage occurred between 6 p.m. Saturday and 8 a.m. yesterday, when it was discovered by the public works department, police reported.

Youth Problems Will Be Aired

A group of homeowners in the Dominican area of San Rafael is expected tomorrow night to grapple with a community juvenile problem that has led to extensive vandalism, attempted robbery and arson.

San Rafael police say a handful of youths ranging from 14 to 18 years old is at the cause of the trouble, which has aroused property owners in the area and has triggered the departure of the Marin Music Chest from Forest Meadows Theater on the Dominican College campus.

The Music Chest, which stages concerts at the site each year, recently announced it was moving to the Marin Veterans Memorial Building because of extensive property vandalism.

John Brebner, artistic director for the Marin Shakespeare Festival, said his organization also has been plagued by the youth problem, noting the festival's general manager was beaten and kicked by a gang of youths who tried to steal gate receipts from the summer's last performance on Sept. 24.

Three youths — Christopher Wooton, 17, of 201 C Street; Guy Walker Lyons, 16, of 1364 Grand Avenue, and Guy Michael Dixon, 14, of 121 Rafael Drive, all San Rafael — were booked at Marin Juvenile Hall on suspicion of strongarm robbery as a result of the incident.

Police said six other youths were involved in the attempted theft and beating, and all but two are Dominican area residents.

Brebner said the festival has been troubled by marauding youths for nearly five seasons. Two fires set by arsonists have damaged or destroyed festival equipment in the last two years, the 1970 blaze wrecking $4,500 in costumes.

Brebner also reported extensive vandalism to festival property at the hands of juveniles he says are "practically out of control" of their parents and added that numerous items were stolen from a storage shed last season.

In August, a Dominican youth was cited by juvenile authorities for shouting profanity and setting off firecrackers during a festival performance.

"The police have told us time and time again they'd like to take action," Brebner said. "But they're very frustrated . . . it's a matter of parents being almost totally unable to control their children."

The Black Canyon Homeowners Association will hold its semiannual meeting at 8 p.m. tomorrow in Bertrand Hall on the Dominican campus, and president Walter Smith said it is expected the juvenile issue will come up.

Bush Fires Back At Red China

UNITED NATIONS (UPI)— In a statement approved by the White House, U.S. Ambassador George Bush hit back at the new Chinese Communist delegate to the United Nations Tuesday night with the charge that his attacks on the United States were "intemperate language."

Instead of making a speech from the floor, Bush issued a statement to delegates following a quick trip to Washington, apparently to see President Nixon who is scheduled to visit China next year. Informed sources said it was approved by the White House.

Some delegates expressed surprise at the statement in reply to the inaugural speech to the U.N. Assembly Monday by Chinese deputy Foreign Minister Chiao Kuan-hua which attacked both the United States and Russia.

Delegates viewed Chiao's speech in varying lights. Some believed his attacks on the two big powers were surprising in the light of the rhetoric of good feeling of the welcoming addresses to the Chinese. Others regarded the speech as moderate.

Bush sharply attacked Chiao's speech.

"Yesterday's inaugural address of the representative of the People's Republic of China was a disappointment for all those who wish to see the United Nations promote the goals of peace and progress," Bush said.

"There was nothing new in the intemperate language—the phrases are familiar to those who have seen the standard propaganda of the People's Republic of China. What was surprising—and disturbing — was the decision to launch participation in this world body by firing these empty cannons of rhetoric," Bush said.

Reed Education Will Undergo Panel Study

A committee to assist Reed School District in evaluating progress of education in the district was appointed last night by trustees, according to Supt. Ralph D. Giovanniello.

The eight-member research and instructional assessment committee also will look at Project Sigma — Reed's experimental math program — and determine if the concept can be extended to other subjects and other schools and grades.

Trustees told the committee to make recommendations on testing of students, evaluating overall education in the district and specific programs as well as updating the district's goals statement.

Giovanniello said the committee also will continue to administer Project Sigma, in which attempts are made to involve students in setting mathematics goals and emphasizes evaluation of student performances.

Committee members named were Philip B. Bass, Stanley H. Breitbard, David B. Hudnut, J. Donald McCune, Alexander L. Mazour, Mark Noble Jr., Stuart R. Pollak and Robert Simmons.

Appointed to the sixth, seventh and eighth-grade fact-finding committee were: Mrs. Richard T. Bergsund, Robert A. Mills, Robert M. Kennedy, Mrs. Albert H. Sennett, Mrs. John H. Ball, Mrs. Robert J. Boyd, Jack Woodside, Joseph D. Stein and Mrs. Robert A. Fishman.

The Reed School District board also:

GRANT — Applied for a state grant of between $50,000 and $60,000 for library materials for Reedland Woods School.

TYPEWRITERS — Approved purchase of 15 used typewriters for $975 for Reedland Woods.

AIDE — Hired Mildred Summerlin as a part-time library aide at Reedland Woods at $339 per month.

ENROLLMENT — Heard a report that enrollment is 1,875, down from 1,887 last month.

Cancer Could Be Cured, If . . .

UPTON, N.Y. (UPI)—The director of the National Cancer Institute said Tuesday he thought the nation could spend $1 billion a year effectively for cancer research, but that it would take years of spending at that level to produce a victory in the war on cancer.

Dr. Carl G. Baker, the director of the research center in Bethesda, Md. said if the spending was increased, "by a decade from now we ought to see significant results."

Dr. Baker said he did not agree with critics who contend that spending that much on cancer research would drain resources away from other areas of bio-medical research.

But he added that $1 billion a year could not be used efficiently until 1978 because of the difficulty of training enough skilled man-power.

Alternate Sonoma Bus Plan Asked

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Western Greyhound Lines offered an alternate plan to serve Eastern Sonoma County in hearings before the state Public Utilities Commission yesterday.

The alternate was a sidelight to hearings on Greyhound's proposal to abandon all commute service in Marin and Sonoma counties when the Golden Gate Bridge District bus fleet begins rolling early next year.

The bridge district opposed elimination of Greyhound service to the city of Sonoma and Valley of the Moon area commuters. The district cannot serve the area for at least another year, according to Dale W. Luehring, district general manager.

Under the Greyhound alternative, commute runs would continue between Santa Rosa, Kenwood, Glen Ellen and Schellville, but riders would have to change buses in San Rafael to get to and from San Francisco.

The Utilities commission took the abandonment and changed-service proposals under consideration, according to Gene Raleigh, public relations spokesman for the commission.

Hope Top Entertainer

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—The American Guild of Variety Artists picked top entertainers from its ranks Tuesday, naming Bob Hope "entertainer of the year".

Condition Of Driver Serious

A Novato man was reported in serious condition today at Marin General Hospital after his stopped car was rammed on Highway 101 in Larkspur yesterday, the California Highway Patrol reported.

Edmond St. Andre, 57, of 2675 Center Road, suffered head injuries in the 10:25 p.m. accident on the northbound freeway and was being treated in the hospital's intensive care unit today.

Officers said St. Andre's car spun out, hit the center divider and came to rest in the slow lane just south of Lucky Drive. His car then was rammed by an auto driven by Brandon E. Tynan, 36, of Windsor, Sonoma County, the patrol said.

Tynan was treated at Marin General Hospital for scrapes.

Lawsuits Filed In Air Crash

SEATTLE (UPI) — Twenty-five lawsuits averaging $1 million each have been filed so far against Alaska Airlines in connection with the crash of a Boeing 727 near Juneau, Alaska, Sept. 4 which killed 111 persons.

Henry Camarot, general counsel for the airline, said Tuesday there probably will be an initial case to determine liability in the worst single-plane crash in U.S. history.

Bennett Hits Sausalito With $2 Million Suit

William M. Bennett, 53, of Kentfield, member of the state Board of Equalization, filed a $2 million suit yesterday in Marin Superior Court against the city of Sausalito and its police, claiming he was falsely arrested for drunken driving.

The suit, filed by attorney William O. Weissich, contended Bennett was arrested April 25 in the parking lot of the Valhalla Restaurant and transported to the county jail at speeds exceeding 90 to 95 miles per hour.

Bennett accused police of assault, battery, and causing mental suffering and damage to his reputation.

A Marin Municipal Court Jury found Bennett guilty of the April 25 drunken driving charges but Judge Robert A. Smallman overturned verdict.

Bennett seeks $1,500,000 general damages, $500,000 punitive damages and cost of medical expenses.

During his drunken driving trial, Bennett charged that Sausalito police used a quota system under which officers were told to make a minimum number of arrests each month.

Bennett also has another Sausalito charge pending against him. On March 4, he was arrested at Main and Second streets about 3 a.m. and charged with being drunk in public.

He asked for a change of venue for this trial, alleging he could not get a fair trial in Marin, but this was denied. He is scheduled to appear on Nov. 24 for setting of the trial date in municipal court.

Ecology Study Leaders Named

The drive to raise funds for an environmental study of Tomales Bay is being headed by the Marin Conservation League and the Marin Audubon Society, assisted by the Environmental Action Committee of West Marin.

An Independent-Journal story on the fund-raising effort yesterday overlooked the drive leaders.

About $13,000 has been raised thus far for the study.

Injuries Minor In Collision

A 15-year-old San Rafael youth suffered only minor injuries in a bicycle-automobile accident yesterday at Fourth and D Streets, San Rafael, police reported.

Donald D. Mills of 31 Latham Street, was to see his own doctor for his injuries.

He was riding his bicycle east on Fourth Street at 4:43 p.m., when he collided with a car northbound on D Street. The car was driven by Frank J. Fontes, 60, of 115 Willow Avenue, Fairfax.

Avoid traffic. Swim to Dominic's.

If we're to keep up with the competition in the restaurant business these days, we have to offer an advantage of some kind besides just truly superior food and drink. One day someone noticed that our location on the San Rafael Yacht Harbor meant customers could swim directly to our private docks from almost any point in the Bay Area. We checked to see if any of our competitors were stressing this, and none were. So if you don't want to fight traffic getting to a fine restaurant, now you know what to do.

NEW 'LAND BARONS'

Second-Home Nightmare

By DAVID JENSEN

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Imagine a rushing trout stream at your backdoor, the whisper of pines and the crackling of a fireplace in your rustic cabin in a remote section of the Sierra foothills.

It's a common dream—one shared by thousands of Californians and promoted by scores of land developers.

But that dream has become a nightmare for an untold number of persons lured into buying undeveloped lots in "recreational" and "second home" subdivisions throughout the state.

They are the victims of what one legislator describes as "modern-day land barons" who are "systematically chopping up rare and irreplaceable land" and whose operations border on fraud.

In Nevada County, for example, state fish and game officials report that more than 150 miles of streams have been damaged by subdivisions during the past 10 years.

In another case, a developer flew Southern Californians to a Redding area development. After getting a free meal, the customers were driven to a subdivision where 1-4-acre lots were being sold for $5,000. Nearby land was going for $6,000 for 20 acres.

But now, as a result of legislation sponsored by Assemblyman Leo T. McCarthy, DSan Francisco, and recently signed by Gov. Ronald Reagan, the state has new tools to deal with second-home subdivisions.

Opposed by major developers, the legislation will protect prospective land purchasers from high-pressure salesmen and help prevent those bubbling streams from becoming silt-clogged ditches.

In signing the cornerstone bill of the three-measure package, Reagan said, "We cannot afford the luxury of allowing real estate developments to be constructed which do not meet the requirements that communities have established for the protection of their own citizens and the environment itself."

The main bill will require cities and counties to reject a proposed subdivision if it would substantially damage the environment. Previously, local agencies could not reject a project for environmental reasons alone.

Proposed developments also could be stopped if they substantially injured fish, wildlife or their habitat, created serious public health problems or if the subdivision site was physically unsuitable for the development being proposed.

Other provisions will require large, remote subdivisions to spell out in detail what measures are being taken to safeguard the environment.

New subdivisions will have to conform to city and county plans, especially in regard to their open space and conservation provisions.

McCarthy's other bills will protect the purchaser who contracts a case of "land fever." He will have up to 14 days after he signs his contract to change his mind "without cause."

"Land projects" — subdivisions of more than 50 lots located in remote areas—could not be sold under the assemblyman's legislation unless the real estate commissioner issued a report on the project. The land developers will be required to distribute the report to customers.

The commissioner can issue the report only after he determines that:

—Adequate measures are taken to prevent property damage which might occur from flooding, erosion or other natural causes.

—Financing is sufficient to complete and maintain all improvements such as swimming pools and golf courses. The improvements would also have to be large enough to serve the entire projected population of the subdivision.

—Use of the lots is compatible with existing and proposed zoning in the project and adjacent land.

Conservationists point out that much of the effectiveness of the new laws depends on the zeal with which they are enforced by local governments. Sometimes they have been reluctant to clamp down on land developers. Enforcement is also up to the real estate commissioner, who is usually an eminent figure in real estate business prior to joining state government.

Environmentalists also say that the legislation does not deal with oversupply—one of the basic aspects of the billion-dollar recreational land boom.

According to the state treasurer's office, about 300,000 recreational lots are currently available and at the current rate of construction only two-thirds will be developed by their owners by the year 2025.

Tiburon Lot Plea Rejected

A controversial lot split that would allow a Tiburon man to build a second residence on a steep parcel on Vistazo West Street has been denied by the Tiburon board of adjustments.

Five neighbors opposed the split at Monday's board meeting, according to development administrator Phil V. Scott, and the panel unanimously rejected the application.

Scott said Joe Senglaub had asked permission to divide a lot at 1470 Vistazo West Street into two parcels of 7,692 and 15,673 square feet, although the zoning ordinance requires one-acre lots where the slope is more than 35 per cent. Scott said the lot in question averages about 40 per cent slope.

Neighbors opposing Senglaub's application said a restriction in his deed prohibits subdivision of the lot anyway. The parcel already contains one residence, Scott said.

Council Pushes Bridgeway Plans

The Sausalito City Council, giving new life to an old controversy, moved ahead last night with plans for about $70,000 in improvements to Bridgeway. (Another Sausalito City Council story, Page 1.)

The project would include widening of sidewalk between Princess Sreet and the Village Fair, thereby permanently eliminating parking which has been a sore point to merchants.

The council named members Robin Sweeny and Earl F. Dunphy to a committee that will recommend a landscape architect for the work, and endorsed a proposal by City Mgr. Albert R. St. Cyr that the city investigate the possibility of an assessment district to finance part of the project.

Under St. Cyr's plan, the city will apply for $25,000 in state funds to go with $10,700 in city money for signalization work and other improvements in the three-block stretch. The rest of the project — actual widening of the sidewalk — might possibly be financed through an assessment district, St. Cyr said.

Although the city manager said the sidewalk widening might be done at the same time as the signalization, he pointed out in a memorandum to the council that the application for state funds had to be submitted by Jan. 1.

The council, though aware of the deadline at least since September, did not get around to acting until last night.

The two-member architect selection council committee is to report back Dec. 7.

Merchants in the Bridgeway target area protested earlier this year when the council, in a stop-gap move, approved installation of planter boxes along curbs. The council said the move was necessitated by mounting downtown traffic.

On the subject of auto traffic, meanwhile, the council asked last night for a staff report on possible ways of preventing weekend tourists from entering the city through uphill streets such as Spencer Avenue and Monte Mar Drive.

The council, for years grappling with ways to channel traffic away from the city's southern access during peak periods, acted on the complaint of colleague Stephen A. Fraser. He said weekend traffic on narrow Spencer and Monte Mar was hazardous and bothersome.

The council lamented recent defeat in the Legislature of a bill that would have enabled the city to close certain streets to all but residential traffic in peak periods.

The Sausalito City Council Also:

PLAN — Set a Dec. 13 study session with the planning commission on the preliminary countywide master plan.

NOISE — Delayed until Dec. 7 adoption of an ordinance controlling noise in the community. The council said it wanted assurance from the city attorney that a provision regulating use of sound tracks was constitutional.

HEIGHT — Asked the city attorney to prepare for the Dec. 7 meeting an ordinance regulating building height in order to protect views.

SIGN — Denied a directional sign for the Sausalito Arts Center and Little League on the east side of Bridgeway at Nevada Street, but said it could be located on the west side.

SIDEWALK — Said George R. Kowski of 430 Bee Street would be required to install at least a six-foot-wide sidewalk in front of his property to conform with city policy. Kowski protested.

BUS — Supported Dunphy's protest of a planned increase to 50 cents in the one-way fare from Sausalito to San Francisco on Golden Gate Bridge District buses. The rate is up a nickel over present Greyhound fares. The bridge district is to take over the service next month.

HEARING — Set a hearing for Dec. 7 on the proposed new resident commercial district and the revised central waterfront district.

LIBRARY — Authorized St. Cyr to apply for matching federal funds for library construction. The city currently is studying using Central School as a library, although it has not given up on a proposal to build a facility at Napa and Litho streets.

NEWLON — Rescheduled for Jan. 12-14 an open hearing for suspended detective Brian Newlon. The hearing had been set for next month, but Newlon's attorney asked a postponement.

Robber Picked Wrong Victim

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI)—A robber picked the wrong victim when he walked up to tobacco-chewing Bill Parsons and demanded money.

"I had this big chew of tobacco so I let it go right in his face," said Parsons, 74, who thought the man might have had a gun in his pocket. The frustrated bandit fled.

"I've been chewing tobacco for 60 years," Parsons said. "I never thought it would save my life."

Cousins Resigns At Saturday Review

NEW YORK (UPI)—Norman Cousins has resigned as editor of the Saturday Review following 31 years in the post.

The resignation of the 56-year-old Cousins was submitted Tuesday to Saturday Review Industries, which acquired the magazine last July from the McCall Book Publishing Co.

TESTS WATER FOR SPORT

Held protectively by companions, Cuban Premier Fidel Castro leans over prow of a launch to test the suitability of the water for skindiving — one of his many sports activities currently being displayed in a visit to Chile.

After the test yesterday at Iquique, he pronounced the water was very good for skindiving.

Psychologist Will Speak Tomorrow

Dr. David Kaplan, psychologist at Stanford University Medical Center, will speak on the psychological and social effects of childhood leukemia on the victim's family at a public meeting at 8 p.m. tomorrow in the cafeteria of Marin General Hospital.

The Candlelighters Society, a group of Bay Area families who have cancer-striken children, is sponsoring the talk, according to Dr. Foank R. Tavel, program chairman.

San Rafael Artist Will Exhibit Work

San Rafael artist R. Jeremy Dwyer will exhibit oils at the Brada Gallery, Napa, from Saturday until Dec. 31.

A reception will be held from 7 to 11 p.m. Saturday at the gallery.

Gladys Cooper, Towering Theatrical Figure, Dies

LONDON (UPI) — Actress Dame Gladys Cooper, a queen of the British stage for more than 60 years died in her sleep during the night, her family said today. She was 82.

Dame Gladys was stricken with pneumonia 10 weeks ago and was thought to be recovering at her home at Henley-On-Thames where she died.

Hers was the most popular pinup picture of World War I and British Tommies carried it next to their hearts while slogging through the mud of Flanders. Her star never dimmed from those days until last April when she starred in "The Chalk Garden" in London.

She had planned to go with the End Bagnold play to Toronto later this year.

To millions her porcelain beauty became the standard beside which all English womanhood was judged.

Somerset Maugham met Gladys Cooper when she was a chorus girl at the Gaiety Theater in 1910. "She's the loveliest thing I've ever seen in my life," the author said.

Later she was actress-manageress at her own theater and at 75, when many actors and actresses enjoy their retirement, Dame Gladys went to the United States to star in a television series "The Rogues" with Charles Boyer, David Niven and Gig Young.

The daughter of a journalist, Dame Gladys made her debut on her 16th birthday in Colchester, England, where she played Bluebell in "Bluebell in Fairyland."

Her London debut followed in a few months with "The Belle of Mayfair." Stage door Johnnies flocked to her and squired her to the most elegant champagne suppers in London.

She signed a three-year contract with the Gaiety and had her first major role as Eva in "The Girls of Gottenberg."

She married Capt. H. J. Buckminster in 1908, but the marriage and a later one to Sir Neville Pearson were dissolved.

Before the first war, she played in everything from "The Importance of Being Earnest" to "Peter Pan."

Her clear and sometimes cold voice, made her a hit as Lady MacBeth in 1935. Shortly after, she went to the United Sates where she married her third and last husband, actor Philip Merivale, who died in 1946.

Alfred Hitchcock invited her to Hollywood in 1939 to play Laurence Olivier's sister in "Rebecca." She went for three weeks and stayed for 30 years. But she never became an American citizen.

"England will always be home," she once said.

The great blue heron's feet have widely spaced toes to keep him from sinking deeply into mire.

"Fills up our fullback...
That's what I like about LAMB."
"Lamb's got flavor that really satisfies! And the grow-a-pro power of protein to boot! My home team really ladles into this piping-hot stew flavored through with husky chunks of lean, tender lamb. And because it's a bone-in stew it supplies strength-building calcium, too."
BONE-IN LAMB STEW (makes 4 servings)
1 to 2 pounds lamb neck pieces, bone-in
3 tablespoons all-purpose flour
2 cups stock or bouillon
2 teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
1 teaspoon thyme
2 bay leaves
2 medium-size potatoes, peeled and diced
1 cup sliced raw carrots
1 10-ounce package frozen cut corn
1 10-ounce package frozen cut green beans
Brown lamb on all sides over medium heat in large, lightly greased skillet or Dutch oven. Drain off excess fat, if any. Blend in flour. Add stock or bouillon, salt, pepper, thyme, bay leaves, potatoes and carrots; mix well. Cover and cook 30 minutes, stirring occasionally. Stir in corn and beans. Cover and continue to cook over medium heat 20 minutes or until vegetables are tender, stirring now and then. NOTE: During cooking, add a small amount of water from time to time, if needed.

Teen Traffic Offenders Given Break —A New Law

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — Teen-age traffic offenders will get a break under terms of a bill passed and signed into law during this year's legislative session.

Beginning early next year, at the discretion of judges, the young offenders will be able to work off fines in lieu of coming up with cash. The idea came from Assemblyman John P. Quimby, D-Rialto.

Under the new law, teenagers nailed for traffic violations may, with the judge's okay, be sentenced to work up to 25 hours in a public park or recreational facility. The "fine" must be paid within 30 days, and is not to interfere with school work or employment.

Quimby said he feels his law is fairer than the present administration of such cases. In the case of youngsters from well-to-do families, he said, too often fines are paid by parents, negating the intended deterent effect. In the case of poor families, he added, paying even a small fine, no matter who comes up with the money, can be a hardship.

"I feel strongly such legislation will improve the administration of justice," the assemblyman from Rialto commented, "besides providing obvious benefits for our parks and recreational facilities."

Chicago Mayor Richard Daley and his wife, Eleanor, have been married for 35 years.

Bolinas Attorney's Pot Trial Scheduled Nov. 29

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Bolinas attorney Harry J. Kreamer, 32, is due to go on trial Nov. 29 in U.S. District Court on a charge of possessing marijuana with intent to distribute it.

Kreamer was indicted Aug. 18.

He also is charged with another count of the same federal crime, as well as conspiracy in connection with confiscation of a truckload of marijuana in Marin on Oct. 17.

He is to return to district court to enter a plea in the second case Nov. 18. Also charged in connection with the truckload, which was seized in Northgate Industrial Park, are Allan G. Palmer, 30, of Novato; Paul R. Pattengale, 32, of San Francisco, and Allister M. McKenzie, 29, of Boyes Hot Springs.

Personal Injury Claims Drop—No-Fault Insurance

BOSTON (UPI)—The average cost of paid personal injury claims in Massachusetts dropped by more than 60 per cent in the first nine months of the state's new no-fault automobile insurance system, a state official said Monday.

Michael J.Sabbagh, fire and casualty actuary for the state Insurance Department said the average cost of a paid liability claim also dropped from $419 in the first nine months of 1970 to only $165 in the first three quarters of this year.

Sabbagh, testifying before Insurance Commissioner John Ryan who is taking testimony on setting rates for 1972 auto insurance, said no-fault policy holders made 34 per cent fewer policy claims in the nine-month period than they did a year ago.

The drop of 60.6 per cent in the average cost of claims and the 34 per cent decline in total personal injury claims, he said, meant insurance companies saved 73.3 per cent in the first nine months, compared to what they paid out for the comparable 1970 period.

Material for the claims study, Sabbagh said, was gathered from 38 insurance companies representing 85 per cent of the automobile business written in the state.

Judge Dismisses Bad Check Charge

A felony charge of passing a bad check has been dismissed against Charlene Betty Zaro, 35, of Tamalpais Valley.

Judge Robert A. Smallman of Marin Municipal Court dismissed the charge Monday because Mrs. Zaro made restitution of $140. The check was pssed in Mill Valley Oct. 3.

70 Strep Cases During Last Week

Seventy streptococcus infections were reported in Marin last week, according to Carolyn B. Albrecht, county health officer. Thirty-four cases were in Novato.

Also reported were 29 cases of gonorrhea, two of syphillis, and five of infectious hepatitis.

Talkative Couple Robs Bank Teller

OAKLAND (UPI) —A chatty couple robbed the United California Bank of $5,000 Monday, leaving a teller in a state of shock.

Bank manager Allan Ghidossi said the couple chatted with the teller but then handed her a note demanding all her cash.

Ghidossi said the man showed the young woman teller a gun under his coat and that both the robbers then escaped without attracting attention.

He refused to identify the teller, saying she was in shock.

SPECTACULAR HIGHWAY MESS

A lumber truck-trailer dangles over the railing of the San Quentin Wye in San Rafael, its load of redwood 2-by-4s scattered onto two northbound lanes of Highway 101 and the adjoining field. Truck driver Jeff Anderson, 28, of Cloverdale, was bound for Oakland with the lumber at 7:55 a.m. today when his trailer went out of control and the truck jacknifed on the Highway 17 offramp from 101. The trailer hopped onto the railing and skidded along it for 250 feet — over all six lanes of 101. The California Highway Patrol said no lumber fell onto the crowded southbound lanes and no one was injured. State Division of Highways crews cleared the easternmost northbound lanes of 101 within a half-hour.

Hub Schools Deficit Denied

The president of the San Anselmo School District board last night denied the district will face a deficit at the end of the school year if current spending practices are continued.

Reacting to a warning from Byron W. Mauzy, assistant superintendent for business services in the county school office, Franklin C. Latcham said, "Our review shows that we are proceeding normally with our budget."

He denied that Mauzy had ever warned the district its expenditures are depleting reserves. The Independent-Journal reported a week ago that Mauzy said the San Anselmo district and the Shoreline Unified School District face a deficit.

The Sausalito School District, Mauzy said, has been depleting its reserves.

San Anselmo School District Board Also:

REQUESTS — Granted interdistrict transfer requests to Jill Peacock, San Anselmo to the Nicasio School District; Anne and Andrew Schumacher, San Rafael to San Anselmo; Lisa and Daniel Parker, Fairfax to San Anselmo; and James Michael and Dion Dossman, San Anselmo to Fairfax.

PAY — Agreed to pay Clara Mattes $3 an hour for three weeks of substitute secretarial work.

SHORT DAYS — Authorized short days at Red Hill School from Nov. 17 through Dec. 3 and each Monday through the rest of the school year so the staff will have time to operate the school without a principal and develop a formal plan for differentiated schooling. Children will be released at 2 p.m. instead of 3:15.

GRIEVANCES — Adopted a grievance procedure submitted by the San Anselmo teachers association.

RAISES — Approved a 2 per cent salary increase for teachers and a 3 per cent increase in the health and welfare program.

LEAVES — Extended the time limit on leaves of absence from one year to two years.

Work On Contract Is Continuing

Although San Anselmo has made noises about a divorce, The Ross Valley Flood Control Zone Advisory board decided yesterday to keep trying to alter the marriage contract.

Charles E. Murphy, county flood control engineer, said the board directed him to continue negotiating on maintenance funds for the Corte Madera Creek flood control project.

San Anselmo does not belong to the flood control district, but, under a joint powers agreement signed in 1965, has agreed to pay up to five cents per $100 assessed valuation for maintenance of the creek project downstream.

The agreement does not allow the district to accumulate funds from year to year, Murphy said. The board wants to remove this clause and, as a compromise, yesterday offered to share the tax collected with the city.

Murphy said the board yesterday authorized him to propose returning up to 50 per cent of the yearly tax in San Anselmo for the city's flood control efforts.

The San Anselmo council has set a discussion on withdrawing from the agreement entirely for Tuesday. Murphy said the city cannot legally break the agreement.

500 Bodies Still Unburied

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— About 500 of the 1,800 bodies left unburied when a 125-day Peninsula cemetery strike ended during the summer have not yet been disposed of.

Spokesmen for two cemeteries said it would take another month to finish the burials. The nine other cemeteries struck by the grave-diggers and greenskeepers have cleared their backlog.

The 235 strikers ended their walkout six weeks ago Wednesday after a bargaining session mediated by Mayor Joseph Alioto.

Hub School 'Relations' Discussed

Clarification of ambiguous letters of complaint from teachers in the San Anselmo School District was not forthcoming last night.

However, the board did discuss methods of improving the relationship between itself and Supt. W. Kenneth Lowry.

"I think some people thought that we would get down to the nitty gritty sort of a personal level, but it didn't work out that way," board Pres. Franklin C. Latcham said today.

He said the board, after he read two letters of accusation signed by the district's teachers, discussed means of reducing conflict.

The letters dated Oct. 18 called for support of Lowry's programs while castigating the board for not cooperating with him.

Latcham said guidelines for communicating with Lowry were set up. There was also talk of hiring a private management firm to study difficulties, he said.

One person in the 80-to-100-member audience suggested that once a policy decision is made, the board should stop debating it and start setting up the program, Latcham said.

He said Lowry was directed to draw up a list of important programs for this school year so the board can agree on them.

Panel Approves Store Design

Members of the Mill Valley architectural advisory committee viewed a scale-model of a proposed department store last night and then approved preliminary design plans.

Zoning administrator Howard R. McGill said developer William A. Kirsch wants to convert the old Brown's furniture store at 38 Miller Avenue into a series of 14 specialty shops.

Kirsch previously had received a variance from the city planning commission to provide only 30 of the required 118 off-street parking spaces.

The variance subsequently was appealed to the city council and upheld.

'Safe' Black District In New Remap Plan

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —The Senate today unveiled a congressional reapportionment plan which creates a "safe" new district for black Democrats in Los Angeles.

Aside from that, the plan is nearly identical to one proposed earlier in the Assembly.

As in the Assembly proposal, Rep. Paul N. McCloskey would be forced to run in a heavily Democratic district or face a potentially tough GOP primary.

McCloskey's present district would be cut into two districts.

Sen. Mervyn Dymally, reapportionment chairman, said he was "cautiously optimistic" about gaining Senate approval next week for his plan, but predicted a two-house conference committee would finally negotiate a bill agreeable to both houses.

"The concept of this plan has Republican support," Dymally told a news conference.

Five new districts are created by the plan. They would be in Santa Clara-Santa Cruz counties; San Diego-Orange counties; San Bernardino, Riverside and Los Angeles counties, Kern and Santa Barbara counties and central Los Angeles.

Also like the Assembly plan, it would include all of Marin in the Sixth District, now represented by Republican William S. Mailliard of San Francisco. The district now includes most of Marin south of Hamilton Air Force Base.

High School Vandals

Someone broke into the industrial arts area and library at San Marin High School and took radio and stereo equipment valued at $280 between 10 p.m. Sunday and 6:50 a.m. yesterday, Novato police reported today.

PLAYS WITH HER TEDDY

Lisa Marie Calver, 3, plays with her Teddy bear in her hospital bed at Seattle where she is recovering from head injuries received Nov. 7 when a trailer fell on her at her home in Skagway, Alaska. Lisa was flown to Seattle in one of the longest missions ever directed by the Rescue Coordinating Center in Anchorage. (UPI Telephoto)

Church Seeks Refugee Aid

DES MOINES, Iowa (UPI)—The religious hierarchy of the United Methodist Church has called for a special offering early next year in an effort to raise at least $1 million to aid East Pakistan refugees.

The United Methodist Church Council of Bishops, meeting in Des Moines Tuesday, asked that the offering be taken through the church on Jan. 9. Bishop Ralph T. Alton of Madison, Wis., chairman of the denomination's Committee on Overseas Relief, said the action was unanimous.

The recommendation must now go to the church's Council on World Service and Finance for approval, which is expected early next week. Bishop Alton said the bishops were seeking a "minimum goal" of $1 million.

IRS To Answer Economic Questions

Questions about the new economic guidelines in Phase II of President Nixon's Economic Stabilization Program will be answered by the Internal Revenue Service office in the Federal Building at Third and D streets, San Rafael.

The IRS will also investigate complaints and monitor compliance with the stabilization guidelines. The IRS offices are open from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Sponsor Of Viet Plan Sees Defeat

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The sponsor of a House amendment intended to get U.S. military forces out of Indochina by June 1 said today he did not think he had the votes to pass the provision.

Rep. Edward Boland, DMass., predicted defeat before the House was scheduled to debate the amendment he wants tacked on to a $71 billion defense appropriation.

Boland told a reporter he had not taken a head count but answered "I don't think so" when asked whether he thought the House would adopt the toughest end-the-war amendment ever offered by doves in that chamber.

During debate on the bill Tuesday, Rep. George Andrews, D-Ala., said he doubted its adoption would free the prisoners. But he said he did not think the Nixon withdrawal policy would either.

What he would do, he said, would be to deliver an ultimatium to North Vietnam.

"I'd tell them that they either produce the prisoners at the DMZ by a certain time or we're going to knock you off the face of the earth," he said.

Secret Teams Said Working In Cambodia

SAIGON (UPI) — American military intelligence teams under command of Saigon headquarters, are operating in secret in Cambodia, U.S. sources said today.

The teams interrogate Communist prisoners of war, gather information in Phnom Penh and make reports to the U.S. Military Assistance Command in Saigon, the sources said.

The teams work at Cambodian army headquarters in a previously undisclosed aspect of U.S. military involvement with the Phnom Penh government since American combat forces were ordered to be out of that country by June 30, 1970, following the invasion of Communist sanctuaries.

Command spokesmen refused comment on the presence of military intelligence teams, of the same type which operate from key locations in South Vietnam.

The command admits only the presence of personnel attached to the U.S. Embassy in Phnom Penh and including a Military Equipment Delivery Team (MEDT) responsible for distribution of Washington's military aid program.

The MEDT was set up early this year under Brig. Gen. Theodore C. Mataxis and at present has 50 men in Phnom Penh and 63 in Saigon.

"None of the MEDT personnel function as advisers to the Cambodian armed forces, although they do travel in the countryside to determine that military assistance program material is properly used," a command spokesman said.

Sources said military intelligence teams are rotated from Vietnam for temporary assignment in Phnom Penh, shedding their uniforms for civilian clothes.

At least one team is believed stationed in Cambodia at all times, officially attached to the Military Assistance Command Vietnam Saigon headquarters.

Oklahoma City is the only state captiol with wells operating under its floors.

MEADOWSWEET STATION TOWNHOUSE CLUSTERS

An artist's sketch of the proposed townhouses in the Meadowsweet Station development in Corte Madera shows two examples of townhouse clusters. Another hearing by the Corte Madera Planning Commission on the master plan for the controversial development is set for tomorrow at 7:30 p.m. in the town hall. The plan, by developer Warner Odenthal of Orinda, includes 540 units.

Senate Rejects Big Bay Agency

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — Legislation creating a Bay Area regional government yesterday was rejected by the Senate, and backers of the measure conceded it was in "very serious trouble."

Sen. Milton Marks, R-San Francisco, sponsoring the bill by Assemblyman John T. Knox, D-Richmond, won permission for another vote later this week, but he acknowledged it will be tough to get the needed 21 votes.

Several hours of balloting yesterday ended with a 14-14 tie, seven votes short of the number needed to pass the bill (AB 1057). A spokesman for Knox also commented after the vote that the outlook for its passage was "very, very dim."

The Senate previously approved the bill but only after amending it to require a vote of the people next June to approve creation of the regional agency.

Knox refused to accept this amendment, however, and returned the bill to the Senate with a compromise moving the public vote back to 1976, making it a referendum on whether to continue rather than create the agency.

The compromise, already approved by the Assembly, lost the bill among senators who favored it only with an immediate referendum next year.

Sen. John Harmer, R-Glendale, charged that the compromise was "contrary to the spirit of the bill as it passed the Senate," and was designed to "circumvent the will of the Senate."

With final adjournment of the Legislature perhaps only a week away, time was short for Knox to seek another compromise to overcome Senate opposition.

Citizen groups backing the bill have maintained they prefer no bill at all to one calling for a referendum next year.

They acknowledge that the proposed agency probably would be defeated if put to a popular vote before it had time to win public confidence.

The bill would create a Conservation and Development Agency of the Bay Area in January, 1973, with power to veto city and county ordinances contrary to the regional plan it would draw in three years.

The agency would be governed by a board of 77 members, 37 elected directly and the rest public officials appointed by local government.

It would be financed by a tax of up to 4 cents per $100 on all property sold or transferred. Sonoma County previously was amended out of the bill, leaving in the agency the eight other Bay Area counties, including Marin.

Sex Study In Males Revealed

NEW YORK (UPI) — Research conducted by two St. Louis doctors on 80 college students showed that the blood level of the male hormone testosterone was much lower among the homosexual volunteers than among the heterosexuals.

The study, reported in the Nov. 19 issues of Medical World News, was conducted by Dr. Robert C. Kolodny of the Washington University medical school in conjunction with Dr. William H. Masters, coauthor of the best-selling book "Human Sexual Response."

The study also showed that the count of spermatozoa among the homosexuals was substantially lower than among the heterosexuals.

Marin Head Start Chairman Elected

Patricia Heady last night was elected chairman of the board of directors of Marin Head Start.

Jay Hoyes was elected vice-chairman; Adele Nichols, secretary and Emma Hanssen, treasurer. All are from Novato.

Reaction Mixed On TV Nudity

LONDON (UPI)—A prime time romp across the nation's television screens by a naked Casanova brought mixed reviews today from critics and a complaint from the head of a viewers' watchdog group that it was lewd.

Only a few individuals bothered to telephone the British Broadcasting Corp. (BBC) Tuesday night to voice objection to the program, the first in a series of six on the 18th century Italian philanderer.

"We have had very few complaints," said a BBC spokesman, "but I think most people appreciated the artistic merit of the play."

Boy Arrested For Holding Hashish

Novato police arrested a 17-year-old boy in Pioneer Memorial Park yesterday on suspicion of possession of hashish and narcotics paraphernalia.

The youth, who was cited to juvenile authorities, had a small amount of a substance that appeared to be hashish in his hand when they investigated his behavior at 4:55 p.m., police said.

Pay Bill Is Amended For Span Directors

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — A bill hiking by 50 per cent the pay limit for Golden Gate Bridge District directors has been amended to extend for only the next three years.

The bill, AB 1783 by Assemblyman John T. Knox, D-Richmond, is awaiting final Senate approval. The amendment, if the bill is approved by the Senate, will have to go back to the Assembly for its approval as well.

The bill also was amended by Knox to limit the president of the bridge board to a maximum pay of $5,000 a year.

Both amendments apparently were designed to counter possible opposition to the measure. It is common legislative practice, however, to drop time limits on pay hikes before such increases are scheduled to expire.

The 18 bridge directors are paid $50 a meeting, with an annual ceiling of $2,400. Knox's bill would raise the ceiling to $3,600 for all but the board president.

Eleven of the directors last year attended so many meetings that they reached their annual pay ceiling before the fiscal year expired.

Laura Heads Out Toward Caribbean

MIAMI (UPI) — Tropical storm Laura, often teetering near hurricane strength, looped slowly away from the Cuban mainland today on an undetermined path in the northwestern Caribbean.

If the aimless drift to the southeast continues as forecast through this afternoon, the first of 23,000 Cubans evacuated from the rich tobaccolands of Pinar Del Rio and the citrus groves of the Isle of Pines would be allowed to return to their homes, radio Havana said.

Guitarist Will Give Concert

Greek guitarist George Sakellariou will appear in a free concert at noon tomorrow in Ives Hall of Music at Sonoma State College.

Sakellariou, who teaches at Dominican College, will play baroque and modern selections. He graduated from the Conservatory of Athens at the age of 18 and was among nine students chosen by Andres Segovia to perform daily in the master class at the University of California at Berkeley.

Harrington Off Critical List

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Henry Harrington, who survived a leap from the Golden Gate Bridge last Thursday, was removed from the critical list at San Francisco General Hospital today.

He was still in serious condition, however, the hospital said.

Harrington, 36, of Pacifica, jumped 246 feet off the span near the south tower and landed in a shallow moat. He was the sixth person to survive a leap from the bridge.

His wife said he was depressed over his work at the Internal Revenue Service.

Wine, Music, Art At Sunday's Event

Wine, music and art will be featured at a wine festival, Sunday from 4 to 6 p.m. at the Cotati Woman's Club to benefit the Sonoma State College Newman Center.

Wines from the Robert Mondavi Winery will be served along with cheeses and french bread. Folk music will be presented as well as art displays, books, pottery, crafts and leather work.

ESROM

the Danish cheese that adds worlds of flavor to anything

Sandwiches, snacks, supper parties. Lunch boxes and picnic baskets. Specialty-of-the-house casseroles and truly adult cheeseburgers. Do yourself a great flavor and serve Esrom, the lacy-patterned, exquisitely creamy cheese with the sassy tang. It's a deliciously different Danish idea!

We've learned a lot in the last 107 years.

California Canadian Bank may be the new bank in town, but we've been around the state since 1864. What we've learned in that time would fill this whole newspaper—so we'll try to sum it up in 10 words. "A lot of little things make a big difference." Of course that's easy to say. To see what we've done about it—here are some of the latest things that make us not just the newest but the nicest bank in town...

For example...

You can enjoy Free Personal Checking privileges if you maintain a minimum $100.00 balance. (Most banks require a $200.00 or $300.00 minimum!). Better still, a 50% lower service charge lets you write all the checks you want for $1.00 a month.

One-day loan service, at preferred rates on business and personal loans for our customers. It pays to borrow where you bank when the bank is California Canadian!

All the services you go to big banks for are available here where the lines are always short and the faces never long: Trust services, Securities Exchange, Foreign Exchange and Remittances, Drafts, Letters of Credit, International Banking Services, etc., etc.

Isn't this the kind of bank you've been looking for?

We have 17 offices to serve you.

A lot of little things make a big difference

Novato Citizens To Study Disposable Container Ban

Novato City Council last night heard arguments from businessmen against adopting an ordinance to ban disposable soft drink and beer containers.

Councilmen made no decision on the proposed ordinance, but authorized establishing a citizen committee to study the matter and make recommendations.

William B. Lynch, manager of North Bay Operations, Coca Cola Bottling Co., said such an ordinance wouldn't solve the waste disposal problem, would be inequitable since it wouldn't regulate other beverages — such as fruit juices, sold in nonreturnable containers — and wouldn't solve the litter problem.

Councilman George C. Quesada said the city "has a problem and it isn't being solved," and talks by the businessmen "won't get the cans off the highways of Marin or the bottles thrown on the streets of Novato."

Residents concerned about ecology and environment are applying pressure to the council and "we, in turn, are going to pass this pressure on," he said. "The problem has to be solved."

Lynch said that people throw away returnable containers as well as nonreturnable ones, and urged "constructive action to solve these problems rather than beating on a drum."

Quesada said that for the city alone to adopt such an ordinance "would be only a first step, and we'd have to have a countywide effort."

Councilman Wayne Womack, considering the overall waste problem, said: "You don't wipe out an anthill by killing one or two ants. This is attempting to kill one part and in my opinion isn't the avenue to take."

He suggested support of "state action" and the council unanimously urged that Gov. Ronald Reagan sign Senate Bill 138, which would set up a statewide solid waste recovery program.

Phillip Voorheis, manager of the Environmental Affairs Department of the Pacific Region, Owens and Illinois Glass Co., said the proposed ordinance wouldn't "address itself to the problem," which he said wasn't use of the containers, but misuse. To select just beer and soft drink containers would be "highly discriminatory," he said.

William Jonas, owner of markets in the Nyvato area, said "the problem goes a lot further than if we have returnable or nonreturnable bottles."

Leon Dillenberg, representing the Bay Area Grocers Association, said there is a higher cost involved in handling returnable bottles.

Lynch said one step that could be taken would be enforcement of anti-litter ordinances.

Tape Deck Stolen

Linda V. Sartori, 643 Prospect Street, Petaluma, told police that a stereo tape deck and 13 tapes valued at $130 were stolen from her car yesterday while it was parked in the 100 block of Bodega Avenue.

Townhouse Project Is KTIM Topic

The proposed Kaiser Aetna Co. townhouse project in Marinwood will be discussed on the KTIM "Marin Sounding Board" program at 9 a.m. tomorrow.

Speakers will be James C. Winter, Marinwood Homeowners Association director; Richard H. O'Brien, Marinwood Community Services District board member; Albert Bianchi, attorney for Kaiser Aetna, and Margaret Azevedo, Marin County planning commissioner.

The planning commission last week rejected the company's original proposal for 145 townhouses on 18 acres and ordered it modified to 108 units. Marinwood residents had objected to the project as too dense.

The program, moderated by Kitty Oppenheimer, will be repeated at 10:05 a.m. Sunday. Questions may be phoned in for tomorrow's broadcast.

Strip Mining Plea Made To Congress

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Russell E. Train, chairman of the Council on Environmental Quality, has urged Congress not to pass legislation banning strip mining. He said the alternative might be worse.

"Foreclosing surface coal mining would mean more reliance on other forms of mining which have not at all been proven to be less damaging to human values," Train told a Senate subcommittee which is considering several proposals to limit strip mining. "In light of the cost advantages of surface mining, it may prove cheaper in human and economic terms to require surface miners to be environmentally responsible than to rely solely on underground mining."

College Building Plan Must Remain Pay-As-You-Go

Marin Community College District must continue its multi-million-dollar building program on a pay-as-you-go basis for at least another year, the college board and its citizens advisory committee informally agreed last night.

Next June would be too early for another try to win passage of the $16.7 million bond issue that lost at the polls Nov. 2. The state plans to put a $160 million bond issue on the November 1972 ballot — which would endanger any local bond issue election, Trustee Theodore C. Wellman pointed out.

He urged pressing on with district building programs at the new Indian Valley campus and the Kentfield campus with tax money rather than bonds for "a year or two and study where we are going."

The district now levies a capital outlay tax of 25 cents per $100 assessed valuation.

Wellman favored holding the line — leaving the total district tax rate at $1, but Board President Donald K. Felt favored raising the building tax to 43 cents.

Although the trustees and citizens committee discussed a series of alternate plans for stretching the Indian Valley campus building program, Felt declared last night's special meeting was called prematurely because the board did not yet have enough data to make a decision.

Novato resident Donald M. Van Dyke urged holding the line on taxes, and argued, "The day is coming when community colleges cannot open their doors to everyone who wants to come in."

Former trustee Harry J. Moore suggested the district make do with portable classrooms on the Indian Valley campus; Dr. John A. Grasham, district president-superintendent, said no thought had been given to the idea, but it would be studied for future discussion.

Another former trustee, Elizabeth M. Deedy, proposed scattering classes into available space throughout the county. She reported many citizens were opposed to tax increases for any purposes.

Dale A. Fleming, district planning director, presented a series of four alternatives for financing construction by stretching the Indian Valley campus timetable to as much as seven years, or as little as four years if bond issue approval could be gained in 1972.

FIRE CALLS

YESTERDAY:

2:03 p.m., Tamalpais Valley — Small rubbish fire at rear of 254 Shoreline Highway; caused by hot ashes; no damage.

3:11 p.m., Novato — Grass fire burned about 4,000 square feet at the end of Nancy Drive; cause unknown; no damage.

Bill Prohibits Charter Service

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A bill prohibiting the Golden Gate Bridge District from operating any charter or sightseeing service was signed Monday by Gov. Ronald Reagan.

But the measure by Assemblyman John Knox, D-Richmond, allows the district to lease its boats and equipment to private interests which provide boat charter or sightseeing services on San Francisco Bay.

Henderson Due To Take Stand

FT. MEADE, Md. (UPI)—Col. Oran K. Henderson will take the stand in his own behalf next Monday in his marathon court-martial on My Lai cover-up charges.

Defense attorneys revealed the plans Tuesday after presenting nine more witnesses for Henderson, the 51-year old former Army brigade commander accused of failing to investigate the massacre in the Vietnamese village on March 16, 1968.

At the same time the military judge, Col. Peter W. Wondolowski said he hoped the case could go to the jury of two generals and five colonels by the first week in December, or Dec. 10 at the latest. The trial started Aug. 23.

Services District Meet Set

A special meeting of the members of the newly combined Terra Linda community services district was set last night for next Tuesday.

Helen Lontz, secretary of the present community services board, said the meeting will be at 8 p.m. at the recreation center.

Terra Linda voters approved merger of the community services district and the recreation-park district at the Nov. 2 election.

The newly elected board members for the new district are Robert N. Bennett, Richard L. Less, Hubert F. Cooper, Vernon H. Nicholson and Harold J. Reese.

Less and Cooper are presently on the community services district board, Reese on the recreation-park district board and Bennett and Nicholson on both boards, which will become defunct when the new district is officially established Jan. 1.

Mrs. Lontz said the agenda for next Tuesday's meeting, scheduled at a community services district board meeting last night, will include discussion of ordinances, insurance and other matters which will face the new board in January.

The outgoing community services district board also changed its regular December meeting from Dec. 20 to Dec. 13 at 9 p.m. at the Terra Linda firehouse because of the Christmas holiday, Mrs. Lontz said.

Designs For Buildings Given Nod

Assistant Planner Richard D. A. Anderson said the board approved plans of John St. Martin to build a duplex at 320 and 322 Upham Street. He was also granted a variance to reduce usable open space from 2,400 square feet to 2,048.

Plans for an industrial building and equipment yard in the Petaluma Industrial Park on Scott Street were approved as presented by the William H. McDevitt Co.

Discussion of a request by Harold Granger to build a triplex behind an existing building at 22 Cherry Street was postponed for more study. Anderson said the board was concerned about possible parking problems and what effect future street widening might have on the plans.

Reagan Welfare Reform Landed

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—State Social Welfare Director Robert B. Carleson said Tuesday that the Reagan administration's welfare reform was "working."

Progress, Carleson told a Rotary Club luncheon, was taking place despite "criticism, abuse and intimidation."

He pointed out that between 200 and 300 lawsuits have been filed since the new Welfare Reform Act took effect Oct. 1.

Since April, the director said, welfare rolls have been declining and were continuing to go down. He added that in the six-month period ending in September the number of welfare recipients had been reduced by 113,000.

Dynamite Supply Explodes In Paris

PARIS (UPI)—A supply of dynamite stored for use in demolishing a World War II Nazi bunker near the Arch de Triomphe exploded Tuesday night. The fire which set off the explosives briefly threatened a block of buildings near the site of the Vietnam peace talks but no injuries were reported.

The concrete-walled bunker under demolition was once used as an underground billet for Nazi officers during the German occupation of Paris.

Novato Has A New City Seal

The Novato City Council last night selected a new city seal depicting the red-hued city hall with its soaring church spire against a plain background.

It will replace the old seal, adopted several years ago but never used, depicting Mount Burdell, Indian teepees, a tomahawk, a gavel and the city hall.

The new seal, painted by Carl Rangel, was chosen from a field of five entries, by a 3-2 vote.

OPPOSITION

Mayor Joseph D. Gargiulo preferred a similar seal painted by Barbara Murphy, and councilman George C. Quesada opposed the idea of having city hall on the seal.

A reconverted church as city hall "isn't Novato," Quesada said. "I think the oaks, sun and hills are Novato and this is what I think should be depicted as Novato."

Councilman J. Wayne Womack, who was in on the selection of the original seal, cast the tie-breaking vote. "I'll vote aye," he said. "The reason I came tonight was to break a tie so we'll have a seal."

Rangel's seal was approved subject to removal of a flagpole, and flag and two stars shown on each side of city hall.

Lettering reading "City of Novato" will be within the circular rim of the seal and the wording "incorporated Jan. 20, 1960" will be beneath City Hall.

Councilman David Price Jones proposed at first that the incorporated date be removed, but Betty Machado, of the Novato Federated Women's Club, argued that it was vital.

Eileen Morrison submitted an octagon-shaped seal focusing on the city hall tower, and Betty Beebe submitted a design which included the Golden Gate Bridge, the California flag, acorns, olive branches and red, white and blue striping.

SUNBURST

William Carpenter submitted a seal consisting of a green oak leaf with a gold sunburst in the background and gold lettering, a design of the type favored by Quesada.

Councilman Wayne Sartain said he felt the scene showing the city hall "to most people would say, 'Novato.' "

The council voted 4-1 to drop the old seal, with Quesada dissenting.

By the same vote councilmen appointed Rangel and Mrs. Murphy to submit a precise drawing, with the requested changes. When ready, the new seal will be officially adopted.

Marin Firm To Do BART Job

A San Rafael firm offered the lowest of six bids opened yesterday for landscaping the El Cerrito Plaza Bay Area Rapid Transit Station in Richmond.

Valley Crest Landscaping Inc., of 77 Larkspur Street, submitted a bid of $37,875, according to Michael Healy, public relations official for BART. The engineer's estimate on the project was $53,000, he said.

Awarding the contract will come up before the BART board meeting tomorrow, he said.

Mrs. Evers To Lead Citizens For Muskie

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Mrs. Myrlie Evers, widow of civil rights figure Medgar Evers, has been named co-chairman of a national citizens committee which will work for Sen. Edmund S. Muskie's Democratic presidential ambitions.

Mrs. Evers said the Maine senator was the only Democrat "who can unite the country and the party in a new coalition for fundamental change."

These GIs See No Reason For War

By STEWART KELLERMAN

BOI LOI WOODS, Vietnam (UPI)—It's the same story day after day. The boredom and the fear. The daydreams of home. The war you simply can't figure out.

You lose track of time. It's soon hard to tell the days and the weeks and the months apart. Mondays and Sundays, Junes and Decembers, just different names for the same thing.

Spec. 4 Kenneth Sabo, 19, of Arvada, Colo., the track commander, climbed onto the top of armored personnel carrier (APC) 21 and sat behind a grenade-firing "blooper gun."

Spec. 4 Peter Beisser, 21, of Philadelphia slid down the hatch up front and dropped onto the canvas driver's seat.

Sgt. Daniel McGehee, 20, of Lancaster, Calif., and Spec. 4 Derek Hughes, 19, of Newhall, Calif., huddled over the two M60 machine guns along the sides of the APC.

"I think the whole thing's useless," Hughes said, eating applesauce out of a brown C-ration can. "We're wasting our time here. That's for sure. It just wouldn't be too cool getting killed now."

There's more of a danger of dying from boredom than bullets these days, however. Hughes' platoon hasn't been in battle since last August. An APC hits a mine every few days, but most of the time no one is hurt or the injuries are minor.

Twelve APCs and three Sheridan tanks rolled out of the base camp into the Boi Loi woods, a maze of twisting trees, bamboo thickets, elephant grass and vines 40 miles northwest of Saigon.

"Back in the world, do the people know we're out here?" Said Beisser, who recently switched to a peace medallion after the St. Christopher he used to wear around his neck turned green and corroded. "I mean, do they really know?"

The lead Sheridan, tank 36, ran into trouble a few minutes after the armored patrol pulled out of camp. It fell into a crater left by a B52 bomb strike. The GIs sweated under the scorching sun, waiting for the tank to be pulled out. Most took off their heavy flak jackets and a few even removed their helmets.

"I don't dig the war too much," McGehee said, sitting on the hot steel edge of the APC with his dusty combat boots along the sides of his machine gun. "Not really. It's kind of a waste. I just don't see no reason for fighting a war over here."

An hour out of camp, Communists hidden in nearby undergrowth opened up with AK47 automatic rifle fire on a CH47 "Chinook" cargo helicopter flying over the armored column. The chopper was hit, but managed to fly back to safety. The armored patrol searched the brush for the Communists but came up empty handed.

"We're supposed to be sitting around guarding Saigon," Beisser said, sipping from a can of orange soda. "At least, that's what they say back in the world. But we're doing things we're not supposed to. I mean, like this. We're going out on patrol each day looking for dinks."

APC 21 soon had its first contact with reds. The vehicle hit a branch while moving through the bush and hundreds of red ants fell from the leaves onto the track. McGehee sprayed the APC with insect killer and said, "You've got to watch those red ones. They really eat you alive. You get these big welts. They're bad."

They moved on, winding through the jungle. The lead Sheridan would tear a hole through the wall of vegetation like a football lineman and the others would follow. The sun grew hotter and time seemed to stand still. Would something happen? Anything, just to break the tedium.

A couple of hours later, the lead tank No. 36, ran into more trouble. It became bogged down in swamp grass. The GIs waited, cursing, while it was pulled free again.

"I think we ought to go home," Sabo said, taking off his green tanker's helmet to wipe the sweat from his forehead. "The Vietnamese don't want us here and we don't want to be here."

An hour later, the men on 21 heard a crunching sound and the track came to a grinding halt. A couple of bolts and clamps were broken off the drive shaft. It took an hour to beg the spare parts.

The GIs bounced up and down over the rough terrain as though they were cowboys riding bucking broncos. A few minutes later, the battery went dead on APC 25. Another track drove up to jump start 25 and they were off once more.

The armored column speeded up as it headed for the base camp. The trees grew smaller and the undergrowth less dense. They were finally back. It had taken six hours to travel five miles.

"I don't think we've ever found any dinks when we've gone looking for them," Hughes said, a tattoo of a buzzard on his right shoulder and a silver Jesus medallion around his neck. "We only find them when they want us to. Then, they start the shooting first. But they haven't been doing much shooting lately."

Street Crossing Comes Close Second To Soccer

RIO DE JANEIRO (UPI) — Everybody knows soccer is the favorite sport of Brazil.

For the "cariocas" —(inhabitants of Rio de Janeiro)— crossing the street comes a very close second.

The game is played by two teams and a referee. One team —the "pedestrians" —is intent on getting safely to the other side of downtown Rio de Janeiro's avenues. The other — the "motorists" —is equally intent on preventing them from doing so. Or, at least, in making sure they reach their goal shaking and trembling.

The "referee" usually is a military policeman armed with a whistle. He tries to stop one of the teams from mauling the other too seriously. Just like in soccer.

The light turns red. In a tumult of screeching, the "motorist" will stop. But an advance guard of the "pedestrians" is trying to beat them and get "there" before the cars can slow down.

There are various and widely different styles, all appreciated by the true connoisseur: the bullfighter, the Jesse Owen, the crab, the Nureyev .... They all have one aim: to force the opponent to stand on his brakes, sending his car skidding madly.

The "motorists" retaliate by inching along, lurching ahead in a cacophony of horns, just before the light turns green. This forces the slowest of the "pedestrians" to hop, skip and jump to safety.

Strangely enough, accidents are not frequent. There is an atmosphere of courtesy, even of complicity, with none of the name-calling and fist-waving that mark peak-hour traffic in other cities.

If street-crossing in this motor-oriented age ever should become an Olympic sport one thing is certain: The Cariocas would reap in the gold, silver, and bronze medals.

Special Lecture

A special lecture-demonstration of the effects of the proposed Stockton (Baldwin) Ship Channel and the Peripheral Canal will be shown members of the Marin Audubon Society and guests Saturday at the Army Corps of Engineers' San Francisco Bay model in Sausalito. Demonstrations will be at 10 a.m. and 2 p.m.

MRS. PHIL McSpadden (left) drops in cubes of Jack cheese while Mrs. August Strotz tosses romaine and butter lettuce, making green salad with dilled shrimp from St. Hilary School Parent-Teacher Guild's new salad and casserole cookbook which will be on sale Saturday and Sunday at the bazaar at the school in Tiburon.

TWO RECIPES FOR READERS

Tiburon Holiday Bazaar To Feature Salads, Casseroles

Shrimp marinade doubles as salad dressing in green salad with dill shrimp. Made ahead, marinade is poured over a half-pound of tiny cooked shrimp and they are refrigerated for an hour before dinner guests arrive, then tossed with lettuce, cucumber and cheese.

This crisp salad is one of 60 salad and casserole recipes that are favorites of St. Hilary School Parent-Teacher Guild members included in its new cookbook, available Saturday and Sunday at a holiday bazaar at the school in Tiburon.

These two salad recipes are contributed by Brigitte McSpadden, and Marianne Strotz shares her adapted, typical Swiss casserole with I-J readers.

GREEN SALAD WITH DILLED SHRIMP

¼ cup oil
1½ tablespoons wine vinegar
1 tablespoon lemon juice
½ teaspoon dill weed
¼ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon dry mustard
Dash of pepper
1 clove garlic, minced

Shake this marinade well to blend and pour over a half-pound of cooked, small shrimp. Cover and let stand about one hour in refrigerator.

To serve, mix shrimp mixture lightly with:

4 cups chilled, torn romaine lettuce
¾ cups Tilsit or Jack cheese
½ cucumber, thinly sliced

This salad serves six.

MYSTERY SALAD

3 packages raspberry gelatin
3 cups seasoned stewed tomatoes
6 drops of tabasco
1¼ cups boiling water

Dissolve gelatin in boiling water. Add tomatoes and tabasco sauce and put into ring mold.

Serve with dressing of sour cream mixed with four teaspoons horseradish.

GRUYERE CHEESE WITH WHITE WINE

6 slices stale bread, trimmed
1 clove garlic, parboiled and minced
3 eggs
1 cup dry white wine
½ cup rich chicken bouillion
1 teaspoon salt, scant
½ teaspoon paprika
Few grains of cayenne pepper
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
2 cups grated Gruyere cheese
½ teaspoon prepared mustard

Spread bread with minced garlic and butter. Line sides and bottom of earthenware casserole with strips of this bread.

In a bowl, beat together eggs, wine, bouillion, salt, mustard, paprika, cayenne and Worcestershire sauce. Gradually mix in cheese. Pour this mixture into bread lined casserole and bake at 325 degrees for about 30 minutes or until custard is firm.

The taste is very similar to Swiss fondue.

BOHEMIAN BEER CASSEROLE

(From Puerto Rico)

3 cups cooked pork, cubed
12 ounces flat beer
¼ cup chopped onion
¼ cup chopped celery
2 tablespoons butter
1½ cups pumpernickel bread crumbs
¼ teaspoon sugar
1 teaspoon salt
Freshly ground black pepper to taste

Saute onion in butter for five minutes. Add cubed pork, beer and remaining ingredients. Mix well and place in greased casserole. Cover and bake at 375 degrees for 40 minutes. Serves six.

For Early-America Meal, Try A Colonial Pot Roast

For a beef blade pot-roast patterned after early American cuisine, try Colonial Pot-Roast. The beef braises until tender with chunks of acorn squash and tart red apples, added near the end of the cooking period.

Colonial Pot-Roast

3 to 4 pound beef blade pot-roast
¼ cup flour
1½ teaspoons salt
½ teaspoon pepper
3 tablespoons lard or drippings
¼ cup water
2 medium-sized onions, cut in quarters
1 beef bouillon cube
⅓ cup hot water
1 acorn squash, cut in twelfths and pared
2 medium-sized tart apples, quartered and cored

Combine flour, salt and pepper. Dredge meat in seasoned flour. Reserve leftover flour. Brown meat in lard or drippings. Pour off drippings. Add ¼ cup water and onions. Cover tightly and cook slowly 2½ hours. Dissolve bouillon cube in ⅓ cup hot water. Add bouillon, squash and apples to meat. Cover tightly and cook 30 to 35 minutes or until meat and vegetables are tender. Remove meat and vegetables to heated platter. Thicken cooking liquid with reserved flour dissolved in water. 6 to 8 servings.

If You Cook For A Crowd, Give 'Easy Lasagne' A Try

EASY LASAGNE

8 pounds ground beef
½ cup lard
2 quarts onion, chopped
6 cloves garlic, chopped
4 cans (1 pound, 12 ounces each) tomatoes
3 cans (12 ounces each) tomato paste
3 tablespoons salt
1 teaspoon pepper
1 tablespoon basil (leaf)
2 tablespoons oregano (leaf)
4 bay leaves (optional)
2 pounds lasagne noodles
2 pounds Cheddar cheese, grated (2 quarts)

Cook ground meat, onion and garlic in lard slowly, stirring occasionally, until meat is browned, about 30 minutes. Pour off drippings. Add tomatoes, tomato paste, salt, pepper, basil, oregano and bay leaves. Mix well. Simmer mixtures 30 minutes, stirring occasionally. Cook lasagne noodles. Drain and divide noodles into 4 equal parts. In each of two 20¾"x12¾"x 4" pans, alternate layers of ingredients as follows: 1 quart meat mixture, ¼ of the lasagne noodles, 1 quart meat mixture, 2 cups grated cheese, ½ of the remaining meat mixture, ¼ lasagne noodles and 2 cups grated cheese. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) 30 minutes. Makes 48 servings.

STUFFING IDEAS

Tips On Roasting The Holiday Bird

The holiday season begins next week with the gathering of family and friends around the table for turkey and all the trimmings.

One of the trimmings — the stuffing — can be made in a variety of ways. Two variations here are cornbread-cranberry stuffing and sausage stuffing. A cranberry fruit conserve is another refreshing trimming.

For the Thanksgiving roast turkey, try cooking it in foil to keep the flavorful juices in the bird itself.

Lay out wide heavy aluminum foil, and grease the top of the foil well. Wrap end of turkey's drumsticks and wing-tips with small pieces of foil. Place bird in center of foil, breast side up. The skin of the turkey should be generously greased. Brind together the sides of the foil, loosely over the top of the turkey, and fold together. Fold and seal the ends. Place the bird breast up in a shallow pan. Bake at 325 degrees, according to the chart below.

Weight	Time*
Under 8 lbs.	3-4 hours
8-12 lbs.	4-5 hours
12-16 lbs.	5-6 hours
Over 16 lbs.	Up to 7 hours

When turkey has cooked to within 20 minutes of the total cooking time, open foil and leave foil open for the remainder of cooking time, so the bird will brown. It can be basted with juices from bottom of the pan.

In testing to make sure bird is done, the temperature on a meat thermometer should read 180 degrees. If you do not have a meat thermometer, test the bird by pressing the thick part of the drumstick. The meat should feel very soft. The drumstick joint should move easily or twist out of joint.

For one cup of gravy, mix ¼ cup drippings with 2 tbsp. of flour. Add 1 cup water, milk or cream gradually. Heat until desired thickness is reached, stirring.

Guide for purchasing turkey: buy ¾ to 1 pound of turkey for each person to be served. You will need about 8 cups of stuffing for a 10-lb. turkey.

Do not stuff turkey until you are ready to begin cooking it, as stuffing sours easily inside turkey cavity.

SAUSAGE STUFFING

1 pound pork sausage meat
½ pound ground veal
½ pound ground pork
¾ cup chopped onions (2)
1¼ cups chopped celery and leaves (6 stalks)
¼ cup chopped parsley
1 10-oz. package frozen chopped spinach (cooked to package directions)
4 eggs
1 cup grated Parmesan cheese
1 8-oz. package stuffing
½ teaspoon rubbed sage
1 clove garlic, chopped
1 cup turkey broth*
2 tablespoons olive oil
1 tablespoon butter

Cook sausage meat until cooked through; break apart and add ground veal and pork; cover and cook 15 minutes. Add chopped onions, celery and parsley; cook, covered, 20 minutes longer. Stir to mix thoroughly. Meanwhile, beat eggs lightly; add spinach and Parmesan cheese. Place stuffing mix in bowl; add meat mixture, egg mixture, sage, garlic and broth. Mix carefully with fork. Spinach may be omitted and additional celery added.

*Make broth by cooking neck and giblets.

CRANBERRY CORNBREAD STUFFING

(Enough stuffing for a 15-pound Turkey)

1 cup butter or margarine
2 cups chopped celery
1 cup chopped onion
8 cups cubed day-old white bread
6 cups crumbled state cornbread or muffins
2 cups fresh cranberries, halved, rinsed and drained
1 tablespoon salt
1 tablespoon crumbled poultry seasoning
½ pound smoked ham, finely chopped or coarsely ground
2 cups turkey giblet stock or chicken broth

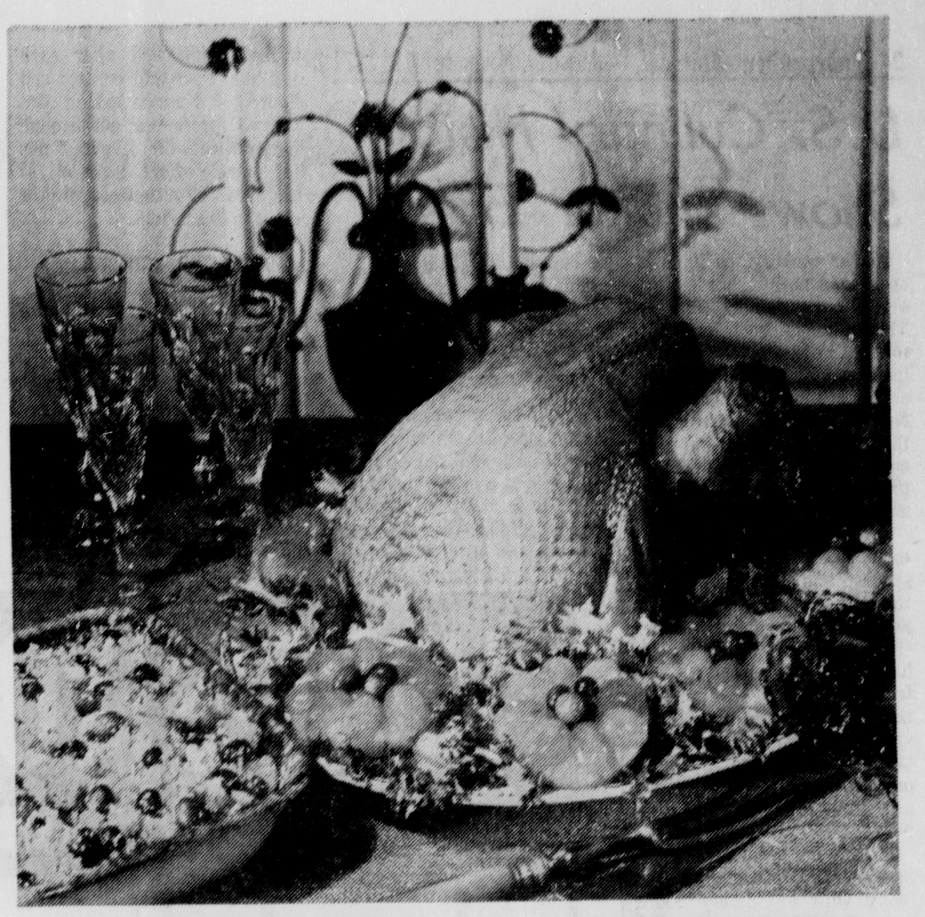
Heat butter; add celery and onion and saute until golden. Combine remaining ingredients in a large bowl. Add sauteed vegetables and pan drippings and toss lightly. Do not stuff turkey until just before it is ready to roast (if dressing stands inside turkey it will spoil). Pack stuffing lightly into turkey; sew or skewer opening and roast as usual.

CRANBERRY FRUIT CONSERVE

(Makes about 3 cups)

2 cups fresh cranberries, rinsed and drained
1 apple, peeled and chopped
1 orange, peeled and chopped
1 cup sugar
½ teaspoon ground giner
¼ cup water

Combine all ingredients; cover and simmer 5 minutes or until cranberries are tender. Cool and chill.



ADD A FESTIVE extra touch to the holiday bird this year. Here, pineapple slices are topped with halved kumquats and filled with the season's fresh cranberries for a sprightly turkey decoration. For extra color and flavor add cranberries to the stuffing for the bird.

The Season To Feast On Fowl

'Tis the season to feast on fowl, whether it's fresh from the fields, or the butcher's shelf.

Test your culinary creativity and impress your dinner guests with a unique new way to serve Rock Cornish hens, enhanced with a delicious stuffing.

Make a tantalizing dressing with wild rice, mushrooms and zesty American blue cheese. The subtly sharp flavor of the blue-marbled cheese blends beautifully with the wild rice and mushrooms.

A hint to remember when preparing a dressing of any kind is to add a pinch of sugar. The sugar will not add any sweetness of its own, but will help to blend all the delicious flavors.

ROAST CORNISH HENS

3 cups water
1 teaspoon salt
1 cup wild rice
½ cup butter
3 tablespoons minced onion
3 tablespoons minced celery
¼ cup sliced cooked mushrooms
¼ cup parsley
pinch of sugar
½ cup American blue cheese (about 3 ounces, crumbled)
6 rock Cornish game hens
3 teaspoons salt
⅓ cup butter melted

Bring salted water to a boil. Wash rice and add to boiling water. Cover and simmer for one hour without stirring until tender. Drain, if necessary. Melt ½ cup butter. Saute onion, celery and mushrooms in melted butter until lightly browned. Toss lightly with wild rice, sugar and American blue cheese.

Rinse hens with water and pat dry. Rub cavaties with salt and fill lightly with wild rice mixture. To close cavaties, sew or skewer and lace with cord. Tie legs together, brush with metled butter and roast uncovered, 350 degrees for one hour until done.

U.S. Culinary History Shows Shaker Effect

Shaker cookery, as it developed in America, has embroidered our culinary heritage. This religious sect, originally founded in New England, established communities in Massachsetts, Maine, Ohio, Indiana, New York and Kentucky during the Eighteenth and Nineteenth centuries and is credited with the introduction of a number of culinary innovations.

The Shakers embellished their foods with home-grown spices and herbs and are thought to be the first to produce them commercially for the American market. The foods for their tables came from the fields surrounding their villages and included a variety of fresh fruits and vegetables, nuts, grains and dairy products. Their food is simple, nutritious and artfully prepared.

A sampling of foods in the Shaker tradition can be enjoyed today with a culinary assist from convenience food products. The idea of traditional Shaker recipes prepared with modern shortcuts is not as unlikely as it seems — for the Shakers were quick to adopt labor-saving devices and new ideas from the "world people," the sect's term for non-Shakers.

BERRY PATCH COFFEE CAKE

- 1 cup sugar
- 1 8-oz. pkg. cream cheese
- ½ cup margarine
- 2 eggs
- ½ teaspoon vanilla
- 2 cups sifted cake flour
- 1 teaspoon baking powder
- ½ teaspoon soda
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- ¼ cup milk
- ½ cup raspberry preserves

Combine sugar, softened cream cheese and margarine, mixing until well blended. Add eggs, one at a time, mixing well after each addition. Blend in vanilla. Sift together dry ingredients; add alternately with milk, mixing well after each addition. Pour into greased and floured 13 x 9-inch baking pan. Dot with preserves; cut through batter with knife several times for marble effect. Bake at 350 degrees, 35 minutes. Makes eight to 10 servings.

APPLE ORCHARD CHEDDAR SPREAD

- 2 cups (8 ozs.) shredded sharp natural Cheddar cheese
- ¼ cup apple cider
- 2 tablespoons margarine
- Dash of cayenne
- 1 tablespoon chopped chives
- 2 teaspoons chopped pimiento

Combine cheese, cider, margarine and cayenne; mix until well blended. Stir in chives and pimiento. Makes 1¾ cups.

BRETHREN'S CHEESE BREAD

- 4 cups flour
- 2 tablespoons sugar
- 1 tablespoon baking powder
- 1 teaspoon salt
- ½ cup margarine
- 4 cups (1-lb.) shredded sharp natural Cheddar cheese
- 1 teaspoon dill weed
- 2 cups milk
- 2 eggs, slightly beaten

Sift together dry ingredients. Cut in margarine until mixture resembles coarse crumbs; stir in cheese and dill. Add milk and eggs; mix just until moistened. Spoon into four well-greased 6 x 3½-inch loaf pans; bake at 400 degrees, 35 to 40 minutes. Makes four loaves.

This Dish A Change Of Pace

Mushrooms, egg noodles and lobster, crab or shrimp go into this Seafood Tetrazzini main dish to create a change of pace for the dinner menu.

SEAFOOD TETRAZZINI

- ¼ cup butter or margarine
- ¼ cup chopped onion
- 1 cup sliced fresh mushrooms
- ¼ cup flour
- 1 teaspoon salt
- Few grains pepper
- Few grains cayenne pepper
- 2½ cups milk
- ¼ cup dry sherry
- 1 8-ounce package fine egg noodles, cooked according to directions on package
- 1½ cups cooked lobster, shrimp, or crab meat (or use any desired combination)
- 2 tablespoons melted butter or margarine
- ⅓ cup fine dry bread crumbs
- 2 tablespoons grated Parmesan cheese

Heat oven to 375 degrees. Melt the ¼ cup butter in skillet over moderate heat (about 250 degrees). Add onion and mushrooms; cook until lightly browned. Blend in flour, salt, pepper, and cayenne. Gradually stir in milk; cook, stirring constantly, until thickened. Stir in sherry. Combine noodles, sauce, and fish. Pour into buttered deep 2½-quart casserole. Mix the two tablespoons melted butter, bread crumbs, and Parmesan cheese. Sprinkle over top. Bake, uncovered, 40 to 45 minutes, or until lightly browned. Serves four to five.

Vitamin D Source

It is important for a child to have Vitamin D daily because it helps the body use calcium and phosphorus to build strong teeth and bones. Important sources are foods fortified with Vitamin D, like milk.

The Right Snacks

Well-chosen snacks can add important nutrients to the diet. Some of the many nutritious snack foods on the market are ready-to-eat cereals, raisins, enriched breads and crackers, milk, fruit and fruit juices.

PROPERLY SUPPORTING Nicole Prager (right) by holding her underneath the arm, Gert Foley walks beside her at Marin Skateland in San Rafael. The huge space and the idea of "going skating" encourage the crippled children to try to walk in heavy skates, an exercise to strengthen their legs. Gert Foley also trains aides and teachers to help children "skate."

GERT AND 'MY CHILDREN'

Working To Help Those In Need

By PAT BALMES

Supported by her own crutches, Gert Foley works to strengthen limbs of sevérely retarded or crippled children at Marin Skateland in San Rafael. She supervises four one-hour therapy sessions on Wednesday and Thursday mornings for handicapped children on roller skates from eight Marin schools.

Mrs. Foley, 59, was bedridden in traction for 10 years and underwent 22 operations. She learned firsthand what exercise can do. Now a volunteer therapist, Gert says, "I believe I am the first to use skating as a therapy. I knew roller skates could be locked and used as weights. I used to skate when my boy was little, hopping along with my crutches and away I'd go. I did that to prove to my son that no one is ever so bad that he cannot get better."

At the rink Gert works with a class of small children who hobble on heavy skates, stimulated to try by the vast space and the idea of going skating.

GERT SINGLES out a feeble youngster on supports. She slowly steps backward, urging him to lift one foot after another and come to her outstretched arms. When he reaches Gert, she hugs him, knowing how hard that walk was for him.

Insisting a crippled child build his legs by exercise in order to walk, Gert resists helping him. If he falls, she offers her own crutch with which he can pull himself up.

"You do it," she challenges. If he refuses, Gert will stay urging him "if it is a half-hour" until he tries to get up by himself.

"We can help them," Gert says. "These little youngsters have so many years ahead. Institutions should be for mental cases no one can reach. I feel defeated when they take one I know I can help away from me to put in an institution where he will become nothing but a vegetable."

Patience brings some out of a daze. When one boy looks up at a large sign above the roller rink, Gert knows he wants to sound out words.

BEGUN THREE AND one-half years ago, skating therapy no longer is experimental; results are proven, according to Mrs. Foley. She needs the gift of a movie camera or a volunteer cameraman who would film the children from time to time to document their progress for doctors.

"Oh, I wish I'd had a camera last week," says Gert, speaking about a little curly-haired girl who sat on the floor, banged her head and screamed when she was carried to her first skating session three and one-half years ago. Last week that child made her first march across the rink clutching only a shoestring Gert held out before her.

Working closely with the children's teachers, Gert says she may not know all the children's names but she knows their ailments.

"I teach aides to support properly and not drag the children. If it is not done right, it could be injurious."

Teachers and volunteer aides support the more unsteady children.

Gert says that volunteering is the only way she can repay her own doctors and nurses for their time, love and patience. By helping others recover, she is helping their doctors.

GERT WAS born and reared in San Rafael. As a young woman she planned to become an orthopedic nurse, but she injured her knee in 1927. Her doctor told her she would never be able to go into nurse's training.

"My life was dead," she says. Complications from her injury required 22 operations. Gert was bedridden and then on crutches ever since her teen years. Her mother, constantly with her during her bedridden years, gave her therapy and encouragement.

"After my recovery I went for my first outing in a car and was injured in a five-car crash." She was bedridden intermittently for the next five years.

"I always prayed to God to open the door to how I was supposed to work," says Gert. "While you are in the hospital you have visitors, other patients, doctors and nurses. It is when you go home that people forget you."

SHE DECIDED to devote her life to shut-ins and founded the Marin County Shut-in Society in 1938. Gert held meetings in her home while bedridden for groups interested in helping shut-ins. She organized raffles of shut-ins' handicraft, raised money for supplies, paper and stamps, and planned card parties and barn dances.

"I could not have done this work without the help of the wonderful people in all the organizations of Marin County," says Gert.

She also organized high school and adult "walk-abouts" (well people) to work for shut-ins. Some of those boys and girls went into the medical world later. Gert asks parents to teach children to help shut-ins. There is a great need for volunteers.

When Gert was well enough, she did shut-ins' shopping with their pink slips from the welfare department. She found shut-ins that welfare didn't know about, hidden away.

"When the shut-ins would see me on crutches, they'd think, 'Hell, if she can do it, I can too.'

"My crutches have never been a handicap to me. I still have had my mind, heart and hands," says Mrs. Foley, who has also volunteered to nurse cancer cases.

"THIS SKATING therapy is good for me too," says Gert. "I am keeping busy and keeping my mind off my own problems."

For 25 years Gert worked as radio-telephone operator at Yellow Cab Company in San Rafael. She was often at the old skating rink in San Rafael with her son, Mike, "whose life was skating." He competed in national meets and became a figure-skating champion. He now owns a skating rink in Greensboro, N.C., where he, too, works with crippled children.

Roller rinks in San Leandro and San Mateo also have started skating therapy, according to Gert.

Gert comes to the rink every day. Even after long hours of working with crippled children in the morning, she stays for

A Lively Debate On Age-Old Question Of Women In Arts

Marin Women

By BARBARA HOSMER

The age-old question of why women have not produced the works of genius in the arts that men have kept the panel and audience arguing and counter-arguing last night at the College of Marin program on women and the arts.

Distinguished concert pianist Sari Biro termed woman in music as a "re-creator" rather than a powerful creator.

"There's something about a man-sized composition that cannot be done by a woman," Mme. Biro said. But, she said, talent will come out, whether in man, woman or child.

HER OWN concert career she said had been "decided by Providence."

Anitra Earle, film and drama critic for the San Francisco Chronicle, had previously been an orchestra conductor and a composer.

"But," she said, "it takes an extremely forceful personality to conduct an orchestra of 160 pieces. I was not that personality." She said that often especially the older musicians in the all-male orchestra had trouble "taking orders from a young girl standing at the podium." She said that the only female conductor of note had been Nadia Boulanger and that few women composers had ever reached the public eye.

As a critic in the journalism world, Miss Earle said that she has had a much easier time as a woman, and that women are not nearly so rare in criticism of the arts as they are in composing music or conducting.

ADRIENNE MARCUS, poet and creative writing instructor at the College of Marin, said that being published in a field dominated by male editors had been a frustrating experience. She stated that being a woman has contributed to her poetry, and read two of her works to show how she combines womanhood with other themes.

She added that writing perhaps has been more successful for women with talent than the other arts because "you can find the 15 or 20 minutes a day to write if you really are a writer," despite family obligations.

Mrs. Marcus said that a woman writer with a family has to make choices and sometimes the family does not win out.

"Time itself is different in writing than in the field of music," she said.

A MEMBER of the audience remarked that women don't get the opportunity to express themselves creatively other than in domestic tasks — a woman who wishes to paint may have to express herself by compensating in passionate redecorating of her house.

When asked if she would ever return to conducting or composing for an orchestra, Miss Earle replied, "I would have to closet myself and do two years of daily ear-training to get my ear back again because I was composing for a huge orchestra. I'm not sure that I ever will again."

But all three panelists agreed that "talent will win out."

The panel on the arts was one in the weekly College of Marin series "Women: Past, Present and Future."

Best Ways To Treat Dry Skin

If your skin is so dry that it needs special attention during the day make-up authorities say you can supply such care and yet not look unattractive while doing so.

Upon arising, clean your skin with moisturizing cleansing cream and gently tissue it off. Then, with tender upward strokes, apply a rich, nourishing cream to your face and neck. Let this moisturizer remain on your skin through the morning shower or bath, so the ensuing warmth will help absorb the cream's oils and moisturizers.

Next, remove any excess cream from your eyebrow area and lips for the application of a few simple, but strategic make-up accents. With a sharp eyebrow pencil slightly intensify the brown color. Apply eye shadow liner and mascara in your normal fashion.

Discussion To Center On Equal Mass Media Status

Geraldine Lange and Joyce Overhoff will discuss problems women are experiencing in gaining equal status to men in the media professions Tuesday at 8 p.m. in Olney Hall at the College of Marin.

Their program, "Women and Media," is this week's offering in the lecture series, "Women: Past-Present-Future," sponsored by the college.

Miss Lange is the public affairs director for television station KBHK and produces and hosts a daily show, "San Francisco Today." She is a former editorial assistant for Newsweek magazine and the San Francisco Chronicle and prior to a media career was secretary to former San Francisco mayor John Shelley and to San Francisco Supervisor Terry Francois.

A photographer and film maker, Miss Overhoff is a former associate producer for ABC television. Her film, "Early Exhibitionists," will be shown.

The women will discuss training and techniques helpful and required if women are to land jobs in the media as producers, editors, reporters, film makers and other key creative and executive positions.

College of Marin anthropology professor Diane Wickstrom will moderate the lecture film program.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Inventor Might Try Less Noisy Way Getting Up In Morning

DEAR HELEN:

My husband has trouble getting up mornings, and I'm no help as I sleep through alarms too.

To solve the problem, he invented some kind of weird apparatus made with a truck horn, a timer, and I couldn't begin to explain the other things.

That squatting monster at the foot of our bed (too big to go under it), stirs itself, buzzes, burps and every morning at 6:30 sharp, sounds off like a lonely foghorn in heat. I jump at least five feet! The only good thing about it is that it really DOES blast my husband to his feet in the mornings. (Somebody's got to turn it off before the neighbors call the cops.

He's so-o-o proud of his brainchild. I'd like to murder it with an axe. Isn't there a better way? — MARRIED TO A MONSTER-MAKER

DEAR MTMM:

A man so ingenious can surely invent a quieter way to get the job done. Why doesn't he whomp up an "ejecto-bed" that will flip him out at 6:30 a.m. like a piece of toast? Or a "monster" who nudges him awake, or pulls his big toe, or . . . look, friend, have you ever tried those alarm clocks that flash on lights and shake the bed? — H.

DEAR HELEN:

I almost cried when I read about the grandparents who are accused of "ruining" their grandchildren simply because they show normal affection. Thank you for your understanding answer. Every child needs a grandparent who takes time to listen, can even spoil a bit when necessary, and makes things right just by being there sometimes.

I had wonderful grandparents, now gone. My children have none as my husband is an orphan, and my parents were killed in a wreck three years ago.

We'd love to adopt a set of grandparents for our children like the ones who wrote to you, Helen. We wouldn't impose, or expect a lot: we just want two older people to love and be loved by all of us.

How do we go about it? — LOOKING

P.S. Is this a crazy request?

DEAR LOOKING:

Crazy? Definitely not! And your request isn't unusual either. Several times a year I receive letters from families wanting to adopt grandparents.

Why not visit a senior citizens' club or hobby workshop? The most active older people attend these meetings. Surely you can find one couple here who would enjoy being part-time grandparents to your children. Good luck! — H.

DEAR HELEN:

There are groups composed of alcoholics, the elderly, divorcees, singles, dieters, "little people," tall people, businesswomen —why not a club for leftover mothers?

My children are either married or in college. They have no time for me. A phone call once a week, two minutes describing how busy they are —that's the extent of it. We were once very close, but their lives are their own these days. My husband is busy with his work. Tell me where I can find people I can relate to and who really care, having shared the same problems? — LONELY MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER:

So long as you think of yourself as a "leftover mother," you'll never find a club or group that "cures" you. Life is a series of graduations: Stop wearing your "motherhood" gown when you've outgrown it and get busy — on the next plateau — where your husband, a job perhaps, or civic interests — are waiting. — H.

Home On Wheels

College students, retired couples and many families in between are discovering one of the easiest ways to own a home is to purchase one with wheels. One of the major advantages is price, says Mary Dale McGregor, extension housing specialist, University of Nebraska-Lincoln. The home on wheels costs around $8.85 per square foot. The site-built home costs around $16 per square foot.

The Real Purpose Behind Adoptions

I-J Special Report

NEW YORK — Too long we have thought that the purpose of adoption was to provide children for the childless. It isn't. The purpose of adoption is to provide homes for the homeless, according to Kenneth Watson, an official of the Chicago Child Care Society, an adoption agency.

Mr. Watson's attitude and those of other agency officials has been brought about mainly through the efforts of the Council on Adoptable Children and the Adoption Resource Exchange of North America, according to a report in the December issue of Redbook magazine.

Until recently many adoption agencies were reluctant to offer handicapped children and children of mixed ancestry for adoption because they couldn't believe that anyone would want them. But COAC and ARENA have succeeded in finding homes for many children who were once thought unadoptable.

A request to adopt an older child or a black child was denied Peter W. Forsythe, of Ann Arbor, Mich., co-founder of COAC, by a Michigan agency.

He says, "A lot of well-meaning agency workers would look at those children and think: 'I couldn't raise a child like that.'

"When a husband and wife came to the agency and said they were willing to adopt the child, the agency worker assumed there was something wrong with the couple and rejected them. The agency worker thought, 'Well, if I couldn't raise that child, certainly they can't.' "

But Mr. Forsythe and his wife, Joyce, knew that people did want these children so they formed their organization to bring children and prospective parents together.

The aim of ARENA, a program of the Child Welfare League of America, is to move hard-to-adopt children from parts of the country where they are not wanted to places where they are. For example, Indian children, not wanted in the Southwest, may find homes in the East, or there may be a couple in Oklahoma who wish to adopt a blind child, and a blind child in Vermont may need a home.

Mrs. Ferrari Returns From Germany Visit

By MOLLY MARIN

Mrs. Florence F. Ferrari returned to her home in San Rafael Wednesday evening after spending two months in Germany with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Gerhardt Scholten (Jolene Ferrari), and her grandchildren, Gerhardt Jr., Florence, Bettina and Lalo.

Mrs. Ferrari has spent two months in Germany every other year since 1957 when her daughter was attending the University of Munich there.

The Scholtens' home is in Holzkirchen, near Munich, and Mrs. Ferrari says she saw many changes in Munich, particularly in the easing of the flow of traffic in downtown areas, and much has already been done to prepare for the Olympics to be held there next year.

Staying mostly in Bavaria she took trips with her family and says she especially enjoyed visiting the monastery in Salzburg, Austria, where the movie "Sound of Music" was filmed.

She also attended the first performance of the Chicago Symphony ever to be held in Munich.

The warm weather, beautiful countryside and colorful trees helped to make it a memorable trip, and she is looking forward to returning in 1973, she says.

MR. AND Mrs. Harry F. Flachs and Mrs. Frederick Goette have returned home to the Marin Country Club Estates following a month tour of Southern Europe and North Africa.

Mrs. Flachs said two of the most interesting parts of the tour were staying in a palace within the walls of the Casbah in Fez, Morocco, and finding fossils in a part of the city buried by an earthquake in 200 B.C. in Rabat.

ATTENDING THE preview reception Monday for the opening of the Chinese "Gold, Silver and Porcelain: The Kempe Collection" from Marin will be the George F. Jewetts of Ross and the Albert Gatovs of Kent Woodlands. The preview will be held at the Center of Asian Art and Culture at the M. H. DeYoung Museum in San Francisco, where the exhibition will be held from Nov. 23 to Dec. 26. The exhibit of 150 pieces of rare works of art is from the collection of the late Swedish industrialist Carl Kempe.

Home Economist Role Is Topic

The role of home economists in family planning is the subject for an International Family Planning Conference being held this week in Chapel Hill, N.C.

The sponsor is the American Home Economics Association. The overall project, which the conference initiates, is to identify existing programs and recommend action with methods and materials so that the home economics profession is a contributing member of family planning around the world, according to the AHEA.

Delegates are attending the conference from Colombia, Egypt, Ghana, India, Jamaica, Korea, Laos, Malaysia, Nigeria, Pakistan, Panama, Switzerland, Swaziland, Thailand, Turkey and the U.S.

SMART SHOPPER

Restless Nation As Phase II Launched

By ARTHUR E. ROWSE

WASHINGTON — As Phase II of the wage-price freeze begins, consumer leaders are skeptical of its probable effectiveness even though the administration has adopted their main demand.

The demand was for posting of pre-freeze prices. This was one of the original requirements when the freeze began in August. But it was not widely observed and was eventually discarded after consumer groups started to call attention to it.

When it was dropped, there was much gnashing of teeth. The Consumer Federation of America fired off a letter to Dean C. Jackson Grayson Jr., chairman of the Price Commission. The CFA said the move "effectively sabotaged the efforts of organized consumers to monitor" prices.

HEEDING THESE and other complaints, the Price Commission decided to switch positions again and require prices to be posted.

For Phase II, it said, "Retailers are to post prominently their freeze period prices for all covered food items and for many other selected items other than food as will be specified in the regulations.

"Until all such selected prices are posted, retailers are not permitted to increase any prices. In any event, such freeze prices must be posted no later than Jan. 1, 1972."

If this requirement is enforced, private individuals will be able to check for themselves to see if the price freeze is taking effect.

BUT ENFORCEMENT is almost entirely voluntary. It is left up to the businessman to operate strictly by the guidelines. The government simply does not have the manpower or facilities to police the 10 million business firms and the countless prices they have.

There are almost as many ways to subvert the freeze as there are items to freeze. Reports to CFA, the largest consumer organization in the country, indicated that many price increases during Phase I were not proper. The organization concluded that the freeze was only a "mirage."

Visible price increases are not the only problem. Less visible ones may occur when product quality is subtly reduced or package content is decreased without any noticeable changes in the product's outward appearance or any change in the price.

LARGE FIRMS making well known products have a public visibility that makes voluntary enforcement relatively easy. Smaller firms with less known products have more opportunity to cheat, and they do not need to get official permission for price increases as large firms do.

Another major worry of consumer leaders is the growing number of exemptions and exceptions to the general rules. In addition to the items exempted from controls for both Phase I and II are the following new exemptions: used products, dispostal sale items, real estate, custom-made goods and services, royalties, dues and miscellaneous objects such as antiques and art. Rents on commercial, industrial and farm property are also exempted, but other rents will remain frozen except in "hardship" cases.

Consumer groups have been particularly concerned about the lack of any known consumer spokesmen on the Price Commission. They do not consider Virginia Knauer, President Nixon's consumer adviser and member of the Cost of Living Council, as a bonafide consumer representative.

Consumers who wish to report apparent violations should send them to the Price Commission, 2000 M Street, nw., Washington, D.C. and send a copy to the Consumer Federation, 1012 14th Street nw., Washington, D.C.

Knit Protection

Pills on the surface of a knit garment may be removed by brushing small sections of the knit with a semistiff brush or by using a fine grade of sandpaper or a safety razor while holding the garment flat. You also can get results with scissors or with one of the "pill removing cutters" now on the market.

Books Are Donated In Memory Of Mrs. Koenig

Sausalito Friends of the Library has donated three books to the Sausalito Library in memory of the late Mrs. John E. Koenig, known to many for her involvement in Sausalito's cultural, economic and social life.

The books are "Living Trees" by Thomas H. Everett of the New York Horticultural Society, "Color Dictionary," a book of flowers and plants by Ray Hay and Patrick Synge, which includes 2,048 pictures in color; and the "Compleat Naturalist" by Wilford Blunt, the story of Carl Linnaeus, famed Swedish botanist and founder of modern systemization of botany.

Selection of the books centered in Mrs. Koenig's great love of trees and plants and her care and promotion of plant life in and around Sausalito. For 20 years she was a member of the dedicated tree committee of the Sausalito Woman's Club.

She was a member of the city's tree committee, a charter member of the Sausalito Friends of the Library and a member of the library board from 1966 to 1969.

The books are now on display at the library.

Reaffirms Support Of VD Measure

(I-J Special Report)

LOS ANGELES — The California Parent-Teacher Association board of managers at its meeting last Thursday reaffirmed support of the venereal disease instruction bill (AB 950, Fong). That action means the P-TA members are encouraged to work to override the governor's veto of the measure, the P-TA announced.

"As things now stand, even if parents do call in that they wish their children to have VD instruction, they must see the materials to be presented, and if a teacher happens to slip up, he can lose his credentials. Thus very little instruction is now going on at a time when our children can't wait," said Mrs. Robert T. Adams, Lafayette, legislative advocate for public welfare and health.

The group heard a report by Mrs. Everett Barr, Yreka, state Board of Education observer, on information presented to that board regarding the venereal disease epidemic in California.

Said Mrs. Barr, "In 10 years, if current rates continue, one out of two students will contract VD before completing high school. These statistics do not tell the full human toll. The state spends 14 million dollars a year on VD patients, including two million in care for the syphilitic insane and half a million in care for the syphilitic blind. The counties spent 23 million last year to treat gonorrhea alone."

Women And Alcoholism

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— Actress Mercedes McCambridge said Tuesday that "boredom, boredom, insidious boredom" contributes to the rising alcoholism rate among women.

Miss McCambridge, a recovered alcoholic, said that the woman seized with the disease "must forgive herself. She has not been bad; she had been ill.

"She must realize that she cannot ingest a drug that the rest of you do every day."

She made the comments at the annual awards luncheon of Stepping Stone, the city's alcoholism rehabilitation home for women.

Keep Them White

Pears, like bananas, turn brown if they are allowed to stand after they have been cut or peeled. A quick dip into a citrus fruit juice will help keep the cut surfaces creamy white until served.

Jewish Center Sets Excursion

An excursion to Marine World for Marin children from kindergarten through 6th grade will be sponsored Nov. 26 by the Marin Jewish Community Center.

The tour will include parts of Marine World only open by special arrangements.

The group will meet at the Marin Jewish Community Center, 200 North San Pedro Road, San Rafael, at 9:30 a.m. and return at 5 p.m. Registration by Nov. 23 can be made through the center.

SAUSALITO EXHIBIT — Sausalito artists are featured in a show this month at the Sausalito Art Center, among them Houlgate Davenport, whose paintings such as this, create a mood of nostalgia.

ART REVIEW

Houlgate Davenport Is Worth Visit To Exhibit In Sausalito

By LAURA DEVENDORF

It's worth a pilgrimage to the Sausalito Art Center, 630 Nevada Street, just to see Houlgate Davenport's work which is part of a Sausalito artists' show there through the 26th of this month.

If anyone can sum up the return to nostalgia and the seeking of a lovelier, more innocent time, Miss Davenport does with wash drawings and pastels which cover ground from farmland to the opera house.

All look a little like something discovered in a relative's attic. All have that darkened look of age about them and that sense of lost, yet desired time. Their colors are suppressed. The rolling spring hills are not acid with green nor is a white cottage really white. And Miss Davenport's swirling, dreamlike strokes represent after images of time, person or place rather than those things in their present clear detail.

Subject matter — a formal room or an organdy crisp lady in the afternoon —also recall an earlier time. And while none of the places or participants seem happy, they are soft and dim like daydreams or remembering and they hold you in them the same way.

Not all the other artists shown with Miss Davenport treat you as gently. Some, literally assault you, such as Richard Allen with his wall-sized, "In Search of America," its garish stars, dots, curlicues, and its Indians, wolves, trees and mountains all painted in hard, coarse colors.

Sculptor Mike de Leon can be gentle or not depending upon whether he uses wood or plastic. In wood, he develops its warmth by staining, painting, encrusting it with grainy cement or by carving it to reveal its flowing grain. In plastic, he is as cold as his medium, as he develops two lighted pieces with inner planes, tubes, hoses, knobs and balls growing through or from clear cast columns.

Rex Gross also works pleasantly in wood, carving a modern totem with sections of it laminated, collaged and painted.

And there are several craftsmen in the exhibit, among them glass blowers John Baldwin, Larry Sark and Richard Slater. Baldwin's twisted tubes with sections felted in red, and Sark's giant hand bell form in oil slick colors are more sculptural than utilitarian. And while Slater is more conservative, his scallops of color and the textured reds combined with navy give his work richness.

Interspersed among the remaining paintings, drawing and sculpture are some delightful children's paintings. Maybe it's the unguarded mood enjoyed in Miss Davenport's things which makes one so receptive. Whatever — the children's work often scores more points than the adult's more self-conscious efforts.

Priorities Sought On Proposed Trails

The Novato Parks and Recreation Commission has requested the Novato Committee of the Marin Trails Council to set priorities and cost estimates on proposed hiking, equestrian and bicycle trails.

The action was taken Monday night as the commission reviewed staff recommendations on the committee's immediate and long range goals.

Commissioners suggested the committee set its priorities and submit any request for city funds to the commission by February, reported Edward W. Adams, parks and recreation director.

The committee's immediate goals, taking into consideration the interest in horseback riding in Novato, include creation of a cross-town equestrian trail, development of an equestrian trail system in Indian Valley, and extension and improvement of existing bicycle trails.

Commissioners also received a written request from M. Elizabeth Smith of 6 June Lane for a public hearing on its decision last month against letting girls play in the Pee Wee and Farm League baseball games.

"Half the population" is female and if girls want to play, they should be encouraged, Mrs. Smith said. "Arbitrary exclusion of girls is crippling to their self esteem," she said.

Adams said two girls, 9 and 12 years old, played in the Farm League last summer as an experiment.

Commissioners last month set a policy against having girls in the boys leagues after deciding the "disadvantages outweighed the advantages," Adams said.

Staff members previously had listed as disadvantages accidents, language sometimes used by boys and the fact that some coaches might not know how to handle girls.

If enough girls are interested in playing baseball, a separate league for girls will be formed, Adams said. There is an existing softball league for girls.

Commissioners decided that since Mrs. Smith was the lone protester rather than set a public hearing, they would hear her comments at their next meeting, Dec. 6 at 8 p.m. at the Novato Community House.

Environmental Design Plan Report Tuesday

The Petaluma Planning Commission last night heard that study committee should have recommendations ready next week on an environmental design plan.

Chairmen of the six study committees said the plan will be ready for presentation at a joint city council-planning commission meeting next Tuesday at 7:30 p.m.

The environmental design plan being prepared is designed to prepare new policies on development in residential commercial, industrial, recreational areas and along the Petaluma River.

The city council declared a moratorium on rezonings and annexations pending completion of the study. Public hearings on the environmental design plan are expected to begin Dec. 7.

Coal Miners Return; Strike Nearly At End

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—The 48-day coal mine strike was practically over today in western Pennsylvania, northern West Virginia and parts of eastern Ohio.

A back to work movement begun Monday, two days after the signing of the national contract, picked up Tuesday and accelerated further today. United Mine Worker leaders in the nation's soft coal fields held a series of briefing sessions to dispel the rank-and-file members' suspicions of President Nixon's pay board and their own union.

In West Virginia, at least three quarters of the estimated 40,000 soft coal miners had returned to work. In Kentucky, Indiana, Illinois, Virginia and all coal states west of the Mississippi UMW leaders Tuesday reported all of their men would return on regular shifts, starting at midnight.

In Ohio, where 9,000 miners remained off the job Tuesday, miners began trickling back on the midnight "hoot-owl" shift, though five mines employing 1,000 men remained shut along the Ohio river.

Oil Search, Environment Are Linked

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The American Petroleum Institute ended its annual meeting Tuesday with Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., saying the search for new oil and gas reserves must be made with a concern for the environment.

Jackson, an unannounced Democratic presidential aspirant and chairman of the Senate Interior Committee, told 2,000 oil executives that the days have passed when energy policy issues could be privately resolved by industry and government leaders.

"Many in industry continue to restrict their positions to the traditional issues associated with debate or energy policy," Jackson said. "Today's policy decisions, whether of major or minor importance, must turn on issues that were not even considered a few years ago."

He said the new factors included quality of the environment, "a wide range of related national policies," and our role in the world community.

Pianist Pennario Symphony Guest

LEONARD PENNARIO
Marin Symphony soloist

Pianist Leonard Pennario will be guest artist at the Marin Symphony Orchestra's first regular concert of the 1971-72 season at 8:30 p.m. Nov. 23 at the Veterans Memorial Building.

Pennario's last Bay Area appearance was in 1970, in a Marin Music Chest concert.

He will play Rachmaninoff Concerto No. 2 in C Minor for Piano and Orchestra under the direction of Marin Symphony conductor Sandor Salgo. Other works on the program will be the overture to "Prince Igor" by Borodin and Mahler's Symphony No. 1.

A dress rehearsal for the concert will be open to Marin Symphony Association members and their families at 7:30 p.m. Sunday as a privilege offered with membership.

Season tickets for the three major Marin Symphony concerts are still available, as well as single concert tickets.

Ticket information is available from the Marin Symphony Association, Box 32, Ross, or through the Veterans Memorial Box Office, Marin Civic Center.

The U.S. Naval Academy at Annapolis opened Oct. 10, 1845.

Two Events Scheduled For Boys Club Building

Two special events have been scheduled to help the Novato Boys Club reach its $100,000 building fund goal, according to club president David A. Milano.

The Novato Trap Club will conduct a benefit shoot from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Sunday at the club range, three miles north of Novato, east of Highway 101.

Trophies will be awarded to high scorers in novice and experienced categories and there will be prizes for "best out of five" shooters, according to Paul A. Albino of Petaluma, trap club president.

Participants should bring their own shotguns and ammunition, Albino said. The Beta Sigma Phi sorority will serve lunch and refreshments.

On Nov. 27 McDonald's restaurant, 7430 Redwood Highway, Novato, will donate one third of its receipts to the building fund, Milano reported.

Gary Flynn and James Brady, restaurant operators, estimated the "Boys Club-Hamburger Day" could net up to $1,500 for the club.

Benefit Concert Will Be Sunday

A benefit concert will be presented by the San Rafael High School Music Department at 4 p.m. Sunday at St. Sebastians' Catholic Church in Greenbrae.

Proceeds will be used for a spring tour by the music students.

A string ensemble from the high school's orchestra will be directed by Hugo Rinaldi. The chamber choir singers from the school's A Capella choir — also will perform, directed by Byron Jones.

Try To Aid Dog Proves Fatal

CHESTER, Pa. (UPI)—Two persons were killed when they attempted to rescue an injured dog on a highway near here.

James J. Henry, 29, and Dawn Granger, 21, were struck by a car on state route 332 as they ran after Henry's dog late Monday.

Police said Henry was taking his pet into a veterinary hospital where Miss Henry, a student at the University of Pennsylvania, worked as an assistant, when the dog escaped. The animal ran into the highway and was struck by a car.

Thomas Robinson, 27, was charged with involuntary manslaughter in the two deaths.

Blue Named A.L.'s Most Valuable Player

NEW YORK (UPI) — Vida Blue today became the youngest player and only the fifth pitcher ever to win the American League's Most Valuable Player Award when he was accorded that honor in balloting by the Baseball Writers Association of America.

Blue, who earlier this year became the youngest player ever to win the Cy Young Award as the league's outstanding pitcher, received 14 out of 24 possible first place votes and finished with 268 points to easily outdistance teammate Sal Bando (182). Baltimore's Frank Robinson was third with 170 points and teammate Brooks Robinson took fourth with 163.

Mickey Lolich of Detroit, the only other player to get a first place vote, was fifth at 155.

Blue, 22, was the only player named on every ballot and deposes Cincinnati's Johnny Bench, last year's MVP in the national league, as the youngest player to win the honor. Blue, who helped Oakland to the American league western division title, is the first athletics' player to win the MVP since Bobby Shantz won with the then Philadelphia A;s in 1952. He is alos only the fifth pitcher ever to win both the MVP and Cy Young Award in the same season, the others being Don Newcombe (Brooklyn), Sandy Koufax (Los Angeles), Bob Gibson (St. Louis) and Dennis McLain (Detroit).

The only other pitchers who took MVP honors in the American league were Hal Newhouser, Spud Chandler, McLain and Shantz.

Blue had a sensational first half of the season before tapering off after the All-Star break. He finished with a 24-8 record and a league-leading 1.82 earned run average. He completed 24 of his 39 starts with eight shutouts and 301 strikeouts.

Bando, the Oakland third baseman, batted .271 with 24 homers and 94 runs batted in. Frank Robinson hit .281 with 28 homers and 99 RBIs and Brooks Robinson hit .272 with 20 homers and 92 runs batted in. Lolich's 25 victories were tops in the major leagues.

Rounding out the top 10 finishers were Fred Patek, Kansas City (77); Bobby Murcer, New York (72); Amos Otis, Kansas City (67); Wilbur Wood, Chicago (54); and Tony Oliva, Minnesota (36).

SPORT NOTES

It Was Long Season At College Of Marin

By RALPH CHATOIAN

What can you say if your football team loses all nine of its games?

If you're Dick Read, you smile gamely, and talk of next year and the hopes of things to come. For Read, College of Marin's coach, it's all new, this winless thing.

"It's never happened to me before," said Read, "as a player or as a coach." Read has been coaching at Marin for 11 years and coached high school football five years before that.

THIS WINLESS thing hasn't happened to either of Read's assistant coaches, eithr. Ed Grimm has been coaching for 21 years and Pett Limm 14 years. This year the Tars of Marin lost eight of its nine games.

And it's all been so sudden. In 1967 and 1968 Read had back-to-back conference championships. Then two years later the bottom fell out of the Marin football program.

"I guess the kids just have a lot of outside interests now," said Read. "Some of the kids who played high-school football just don't want to play football any more." There are about 10 boys on the Marin campus who played high school ball but didn't ever come out for football for the Tars.

THE CROWDS are not as big at Marin Tar football games. The student pressure to play football is much greater in high school than in junior college. There is just not the glory in J.C. football as there is in prep ball. All these are factors. In addition to all this, the big four-year colleges get some of the best players off the high school fields.

What can Read do next year to stop this College of Marin tailspin?

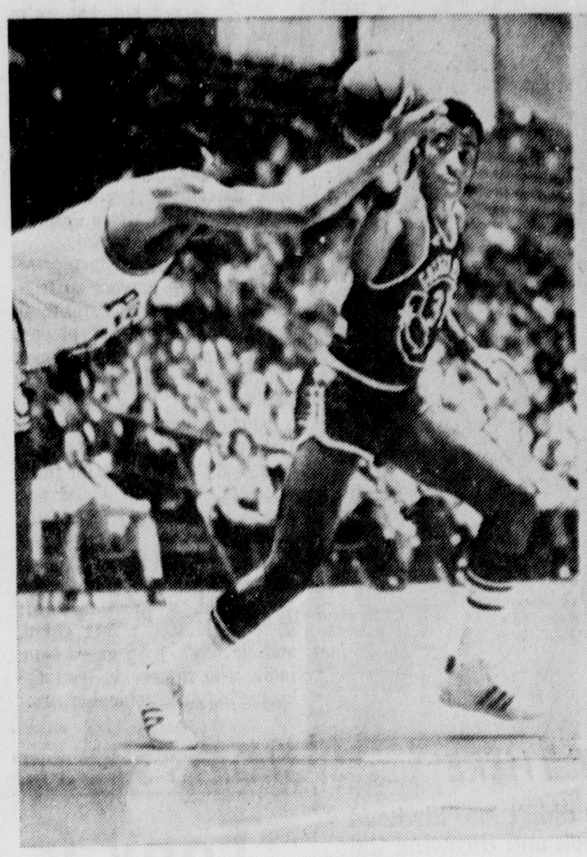
"We must go out and do a selling job, one heck of a selling job," he said. "If we get our share of athletes we'll do all right.

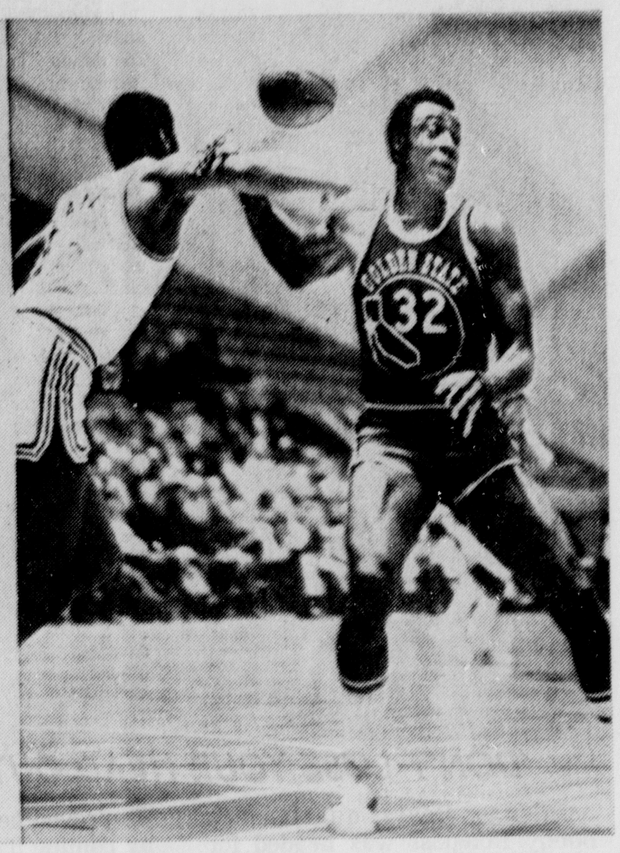
READ POINTS out the Tars had a chance to win in most of their games. They weren't completely out of things, as some of the conference statistics supplied by College of Marin student Jim Smith points out. They were behind in first downs 62-54 and in total yardage were behind by only 42 yards, 1371 to 1329. The Tars' passing yardage was better than the opposition, 755 to 432. But those are numbers. The 0-9 record is the thing.

Other factors led to Marin's undoing. The Tars used to compete in the Golden Valley Conference, made up of smaller junior colleges which drew from fewer high schools. Those championship years of 1967 and '68 were in the GVC. Now Marin is competing in the Camino Norte Conference, with the majority of junior colleges there drawing talent from more high schools than Marin, which draws from nine high schools.

And that tough schedule of non-conference games didn't help.

Well, there's always next year. Good luck, Marin coaching staff. I hope you can bounce back.





SNEAK THIEF — With the deftness of a pickpocket, Detroit Pistons' Bob Lanier (white uniform) stole the ball from Golden State Warriors' Cazzie Russell (32) during their National Basketball Association game last night. The Warriors won, 122-101.

Giants Sign New Coach; Rehire Virgil, McNamara

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The San Francisco Giants say they have completed their 1972 coaching staff by hiring minor league manager Andy Gilbert and re-hiring Ozzie Virvl and Johnny McNamara.

But no one has been named to replace the pitching coach spot vacated by Larry Jansen, who was fired earlier, which adds credibility to reports that veteran pitcher Don McMahon will be signed as a player-coach.

The Giants announced the hirings Tuesday and said McMamara, the former Oakland A's manager, will return as the third base coach. Joe Amalfitano, a former Giant player, was signed last week as a first place coach.

Gilbert, 55, a native of Bradenville, Pa., has been a Giants minor league manager for the past 22 years, joining the organization after playing briefly as an outfielder for the Boston Red Sox.

He led Amarillo to the west division pennant last year in the Texas League and has been successful in developing young talent for the parent club. Four of his former players — shortstop Chris Speier, pitcher Jim Barr, first baseman Dave Kingman and second baseman Chris Arnold —made the club in 1971.

Virgil, who will be entering his fourth season as a Giants coach, was signed by the New York Giants in 1953 and played with several major league teams.

Warriors Knock Off Pistons

DETROIT (UPI) —The Golden State Warriors ended a road trip Tuesday night by exploding with a 73 per cent shooting average in the third period to knock off the Detroit Pistons.

The third period performance, sparked by Nick Jones and Joe Ellis, who scored eight points each, brought the Warriors back from an 11-point deficit as they went on to a 122-101 victory.

The win snapped the Warriors' two-game losing streak — their longest of the young National Basketball Association season —and moved them into sole possession of second place in the NBA Pacific division, 2 ½ games behind Los Angeles.

Golden State returns home Thursday night to host the Portland Trail Blazers in the Oakland Coliseum arena.

The Warriors were trailing 56-50 at halftime Tuesday night, but when Jones and Ellis came off the bench they streaked to a 82-81 lead late in the third period. The Pistons then went scoreless for 6:02 in the fourth quarter in losing their third straight.

Jeff Mullins hit 33 points, Nate Thurmond scored 29 and Cazzie Russell pumped in 21 to lead the Warriors, who now have a 12-6 record for the year.

STAYS IN FRONT OFFICE

Saban Resigns As Coach

DENVER (UPI)—Lou Saban resigned today as head coach of the Denver Broncos, giving up his hope of making pro football's losingest team a winner.

Jerry Smith, offensive line coach who is in his first year as a Bronco coach, was named acting head coach. Saban said he would remain with the team as general manager, at least for the rest of the season.

The Broncos, beset by injuries this season, have a 2-6-1 record, including last Sunday's 24-10 loss to Cincinnati, a team which had lost seven straight games. Denver currently is in last place in the American Conference's Western Division.

Saban, an All-Big Ten player at Indiana University and a star linebacker with the Cleveland Browns of the old All-American Conference, came to Denver with a 10-year contract after being lured away from the University of Maryland.

In his first year, the Broncos had a 3-11 record. They were 5-9 in 1968 and 5-8-1 in both 1969 and 1970. Overall under Saban, the Broncos have posted a 20-42-3 record.

Although rumors persisted this year that Saban was on his way out, owners of the Bronco team denied it. Saban also had come under continuing criticism from Bronco fans at games.

Saban began his head coaching career at Case Institute in Cleveland in 1950 and later served as head coach at Northwestern and Western Illinois. He entered the pro coaching ranks in 1960 with Boston and was released the following year.

Saban then became director of player personnel for Buffalo and was named head coach in 1962. He won AFL titles in 1964 and 1965, but left in 1966 to return to college coaching at Maryland.

In 11 pro seasons, Saban has had a record of 65 wins, 73 losses and six ties.

Only last year Saban said things finally were beginning to look up for the Broncos.

"We've stressed youth and have had to pay the price for growing pains," he said. "But we now have the nucleus and are beginning to achieve a look of stability."

Joe Collier, 39, defensive backfield coach for the Broncos, was expected to be named interim coach until a successor for Saban can be named.

Collier, who played at Northwestern, came to Denver from Buffalo where he served as head coach in 1966 after Saban stepped down. He also served previously under Saban with the Boston Patriots and at Western Illinois.

3 Marin Gridders On All-Star Team

Three College of Marin players were named to the second team as the Camino Norte Conference announced its all-star football selections today.

Sophomore Tom O'Donnell was chosen as offensive right guard. Sophomores Rick Puccinelli and Chris Fenton were picked as linebacker ends.

No Marin players were named to the first team. First team selections were:

OFFENSE

Marin Catholic Places 2 On 'C' All-Stars

Marin Catholic High School, which won the Marin County Athletic League class "C" basketball championship with a 12-0 record, placed two men on the league all-star team announced yesterday.

The players were Mike Nivens and Steve Webb. Other firstteam selections were Mike Ambrosini, Drake; Bob Warnock, Redwood; and Mark Liss, Terra Linda.

The second team consists of Pete Butterfield, San Rafael; Jamie Connelly, Marin Catholic; Greg McMillan, Terra Linda; and Mark Ohranshall and Mike Warholski, Redwood.

High-scoring Nivens and Webb were the hub of a Marin Catholic team that has now won four league titles in a row and has a winning streak approaching 30 games.

Rangers Acquire Vancouver Duo

Ranger general manager-coach Emile Francis pointed out that the average age of four new rangers he has acquired in the last 24 hours "is 23 while the average age of the six players traded away is 28."

Dismal Road Trip For Losing Seals

MONTREAL (UPI) —The current road trip is beginning to look dismal for the California Golden Seals.

The Seals fell 7-2 Tuesday night to the powerful Montreal Canadiens, the defending Stanley Cup champions, for their fourth straight loss since they left the San Francisco Bay area.

California gets a day to recuperate today before moving along on the National Hockey League tour when they play Buffalo Thursday night.

The Canadiens' Yvan Cournoyer did the Seals in Tuesday night as he reached the 200th goal mark in his NHL career with a three-goal hat trick.

Peter Mahovlich and Marc Tardif each chipped in with two goals as the Canadiens extended their unbeaten streak to seven games.

Cournoyer scored two goals in the middle frame with his second one coming off a Montreal power play. He added his final goal at 17:30 of the third period.

Gerry Pinder scored both goals for the Seals. The first one came on a power play in the opening period when the Canadiens were playing shorthanded and narrowed Montreal's lead to 2-1.

Retail Credit Wins In Overtime

Retail Credit Co. outscored Las Gallinas Golf 8-3 in overtime to grab a 43-38 victory in the San Rafael Parks and Recreation Department adult basketball league last night. Fred Harms scored 18 points for Retail.

Gary Witermyer's 20 points led the All-Catholic All-Stars to a 52-37 win over Schlienger. Tony Deprado scored 18 as Quality Motorcycle Repair beat Marin Teachers, 40-29.

USF Cage Stars From 1955-56 Gather Friday

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— The coach and most of the players from USF's magnificent 1955-56 basketball powerhouses will gather Friday night for the annual Father Hubert Flynn dinner here.

Those Dons still hold the NCAA consecutive victory string at 60. They were coached by Phil Woolpert, now athletic director at the University of San Diego.

Bill Russell, the key to the Dons' success, will be at the dinner after a busy schedule that will see him talk to the USC student body Thursday and attend the dedication of the Bill Russell Room in the USF gym Friday afternoon.

Others expected to attend include K.C. Jones, Gene Brown, Mike Farmer, Hal Perry, Jerry Mullen and Stan Buchanan.

SCHOLAR-ATHLETES

Moroski, Perry Award Winners

Novato High School quarterback Marty Moroski and Drake center Tom Perry were named Marin County's football scholar athletes.

Chairman Stanley V. Onderdonk, Novato High principal, announced the two winning names for the National Football Foundation and Hall of Fame's Northern California Chapter in Marin County.

The two standouts in class, athletics and citizenship will be honored Dec. 9 in San Francisco's Jack Tar Hotel along with a host of delegates representing other Northern California counties.

Moroski was picked from a field which included San Rafael wingback Dave Urquhart and Drake fullback Rich Bozzio. Moroski, a three-year varsity starter and a two-time All-Marin County athletic League selection is truly a versatile performer. The varsity basketball star still manages to maintain an overall 3.4 grade point average and a 3.5 this term. He has twice earned California Scholarship Federation ranking.

Urquhart has a 3.64 overall, is in the top 15 in his class academically and is a two-year football starter. Bozzio is a fullback and linebacker with a 3.04 GPA.

Perry narrowly decisioned Terra Linda's Bill Dobbs, San Rafael's Bill Lechner, Redwood's Dan Young and Novato's Jeff Eisenhauer for lineman honors.

Perry, a center and linebacker at Drake, sports a 3.96 GPA and assorted other honors, which include: Boys State delegate, Judicial Board president, and a letter of accommodation from the National Merit Commissioner.

Ali Is Confident He'll Whip Buster

HOUSTON (UPI)—Muhammad Ali takes his comeback campaign into the Astrodome ring tonight super-confident he can whip two opponents at the same time —the hulking Buster Mathis in the opposite corner and the unseen spirit of heavyweight champion Joe Frazier.

Ali, although running to just a touch of fat at 223 pounds, was a 7-1 favorite to make the 260-pound Mathis, who hasn't fought in 2 1-2 years, his second victim since being beaten by Frazier last March.

"It's Buster's last stand," trumpeted Ali for the umpteenth time at his final news conference before the 12-round closed-circuit TV bout starting in the Astrodome at 9:50 p.m. CST. "Ain't no way he can go with me."

Radio station KTIM-FM will broadcast live, starting at 7 p.m.

But Ali, who insists at 29 he now is "right in the middle of prime," quickly switches the prefight talk from Mathis to Frazier every chance he gets and obviously thinks a great deal more about the champion who beat him than the man he is facing now.

"You come to the fight and watch," Ali invited his audience. "You watch the attendance and you watch the people I bring in, and then you decide who really is the king of boxing. And it isn't Joe Frazier.

"I gave Joe Frazier such a bad beating the last time he went in the hospital. I been running all over the world since then and fighting —beating Jimmy Ellis and now I'm gonna beat Mathis. And Frazier, what's he doin'? He's just sitting.

"The next time I meet him (Frazier) is going to be easy. E-Z. I'm gonna beat him the same way I beat Jimmy Ellis —stick and move, stick and move and stay out of corners. What do you mean, suppose he don't let me do that? He can't help it."

Meanwhile —and there is no indication yet when a second Ali-Frazier fight might be held —there is the Mathis bout, which will be TV'd to 106 locations with 500,000 seats in the United States as well as 27 foreign countries.

Mathis returns to the ring wars at age 27 for the first time since losing a 12-round decision to Jerry Quarry on March 24, 1969. After that fight, the big man, who has been beset by many personal problems, went into seclusion.

During his idleness, his finances dwindled and now he returns allegedly with his belief in himself renewed and a hope he can earn himself once again an important spot in the heavyweight picture.

Mathis' claim to fame is his three fights with Frazier —two victories over Smoking Joe as an amateur and an 11-round knockout by Frazier in a title fight in 1968.

"All I know is Frazier got $160,000 the time he beat me and I got trophies the times I beat him," Mathis said ruefully.

"I'm gonna beat him the same way I beat Ellis —in and out —whoosh, whoosh, smack, smack. One thing, if I get inside and him him and he don't go, I'm gonna back out of there quick. I got to watch out that I don't punch myself out.

"No, I'm not gonna try for any early knockout. I'm just gonna try for whatever I can do.

"I'm the one who livens everything up. You watch and see. Joe Frazier is just sitting."

Who says you can't win 'em all!

Outboard Contributes Little To Pollution

A reader writes: I see the 1972 outboard motors are being advertised as entirely "drainless." What does that really mean?

The outboard motor manufacturers are very senstive about this because in the past summer outboards have been attacked quite unreasonably and untruthfully in most cases as being big contributors to water pollution.

They were attacked on the basis that older outboards permitted unburned fuel and oil which collected in the crankcase under some cold, and slow running conditions, to drain into the water through small drains, or bleed holes.

These "overboard drains", as they were called, have long been abandoned on the larger horsepower engines and the ones on the small engines contributed only very slightly and briefly to pollution because the engines themselves used so little fuel. What fuel did get into the water disintegrated very quickly by bacterial action.

However, for 1972 all overboard drains have been eliminated by recirculating devices which burn all the fuel and oil. Thus the engines are called "drainless."

It's amazing how boating has been singled out for the most ruthless attacks by apologists for the real polluters — inadequate municipal sewage treatment plants and industry.

However, it has added to the confusion in most boat owner's minds about water pollution and what's being done about it. Here are some of the questions we've been asked:

Q. If a boat conforms to one state's anti-pollution laws with regard to marine toilets will it be accepted in others?

A. Not necessarily. Reciprocity is not the usual thing between states in this matter even when they share the same waters. However under federal standards, which are about to be published by the Coast Guard, uniformity among states may eventually come.

Q. Is it likely that sewage chlorinators will be acceptable?

A. It appears almost certain that ultimately boats with sleeping and living accommodation will be required to have holding tanks which must be pumped out ashore. No one really expects the chlorinator to survive long.

Q. Don't the underwater exhausts of outboards pollute the water?

A. Not if the engine is running properly. Gasoline and lubricating oil is almost entirely made up of hydrocarbons burn, water and carbon dioxide are produced. If some part of the fuel is not burned it soon disintegrates under the influence of bacteria in the water. It is said to be bio-degradable.

Q. We plan to protest to our state legislature about our anti-pollution law. Where can we get help?

A. Write to Boat Owners Council of America, 333 North Michigan Ave., Chicago, Ill., 60601. This organizations, supported by boating groups and the industry, has a legal department which can help.

Q. Where can I get an unbiased opinion on whether or not boats and outboard motors are significant polluters?

A. The most exhaustive research for the federal government has been done by Dr. Thomas Padden, Agricultural and Marine Pollution Branch, Federal Water Qaulity Administration, Environmental protection Agency, Washington, D.C. 20242. He gives outboards a pretty clean bill of health.

St. Louis Leads Soccer; USF 2nd

NEW YORK (UPI) — St. Louis University, which has a 12-0 record, received all 18 first-place votes Tuesday in the weekly inter-collegiate soccer football association of America's ratings.

St. Louis was trailed in the balloting by San Francisco, Pennsylvania, Hartwick, UCLA, Harvard, Southern Illinois, Long Island University and Navy.

'DON'T LOSE YOUR HEAD OUT THERE'

Chicago Bears quarterback Bobby Douglass was headed for trouble Sunday after Washington linebacker Chris Hanburger (55) made this heads-up tackle. Douglass actually only lost his helmet. He proved he didn't lose his head by coming back and throwing the winning conversion pass in the Bears' 16-15 National Football League victory.

BOWLING TIPS

By DON CARTER

I have seen bowlers who throw their best ball when they are shooting for a spare. On their strike ball they are tense and put too much effort into their lifting motion, causing the ball to skid rather than roll.

Try to achieve on your first ball the easier, relaxed delivery that is usually present when merely going for a one-pin spare. Don't "try" quite so hard.

Raiders Fooled Computer

OAKLAND (UPI) — The Houston Oilers thought they had the Oakland Raiders computerized, but the Raiders obviously failed to cooperate.

"Houston puts all their opponent's plays through the computer," Raider middlelineback-er Dan Conners said Tuesday after Oakland demolished Houston Sunday, 41-21, "and they give the information to their rookie quarterbacks and tell them what to expect in each situation."

The Raiders, however, threw a curve to the computer.

"We dogged a lot more than we've done all year," Conners said. "And then we used a lot more zone than they anticipated."

The result was four Oakland interceptions and the firing of Ernie Zwahlen, Houston's offensive line coach.

Meanwhile, Oakland coach John Madden, who usually spends Monday nights watching game films, pulled a chair in front of the television last Monday night to watch the San Diego Chargers and St. Louis Cardinals.

The reason: the Raiders meet the Chargers Sunday in the Oakland Coliseum.

"They looked good," Madden said Tuesday, "and winning like that (on a 45-yard field goal as time ran out) will give them a lift for our game."

Globetrotters Call A Strike

PORT HURON, Mich. (UPI) —Members of the colorful Harlem Globetrotters basketball team formed a union Tuesday to protest working conditions and promptly went on strike.

Ten minutes before the scheduled start of a game with the Boston Shamrocks, 19 of the 22 globetrotters began picketing outside McMorran arena.

The game was cancelled and the capacity crowd of 3,500 persons went home.

Gabriel Will Test 49er Reserve Backs

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — If the San Francisco 49ers start Johnny Fuller and Mike Simpson Sunday against Los Angeles, it will be hard to camouflage their inexperience in the defensive secondary from Roman Gabriel.

That's what is worrying 49er coach Dick Nolan as the team prepares for the crucial game in the National Football Conference Western division. The 49ers need a victory to stay ahead of the Rams, a team that beat them earlier in the season.

Nolan said Tuesday he would wait until Friday to decide whether all pro cornerback Jimmy Johnson, who suffered a wrist fracture in Sunday's loss to New Orleans, will be ready for action in Sunday's game at the Los Angeles Coliseum.

Johnson is only half of Nolan's problems.

Safety Mel Phillips, considered one of the best in the league, hasn't been at full speed since he injured an ankle Oct. 17 against Chicago.

"He just can't shake it," Nolan said. "He plays for a while but then it begins acting up and he has to come out of there."

Nolan said Fuller, a fourth year man, and Simpson, a second year man, played against Chicago, but were helped by the veterans because Fuller was at strong safety and Simpson at free safety.

"There's a chance Phillips will be ready to play," Sunday Nolan said. "The only question is how long he'll be able to go. I'm hoping it's long enough."

PREP BASKETBALL PROSPECTS

Drake Pirates Have Tall Hopes For New Season

(Second in a series on Marin County Athletic League basketball prospects.)

By LEW CODDINGTON

Drake High School enters the 1971-72 basketball season with short players and tall hopes.

"We are not big, but we're good shooters, and we're fast enough to do some running this year," said coach Bob Fitzhenry.

The Pirates finished in a three-day deadlock for last place in the Marin County Athletic League last year, tying San Rafael and Marin Catholic with a 4-10 league record.

They have three starters returning, three players up from the league champion freshman team, and a host of players from various other sources. Fitzhenry is delighted with his depth.

"Our opponents wore us down last year," he said. "We played everybody about even for three quarters, but they would pull away in the middle of the fourth."

The three returning starters are all seniors. They are Mark Daubenfeld, a 6-foot forward; Dave Wilkinson, a 5-11 guard, and Jit Singh, a 5-7 guard from India who figures to lead the league in typographical errors.

Up from the frosh, who were 14-2 last season, are 5-11 guard Ed Chavez, 5-10 guard Ric Herbert and 6-3 center Dan Trimble.

A good season from Trimble or 6-3 center John Channell could go a long way toward alleviating Drake's height problem. Channell, up from the junior varsity, has been exceptional in practice so far, according to Fitzhenry. If either one can neutralize the various 6-5 and 6-6 centers roaming around the league, then the Pirates' other strengths can carry them to victory.

Drake figures to get still more help from transfers. Bruce Katuna, a 6-0 sophomore forward from Daly City, has impressed Fitzhenry with his aggressiveness. Mike Symonds, a quick 5-11 guard who played quarterback on the football team, is a good ball-handler. He came from Virginia. The other transfer is Chuck Hildreth from Michigan, and gives Drake a modern MCAL record for most mileage, transfers, season, 5,-489.

Two reserves from last year's varsity are also in the picture, especially since they provide needed height. Tom Carlisle and Greg Shaw are both 6-3 forwards.

The Pirates open their season next Tuesday, hosting Balboa of San Francisco. Their MCAL opener is Jan. 7, at San Rafael.

Drake again will host the annual Drake Invitational Tournament Dec. 8-11. Two visitors from up north, Napa and Petaluma, will join six MCAL teams in the four-day affair. MCAL teams will be Novato, Marin Catholic, San Rafael, Terra Linda, San Marin and Drake.

The Drake schedule:

Tony C. Wins Pay Fight

By U.P.INTERNATIONAL

ANAHEIM — Tony Conigliaro's long-standing grievance against the California Angels was settled yesterday when the club agreed to put the retired star on the disabled list, with pay, retroactive to last July 13.

Conigliaro filed the grievance with the Major League Players Association six weeks after he announced his intention to retire from the Angels last July 10.

He had been traded to the Angels from Boston in 1970 and in 74 games batted only .222 and scored only four homers and 15 runs batted in.

Conigliaro was injured when beaned on Aug. 18, 1967 and the resulting eye injury kept him from playing for the Red Sox for the entire 1968 season.

Basketball

CHICAGO — National Basketball Association commissioner Walter Kennedy said yesterday he thinks it will be "quite some time" before any legislation that would allow a merger of the NBA and the American Basketball Association comes out of a U.S. Senate subcommittee.

Swimming

PORTLAND, Ore. — Former swimming star Don Schollander has joined an organization to seek a solution to the problem of Americans missing in action and prisoners of war in Southeast Asia.

Football

LINCOLN, Neb. — Nebraska coach Bob Devaney yesterday ordered all practices closed to the public and said any further viewing of his team's workouts for the all-important Oklahoma game on Thanksgiving Day will be only with his express permission.

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. — Bob Lurtsema doesn't know why he was released from the New York Giants National Football League team last week, but he is glad to be with the Minnesota Vikings, who acquired the 6-foot-6, 250-pound defensive lineman for their taxi squad.

Russ Gibson Makes His Radio Debut

Russ Gibson made his radio debut Monday. He was leadoff man in a lineup of Giants batting for Jim Lange. Alan Gallagher followed Gibson to the mike Tuesday. Willie McCovey is up today with Jerry Johnson and Gaylord Perry slated for Thursday and Friday. That will complete a week of vacation for KSFO's regular dawn patrol disc jockey.

After the first 90 minutes of his debut, Gibson sent greetings to his wife, Ann, and said: "You better be thankful I can play baseball." Gibson didn't have to downgrade his efforts. His taste in music is excellent. And his Boston accent also pleases the ear.

WHAT WAS THE toughest part of the job?

"Getting up at 5 a.m.," said Gibson who is a good man with one liners.

Gibson followed the format of Lange's show, part of which is a q. and a. period. The first call to Gibson came from a youngster. Gibson, expecting a baseball question, momemtarily gasped when the youngster asked him: "What are you doing about pollution?"

"I just bought a new car," said Gibson who, like all of his teammates, got $6,198.29 this year for winning the National League West title, a tidy extra dividend for seven months work but nothing like the $18,164.58 each Pirate got for beating the Orioles in the World Series after eliminating the Giants in the NL championship playoff.

"DON'T YOU have a baseball question?" Gibson asked the youngster who did. Gibson gasped again when he heard it. "How many home runs have you hit?" However, the query didn't leave Gibson gasping long.

"I can count 'em on my right hand — four," he replied.

Actually, Gibson has hit a total of eight homers in his five-year major league career. But he isn't a braggart.

Another youngster had another baseball question for Gibson. "How do you feel when you go to bat in the ninth inning as a pinch hitter?"

"I'VE NEVER had that experience," said Gibson. "The only time I get into a game in the ninth inning is as a substitute catcher."

Gibson's honesty is refreshing. So, too, is his concern for his fellow teammates, particularly Jerry Johnson.

"Jerry is a fine fellow," Gibson told KSFO's studio engineers. "But keep an eye on him when he comes in Thursday. Little things sometimes upset him. He has a short fuse. There's a lot of expensive equipment around here. Jerry could turn it into junk in a minute. He really doesn't know his own strength."

Four-Way MCAL Grid Battle Seen

By RON LENT

The Marin County Athletic League will have four varsity football champions in 1972.

This is the forecast, if one is to accept the Terra Linda, Novato, San Rafael and Redwood claims.

Defending co-champions Novato and San Rafael, bolstered by title-winning junior varsity teams, are, according to their respective coaches Al Scott and Bob Muster, going to take top honors. However, Terra Linda boss Don Lucas and Redwood mentor Phil Roark believe their teams will secure first place.

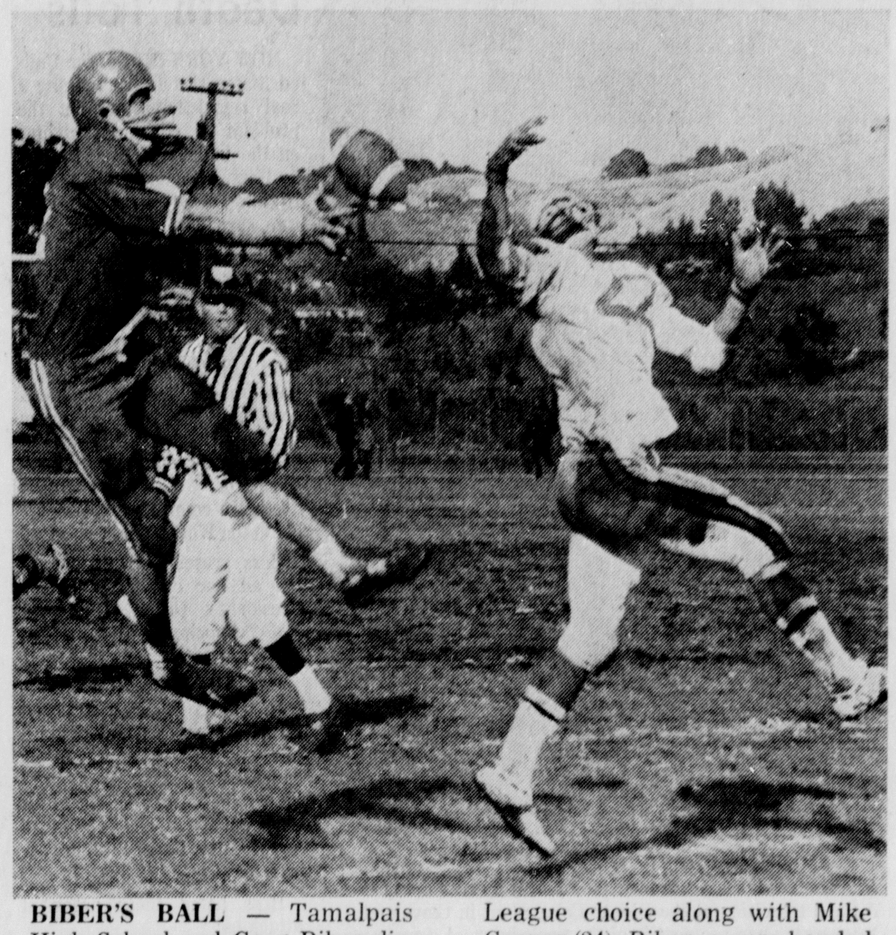
Novato's Hornets are talking dynasty. Scott has said his delegation will be up there consistently in the years ahead and he may have the horses to pull his wagon dream. The defensively potent Hornets lose All-League tackle Russ Weklych, Pat Karinen and Rick Reis, in the line but retain a full corps of linebackers, notably John Empio, Tom Hoog, Stan Conte and Ladd Schulman.

Hoog can also play defensive end admirably, joining another vet, Jay Suder, on the wings. Mike Rennier and Tom Conklin will lend helping hands in a good secondary.

Ofeensively, the Novatans will be solid with Conklin and Chris De Recat, a J.V. graduate, battling for the starting signal-caller post. Whoever wins first-string status will have ample targets to throw to. Joe Powell and Joe Robinson, the incumbent ends, will present their speed and catching abilities again next year. Greg Lash, another proven varsity commodtiy, will see plenty of playing time also.

Alternate center Paul Kessler, a 6-foot-2, 210-pound giant, starting tackle Dean Palmer, plus tackle Dean Davis, 6-2, 225, will bulwark the offensive line.

Like Novato, San Rafael has a championship J.V. aggregation to strengthen next year's varsity. Additionally, 17 members of this year's victorious team return. As always, the rushing attack will be well manned. Speedster Jim Grigg, a proven breakaway threat, heads the backfield cast. He'll be joined by two other 1971 varsity members, namely Steve D'Ambra and Dave Day.



BIBER'S BALL — Tamalpais High School end Greg Biber displayed the form against visiting Redwood Saturday which made him an All-Marin County Athletic League choice along with Mike Connor (24). Biber, a sure-handed receiver will be graduated, but Connor, a two-way All-League pick, returns in 1972. (Ty Barbour Photo)

The former will be a junior next fall and is expected to help pick up the slack from the loss of Mark Farrar and Scott Duncan. If this trio does succeed in continuing San Rafael's winning ways, much of the plaudits may go to lineman Mike Cook and John Lechner. The two were starters in San Rafael's outstanding 1970 "pit."

Tight end Mike Sinclair, still another proven product, will also be eligible for service next year.

Defensively, Lechner and Cook will participate in a revamped starting array. The old one was depleted by graduation. Burly Dan Dell'Era, a 5-10, 215-pounder and Chris Valentino, a starting end, are among those returning.

As is the case with Novato and San Rafael, Redwood has a heavy investment in blue-chip returnee futures. Specifically, Roark welcomes back 12 survivors from the strong 1970 squad. This group will be headed by the sensational Mike Connor, who tallied five times in the curtain-closer against Tamalpais Saturday. This set an MCAL record and served as an omen for next year — watch for the Redwood running.

If Connor were the only returnee, the Roark rushing brigade would be powerful, but there is more. Bill Edralin will be in the lineup for another two campaigns. This excellent back will team with Connor to give the Giants an awesome one-two punch. Alternate quarterback John Troppmann will be on hand to direct the assault.

Katsumi Johnson and Matt Gondak will lead the defense. Other helpful varsity vets are Mike Beyrle, Frank Giorg, Bill Deedy, Bob McAllister, Gerald Jack, Steve Gorman and Ron Cupp.

Faced with this competition, Terra Linda fans remain undaunted. "We're going to have a heckuva team next year," Lucas promised. He casually mentioned that 25 veterans will reappear next fall.

The array includes backup quarterback Jeff Leaird plus a trio of experienced runners — Doug Long, Sean Casey and Pete Corbett. Corbett doubles as an excellent place kicker

The line will include Jon Loberg, an ever-improving 6-0, 210-pounder, two-way starting tackle Larry Madden, Bob Spain and Dan Skeen. Lucas will also have some seasoned receivers in Paul Mooney, Steve Miles, tough Wes Emerson and Rich Nicholes. Nicholes worked his way into the lineup during the regular season and proved to be a fine performer.

He also starts in the defensive backfield; Leaird, Greg Beltran, Dan Walsh, Rick Tallariti and Scott Logan are also first-rate athletes returning in the secondary. Wil Hamilton, Larry Chiaroni, Madden, and Loberg will man the "pit." Steve Withers, probably one of the best linebackers in the league, will also be back.

While Drake, San Marin and Tamalpais cannot match the first four teams named in quantity, the trio could match some in qualifty.

For example, San Marin closed out its season on a winning note and is optimistic about the prospects ahead. Coach Bob Martin reported that "we'll have (quarterback Hoza) Wright back next year." Similarly Drake has its quarterback again in Tom MacAusland, plus good runners in Phil Wilkinson, Ric Herbert and Dan Nickelini. Dan Trimble and Don Asay are fine veteran pass catchers.

Tam also has some excellent vets back, like quarterback Tim Nowell; running backs Alvin Price, Craig Marshall and Mike Shimmin; linemen Herbert Wade, a 1970 All-Leaguer, Tom Silawicz, Bob Brewster, Carl Freeman, Rob Michaelsen and Art Slocum. This group earned a lot of bruises this year, but winless coach Mike Davlin warned, "Our boys will remember the scores from this year." Should be quite a year.

NBA ROUNDUP

Lakers Push Win Streak To Nine

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Jerry West's earlier sick leave was just the medicine Los Angeles needed to become one of the most improved teams in the National Basketball Association.

Since West's return the Lakers have been almost unstoppable. Their 108-90 victory over Cleveland Tuesday night was the ninth straight for Los Angeles, two short of the club record.

West scored 25 points against Cleveland. The Cavs held an early eight point lead, but couldn't contain the raging Pacific Division leaders who raised their record to 15-3 to maintain a three game lead over Golden State. Austin Carr made his pro debut for the Cavs after being sidelined by a broken foot since summer training. He scored five points in nine minutes. Bobby Smith led Cleveland with 16 points.

In other National Basketball Association games, Milwaukee beat Portland, 125-105; New York edged Phoenix, 112-111; Golden State defeated Detroit, 122-101; Chicago stopped Seattle, 95-87; Baltimore beat Houston, 110-107, and Buffalo surprised Cincinnati, 102-98.

Milwaukee, going after its own nBA record of 20 straight wins, also captured its ninth in row as Kareem Jabbar netted 33 points and Bob Dandridge added 31. Oscar Robertson was ejected after drawing his second technical foul with 4:10 remaining. A total of five such fouls were levied by officials against Milwaukee personnel.

The Bucks were leading 38-30 in the second period when they turned on a 20-5 surge to gain a 62-43 halftime advantage. Sidney Wicks led Portland with 20 points.

Walt Frazier rallied New York from a 19-point deficit in the fourth quarter with 16 of his game-high 39 points against Phoenix. Jerry Lucas, who scored 23 points and collected 17 rebounds, put the Knicks in front for good at 108-107 with 2:17 remaining on a three-point play. Dick Van Arsdale led Phoenix with 26 points.

Chicago had six of eight players in double figures as the Bulls dropped Seattle from second place in the Pacific Division. Bob Love scored 10 points for the Bulls in the first period and wound up the game's high man with 23 points. Don Kojis led Seattle with 22 points.

Rookie Phil Chenier's free throw with 11 seconds left and Wes Unseld's two charity tosses at the buzzer boosted Baltimore past Houston. Chenier paced the Bullets with 26 points. Houston, holding a 107-103 lead with 1:08 to go, was led by Elvin Hayes' 31 points.

Walt Hazzard and Elmore Smith paced Buffalo's victory over Cincinnati. Hazzard scored 27 points and Smith hauled in 18 rebounds. Nate Williams netted 27 points for the Royals, who are tied with Baltimore for the Central Division lead.

Neumann Scores 32 For Memphis

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Memphis knows it has a real pro in Johnny Neuman.

Neuman, who quit the campus for the greener pastures of professionalism, scored 32 points Tuesday night in leading the Memphis pros to a 119-109 victory over the Floridians.

The Denver Rockets edged the Indiana Pacers, 111-108, in the only other scheduled American basketball association action.

Neumann tallied 14 points during a nine-minute span in the first half as Memphis recovered from a 35-25 first quarter deficit to take a 63-51 halftime lead. The victory moved the pros into sole possession of third place in the west division.

Insurance Group Underwrites Tennis

LONDON (UPI) — The International Law Tennis Federation announced Tuesday that the Commerical Union Insurance Company of Great Britain will underwrite the Grand Prix of tennis with $500,000 over the next two years.

The Grand Prix Circuit of Tournaments has been sponsored during the last two years by Pepsi Cola.

FIGHTS LAST NIGHT

WEMBLEY, England (UPI)—Jerry Quarry, 203, Bellflower, Calif., knocked out Jack Bodell, 203 ¾, England (1).

HONOLULU (UPI)—Jesus Pimentel, 118 ¾, Los Angeles, knocked out Dave Pierson, 119 ¾, Phoenix, Ariz. (2); Ben Villaflor, 128 ¾, the Philippines, stopped Raul Cruz, 127 ½, Mexico (8).

Quick Kayo For Quarry In England

WEMBLEY, Eng. (UPI) —If there's an easier way to earn a buck, and restore a somewhat tarnished reputation, Jerry Quarry would like to know it.

"It all went just as we planned it," Quarry said after knocking out beefy Jack Bodell, champion of Britain, the British Commonwealth and Europe to boot.

The scheduled 10-round heavyweight bout at the Empire Pool Tuesday night lasted just 64 seconds. That's how long it took the rugged Californian to demolish Bodell's cherished dream of supplanting him as "the world's No. 1 white heavyweight."

Promoter Harry Levene would not reveal how much he paid Quarry for that brief appearance, his first outside the United States, but he's willing to write another big check to get him back next March.

"I was amazed at the reception I got. Now I want to come back and entertain them all once more," said the happy Quarry after his 24th inside-the-distance win, his 40th victory in 49 starts.

Quarry's next bout could be the one he's been angling for, a joust with No. 2 contender George Foreman —and if Foreman's business adviser, Marty Erlichman, is serious, it could take place here.

Bodell, a 31-year-old southpaw whose main attribute is his awkwardness, never tested Quarry.

The Briton, who moved into the big money league in European boxing by upsetting Joe Bugner for all three titles in September, was hit hard in the first few seconds.

Rams Sign New Lineman

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Former UCLA defensive tackle Tim Oesterling is going back to work for his old coach, Tommy Prothro, now the head coach of the Los Angeles Rams of the National Football League.

Prothro announced Tuesday that Oesterling, 23, signed to a reserve contract to replace Bill Nelson, who recently underwent back surgery.

Oesterling, the 10th round draft choice of Oakland this year, is 6-4 and weighs 250 pounds.

Prothro, whose Rams meet the San Francisco Forty Niners Sunday in a game which could decide the NFL's Western division title, said cornerback Gene Howard and offensive tackle Charlie Cowan may be able to play "but I don't plan any scrimmages this week to find out.' He said also that the trainers reported David "Deacon" Jones "is in better shape than at any time since he's been hurt, but I still don't know exactly how well that is."

Jones has been hampered by a sprained arch and Jack Youngblood has alternated with him in relief. Prothro said Youngblood has been playing "real good football."

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Can Invest Little As $40 Trimonthly

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I am 62 years old and on salary. Is there any chance at all for a person of limited means to buy stocks on a very small basis? — M. G.

A. Yes, indeed. You may invest as little as $40 every three months through the Monthly Investment Plan (MIP) which is offered by several New York Stock Exchange member brokerage firms. The only requirements for investing through MIP is that you are 21 and that you declare your intention of investing with any amount of money from a minimum of $40 every three months. This declaration of intent is not binding; you may stop or skip a payment when you wish.

When investing in this manner, you can buy shares by the dollar's worth instead of by the share — just as you would buy so many dollars or cents of gasoline. For additional information, write to a NYSE member firm in your area.

Q. Last year I purchased shares of Sheffield Watch Co. which have since stopped trading on the AMEX. Someone told me they were in financial trouble. Any information you can supply would be appreciated. Also, in case of bankruptcy, am I notified? — F. C.

A. Trading in Sheffield shares has been suspended on the AMEX since May 7 pending a petition for involuntary bankruptcy filed against Sheffield last June by three creditors. Sheffield denied it was insolvent — a state necessary for the involuntary bankruptcy.

Meanwhile, the firm reached an agreement in principle with SSIH of Switzerland (Societe Suisse pour l'Industries Horlogere S.A.) whereby SSIH will make a substantial investment in Sheffield in return for a controlling interest. Representatives of the firms recently met with agents of institutional and trade creditors to jointly present a plan for settlement of the creditors' claims. Details have not been made public.

In the case of bankruptcy, the trustee, at the appointment of the court, usually notifies all shareholders of record. In addition, news of a publicly held firm's insolvency is automatically published in various financial newspapers.

Market In Turn Lower

NEW YORK (UPI) —The stock market turned lower today amid lingering concern about Phase Two and disappointment that Treasury Secretary John Connally did not unveil a major piece of economic news in a speech here Tuesday evening.

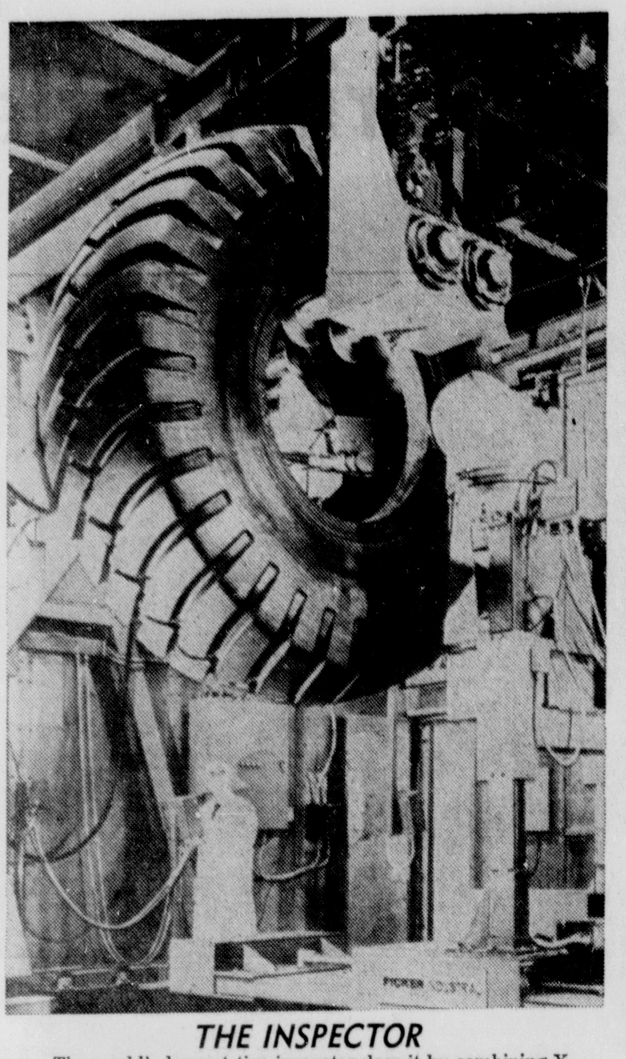
Connally's speech contained few surprises in that it turned out to be a staunch defense of existing policy instead of what had been billed as a major policy statement. It was this speculation that was partly responsible for the market's brisk rally Tuesday.

Shortly before noon today, the Dow Jones industrial average, which had climbed more than 8 points Tuesday, was off 3.14 at 815.57. Declines topped advances by around 200 issues.

Prices also backed off in slow trading on the American Stock Exchange.

Among the most active Amex issues were Western Union International, down more than a point on around 30,000 shares, Child World down fractionally on 20,000 shares, and Prentice-Hall, also slightly lower on 18,000 shares.

Electronic, oil and selected specialty stocks were among the softest spots on the Big Board, with losses ranging to more than 3 points.



THE INSPECTOR

The world's largest tire inspector does it by combining X-rays and television at the Picker Corp. plant in Cleveland. The operator can see details of the tire's internal construction on TV. The X-ray equipment can inspect tires of up to 11 feet in diameter and weighing 6,000 pounds.

Toyota, Datsun U.S. Growth Near An End

TOKYO (UPI)—Japan's two largest automobile companies announced today they will halt expansion of their dealer networks in the United States.

The move came in the wake of reports that the United States is considering restrictions on importation of Japanese cars.

"We do not intend to increase the number of our company's dealers in the United States any further," said Katsuji Kawamata, president of the Nissan Motor Co., maker of Datsun autos.

A spokesman for the Toyota Motor Company said that the dealerships in America would be stabiiized at the end of this year. "The substance of the system will be revised in the interests of better organization," he added.

Nissan began marketing Datsuns in the United States in 1960 with only 47 dealers. A company spokesman said there are 920 at present.

Toyota also began sales operations in the United States in the early 1960s. It had 881 outlets at the end of August of this year, up from 792 at the end of 1969.

Japan's low-cost automobiles have enjoyed spectacular sales growth in America. Japanese car makers shipped 290,742 autos to the United States in 1969, and 436,215 in 1970. Sales for the first nine months of 1971 totaled approximately 550,000 — more than all of last year.

On Sept. 29, 1939, Germany and Russia signed an agreement dividing Poland between them.

U.S. Scored On Highway Death Tolls

NEW YORK (UPI)—The United States still is not making a real scientific attack on the problem of curbing slaughter on the highways, Prof. Robert L. Hess, director of Michigan's Highway Safety Research Institute, says.

Hess also says the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration's (NHTSA) air bag program is a $2 billion gamble that may never pay off in saved lives. Further, he doesn't believe the NHTSA staff should continue to be allowed to be their own masters. They should be brought under supervisory control of "a qualified scientific executive committee" responsible to the White House, he said.

Hess presented his views to the ad hoc committee of the President's Office of Science and Technology early in September.

He said the problem of highway deaths must be attacked on a number of fronts at once and all these attacks will be expensive. He suggested the $2 billion that could be saved by abandoning the airbag venture be used to finance other approaches.

Hess listed these areas of attack as:

—Vastly expanded public ambulance and hospital emergency room facilities.

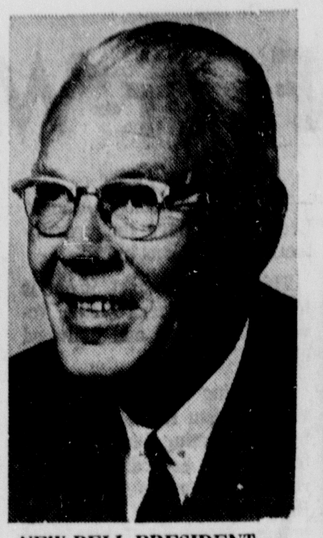
—Making the roads themselves safer by means of cushioned guard rails and other obstacles an out-of-control car may hit.

—Tough laws to compel people to wear safety belts.

—Tough laws against drinking drivers and scientific enforcement standards for such laws.

He said the object should be to prevent all problem drinkers from driving. He presented statistical data indicating that at present only about one-fourth of the drivers on the road who have drunk too much are apprehended. These usually have a blood alcohol content of 0.10 to above 0.15—yet a blood alcohol content of 0.05 can increase that driver's chances of having an accident by 600 per cent.

Finally, he said, of 40,000 drinking drivers arrested on Michigan's highways in two-and-a-half years, 30,000 turned out to be identifiable problem drinkers, yet fewer than 1,000 ever had any enlightened treatment or social service care.



NEW BELL PRESIDENT — Fred W. Enemark was named president of Bell Savings and Loan Association by directors at their meeting yesterday. Formerly executive vice-president, he replaces Clyde Charleton who becomes chairman of the board and continues as president of the parent company Pacific Coast Holdings Corp.

Marin Bank Clearings Up

The Federal Reserve Bank of San Francisco has reported unadjusted debits at $262,372,000, compared with $228,671,000 a year ago. Unadjusted deposits of $124,861,000 also were higher than the $110,265,000 reported for October of last year.

Consanis Leave San Francisco For Corte Madera Floral Shop

Ruegg — May

A newly opened floral shop is Corte Madera Florist at 518-C Tamalpais Drive, Corte Madera.

Owner George L. Consani and his wife Rosemary have lived in Corte Madera for the past 10 years, but he has been commuting to San Francisco where he and his family owned and operated Bay View Florist for more than 50 years. This shop has now been closed.

He is a qualified floral designer and has won a number of floral awards from the San Francisco Museum of Art. His work has been photographed and published in Better Homes and Gardens.

Business hours are 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Mondays through Saturdays.

TWO MARIN MEN, Richard M. Garvin of Corte Madera and Edmond G. Addeo of Mill Valley, have collaborated on a biographical novel published this month by Bernard Geis Associates. The book is a novel based on the life of Huddie (Leadbelly) Ledbetter, a legendary southern black folk musician who served several prison sentences while he wrote hundreds of work songs and prison laments.

Garvin is an account supervisor with Lennen and Newell Pacific. Addeo works with Paul Purdom and Co. on several accounts. They are scheduled for a nationwide radio and television promotional tour later this month.

TWO ASSOCIATES added to the staff of the recently formed loan brokerage company, S and C Home Loans, 1010 B Street, San Rafael, are Fred Ruegg of Novato and Kent Beardsley of Tiburon.

Ruegg, for many years an executive with CBS in San Francisco, New York and Los Angeles, has been involved in real estate investments for the past four years.

Beardsley, real estate broker and licensed real estate appraiser, has been active in Marin real estate for the past 11 years.

INSURANCE: Donald H. May of Novato, manager of the San Francisco-North District for Prudential Insurance Co., has completed 30 years with the company, for which he has received special commendation from the top office . . . Michael B. Fitzgerald of Novato was elected vice-president of a recent educational conference in San Mateo for New York Life agents from California and Nevada . . . A. Dean Merrick of Kentfield has been attending a special advanced underwriters seminar of Northwestern Mutual Life agents in Napa. He is with the Curt Ford general agency in San Francisco.

A ONE-DAY Tax Practitioner Institute, sponsored by Sonoma State College at Rohnert Park in cooperation with the Internal Revenue Service, will be held Saturday, Dec. 11. Registration will start at 7:45 a.m. in the college's Fred Warren Memorial Auditorium, Ives Hall, room 101. Tax practitioners who plan to attend should contact Dr. V. Mjelde, dean of instructional services and continuing education at the college, as space may be limited.

How To Catch A Whale

Frank (Boots) Caladrino is a whale hunter who uses a net and lasso instead of a harpoon. He searches the Pacific Ocean for fish and mammals for Marineland of the Pacific. Caladrino, who has been collecting for Marineland for 17 years, shows how he did it off Catalina Island in this series of pictures (looking counterclockwise). Collecting fish and mammals for display — he says he collects most of Marineland's — is just one of his jobs. He also collects for the Navy and research institutions. First (above) he stations himself at the end of a 30-foot boom off the bow of the ship. Because he bobs like a cork his movements require split-second timing as he reaches out with a net (below) and then nets a whale (lower right). The whale is netted from behind so it can't dive. The animal is then roped and lifted aboard. This freshly caught pilot whale, 10 feet long and weighing 850 pounds, is a juvenile. He is lifted to shore in a sling (right) and covered with a wet sheet to protect him from the sun. Later he swims around (upper right) in his new home. The animals are placed in a holding tank and are innoculated with antibiotics and blood samples are taken. After they get used to captivity trainers start working with them, and eventually they wind up performing with other whales.

BIRTHDAY QUIZ

By GORDON B. GREB

Guess who was born today, Nov. 17, and became famous as: 1. A leading man in Hollywood movies? Playing a Texas oilman nearly got him an Oscar in "Giant" but comedy roles opposite Doris Day probably got him more contract renewals and a crack at his own TV show this season: (A) Billy DeWolfe; (B) James Garner; (C) Rock Hudson.

2. A British World War II military hero? An Irishman by birth, this cocky desert commander stopped Rommel's Afrika Corps in its tracks at El Alamein and then with American help chased the Germans home to Berlin: (A) Bernard Montgomery; (B) Harold Alexander; (C) Archibald Wavell.

3. One of America's greatest track and field stars? A 41-year old Congressman today, this Californian became the first U.S. competitor to win the decathlon two times in a row, by his Olympic victories of 1948 and 1952: (A) Rafer Johnson; (B) Bob Mathias; (C) Bob Richards.

4. A great American theatrical director? Brought to the U.S. at age 8 by his Austrian parents, this gifted director earned a first rank reputation in New York theatre, receiving the Pulitzer Prize for "Men in White" in 1934: (A) Lee Strasberg; (B) Erich Von Stroheim; (C) Michael Curtiz.

ANSWERS

1 (C) (Rock Hudson); 2 (A) (Bernard Montgomery); 3 (B) (Bob Mathias); 4 (A) (Lee Strasberg).

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Overplay At Tournament Usually Spells Defeat In Extra Efforts

When the national tournament begins in Phoenix on Friday, several thousand bridge experts will begin to play as though they had never heard of safety. Instead of playing to assure the contract, when this is quite possible, they will play for every trick that isn't nailed down. Naturally, this will sometimes cost them the contract. The difference between tournament bridge and rubber bridge may be seen in today's hand.

FIRST ACTION

South wins the first trick with the ace of clubs, ruffs a club in dummy and returns a trump. East must play low, and if South is playing tournament bridge he wins with the ace of spades. He ruffs his remaining club in dummy and leads another trump to the king. West discards a club, and South sees that he will have to lose a trump trick.

This is unfortunate, but not necessarily fatal. South draws a third trump with the queen and begins the diamonds. All will go well if East has three or more diamonds since then South will manage to get rid of at least one heart on a good diamond. Even if East ruffs an early diamond, South may land on his feet if the ace of hearts is in favorable position.

As the cards lie, however, everything is sour. East ruffs the third round of diamonds, and the defenders can then take three heart tricks. Down one.

SAFETY PLAY

At rubber bridge South would assure his contract by means of a safety play. He takes the ace of clubs, ruffs a club in dummy and leads a trump. When East plays low, South takes a deep finesse with the seven of spades.

This play gives up a trump trick to West, thus making sure that East can never gain the lead with a trump. No matter what West returns, South can ruff his last club in dummy, draw trumps and then run the diamonds without interruption.

GREEDY SOUL

The rubber bridge expert is sure of 11 tricks; the tournament expert, poor greedy soul, goes down in the attempt to win 12 tricks.

Employees Get Pay Increases

I-J Special Report

SANTA ROSA — The Sonoma County Board of Supervisors have granted county employees the step increase salary raises they were to have received during the 90-day pay freeze.

The board said the annual 5 per cent step increases would not be retroactive and would be subject to approval by the price-wage control board.

They said that 284 employees who would have normally received increases between Aug. 15 and Nov. 15 would receive the increases immediately.

'Traveler Alert' Issued By CHP

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Because of high winds, the California Highway Patrol issued a "travelers' alert" today in the Vallejo area.

The patrol said it had reports of trailers being in danger of overturning.

The alert applies to Interstate 80 east of American Canyon Road and to State Route 21 from the Benicia-Martinez Bridge to Interstate 80.

County Plan Doubted By Homeowners

Members of the San Geronimo Valley Association have raised doubt and concern over provisions of the preliminary countywide master plan, but have no vote on whether to back and reject the proposal.

"The tone of the questioning was whether we can afford it," said Betty Gardner of Woodacre, vice-president of the homeowners' group.

The plan calls for concentration of much of the county's future growth in the so-called eastern corridor, with extensive open space in the rest of Marin.

Mrs. Gardner said persons in the audience Monday night also expressed concern over widening of Sir Francis Drake Boulevard through the community to enable smoother access to Point Reyes National Seashore and other West Marin recreational spots.

Sol Silver, chief of county advanced planning who explained the master plan to the group, advised the association that no major expansion of Sir Francis Drake for recreational travel was planned, but that alternate solutions were being investigated.

In other matters, the association sent a letter to the county board of supervisors urging stricter enforcement of dog leash laws. Members complained of roaming animals, Mrs. Gardner said.

Chamber In Mill Valley Picks Directors

Members of the Mill Valley Chamber of Commerce have elected four incumbents and one newcomer to the board of directors for 1972 and 1973.

Ballots mailed in by members and tabulated Monday yielded the following results, according to Chamber Secretary-Manager Granville L. Beedle:

Incumbents Normand B. Black, William A. Lewis, Samuel W. Schneider and Jack Packard were returned to office, and newcomer John P. McNamara was chosen to fill the seat of chamber president Richard C. Conrad, who did not run.

The five newly elected directors will join five other board members whose terms expire next year. They are William R. Bacon, Gerald Belanger, Lawrence A. Mayer, Edward N. Mills and Christian R. Steindl.

Officers of the board will be elected Dec. 6, Beedle said, and take office the first of the year.

A Key Corona Witness Dies

MARYSVILLE (UPI) —A key witness in the Juan Corona mass murder case died yesterday of injuries suffered in a fight at a skid row hotel.

He was Roy Delong, 53, a laborer who told authorities he saw one of the 25 victims, Sigrid Beierman, 63, get into a vehicle driven by Corona, a 37-year-old farm labor contractor from neighboring Yuba City.

Police said Delong fought Oct. 30 with Walter Taylor, 37, a room clerk at the Golden West Hotel where Delong lived. Delong was hospitalized with head and face injuries Nov. 1.

Reagan Signs Textbook Law

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—Gov. Ronald Reagan has signed legislation requiring that state adopted textbooks, guides and manuals include material on drug education.

The measure expressed legislative intent that the State Board of Education give priority to adopting instructional materials which will provide teachers and school districts with accurate, objective and current drug information.

Assemblyman Wadie P. Deddeh, D-Chula Vista, authored the bill.

Marin Shakespeare Festival Elects

James Frush of San Rafael has been elected president of the Marin Shakespeare Festival at the annual general meeting held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Dahl in San Rafael.

Joan Lisetor was elected vice president and Donna Dodson, secretary, both of San Rafael. Claude Pynch of San Anselmo was re-elected treasurer.

South Vietnam Oil Trump Card In Paris

By HAROLD KING
Toronto Telegram News Service

PARIS — There is a whiff of oil about the Vietnam peace conference these days which is proving a strong trump card behind the scenes in the hands of the new U.S. delegation leader, William Porter.

Important oil sources were discovered last December along the coasts of South Vietnam. According to the French Compagnie Fancaise des Petrole, there is "lots and lots" of oil in South Vietnam.

Porter makes no secret about his new bargaining weapon. While President Nixon's policy of withdrawal of American combat troops from Vietnam remains valid, it is agreed now among American officials that it will be necessary to bring into South Vietnam specialists, technicians and oil-pumping equipment, and also no doubt to maintain for a long time to come the essential framework of the giant American bases situated along the coast line of South Vietnam from Da Nang to Cam Ranh.

Thanks to the oil, the American delegation at the Paris peace conference now knows where it is going.

The Saigon regime has suddenly become a more valid negotiating partner.

South Vietnam negotiations with 15 American oil companies, of which Gulf and Caltex are the most important, have been conducted with notable speed. The Japanese are also in on the deal, Japan being the biggest oil importer in Asia with around 160 million tons a year.

The South Vietnam peace conference delegation in Paris reports that negotiations with the oil corporations are virtually completed. Concessions are expected to be formally granted as soon as the Saigon presidential election is out of the way.

These concessions will be on the same lines as those now accorded the producing countries of the Near East. The corporations will pay concession rights and share the production revenue with the South Vietnam government.

South Vietnam sources in Paris say that production of crude oil should start within a year, except for such concessions as apply only to sub-soil exploration.

The South Vietnamese Communists of the National Liberation Front have, of course, reacted violently to what they describe as "a giving away of the national heritage."

The front has already solemnly announced that it considers these oil agreements as null and void in advance.

They realize that the arrival of even a coalition government in Saigon (as constantly called for by the North Vietnam and Liberation Front delegations at the Paris peace conference table) would endanger their new oil interests in South Vietnam.

Squatters, Army Engineers Battle Over Scenic Delaware River Land

SHAWEE ON THE DELAWARE, Pa. (UPI)—A lonely and beautiful patch of land stretching nearly two miles along the Delaware River has become the center of a bitter controversy between Army engineers and 46 dropouts from society.

The 250-acres are owned by the government and are destined to be part of a 10,000-acre lake when the controversial Tocks Island Dam is built.

The squatters—men, women and children—have insisted they be allowed to live on the land until construction of the dam begins. The Army Corps of Engineers, with equal insistence, has demanded they leave.

Events within the next two weeks may decide which side will have its way.

U.S. Magistrate Raymond J. Durkin of Wilkes-Barre was expected to rule on a trespassers suit brought by the engineers in a move to have the squatters evicted. An attempt by Army engineers to level some of the homes last Sept. 3 failed when the squatters blocked the bulldozers by climbing on the roofs of the houses still standing.

"They are trespassers," a corps spokesman said, "and the law is the law. We leased some of the homes to them when it was already government land, but the leases were not renewed. It was all perfectly legal."

The proposed project also has come under increasing fire from local and national environmental groups. A corps report on the environmental impact of the $239 million project has been submitted to the President's Council on Environmental Quality.

The dam and its 37-mile long reservoir will serve as the focal point of the Delaware Water Gap recreational area, 70,000 acres of land straddling New York, Pennsylvania and New Jersey. It has been designed to handle more than 10,000,000 visitors each year.

The squatters point to the uncertain future of the project as one reason for fighting eviction.

Christian Evans, 32, former government manpower consultant, lives in a small home on the disputed land with his wife and young child. He wants to stay.

"All we are saying is that this land is in hiatus," Evans said, "and we just want to peacefully occupy the dwellings until the public decides."

The squatters say they are a "peaceful people" who work small farms, raise children and quietly live their own life styles.

Evans said most of the 33 adults first leased the homes and then tried to buy them, but the engineers refused to sell.

A corps spokesman denied this and said most of the squatters now on the land never leased, but simply moved into the houses.

"They're trying to freeze us out," said Banko Omedelli, 32, author of children's books who heads the squatters parents committee.

"There are only four houses left with electricity and heat in them so we've put all the children there. We're trying to store food up for the winter."

Peter Degelleke, a supervisor for the National Parks Service in the Tocks Island area, is the government man closest to the disputed area.

"I'd say it's a pretty tense situation," Degelleke said. "The local residents are very concerned. Some of these people go on relief, others live in unsanitary conditions. There's always a danger of a flare-up between the two factions."

Veronica Reiner, 24, who lives with her husband, Richard, on the federal land, blames the squatter's bad image on the authorities.

"Young kids have come around here shooting our dogs because the Army Corps of Engineers has made an image of what a squatter is," she said. "They say we're sloppy, stupid, dirty people and they don't give us any alternative."

Degelleke, who has observed the situation for two years, wants to see the squatters go.

"After all," he said, "if these people can take up residence on public land so can you or I or 200 million other people."

Wild chimpanzees have a large vocabulary of calls signifying emotions such as fear, pain or pleasure.

Stolen Auto Is Recovered

A Tiburon man whose house was burglarized and his car stolen from his garage Oct. 19 has recovered the car intact in San Francisco, Tiburon sheriff's deputies reported today.

They said Robert A. Fishman, of Southridge Drive East, got a call Saturday from a San Francisco man who said the car had been parked near the man's home on Arguello Street for several days.

Fishman picked it up Sunday, officers said, but there was no trace of items taken from his home in the burglary, including liquor, statuettes and frozen food.

Singapore No Longer Flies British Ensign

LONDON (UPI) —The British Royal Navy's white ensign has been hauled down for the last time at Singapore, once Imperial Britain's mightiest foreign base.

For the first time in 150 years—broken only by a three-and-one half year interlude of World War II Japanese occupation—there is no British garrison at the strategic and commercial crossroads of the Far East.

For the past six years Singapore Island has been an independent republic. But it still was linked to Britain by a defense agreement backed by the Royal Navy's Far Eastern Command and an army garrison and strong air force units.

Now that pact has lapsed, too, under the stress of stringent economy needs that have compelled Britain to carry out an all but total military pullout east of Suez.

The last British warships have steamed away from the strategic island which Sir Stamford Raffles, one of the pioneers of the British Empire, persuaded the Sultan of Johore to cede to the East India Company in 1819.

Far Eastern Command has closed its doors.

Henceforth Britain's military "presence" at what once was her proudest Far Eastern fortress has been slashed to a modest share in a new five-national Commonwealth defense force.

The former defense pact, under which Britain was pledged to rush to the defense of either Singapore or neighboring Malaysia, has been replaced by a new agreement reached in London last April.

Under this agreement, the five member countries—Britain, Australia, New Zealand, Malaysia and Singapore—promised to consult immediately in case of any external attack against Malaysia or Singapore.

But it stopped short of an undertaking to come automatically to the aid of the two Southeast Asian countries.

Under the new agreement, the former British garrison in Singapore has been replaced by a mixed brigade totalling about 7,000 men. It consists of 3,300 Australians, 2,550 British and 1,150 New Zealand troops under a British commander.

Malaysia also will contribute 24 army battalions stationed on her own territory and Singapore will contribute eight stationed on the island.

The naval force, also under a British officer, consists now of two British, one Australian and one New Zealand frigates or destroyers and an Australian submarine.

Later, the British contribution may be stepped up to six frigates and one submarine alternating with the Australian submarine.

The air setup will consist of 44 Australian Mirage fighter-bombers—eight of them based on Singapore Island and the rest at Butterworth Air Base in western Malaysia.

There also will be a detachment of British Shackleton maritime reconnaissance aircraft—to be replaced in 1972 by Nimrods—British Whirlwind helicopters and New Zealand air force Bristol freighters and Iroquois helicopters.

In addition to the permanent commonwealth force based in Singapore and Malaysia, British, Australian and New Zealand troops will use the former British jungle warfare school in Malaysia and British planes and ships will visit the area regularly.

SERVING ALL OF MARIN COUNTY
40 SAN RAFAEL, CALIFORNIA, WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 17, 1971 EDITORIAL PAGE

TODAY'S EDITORIAL

Catholic Schools Put Responsibility First

A teacher strike has come to Marin County —and at an unexpected place.

On Monday, the Independent Secondary Teachers Association, which is affiliated neither with the California Federation of Teachers nor the California Teachers Association, went on strike at the seven high schools operated by the Roman Catholic Archdiocese of San Francisco, among which is Marin Catholic High School in Kentfield.

There have been teacher strikes in neighboring counties — San Francisco, Contra Costa, San Mateo. But school officials in Marin generally have clung to the belief that "it can't happen here."

And if anyone had speculated where a teacher strike was most likely to occur in Marin County, probably Marin Catholic High School would never have occurred to him. But that's where Marin has its first teacher walkout.

AT ISSUE ARE SALARIES, which the Independent Secondary Teachers Association complains are below those in public high schools of the Bay Area.

The Catholic schools have been hard-pressed financially in recent years. As fewer young men and women entered the church's orders which provide teachers, the schools have found it necessary to hire more lay teachers. This has greatly inflated their faculty payrolls. At the same time, they have tried to keep tuition low, so that all Catholic families could have their children educated within the church.

The resulting squeeze has forced many Catholic schools across the nation to close their doors, putting an added burden on the tax-supported public schools.

The San Francisco Archdiocese has kept its high schools operating by granting them subsidies. And it has attempted to keep salaries competitive with the public high schools — an attempt which has failed because of the rapid rise in public school teacher pay.

THE ARCHDIOCESE has declared flatly that it will not close its schools because of the teacher strike. At Marin Catholic, more than half the regular teachers refused to join the strike. With a few substitutes, and with administrators filling classroom roles, Marin Catholic is providing instruction for all its classes, according to Rev. Francis Lacey, principal.

The archdiocese, and Marin Catholic High School in particular, are to be commended for keeping the schools in operation despite a teacher walkout. They have rightly placed their duty to the students and the community above the selfish interest of an organized pressure group. They deserve the full support of all Marin County residents in their devotion to the public interest and their determination not to let education be disrupted.

AFFAIRS OF STATE

Thar's Gold In Them Thar State Consulting Contracts

By MARY K. SHELL

SACRAMENTO (Capitol) — Looking for a lucrative business? Try a consulting service — and then get in line for a state contract.

The Joint Legislative Audit Committee revealed last week state agencies have spent nearly $32 million since 1966 for outside consulting services. And many of these consulting contracts were awarded without competitive bidding.

The fiscal watchdog committee wants to know why millions of dollars of state funds are being spent on outside help "that state employees could perform at a lower cost."

THE 65-PAGE AUDIT report, prepared by Auditor Gen. William E. Merrifield, reveals state agencies expended some $31.9 million on consulting services between July 1, 1966 and June 30, 1971. Of this amount, $6.6 million was spent by the Department of Public Works (Division of Highways); $3.2 million by the Department of Education, and the balance of $22.1 million was spread through the other agencies.

In some instances, consultants have been paid to evaluate reports by other experts. For instance, in 1968 the Division of Highways paid Price Waterhouse $9,000 to evaluate the State auditor general's recommendations concerning its accounting and budgeting systems.

Some agencies obviously have their favorites among consultants. A March, 1970, survey conducted by the management assistance division of the Department of General Services revealed 38 of 50 consulting contracts were awarded without going through the process of competitive bidding.

Six organizations have received more than $1 million each for consulting services rendered: University of California, $4.2 million; Daniel, Mann, Johnson and Mendenhall, $3 million; Arthur Young and Co., $2 million; International Engineering, $1.9 million; Bechtel Corp., $1.4 million; and Peat, Marwick, Mitchell and Co., $1.2 million.

"Consultants' fees are usually more than double the salary rates of comparable state employees doing the same type of work," observed Assemblyman Vincent Thomas, D-San Pedro, legislative audit committee chairman.

The watchdog committee also questions whether these high-priced studies are actually used by the contracting agencies.

GRUEN ASSOCIATES was paid a high price ($750,000) for its "investigation of opportunities and conceptual designs for community enhancement along the adopted Route 105 Century Freeway."

The Massachusetts Institute of Technology was paid $137,000 in 1970-71 for its study of "Community and Environmental Factors in Transportation Planning."

At the other end of the scale, Moving Consultants and Coordinators was paid $4,980 to give an estimate of costs for moving personal property on parcels to be relocated "in the event they were acquired for state highway purposes."

A favorite consulting firm of the Department of Education is Peat, Marwick, Mitchell and Co., which received $102,500 in 1970-71 for implementing a program planning and budgeting system. In 1969-70 this firm received $186,500 for similar consultation work and in 1968-69 it was paid $125,325 for still another "program planning and budgeting system."

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Marin Home Care Dedication Outstanding

It was with real joy I read that the Wells Fargo Bank had agreed to loan the Marin Home Care nursing service the funds necessary for its continuation in November and December.

The dedication of the staff of this agency could never be adequately recompensed by money. During the recent terminal illness and death of my husband the "tender loving care" given by these skilled nurses was inspirational. Their compassion and dignity in the treatment of a dying person was a great consolation. I am most appreciative of the warmth and courtesy received in my every contact with this service. Marin citizens are indeed fortunate in having such dedicated nurses to serve their sick.

Board Of Supervisors Scarcely Consistent

One reads in the Nov. 10 issue of the I-J that the Marin County Board of Supervisors rejected the Kaiser Aetna Co.'s proposal to build 145 town house units on 18 acres in Marinwood.

It seems some 80 Marinwood residents complained the higher density development would adversely affect their community. The Board ordered the proposal modified to 108 units.

Not too many weeks ago a group of Corte Madera residents appeared before the same board and opposed construction of 121 town house units on an eight acre parcel located in the county, but surrounded by Corte Madera. The board at that time decided that 114 units was not too dense for an area that will when developed be annexed to Corte Madera.

If 145 units is too dense for 18 acres and the Board saw fit to modify this by 25 per cent to 108 units, it would certainly seem 121 units is way too dense for eight acres and a reduction by only 6 per cent to 114 units is still way too dense for eight acres.

Small wonder citizens are sometimes somewhat befuddled by Board action!

Successful Draft Counseling Service

Your editorial "Youths Need Real Draft Counseling":

Your opinions are thoughtful and to the point. Good draft counseling is needed. For the benefit of anyone in your area wishing to provide such a service I offer the experience of a draft counseling service provided in Palo Alto. Called the Interfaith Draft Center, it was started by 15 cooperating churches in the area in June 1970,. with the stated purpose of providing a generalist, non-coercive counseling service for young men at any stage of the draft process. We operate on something of a financial shoestring, but have been able to employ the services of a highly professional and objective draft counselor who is thoroughly knowledgeable in the intricacies of the draft regulations. Conduct of the affairs of the draft center is by a policy board (one representative of each of the sponsoring churches) and an executive committee of five members and the coordinator. We utilize the services of a technical advisory board (volunteer attorneys, doctors, clergymen and retired service personnel) when necessary. We enjoy harmonious relations with service recruiters and high school counselors and handle referrals from those sources. In the past we have taken care of about 80 consultations a month (fewer now with the mid-summer suspension and the lower draft calls since the law was extended.)

If there is interest in Marin County in organizing such a service we would be happy to provide additional information. This can be obtained by writing the Interfaith Draft Center, 930 Embarcadero Road, Palo Alto 94306.

Policy Board, I.D.C.

Point Reyes Belongs To All Creatures

Did you report (13 Nov.) the recent speech of the president of the Marin Property Owners Association accurately? I can't believe my eyes!

What gives us the right to carve up a billion-year-old creation and introduce more pollution-belching, plant-killing, animal-frightening automobiles? No, Point Reyes does not belong to "all the people in the United States," but rather to all the creatures of the world and especially to those yet unborn because they outnumber us. We, the present and quite temporary custodians, cannot purchase rights which are priceless.

Does the new president of the Marin Property Owners Association speak for the majority of Marin's property owners? Oh God, deliver us from our leaders!

WILLIAM A. SILVERMAN

Why Not Revoke Licenses Of Drunks?

My husband and I have watched for some months the reports of the sentencing of drunk drivers in the I-J. We are disturbed to see that in no case has Judge Smallman taken a driver's license away. Even after repeated convictions the stiffest sentence we've noted is 30 days in jail and a fine. We feel this fails miserably to protect the sober drivers of Southern Marin from those who drive while drunk. We have written Judge Smallman to this effect. Why cannot these drivers' licenses be taken away? Would this not assure proper protection for the rest of us? If they were, after a certain number of convictions for drunken driving, perhaps the roads would be a shade less dangerous, the courts less crowded.

Mrs. PHELPS DEWEY

Draft Counseling Considers All Options

I was most disappointed at the ignorance you showed about Marin County's draft counseling agencies in your editorial of today. (Nov. 10) Your points about providing information on all options under the draft, careful assistance in helping young men to define their own ultimate values and in helping them to act out those values, are fine points. Every counselor I train receives careful supervision in those areas, for the young man (not we the counselors) is ultimately responsible for his own actions. He alone must face pressure from parents, friends, selective service, and the military recruiters. As the trial of Lieutenant Calley, and the trials at Nuremburg have shown, the individual will be held responsible for his own action or inaction.

For readers' information, Marin County's three counseling centers are San Anselmo Draft Help, Mill Valley Draft Help, and Marin Peace Coalition. You can be sure that young men will not be propagandized at these centers. The San Anselmo center works in conjunction with area lawyers, and all counselors go through demanding education and apprenticeship programs. I do the draft and military counseling at MPC, and have been through training with Jewish Peace Fellowship, and American Friends, as well as having done substantial undergraduate study of values, psychology, and religious beliefs . . .

Having completed two years of alternative civilian service as a conscientious objector in Vermont, I am very aware of the stress that people face when they take a stand against war, and would never want a person to take such a stand without being sure that is what they believe.

If you or other area people are interested in observing our draft counseling at College of Marin, you are welcome to come, and, with the counselee's permission, sit in on a counseling session with me. I'm at College of Marin, College Center, Conference Room C, every Wednesday 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Please feel free to come and visit.

It All Depends, It Seems What's Confidential To Whom

WASHINGTON — Goodness gracious, it's happened. Somebody has leaked one of Daniel Ellsberg's very own papers. And he doesn't like it one bit. He is downright "pained" by this unauthorized disclosure. He thinks it awful that he should be subject to such a grave breach of confidentiality.

What are we coming to that the leading practitioner of the right to violate the confidentiality of official government papers should desert to the enemy and become very annoyed because he finds that somebody is violating the confidentiality of his private, personal papers?

This is very inconsiderate of Dr. Ellsberg. Surely those who applauded his taking classified government documents and turning them over to the press deserve a whole hero — not just half a hero who bravely releases other people's papers to somebody and cries in agony when others release his papers to somebody.

TELL'EM IT AIN'T SO, Dr. Ellsberg.

Tell us that you are an all-weather, all-purpose, all-out defender of everybody's right to know everything and that "confidentiality" of all documents — public and private, government and nongovernment — is for the birds.

Tell us, Dr. Ellsberg, that you don't mean it; that you don't mean it is all right to leak classified government papers, but just isn't cricket to leak classified private papres.

Your admirers will begin to wonder. They surely will, Dr. Ellsberg.

HERE IS WHAT Dr. Ellsberg is so pained about:

It appears that about a year ago the Council on Foreign Relations in New York, which publishes the prestigious Foreign Affairs Quarterly, held one of its frequent seminars to discuss aspects of foreign policy.

The talk as usual was frank and uninhibited and the give-and-take was under the traditional rules of strict confidentiality. Dr. Ellsberg delivered a paper at one of these seminars. Recently it was surrendered to the federal government in response to a subpoena.

Dr. Ellsberg felt that this release of his paper by the council, even under advice of counsel, was an invasion of the privacy of what he had written.

It may well be — and I am not arguing it isn't.

What I am contending is that if Dr. Ellsberg feels that he can decide it is appropriate for him to destroy the confidentiality of classified government papers, why is it not equally appropriate for the Council on Foreign Relations to remove the confidentiality of Dr. Ellsberg's classified personal papers?

IT IS EVIDENT that the council acted unilaterally to change its rules without consulting Dr. Ellsberg.

But why should he object to that? Didn't Dr. Ellsberg in the case of the Pentagon Papers act unilaterally to change the government's rules establishing the confidentiality of the Pentagon Papers without consulting with the government?

Or look at it this way:

If it is proper for Dr. Ellsberg to give government secrets to the press by ignoring the law, by what logic should Dr. Ellsberg complain when the Council on Foreign Relations yields his private secrets to the government in obeying due process of law?

Many may, I think, like the original Dr. Ellsberg better than the new pained, indignant, complaining Dr. Ellsberg. I felt he did wrong when he appropriated and released classified government documents. He seemed like an honest man who wouldn't turn his back on anyone's right to do to him what he had done to others.

It's hard to see how in reason and good faith Dr. Ellsberg can demolish the confidentiality of others and demand that it be preserved for him. This is the moral and legal dilemma he has to face up to.

BY NO MEANS NEUTRAL

'Safe To Come Home' For Those Who Deserted?

By ERNEST B. FURGURSON

WASHINGTON — Some of my colleagues are playing a sad, sad song for Thomas G. Jolley, a young man who thought so little of his country that he fled to Canada and consciously, intentionally, with considerable forethought renounced his United States citizenship rather than serve in the Armed Forces.

It is among the first of what will become later a small flood of such cases, growing as the Vietnamese war winds further down, the weekly casualty lists diminish, and those who ran away from the draft realize that the personal likelihood of joining their erstwhile compatriots in uniform and possibly in a military cemetery is acceptably remote.

JOLLEY'S CASE is celebrated now because he came back to this country and the Immigration and Naturalization Service ruled that as an alien he should be deported, and in turn the Supreme Court has now upheld that ruling.

Thus the Washington Post, for one, sets Tom Jolley up as a modern-day Philip Nolan, a "man without a country" comparable to the hero of Edward Everett Hale's famous short story, and a subject worth 39 column inches of news space beginning on Page One.

Rather than floating his stateless life away on the high seas as Nolan did, however, Jolley currently is working as a reporter in Tallahassee. The Post quotes him as saying his own story belongs back in the comics section rather than in an old-fashioned work of patriotic literature. And it summarizes the unconvincing illogic by which he characterizes his renunciation of citizenship as an involuntary act — a theory that failed to sway the high court.

THAT IS THE WAY his saga was played here in the nation's capital. But down in Bremen, Ga., where Jolley was brought up and where he was registered for the draft when he turned 18 in 1962, the story got no play at all.

Bremen is a town of about 3,500 people, mostly employed in making men's clothes in five local plants. It is in hilly country, 50 miles west of Atlanta near the Alabama line. A conscientious objector, which is what Jolley tried to qualify as at first, is as rare around there as a Chinese diplomat. Failing in his C. O. effort, Jolley got a student deferment and went to the University of Georgia. When he flunked an exam and his deferment was running out, he fled to Canada at the age of 23. It is not an everyday story in a small town in Georgia.

Nevertheless, the local weekly, the Bremen Gateway, has not printed a word about it.

THUS DO STANDARDS of news judgment vary, to the everlasting glory of the American press, et cetera. But while news values may depend on the eye of the beholding editor, there are some absolutes brought up by the Jolley case that need to be restated now, as the war dwindles and the draft dodgers, deserters and their brethren get homesick and seek amnesty.

The minimum age of these men is 18, an age determined by the latest constitutional amendment to be sufficiently mature to exercise political judgments of gravity. That should be old enough to understand right and wrong, duty and conscience as well. In any case, dodging the draft, for example, is not accomplished by the snap of a finger. There are many ways to go about it — medical, educational, religious, others — and probably the one that takes the most planning and thought is to flee the country.

Jolley happens to have taken that option one step further. He went to the U.S. Consulate in Torontoand flatly, absolutely renounced his citizenship although the consul followed orders by making certain that he understood what it meant to become a stateless person and what he would have to go through if he ever changed his mind.

NOW HE HAS CHANGED his mind. Now and in the months ahead hundreds, likely thousands of others who fled the country (3,000 to Canada alone) will change their minds. There will be a political campaign to grant them amnesty — in fact, one line advanced by the draft "counseling" committees advising young Americans to flee the country was that the larger the number of such fugitives, the more effectively pressure could be brought for amnesty once it was safe to return.

To routinely reward them by handing back their citizenship rights or forgiving their crimes will be to bring their evasion schemes to a happy ending precisely according to their own script. And before our politicians commit themselves on that question, I suggest that they consider carefully the feelings of all those Americans who did not flee but did their unpleasant duty, and the memory of those who took their chances without whining, and lost.

REMEMBER WHEN?

10 YEARS AGO

Nov. 17, 1961

The U.S. Bureau of Reclamation promised to study the feasibility of bringing water to Marin and other North Bay counties from the Eel River.

The first heavy snowstorm of the season hit the Midwest as wind and rain spread across the northern half of the United States.

20 YEARS AGO

Nov. 17, 1951

Two four-engined airliners collided over Oakland Airport, one crashing and killing its crew of three, the other managing a rudderless emergency landing at San Francisco Airport.

About 40 persons organized the Bayside Acres Property Owners Association and launched a study of possibility of incorporating as a new city.

Games District Attorney Plays Don't Leave Outcome In Doubt

It did it again.

The Marin County district attorney's office played its old game of "no intent" with the same old results.

For those who are new to the county and aren't aware of the game, there's really nothing to it.

The district attorney, or one of his deputies, upon learning of a complaint about a public agency — say, for example, violation of the state's anti-secret meeting law by the Marin County Housing Authority board — announces he will launch an immediate and thorough probe.

The game has begun.

Flags wave, rockets soar, and bugles blow.

One of his several investigators is assigned to the task of ferreting out the facts.

Then after a week or so things quiet down. The game becomes intense.

It can go on for weeks, or months, or possibly even years providing someone doesn't inquire as to the progress of the investigation.

If, by some unfortunate circumstance, someone does, the district attorney's office immediately announces it could find "no intent" by the suspect agency to violate the law.

The game ends.

SEE, THERE'S REALLY nothing to it.

It's all just a game. A game the district attorney's office is especially good at. It stays in practice.

There's another favorite played by some around the district attorney's office.

It's called "no answer."

The object is two-fold. By either refusing to accept or return a phone call, some in the DA's office avoid bothersome questions and at the same time give the impression of being taxed to the limits of their work capacity.

Unlike the first game, certain variables can be worked into this one.

FOR EXAMPLE, your first call may be accepted or returned. After that (once the nature of your call is learned) you're on your own.

8:35 a.m. — "I'm sorry, he's in a meeting. Can I take a message?" asks a friendly sounding secretary.

9:03 a.m. — "I'm sorry, he's with witnesses. Can he return your call?"

10:15 a.m. — "He's not in right now."

11 a.m. — "He just stepped out of the office with two officers. Can he return your call?"

Next day:

8:55 a.m. — "No, he doesn't come in until 10:30 (a.m.)"

11:05 a.m. — "No, he's not in the office. Can I take a message?"

That was last week and still the calls haven't been returned. This game apparently has no end.

THE PEOPLE'S SCHOOLS

Some Stories Of Success And Tales Of Tragedy

By BRYCE W. ANDERSON

There are heartening success stories among the tables of figures in the report on 1970 statewide reading tests, released last week. And there are tales of tragedy.

Median reading scores of pupils in the districts were ranked statewide on a scale on which 99 represented the highest possible. Success stories are to be found in reading score ranks like these for 1,321-pupil Live Oak Elementary School District in Santa Cruz County: First grade 1, second grade 21, third grade 41, sixth grade 74.

Here is a picture of children slow at first in learning to read, but progressing steadily so that by sixth grade they are far above the statewide average.

OF COURSE, NOT the same children were tested in May, 1970, in both first and sixth grades. But they are from the same populace and largely the same families, so the figures tell of success and accomplishment. The statewide reading tests have been in use only since 1966, so how the same children progressed cannot be charted — nor can it ever, probably, for the state has changed the tests used in pirmary grades and may change that in sixth grade.

Live Oak is by no means alone among school districts whose reading test figures tell a success story, although the gains made by its pupils were among the most spectacular.

The tales of tragedy are in reading test scores like these from two school districts in Tulare County: Oak Valley (302 pupils), first grade 97, second grade 99, third grade 36, sixth grade 2. Waukena (174 pupils), first grade 95, second grade 77, third grade 5, sixth grade 4.

One is tempted to wonder whether education goes on at all in schools whose pupils, like those in Oak Valley and Waukena, score almost at the top statewide in first grade, yet almost at the bottom in sixth grade.

A SEARCH of the 620-page report discloses only one of the biggest districts (25,000 pupils and over) making large gains in reading scores from first to sixth grade. Pasadena Unified School District (26,802 average attendance) showed these rankings: First grade 30, second grade 39, third grade 45, sixth grade 61.

But the state's biggest district, 536,972-pupil Los Angeles Unified, was another story: First grade 64, second grade 49, third grade 36, sixth grade 29 — a steady decline in accomplishment. (The story might be very different, of course, for some individual schools in the vast Los Angeles district.)

EDUCATION LEADERS often try to tell us that, if schools are not producing results, the solution is to spend more money. But the cost-per-pupil of instruction in Live Oak School District was shown as only $481. Oak Valley and Waukena certainly might benefit from spending more, for their per-pupil costs were $321 and $383, respectively. And Pasadena outspent Los Angeles slightly, $632 per pupil compared with $567.

However, the highest spending per pupil I found among districts showing spectacular first-to-sixth grade gains was $395 in 262-pupil North Fork Elementary School District in Madera County, whose pupils ranked 1 (the lowest possible) in first grade and advanced to 63 in sixth.

The biggest spending per-pupil in California was in Emery Unified School District in Alameda County, which spent $1,733 for instruction of each of its 511 pupils. And here are the Emery district's ranks in reading: First grade 46, second grade 13, third grade 48, sixth grade 18. And by 12th grade, they had fallen to 1 — the very lowest. A tale of tragedy!

In most, but not all, cases sixth grade pupils in districts showing spectacular advancement had higher median scores on the Lorge-Thorndike "IQ" test than those in districts showing spectacular retrogression. But, after all, a child's ability to read has considerable effect on the score he'll make on an "IQ" test.

No Objections To Floating Dock

No objections to a proposal to build a floating dock on Corte Madera Creek near Larkspur Plaza have been received by the Army Corps of Engineers in San Francisco.

The deadline for submitting protests to the application by builder Charles J. Hendrickson for the dock at 55 Larkspur Plaza Road was yesterday. The dock is designed in conjunction with an apartment building.

The proposed dock must also be approved by state and federal officials, a corps spokesman said.

New Food Fare On UC Campus

SANTA CRUZ (UPI)—Things have improved for University of California students with a taste for such items as cabbage-potato borscht and egg-almond sandwiches.

The Whole Earth Restaurant, which had been closed for renovations and enlargements, reopened Monday to serve organic foods on the university's Santa Cruz campus.

Foods are obtained from an organic garden established on the campus by philosophy professor Paul Lee.

Jr. White House

Unbelieveably exciting if you prefer the dignified charm of the old world, custom fixtures, wool carpeting, warm paneling, stately trees and the like. The grand music room is acoustically perfect. The formal living and dining room as well as the library have fireplaces. A paneled office, country kitchen and butler's pantry complete the main floor. Five bedrooms, 2 with fireplaces, and a children's recreation room complete the 2nd floor. Servants quarters (or additional bedrooms if you prefer) are on the 3rd level. 5½ baths. Additionally there is a separate house for guests, a real orchid growing hot house, an aviary and a delightful outdoor kitchen and BBQ area complete with outdoor fireplace for entertaining any time of the year. You will agree that this estate is underpriced at $195,000. For viewing call CAL REALTY, 771-4900; evenings & weekends, 456-3398.

COUPE
$625
This little Opel sport coupe in baby blue with bucket seats would make the perfect 2nd or 3rd car for some Marin family with teen-agers.
Built in Germany by General Motors and distributed in the US by Buick — we sold this car new in '66 to local family and have taken back on another new Opel.
We've just gone through the engine on this clean little Opel — so you should drive trouble-free for quite awhile. Over 25 miles-per-gallon of gas.

RESOLUTION NO. 152
RESOLUTION OF THE BOARD OF TRUSTEES OF THE SAUSALITO SCHOOL DISTRICT AUTHORIZING LEASE OF A PORTION OF CENTRAL SCHOOL PROPERTY TO THE MARIN COMMUNITY COLLEGE DISTRICT

WHEREAS, the Sausalito School District is the owner of certain real property known as Central School; and

WHEREAS, said portion of property is not currently needed for classroom purposes of the Sausalito School District; and

WHEREAS, the Marin Community College District is desirous of acquiring a portion of said property for use as an adult learning center; and

WHEREAS, pursuant to Education Code Sections 16201, et seq., a school district may, upon the unanimous vote of the Board of Trustees, lease school district property to another school district upon such terms and conditions as the parties may agree; and

WHEREAS, a lease Agreement has been prepared providing for the lease of said property for the period from October 26, 1971 to December 11, 1971; January 10, 1972 to March 31, 1972; and April 3, 1972 to June 15, 1972 for the rental of $537.00 per quarter.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT HEREBY RESOLVED as follows:

1. That the Clerk of this Board publish this Resolution in a newspaper of general circulation in the District, once a week for three weeks.

2. That at the conclusion of said publication period, the Chairman of this Board be, and she is, hereby authorized to execute said lease Agreement with the Marin Community College District.

PASSED AND ADOPTED by the Board of Trustees of the Sausalito School District at a Regular meeting held on the 8-11 day of November, 1971, by the following vote:

NEW LOOK FOR COURTHOUSE SQUARE

Charles Bentivegna of the San Rafael Park and Recreation Department rakes gravel on one of the new walkways being installed in the old Courthouse Square. The city and county are sharing the $1,000 cost of landscaping the site where the old Courthouse stood to get it ready by the holiday season. A circular planter box has been built near where the Doughboy statue formerly stood; winding paths will circle from Fourth Street to the parking lots.

SACRAMENTO ROUNDUP

Reagan Vetoes Methadone Funds

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Several bills, including measures to spend $5 million for methadone treatment of heroin addicts and require taxpayers to finance the full cost of state employe health insurance were vetoed Tuesday by Gov. Ronald Reagan.

Reagan said that although heroin addiction is a "terrible problem" existing programs should be studied to learn their effectiveness before additional state funds are spent on methadone maintenance.

He ordered an administration review of such programs.

Assemblyman John Vasconcellos, D-San Jose, who authored the bill, called Reagan's veto message, "dishonest, uninformed and unconcerned."

Reagan also rejected a bill by Assembly Republican leader Robert T. Monagan of Tracy which would have required the state to pay the total cost or $20, whichever was less, of the monthly health plan premium of a state employe and his family.

The governor said the extra cost would "worsen the already critical deficit facing the state" but promised in his next budget to include funds for a larger share of the employe health insurance costs.

Other vetoes include these:

EDUCATION —A bill by Sen. Walter W. Stiern, D-Bakersfield, appropriating $1.8 million for bilingual and bicultural programs in all school courses. Reagan said more study was needed on the concept.

COMMUNITY --A measure by Assemblyman John Dunlap, D-Napa requiring the community college enrollment period to be kept open until after the first week of instruction. Reagan said the bill "would cause community college classes to be disrupted into the second week and beyond, making it difficult for instructors to organize their courses."

AGRICULTURE —A bill by Sen. George Zenovich, D-Fresno, earmarking up to $1.5 million a year in horserace revenue from the state Fair and Exposition fund for vocational education programs in agriculture. Reagan said specific programs "should be considered in light of the state's overall educational needs and should not be approached on a piecemeal basis."

HEALTH —A bill by Assemblyman Ken MacDonald, D-Ojai, which would have changed the formula by which state allocations are made to county health departments. Reagan said the proposal was "unfair to the state."

FLOOD —A bill by Assemblyman Frank Murphy Jr., R-Santa Cruz," to authorize state aid for the Merced stream group flood control project. "It is inequitable for the taxpayers of this state to bear the cost of flood control projects without requiring greater local participation in the costs," Reagan said.

MARITIME — A bill by Sen. George Moscone, D-San Francisco, to empower the state to sell, lease or transfer property of the San Francisco Maritime State Historical Park. Reagan said the bill was "imprecise."

WELFARE —A bill by Assemblyman Dixon Arnett, R-Redwood City, requiring the state to reimburse counties for general relief paid to persons while they were successfully applying for aid to the disabled. The governor said the bill would upset a "delicate balance" established under the new welfare reform act in sharing of administration costs.

ALIMONY

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —A bill making the economic change in a divorced person's life the sole basis on which alimony payments can be revised up or down has been approved by the Senate.

The measure by Assemblyman James Hayes, R-Long Beach, was returned to the Assembly Tuesday on a 22-5 vote for concurrence in amendments.

It would allow modification of alimony payments if proof of a change in the economic circumstances of either party is shown.

Sen. Gordon Cologne, R-Indio, upper House floor manager of the bill, said presently the modification can be instituted if the wife lives with another man or the husband with another woman.

"The fact people are living with each other in sin is of no importance in this matter," Cologne said.

Sen. John Holmdahl, D-Oakland, opposed the measure on grounds the divorced alimony-paying spouse should not have to support his or her former partner who is living with another person.

REPOSSESS

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —A bill forbidding a finance company from repossessing an automobile without having a court order has been killed by the Senate Judiciary Committee.

The measure by Assemblyman Henry Waxman, D-Los Angeles, died Tuesday after car dealers and lending institutions vigorously opposed it on grounds bad-risk poor people would have difficulty getting a loan.

The legislation also would have banned the private repossession of cars, leaving the job to marshals and sheriff's deputies ordered to take the vehicle into possession by a court.

Joseph Shockley, lobbyist for the California Association of Licensed Repossessors, opposed the bill contending law officers are "not equipped" to find cars whose owners have defaulted on payments. "This is our job," Shockley said.

LEGAL TOOLS

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Legislation giving the attorney general additional legal tools to deal with cases of alleged pollution or environmental damage was signed Tuesday by Gov. Ronald Reagan.

The measure by Sen. Robert J. Lagomarsino, R-Ojai, will permit the attorney general to intervene in court and administrative proceedings involving such cases.

Reagan said the bill "will allow the attorney general to move swiftly against anyone who attempts to destroy our natural resources or endanger the health of our citizens through irresponsible actions."

The measure also will require that the attorney general be notified about lawsuits which charge there has been pollution or environmental damage.

KEPT ALIVE

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —The Senate has crushed an Assembly-passed proposal to extend the terms of state legislators by another two years.

The proposal was rejected by a lopsided 11-15 vote Tuesday after opponents warned it would give ambitious assemblymen a free hunting license for Senate seats.

But Sen. Ralph Dills, DGardena, Senate sponsor of the proposed constitutional amendment by Assemblyman Harvey Johnson, D-El Monte, kept it alive by announcing he'll seek to have the defeat reconsidered. It needed 27 votes.

The proposal, subject to voter approval, would extend the terms of assemblymen from two to four years and for senators from four to six years.

INSURANCE

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —The full Senate has received a proposed constitutional amendment authorizing the state to provide insurance against tidal waves, earthquakes, floods and landslides.

The Assembly-passed measure by Assemblyman John J. Miller, D-Berkeley, was sent to the floor Tuesday by the Senate Judiciary Committee. If approved, it would be submitted to voters next year for rejection or ratification.

Miller said the amendment would allow the state to set up a program to provide low-cost insurance for natural catastrophes. He said the cost of such insurance is currently "prohibitive."

MED FEES

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —A bill authorizing state grants to needy medical students in private colleges and payments to private medical schools which increase their enrollment was signed Tuesday by Gov. Ronald Reagan.

The grants under the measure by Sen. Donald Grunsky, R-Watsonville, would be limited to tuition and fees.

The bill also gives "incentive payments" of $12,000 annually for each additional student private medical schools enroll.

CONFIRMED

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —Gov. Ronald Reagan's reappointment of William Gianelli as state water resources director was unanimously confirmed Tuesday by the Senate.

Senate leader James R. Mills, D-San Diego, who earlier clashed with Gianelli over the director's criticism of his support for a wild rivers bill, recommended confirmation.

More UC Rare Books Stolen

DAVIS (UPI) —Rare botanical books worth an estimated $4,500 have been stolen from the library of the University of California at Davis, librarian J. Richard Blanchard reported Tuesday.

Blanchard said the theft was identical to a book theft last week at the California Academy of Sciences in San Francisco, adding "I'm inclined to think it was the same person."

Taken from the UCD library was a set of 23 bound volume of Curtis Botanical Magazine, printed in London between 1787 and 1815, and a 16-volume collection of Paxton's Magazine of Botany, issued in London between 1834 and 1849. The collections contain several thousand hand-colored prints of plants.

Complaint Over Wage Panel

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— California's Carpenters Union Council Tuesday urged withdrawal of the five labor members from President Nixon's Phase II wage panel.

Secretary-Treasurer Anthony Ramos sent the request to AFLCIO President George Meany, a member of the 15-man panel.

Ramos said representatives of the state's 100,000-man union approved a resolution condemning wage controls as "an unconstitutional invasion of the right to free collective bargaining."

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

The Foundation Of Youth Found Too Late For Most Of People

In 1927, the late Clive M. McCay began experiments on prolonging the life of rats by controlling their dietary intake and growth rate. The results were fantastic and if they were applicable to man, a person could be a healthy, sturdy teen-ager at 90.

One group of rats were fed a diet of essential proteins, minerals, vitamins, and an unlimited supply of calories from a sugar and lard mixture. The rodents thrived and lived a normal life span.

The oldest attained the ripe old age (for a rat) of 969 days. The second group received the same diet but not enough sugar and lard to encourage growth and development.

The underfed rats remained juveniles for periods up to 1,000 days. At this point, Dr. McCay increased their caloric intake to reestablish normal growth. And to everyone's surprise, the rodents rapidly grew and matured. Ultimately they died after living almost twice as long as most rats. The oldest survived 1,465 days.

A PHOTOGRAPH in Medical Opinion and Review showed a wizened old rat renewing acquaintances with a healthy looking juvenile who remained young on his low caloric diet.

By extending youth, McCay doubled the life span of these rats. We must reemphasize that these experiments were started early in the rat's life. The dietary regimen does not work after growth and development is complete. Most people searching for the fountain of youth are long past the age when an "elixir" will do any good.

Questions on medical topics will be answered by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the Independent-Journal.)

CHRONIC CONSTIPATION

C. L. G. writes: What causes chronic constipation and what, if anything, can be done about it?

REPLY

The most common cause of constipation is failure to heed the signals of the rectal reflexes that denote a need to move the bowels (nature's call). In time, the body tires of telling the individual and constipation is established. In other words, it is a bad habit fostered by laziness. Other causes for the symptom include lack of roughage in the diet, not enough liquids, an irritable colon, rectal pain, emotional tension, and diseases of the colon. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope for our leaflet on this disorder.

BARNYARD NUTRITION

L. A. B. writes: Is an egg from a caged hen (one that has eaten only what was necessary for fast growth) as nutritious as an egg from a yard hen? The yard hen has been on the ground and eats insects.

REPLY

To my knowledge, there is no data along this line. However, I doubt if it makes much difference whether the hen is caged or loose in the barnyard. Actually, the caged hen is scientifically fed because growth is important.

CHRONIC SINUSITIS

R. B. writes: In your opinion, has a sinus condition ever been cured? I get relief now and then, but the symptoms always return.

REPLY

Yes. A recurring sinus infection deserves a thorough medical study to determine whether the structure is draining properly. If not, surgery may be needed. I assume allergy is not responsible and that the attacks are bona fide sinus infections and not nose colds. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope for our leaflet on sinus disorders.

SKIPPED BEATS

Mrs. H. K. writes: For three weeks, after heavy phsical exertion, my heart has been skipping a beat regularly. I'm 46 and otherwise in good health. Is this heart condition serious?

REPLY

The symptom may not be serious but a thorough examination will be needed to find out. Many people with this complaint have an irritable heart due to overindulgence in coffee, tea, or tobacco.

TRIANGULAR DIMPLE

Mrs. O.R. writes: At the base of my spine, there are three holes, evenly spaced, making a perfect triangle. Can you explain this condition?

REPLY

Michaelis's rhomboid is a diamond-shaped region with four dimples. Since you have only three, the condition may represent pilonidal cyst.

Marin Horsemen Shine At Annual Schooling Show

Marin County horsemen took 13 first-place ribbons at the Fourth Annual All Novice Schooling Show held at Circle V Stables in Fairfax.

Last weekend's show, according to Beverly Mager of San Rafael, featured competition among 182 horses in 16 classes. The event was sponsored by the Marin Mounted 4-H Club.

First place Marin winners were: English equitation-maiden-open: Barbara Drechsel of Novato, riding Trires Touch; 4-H Junior Showmanship-Danish system: Sherry Schooling of Novato, riding O'Kie Joe Papoose; Obie Starr of Kentfield, riding Tiffany; Nancy Sutherland of San Anselmo, riding Helleck Dan; Lisa Murphy of Fairfax, riding Milkman; Sandy Sabo of San Anselmo, riding King Delicate; Cina Huppert of San Anselmo, riding Mr. Newt, and Duffy Hermann of San Anselmo, riding Decker's Jewel.

Karlee Swainston of Fairfax, riding Rey Blanton, won first in trail-open class. Cindy Lewis of San Rafael, riding Chant's Val Rey, won western equitation — 14 through 17. Debbie Thompson of Novato, riding Lynn Deck, won western equitation-open-novice. Marilyn Lopes of San Anselmo, riding Skiparoo, won western pleasure — 17 and under. And Debbie Thompson of Novato, again riding Lynn Deck, won western pleasure-open.

Corte Madera Thief Jailed For 90 Days

Ronald Berg Goodrich, 21, of Larkspur, has been sentenced to 90 days in county jail and placed on two years' probation for a May 5 burglary of a home in Corte Madera.

Goodrich pleaded guilty on Oct. 4 and was sentenced Monday by Judge E. Warren McGuire of Marin Superior Court.

San Anselmo Sets Series Of Meetings

The 1972 San Anselmo Town Meeting will be held in a series of evening meetings during a two-week period in March, chairman J. Michael Anthony announced yesterday.

In past years, the meeting was held in a one-day Saturday session.

Anthony said the new format of four or five evening meetings would allow San Anselmo merchants and other residents who work on Saturdays to participate in the sessions.

The meetings will be held during the first two weeks in March, he said, and the Town Meeting committee hopes to select discussion topics expected to be issues during the San Anselmo city council elections in April.

A topics committee, headed by Eugene Jacks of 540 Fawn Drive, Sleepy Hollow, is now seeking suggested topics, Anthony said, adding that topics already under consideration include concerns in the areas of transportation, the environment, housing, city government, schools and personal living.

Persons interested in assisting the topics selection committee or in serving on the Town Meeting committee may telephone Anthony, Jacks or William L. Montgomery of 10 Black Hawk Drive, cochairman of the Town Meeting Committee.

Anthony, a deputy Marin County district attorney, was elected chairman of the committee in September.

Panel Moves On Nonreturnables

The Novato Environmental Quality Committee has supported controlling use of nonreturnable beverage containers — a move under consideration by the Novato City Council.

Committee members endorsed the concept of controlling legislation Monday night and appointed a three-member committee to submit recommendations to the council, according to city administrative assistant Rodney B. Brown.

The committee also scheduled a special meeting at 8 p.m. next Monday at city hall to complete its statement of goals, which will be sent to the council, Brown said.

KQED (9), 8 p.m. — Julia Child shows how to roast a turkey on "The French Chef."

KTVU (2), 9 p.m. — "Fiddler on the Roof" is a one-hour special highlighting the premiere of the musical. Polly Bergen and Dave Reeves are the hosts. Among the stars appearing are Jack Benny, Debbie Reynolds, Anthony Quinn, Kirk Douglas and Lucille Ball.

KGO (7), 11:30 p.m. — Motion picture star Bette Davis will be the sole guest on "The Dick Cavett Show."

Sesame Street Wins Top Japan TV Honor

TOKYO (UPI) — "Sesame Street," a revolutionary television program for children, received a $2,000 cash prize from the Japan Broadcasting Co. yesterday.

The program is produced by the Children Television Workshop of New York.

The prize will come from a company known in Japan as Nihon Hoso Kyokai (NHK), which operates the only noncommercial television station in the country. It has been televising "Sesame Street" since last summer.

NHK's awards, the "Japan prizes," are presented each year to outstanding television programs.

Britain declined several months ago to purchase the "Sesame Street" series for its public British Broadcasting Corp. (BBC). The decision was made after the BBC's education advisory panel said the show was too "authoritarian" in presenting material, too "middle class" in outlook and too long for the concentration spans of British youths.

The British Independent Television Authority (ITV) picked up the series, however, and is running the program on 15-20 regional stations each Saturday.

NHK is operated by subscription fees collected from Japanese TV owners.

Gulls Are Getting The Word

If there's a grapevine among seagulls, the word must be spreading: "If you have a broken wing, they'll take good care of you in Alto."

A young California gull with a broken left wing was rescued from certain death on an Alto playground last December by three Edna Maguire School students who took the bird to the Louise A. Boyd Marin Museum of Science for amputation and a permanent home.

And Friday night, a gull found its way to the Alto fire station for a little help.

Chief Carol O. Heynen Jr., who has photos to prove it, said he peered out his window at about 9 p.m. and spied the bird waiting patiently at the doorway to the fire station across the street.

He called the firemen on duty, and they managed to trap the seagull with a sheet and take him inside.

Once there, Heynen said, they discovered the broken wing. On the advice of the Marin Audubon Society, the gull was taken to the Mill Valley small craft harbor and released.

"He kept swimming away from us, then turning and looking back for a long time," Heynen said.

The chief said the Audubon Society told him a gull with a broken wing can survive if he makes it to water.

Low Density Sought For Housing Plan

Larkspur's architectural review committee has called for lower density in a huge apartment development proposed for Bon Air Hill.

Graham Lang, building inspector, said the committee mentioned no density limit Monday, but was unhappy with proposed density of less than 2,000 square feet a unit.

The committee's comments on the development plans will serve as recommendations to the Larkspur Planning Commission, which will consider the plans of Larwin Multi-Housing Corp. of Beverly Hills Tuesday at 8 p.m. at city yall.

The corporation proposes to build 224 units on a 12-acre site adjacent to the Tamalpais retirement home. The site is owned by Greenbrae developer Niels J. Schultz Jr.

The committee also recommended more parking spaces and a visual break at the southern end of the apartments, Lang said.

TWA's AMBASSADOR SERVICE. IT TOOK A YEAR TO PERFECT IN AMERICA AND NOW WE'RE BRINGING IT TO EUROPE, THE PACIFIC AND THE FAR EAST.

DECEMBER 1ST.
TWA EXPANDS AMBASSADOR SERVICE TO EUROPE AND THE PACIFIC.

After a year of expanding and improving Ambassador Service across the United States, TWA is ready to introduce Ambassador Service to the world.

International travellers will now enjoy new planes, new twin seats, choice of entrees, in short everything that has made Ambassador Service the success it is today.

It all started a year ago, when we put into effect a program designed to give our passengers a whole new way to fly across the United States.

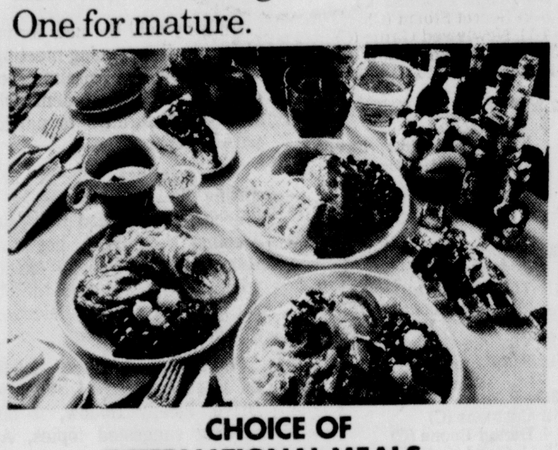
This is how it all began:

NOVEMBER 1970.
TWA INTRODUCES NEW REFURNISHED PLANES.

We ripped out all the interiors of our 707s, and put in new seats, new fabrics, new colors, new carpets, new everything.

CHOICE OF MOVIES...

On all movie flights, only TWA gives you a choice of two first-run movies. One for general audiences. One for mature.



CHOICE OF INTERNATIONAL MEALS...

In coach, you'll find a choice of three international meals. In first class, a choice of five. With champagnes, wines, liqueurs, cheeses and desserts from around the world.

NEW TWIN SEAT IN COACH...

If the plane's not full, our new Twin Seat can be two across or even a couch.

TWA GROUND AMBASSADOR...

If passengers have the slightest problem at all, there's a TWA Ground Ambassador waiting to help solve it.

AND CONTAINERIZED BAGGAGE.

Containerized Baggage is the safest, most modern way for your luggage to travel without getting banged around, lost or arriving late.

In fact, passengers found that their luggage travelled in almost as much comfort as they did.

1. Movies and alcoholic beverages available at nominal cost in coach. Movies by Inflight Motion Pictures, Inc.

APRIL 1971.
WHAT TWA DID FOR COACH, TWA DOES FOR FIRST CLASS.

We completely redesigned our first class sections on all 707s. We put in new seats, new carpets, new fabrics, new everything.

JUNE 1971.
NEW HOSTESS UNIFORMS.

TWA commissioned Valentino of Rome to create new hostess uniforms. Everything from pants suits to hot pants.

SEPTEMBER 1971.
TWA GUARANTEES, "A LOUNGE ON ALL AMBASSADOR FLIGHTS."

First TWA introduced its big spacious 747 coach lounge.

Then TWA introduced its smaller, more intimate 707 coach lounge.

(On flights outside the United States, international regulations prevent us from having coach lounges.)

OCTOBER 1971.
TWA ISSUES ANOTHER GUARANTEE, "TWA WILL NOT BE UNDERSOLD."

While every other airline was promising new low fares all over the place, TWA gave you this guarantee:

"TWA guarantees that no scheduled airline will take you to any TWA city, across the United States or around the world, for less money than TWA.

TWA WILL NOT BE UNDERSOLD

"In addition, if you buy your ticket now, and TWA lowers the price of your flight any time before you take off, TWA guarantees to pay you back the difference in full."

When you fly TWA, we guarantee you the lowest prices available to the general public for the same service and routes.

TWA's PRIVATE CUSTOMS.

And of course, when you return, TWA is still one of the few airlines to have its own private customs and immigration facilities in its own terminal, Flight Wing #1 at JFK.

DECEMBER 1971.
TWA GIVES AMBASSADOR SERVICE TO THE WORLD.

So now, whether you're going across the United States, across the Atlantic or across the Pacific, take a TWA Ambassador Flight.

No other airline gives you anything like it.

Call your travel agent or TWA.

Professor Is 90 Years Old —And He's Still Going Strong

BERKELEY — Joel H. Hildebrand, who published his first scientific paper in 1906, discussed the newest knowledge from his research recently in the annual Gilbert N. Lewis Memorial Lecture on the Berkeley campus of the University of California. The famous Berkeley chemist was 90 years old yesterday.

Dr. Hildebrand's fame has been earned not only as a chemist, but also as a teacher, author, administrator, educational philosopher, athlete, and mountaineer.

He taught chemistry to more than 40,000 students during the 39 years he was on active teaching duty at Berkeley.

Although he earned emeritus status in 1952, he never really "retired," but continued with his research, his guidance of post-doctoral students, and his widespread service to education.

He gave up skiing ("reluctantly") after his 75th birthday.

Member of the chemistry faculty at Berkeley since 1913, he has served also as dean of men, dean of the college of letters and science, and dean of the college of chemistry at Berkeley. The university awarded him an honorary doctorate degree in 1954 and has also named a major chemistry building "Hildebrand Hall."

Early in his career, Hildebrand began to develop his important "theory of regular solutions," and his research interests over seven decades have ranged to many subjects related to the problems of solutions and the molecular nature of liquids.

He is past president of both the American Chemical Society and the Sierra Club, managed the U.S. Olympic ski team in 1936, and was a member of the Citizens Advisory Commission on Public Education Systems that reported in 1960 to the California legislature.

Hildebrand's three sons and daughter were all educated at UC Berkeley.

"I stopped to get myself winterized. I'm protected to zero minus sixty degrees."

Mass Escape Upset Many Uruguayans

By TORONTO TELEGRAM SYNDICATE

MONTEVIDEO — On the day when the mass escape of Tupamaros from Montevideo's fortress-like prison was made public, many Uruguayans looked as if they had been hit on the head.

For two reasons. First, the virtually incredible facts of this escape: Prisoners dig a tunnel more than 40 yards long, which must have taken them many weeks; they have the necessary tools (from where?); they hide the excavated earth in nylon sacks (where did these come from?); they have apparently perfect communications with their outside helpers (how?); since the cell from which the tunnel begins houses only four inmates, they dig no less than 40 passages from one cell to another, also organize the escape of prisoners kept in upper-story cellblocks, and disappear with perfect precision.

When the police, tipped off too late, call the prison, they are told that everything is in apple-pie order — and this is after 111 prisoners had already disappeared without a trace, nearly all of them Tupamaros, including all the group's leaders.

The tunnel leads to a house. Hours before the escape a group of harmless-looking youngsters appears at the house to prevent the resident family from interfering; the members of the family let them in without concern because one of the group is the niece of the homeowner — and, of course, also a Tupamaro. With a stethoscope the youngsters follow the progress of the approaching of underground sounds digging and at the right moment tear up the floor.

It was not only the escape itself that depressed the Uruguayans, but the general situation of which it is a symptom.

The mere fact that they gained their freedom is not crucial to the conduct of the Tupamaros' activities. But the crassness with which the escape made visible the ineptness, corruption and helplessness of the authorities was a shock to the public.

More than a year ago, the then minister of interior stated that a special prison was being prepared for the most dangerous terrorists, to be situated on an island, in order to prevent escapes. It is assumed that not a finger has been lifted so far to carry out this plan. And today it is widely assumed that it would have been useless in any case, since the Tupamaros would simply have used boats.

A Bit Of England In The Valley

I-J Special Report

DAVIS — Those big, bright, red, double-decked London buses which have joined the bicycle as a UC Davis trademark have gone public.

Now, for just 15 cents a ride, the townspeople of Davis can join students, faculty, and staff in experiencing a slice of Merry England in the Central Valley when they climb aboard one of the four student-operated double-deckers which make up half of the University Transport System fleet.

The eight-bus operation, dubbed "Unitrans" by its patrons, is managed and serviced entirely by students. The three dozen young people paint them, fix them, drive them, serve as on-board conductors, and manage the books.

"Our aim is to provide service, not to make money," says student manager Andy Irwin, who adds that like all public transportation systems, this one operates at a deficit.

The buses carried around 125,000 passengers last year, and Irwin predicts the figure will jump above 130,000 this year by allowing non-UCD people to ride the system.

Five days a week during normal school hours, the buses wend their way from the traffic circle north of the Memorial Union complex over five different routes to the outer reaches of Davis and back again.

This Is Terry, 19: Zookeeper

FEEDS ZOO BABIES — It's a busy life for Terra Waldear an attendant at the Oakland Baby Zoo. She bottle feeds baby camels, with help, and prepares many formulas each day. Here she's praising a baby llama after it had eaten nicely.

I-J Special Report

OAKLAND — Ever try to dress a chimp in diapers when it doesn't want to be dressed? Or feed a baby llama a bottle when it doesn't want the bottle? Or move a 550-pound tortoise when it doesn't want to move?

It's all in a day's work for 19-year-old Terra Waldear, already a veteran at the Oakland Baby Zoo.

She considers her job "one of the most unusual any girl my age can ever have. This job at the zoo really makes me happy. I love the environment; I love working with animals of all kinds, and I like to relate to animals.

Terry, who has worked at the zoo for four years (three years in the summer, and one full year after graduating from high school), has had a varied list of assignments.

"I started out being a lookout around the dolphin/seal pool, making sure that children didn't fall in, that they didn't tease the animals in the pool or sit on the edge.

"Only one child fell in during my two-summer tenure at the pool, and his mother just pulled him out by the seat of the pants before he barely got wet," she said.

"I make formula for our bottle babies every day. We have had up to 20 bottle babies at any given time — including baby elephants, pigs, chimps, llamas, donkeys, and many others. And, if the children happen to be there at feeding time, we let the customers do the bottle-holding.

Terry said her toughest jobs included trying to dress a chimp in diapers.

"Sometimes it is easy, but most times they wiggle and squirm, and then, after we have them all dressed, they peel off their clothes. We usually have to dress the chimps when we take them to a television station or out for a personal appearance," she said.

Other "tough" assignments include feeding a baby camel a bottle when he doesn't want it. "It usually takes two of us — one shoves the bottle in the camel's mouth; the other holds his jaws over the bottle, and then the camel still can push the bottle out," Terry said. "We have spent literally days and days trying to get the camels to accept their bottles."

Tougher Ecology Laws Want The Pros And Cons

I-J Special Report

DAVIS — Perhaps the most important result of increased public interest in ecology is recent legislation which requires state and federal agencies to consider the cons, as well as the pros, of large scale projects they wish to undertake.

A proposal for a new dam or waterway, a large housing development or a highway, a power plant, a pipeline, or a nuclear test, must be backed by a report — called an "impact statement" — which examines the effects the project may have on the environment, and on the plant, animal, and human life of the region concerned. The statement also must present alternatives to the project proposed, and the debits and credits of these.

The legislation governing such reports on the federal level is the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969. State agencies in California are governed by the Environmental Quality Act of 1970. Other states throughout the country have passed similar legislation.

Since the enactment of these laws, many projects, steamrolling toward completion, have ground to a halt. The AEC has been blocked from building new power plants until such reports are prepared; the Cross Florida Barge Canal, already half-dug, has been permanently abandoned by Presidential decree on the advice of the Council on Environmental Quality; the Alaskan pipeline still is being investigated in all of its ramifications; and, at the regional level, the Tahoe Regional Planning Agency will seek to require impact information from private developers.

A program in environmental impact analysis, recently announced by University of California Davis Extension, presents an alternative for agencies with proposals on the drawing boards.

Devised by the Division of Environmental Studies, UCD, its goal is to help policy level administrators develop comprehensive, effective, and accurate impact statements. Its method is to put these administrators in contact with one another, and with experts in the academic, scientific, business, and conservation communities who can provide information outside the agency's normal range or functioning.

Big Demand For 1970's Census Data

I-J Special Report

BERKELEY — A new census data center at the University of California in Berkeley has supplied literally tons of computer printouts to meet an unexpectedly large demand, according to the first annual report issued by the UC Census Service Facility.

The facility has been developed during the past year as the major public center for detailed 1970 California census data.

There have been 191 subscribers to date for the census data. Among them are many cities and counties, state agencies, schools, and private organizations.

The facility is also contributing to teaching and research of university and colleges throughout the state. Several hundred students have already used the census printouts, which are maintained in the library of the Institute of Governmental Studies on the Berkeley campus.

The U.S. Census bureau lacks resources to service the many agencies needing its data, so the bureau supplies raw data to centers for processing and distribution. Several private census centers operate for commercial use in the state.

"It provides a badly needed service to local and state governmental and quasi-public agencies, which up to now have proceeded individually, and somewhat blindly, to understand the potential of the 1970 census and how it can be used," says IGS director Eugene C. Lee.

UN's Anti-Malaria Campaign Faltering

I-J Special Report

RIVERSIDE — A setback that could disrupt the United Nations' campaign against malaria in certain parts of the world is reported by a University of California scientist at Riverside.

Dr. George Georghiou, professor of entomology, said he has uncovered a dangerous trend toward resistance to new control compounds such as propoxur in malaria-transmitting mosquitoes.

At present this trend is most serious in four Central American countries — El Salvador, Guatemala, Honduras, and Nicaragua.

"It seems that the heavy use of pesticides against cotton pests has caused mosquitos in Central America to develop genetic strains that resist the new compounds," said Dr. Georghiou.

"Mosquitoes in areas near cotton fields were given a sort of basic training that prepared them for resisting malaria control chemicals such as propoxur.

"This shows that, in the future, materials designed for public health pests must be distinctly different from agricultural pesticides and must be reserved for use only against vectors, or carriers, of disease."

Britain's 'Victory' In The Drug War

By Toronto Telegram Syndicate

LONDON — Britain is cautiously claiming a victory in the battle against hard drugs, and at the same time is preparing to step up its war on drug pushers and users.

The victory is reflected in official figures of the number of people addicted to hard drugs such as heroin and cocaine.

For the first time in 10 years, the number of addicts has dropped. At one time during the 1960s, the number of heroin users was doubling every 16 months.

Before 1968, the law was tightened and doctors had to report any drug-dependent patients to a central register. And the supply of hard drugs was restricted to a few specially licensed doctors and to the drug treatment clinics — most of which are attached to hospitals.

The British system has been praised, particularly in the U.S., because the legal supply of drugs or substitutes to addicts has apparently prevented a serious crime problem.

But not all applicants to clinics are accepted.

"The clinic has to be convinced that the person wants a cure, and is not just looking for a way of keeping his habit going," a health department spokesman said.

For this reason alone some volunteer agencies engaged in the care and welfare of drug users, doubt the official figures showing reductions. They say many addicts avoid the clinics, and buy their drugs on the black market — particularly around the Soho and Piccadilly areas of London.

These agencies claim many former heroin users are turning to substitutes. "It's a very difficult situation. It's like cigarettes. If you banned tobacco tomorrow, someone would start smoking tea-leaves," the spokesman said.

No one doubts that there has been a massive increase in the use of a wide range of other drugs, particularly by young people.

And it is not confined to London. A few weeks ago, Portsmouth's standing committee on the misuse of drugs estimated there were between 2,000 and 3,000 drug users in the city.

"This is no worse than in any other city of Portsmouth's size," the committee said. It also noted that there had been a swing away from cannabis to LSD.

In England last year, 7,520 people were convicted of using or pushing cannabis. This was triple the figure of three years earlier.

Convictions for misuse of amphetamines and hallucinogens (such as LSD) were up by 150 per cent in the same period. And some student leaders and health service officials estimate that up to 60 per cent of students try cannabis.

The misuse of barbiturates is also rising sharply, particularly for drug pushers, and gives the government much more flexibility to deal with changing patterns on the drug scene.

The law establishes three classes of drugs — "hard," "soft" and others. Pushers of hard and soft drugs face up to 14 years jail and/or an unlimited fine.

Users of hard drugs could get seven years in jail and/or an unlimited fine. Drugs in the soft section carry a maximum of five years and/or a fine.

Those in the third class have a maximum penalty of two years jail and/or a fine.

Lacking Knowledge About Africa? Then Tune In

I-J Special Report

Most Americans would fail a quiz based on questions like these. Even students of African history seldom have up-to-date knowledge of modern Africa.

But during the past month listeners to the radio series "The UC Drum," heard Momar Fall, deputy Ambassador of Senegal to Gambia, discuss the possibilities of establishing a single national, Senegambia. They heard Moses Olabode, an accounting student at the University of Lagos, describe public executions of robbers and thieves. They learned from L. P. Allen, MP and deputy minister of education in Sierra Leone, that Fourah Bay College was founded in 1827 at Freetown.

The Drum is broadcast on seven commercial stations throughout California. The half-hour program begins with Congolese drumming and features interviews with African visitors to any of the nine UC campuses.

Why a series on Africa? Valena M. Williams, producer of the 18-month-old Drum, explains:

"More than thirty African nations have achieved independence since Ghana's liberation in 1957. For most Americans these countries are remote, exotic, and overly romanticized.

"The UC Drum allows Africans to explain their countries firsthand. For those who listen, the Africans become real, their cultures understandable, their goals defined," she said.

Mrs. Williams has taped interviews with more than a hundred Africans, most of them at UCLA and UC Berkeley. As she observes, "The University of California is a mecca for many black people. African diplomats and scholars are daily visitors. They come to confer with UC professors and experts, with African students, and to see such technological achievements as the Lawrence Hall of Science and the Davis plant pathology experiment stations."

These African leaders seldom have an opportunity to talk with many University students or community groups. The UC Drum bridges this gap and through radio reaches a far greater number than would be possible on a personal basis.

"We all need to know more about Africa," says Mrs. Williams, who this summer made a study tour of West Africa. "I developed this series because I thought Africa was culturally important to Afro-Americans. This is still true, but African countries are increasingly important in terms of international politics, economy, and even geography."

Many of the men and the occasional women are touring the U.S. as guests of the State Department. Others are diplomats and professionals sponsored by their governments or specialized organizations. Their political range is wide and reflective of their countries. Tanzania's Ujamaa villager is very unlike the resident of Abidjan, jewel of the Ivory Coast Riviera.

Equally varied are the languages spoken. While all speak either French or English fluently, their vernacular languages are not heard often in this country. Mrs. Williams usually asks the visitor to speak a few sentences of his primary tongue. UC Drum listeners have recently heard snatches of Tigrina, Bambara, Amharic, Twi, Fanti, and Ga.

There is one problem, Mrs. Williams admits. Sometimes accents are very thick and one has to listen very attentively. Woody Miller, program director of station KLIP in Fowler, says: "The content of The UC Drum is so important that we think our listeners will make the extra effort that is now and then needed." KLIP carries two segments of Drum each week in prime time.

One audience that had not been anticipated: Students of French in schools and colleges listen to the French-speaking Africans and check themselves against the immediate translation.

The 'Pop' In Your Ear Is Researched

I-J Special Report

LOS ANGELES — A new surgical treatment for sudden nerve deafness may restore hearing if performed promptly.

Dr. Victor Goodhill, professor of surgery (otology), UCLA Medical School, describes four cases of this disorder involving a shallow scuba dive, excessive alcohol consumption, 47 sit-ups (exercise), and yelling at a football game. All patients experienced a "pop" in their ear and/or sudden deafness in one car associated with the respective incidents. In some instances, there was also severe dizziness.

The scuba diver recovered his hearing following prescribed bed rest and medication, apparently as a result of spontaneous healing of a ruptured membrance.

The "over-imbiber" and the physical fitness devotee were diagnosed as having a ruptured round and oval window membrane, and there was improvement in hearing following perichondrial graft surgery. The football fan, who was not operated on until four months following the injury, did not recover her hearing.

Since the report of these four cases, Dr. Goodhill and his associates have operated on six additional cases.
